In connection with the introduction of his resolution in the senate Senator Capper stated that he wanted to start a discussion of its merits. He didn't expect action on it at this session of congress but he wanted to get the talk started. In that respect there is no question but what he is succeeding. He is finding, as he probably expected that there are those who favor such a move and those who opose it. He is finding those who will help to push such legislation along as well as those who will oppose it, and out of the discussion, he should get many valuable suggestions that may have an influence in shaping such a measure as will actually come up for action, if it really gets that far.

Attention is being directed to the fact that little would be accomplished if only one country should take such a stand. It might be possible for one country to set out to penalize another for any infraction of the treaty denouncing war and have it amount to no more than the snap of the finger unless it was joined by others in such action. Let a country be declared guilty and the denial of war supplies ordered, but no great handicap would be experienced by the warring nation if a neighbor was willing to supply all the war material that was required. The country that would be trying to punish the backslider would be living up to its requirements but the object of its legislation would be frustrated by the acts of one or more of the nations which had not agreed to the penalization.

Thus unless there was a general agreement along such a line on the part of the nations little could be accomplished and there is serious doubt whether any one nation would be willing to take a lead in such legislation prior to a common understanding.

Senator Capper has put forth his plan in such a manner as to bring out both the good and bad points and by the time congress is disposed to give it serious consideration he may be prepared to remodel it in several respects. In the meantime the senator from Kansas is going to have an opportunity to fill a large sized scrap book with the opinions expressed concerning it.

FIGHTING TUBERCULOSIS.

Whenever and wherever it is shown there cannot fail to be gratification over the reduction in the death rate from tuberculosis. The fight has been a long one, but the persistency of it has increased until today there is as determined a fight as it is widespread.

According to the figures which are given for the state of Rhode Island, last year there were 496 deaths from that disease. It seems large for a small state until we look at the figures for 1919 and find that they were 887. This doesn't mean that they were quite cut in two in a decade but there was an appreciable reduction. Contrary to the deaths from automobile accidents there was a large decrease instead of an increase. This makes it apparent that the methods which are being employed in fighting the white plague, whether it be statewide or nationwide, are highly effective.

What is true of Rhode Island is found to be true in other states. Instead of sitting hopelessly by and allowing tuberculosis to make greater and greater inroads each year the health organizations, states and individuals are aroused against it. Sanatoriums in increasing number, both state and private, have been built for the purpose of carrying on the fight more successfully. It isn't possible to cure all cases, but many are being reclaimed and a greater interest is being developed in that important work of prevention. This prevention applies to the protection of those who may be in danger of contracting it for various reasons and to the keeping of those afflicted from indiscriminately spreading it.

Since the fight against tuberculosis was started much more is known about it, and the study is still progressing. As the means of fighting it are increased there is nothing more encouraging than the records of accomplishments such as can be shown in the various sanatoria and likewise in the different states. Cutting down the death rate from the disease and the better protection of the well are the objects of the war upon consumption and those who participate or aid in the fight find their greatest inspiration in the knowledge that they are making good headway toward the goal.

DOPE SMUGGLING.

While the belief prevails that the most effective fight against the illegal traffic in habit forming drugs can be made by bringing about a restriction of the production of such drugs to the amount that is required for medical and scientific uses, the efforts that have been put forth to get international cooperation to that end have not been successful.

Though the prospects of immediate results in that direction are not promising it is believed that further efforts in behalf of enforcement of the drug laws of the country can be accomplished through legislation that will permit of the sending of agents abroad to ascertain where the smuggled dope comes from and that will also allow the narcotic agents to pay those abroad who furnish information concerning the unlawful shipments to this country.

Quantities of dope are smuggled into this country in every conceivable way. Methods are employed that would not be expected except by the most experienced who have gotten so that they look for it everywhere and anywhere. The enforcement of the narcotic laws are seriously handicapped because of this smuggling. Much is caught but much escapes detection although it is believed that it is possible to stop the flow of increased quantities if those engaged in the enforcement are permitted to get the assistance which they seek.

It is most unfortunate, inasmuch as it is humanity everywhere and not solely in this country that is at stake, that an agreement among the nations cannot be obtained for the limitation of production. Till that time comes every method of fighting the traffic deserves most careful study as can be plainly recognized when it is stated by Congressman Fish that 50 per cent of the crime in the United States can be traced to smuggled drugs.

It is thus a case not only of ending the drug evil but of putting an end to much of the crime that exists. The strengthening of the fight against the illegal traffic in dope and its detrimental effect upon the country has been repeatedly urged with full justification.

WHERE ONE IS TOO MANY.

It makes no difference where it occurs, the man who deliberately waits until a family has retired and gotten to sleep and then sets fire to the dwelling for the purpose of collecting the insurance deserves and should get the full effects of the law.

The owner of a country place had not been able to dispose of his property. He was anxious to do so. He wanted his money and he was determined to get it by hook or by crook. In his mad endeavor he was even willing to sacrifice the lives of any one or all of the members of the family of seven living there and he applied the torch in full knowledge that they were asleep and might be suffocated if not actually burned to death. Such a horrible end got no thought from his heart of stone. He was guided by his selfishness and his scheme to defraud.

By good fortune the endangered family was able to escape in their night clothes but through no efforts on the part of the owner who touched the match and slunk away. His quick arrest, the prompt accusation and the admittance of his deed should hasten the trial and conviction of the accused after which there will be not the slightest cause for leniency.

We often refer to the fact that it is a good thing that human nature is not all alike, that there are people who hold different opinions and look at affairs from more than one angle, but when we see such an individual, a man who will set fire to property especially where human lives are bound to be endangered by his act we cannot fail to reach the conclusion that one of such a type is too many.

DESPOILING NATURE.

With the increase in motor vehicle traffic there has been increasing complaint about those who are quick to take advantage of the opportunities for using the property of others for picnic purposes and so failing to indicate their appreciation as to leave the ground covered with refuse and rubbish. The result has been to find "no trespassing" signs when they return the next time, and this has also applied to those who had been especially careful in the way they left the place.

In Washington at the present time complaint is being made over the manner in which some residents, apparently nearby, are using one of the natural parks as a dumping ground for all kinds of trash and debris. So thoroughly do they understand what they are doing and the injustice of it that they deposit their rubbish at night understanding that their detection is less likely under the cover of darkness.

Evidently there are some individuals who regard that as lightening their labors, or reducing the cost of removing garbage and the like. They are solely concerned with their own welfare and unmindful of the condition they are creating. To them the park is no different than a bog, although it is a bit strange that they do not insist upon the carting away of such material by the customary collectors instead of engaging in it personally.

It is not surprising that those in the national capital who are concerned in the maintenance of attractive park grounds should be much disturbed by this action. It is unfortunate that it should exist anywhere but it would hardly be expected to find that such a practice was being followed in Washington.

MA "EXPRESSES HERSELF"

"It just doesn't sound like Ma," said Mary Louise weakly.

"It's the craziest thing I ever heard of," snapped Elmira. "The idea of a woman Ma's age adopting a baby."

"You would think raising six would have been enough," commented Paul's wife from the edge of the family circle.

"Six like us anyway," put in Bobbie, gloomily. Silence hovered over Ma's trim sitting room, a waiting, brooding silence broken only by the eerie voices of Ma's grandchildren out by the swing.

"You ought to have argued her out of it," said Mary Louise. "Ma always does what you say—and Ed."

"Argue with her!" Elmira shot her young sister a reproachful glare. "Pa was on her side. They just sat dumb and listened while Henry and I used every argument we could think up. And when we stopped for breath Pa got up and patted Ma on the shoulder and said, 'Well, it's all settled. We are going to drive down to the home-finding place tomorrow and bring you back a little sister.' Can you feature that?"

"I did the only thing left to do. I wired Ed and told him to climb on the next train and come home and look after his parents before they became plumb daft. If Ed says they can't adopt a baby they will listen. Paul has gone down to meet him on the afternoon train. We might just as well sit and hold our hands till Ed gets here. He will take this foolishness out of their heads." Elmira rocked fiercely and the family waited, eyes riveted on the clock.

"Where's Ed?" Four worried voices in four different keys.

"Didn't come," said Paul. "Sent a telegram."

"To Ma?" Elmira was hopeful.

"Nope," said Paul. "To us." Ma's children bent over the massage.

"When a woman has raised six youngsters she has earned the right to do anything she wants to do, to express herself—even if it is to raise six more. Run along home and see if you can do as good a job as our mother did.—Ed." They straightened. Nobody looked any one else in the eye.

"Ed's a big a goose as Ma," commented Elmira in an undertone. But her voice lacked conviction.

In the shadow of the old elm, Pa's little snub-posed car pulled to a halt beside the old-fashioned horse block. Gently Ma lifted a white bundle to the hollow of her shoulder and nestled it there. Gently Pa sent an exploring finger in among the downy corners of the blanket, unfolding it as gently as the sun unfolds a flower. Together they bent over their treasure. Around the corner of the house came the grandchildren, on the dead run.

"Oh, Gramma, let's see your cute little baby," they chorused. For a moment the five in the sitting room stood glum and silent. The yellow telegram fluttered a reminding finger.

"Ed's right," said Paul, gently. "If Ma and Pa wanted to buy a circus, we kids ought to back 'em up." As if released by the same spring, the five moved toward the door. Elmira reached the car first. Here strong young arms caught Ma, Pa, and the wee bundle in a quick, firm embrace.

"Sh!" commanded Ma. "She's just waking up—don't scare her." Down on the horse block went Elmira with the bundle in her arms. Close to her ear on one side, Mary Louise—on the other, Mrs. Paul. In a sweet, crooning trio rose their voices.

"Oh, isn't she the dearest baby you ever saw? Oh, Ma, she's darling." Down on his knees in the grass, Paul, clawing at the blankets. Over his shoulder Bobbie, embarrassed but eager, waiting futilely. "Hey, give me a look at her." Above them, quite unnoticed, Pa patted Ma's shoulder gently.

"I knew they wouldn't mind, Ma. We've got such nice kids — haven't we?"—Chicago News.

"LENT AND MYSELF"

Memory Verse for Ash Wednesday: "Take Heed to Thyself" (Timothy 4:16). (Read: Ephesians 4:17-32.)

MEDITATION: I observe that many of the ills of life come from self-neglect. It is true there are those who are over much concerned about themselves, who by constant thinking about themselves are kept in ill-health. This is an evil to be avoided. But there are also those who are sick because they have been careless of themselves. This season is first a call to self-attention. Absorbed in my work or diverted by my pleasure have I been forgetful of myself, careless of the inner life? My own spiritual health is a primary concern. If I would be used and useful in the service of Christ I must keep myself fit.

PRAYER: Almighty God who has called me from the death of sin to the life of righteousness, give me the courage to look into my own life to see whether there be any wicked way in me. Awake my sleeping heart. Make me sensible of how wide and far I have strayed. Desolate and hungry as I must ever be away from Thee, give me grace to say today, I will rise and go to my Father. Amen.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12—First signs of physical preparation for Washington's great quadrennial fete, the presidential inauguration, blossomed on the vast east front plaza of the capitol and before the white house more than a month before the day of Mr. Hoover's induction into office.

Steel girders for the inaugural stand which will mask the whole east front of the center wing of the capitol, and the timber uprights for the parade reviewing stand on Pennsylvania avenue in front of the white house constituted the first arrivals.

It's an odd circumstance that only on inauguration day does the front door of the huge capitol building get very prominently into the picture. The structure faces eastward, yet the view of it Washington enjoys and that almost invariably appears in photographs and paintings is the western front, or back door, so to speak. And thereby hangs a very ancient tale of real estate speculation.

Real Estate Error

What the original plans for the federal city contemplated was that the residential portion, the business streets and all that should lie on the high ground to the east of the capitol. The lower ground westward up Pennsylvania avenue, where the city actually has grown up, was largely swamp area. So land speculators promptly grabbed up the eastern area, discounting the future very greatly in the prices they asked.

It then seemed certain that this hilltop area would be the heart of Washington. The diagonal avenues planned for that region were named accordingly. The leading southern states of that day are strikingly represented in this fashion.

But the speculators failed to reckon with the native shrewdness of their countrymen. High prices of hilltop land deflected the whole course of the city development and it went straggling off up swampy Pennsylvania avenue to the white house and the northwest, to the financial ruin of many and early day land sharks.

For Small Homes Now

Now that most desirable area of higher land eastward from the capitol is completely covered with small homes of government employes and the like.

Yet the plaza on which the capitol fronts to the east remains the only suitable site for inauguration ceremonies. It is the only hard-paved clear space in Washington of sufficient size to accommodate the show. Therefore, official Washington goes northeast once in four years, residing and having its social and official being northwest all the rest of the time.

Stories That Recall Others

A Temporary Lull

Jack and Tommy have been playing for some time with their toy soldiers when their mother was diverted by hearing Jack say argumentatively, "There are, too, quiet times along the front, sometimes—just as there are quiet times in the household when Ma and Pa aren't tearing each other's hair out!"

Lapse of Memory

"Tickets, please!" This demand startled Mary from her doze. She dived into her purse but the ticket was missing. She ransacked every pocket and every compartment of her vanity case. Losing all former dignity, she knelt in the aisle and pawed the contents of her suitcase. She could not help but notice the shocked face of her dignified neighbor. But even the crust of his displeasure was not adamant to the appeal for help Mary extended in her plight. Soon their clothes were disheveled and their countenances puzzles; at last they resigned. Then inspiration overcame her. Casting a furtive glance at her panting aide, she hastily sought the conductor and whispered: "I had intended to pay cash fare."

YOUR HEALTH

BREAD AND "ACID" FOOD

Lemons, Tomatoes Leave "Alkali" Residue.

By Henderika J. Rynbergen,
Dietitian.

We hear so much in this day and age about "acid foods" that it is well to stop a moment and decide just what is meant. There are foods acid to the taste—lemons, oranges, grapefruit, tomatoes sometimes. These are likely to be discarded by the individual having an intestinal difficulty as injurious to him. Sometimes the list is much longer, and the patient enjoys recounting the number of foods he cannot eat because they form "acid."

To understand this question of the reaction of food, it is first of all necessary to realize that the stomach normally contains and produces acid as part of the digestive process. When we are well, the kind of food we eat influences little or not at all the quantity or quality of acid produced. The stomach lining secretes what is needed, no more, no less.

As the food is digested, it breaks down into smaller and smaller units until finally, after it is used by the cells for energy, we have a residue that is acid or alkali, according to the mineral content of the food eaten. This has nothing to do with taste. Bread, which certainly has no acid taste, nevertheless leaves an acid residue, due to the mineral elements contained. This is true also of meat, fish and fowl. Vegetables and fruits, with one or two exceptions, leave an alkali residue; lemons and tomatoes included; and milk is an alkaline food because of its calcium content. The foods that leave a neutral ash are butter, cornstarch, cream, lard, sugar and tapioca.

If we eat too much of bread and meat, and not enough of vegetables, milk, and fruits, the end-products of digestion are acid, and the body has to borrow from itself to neutralize this acid. This is not serious when done for a short time, but should people eat like that for a number of years, the effects most certainly would be harmful. One of the best storage places for alkali are the teeth, and eventually the body will begin to borrow lime from the teeth to neutralize the acid residue of the food eaten. This is one of the most important reasons for the regular use of milk, fruit and vegetables in the diet.

If a person continues to have a sour stomach and intestinal discomfort, he should see a physician and follow the diet prescribed. It is a mistake to cut out a great many foods from one's daily meals, and continue this process for a period of years, as it is only by using a variety of foods that we can be sure we will get all the food factors needed by the body.

How The World Is Governed

By BATES RANEY
(Associated Press Feature Editor)

Emperors Of Janan Have Few Powers

The emperor of Japan is almost a legendary figure in the occident. He is even more so in the orient. But actually his legal status and powers in practical politics are not any greater than those of King George of England, whose power is nominal. In this respect the actual legal authority of the mikado is less than that which President-elect Hoover will soon assume.

Because of the unique political psychology of the Japanese people, however, the mikado, who inherits his exalted rank from his ancestors and is in turn bequeathed by him to posterity, is regarded as a sacred being by the great masses of Japanese. Thus a majority of his own countrymen believe him to be an absolute monarch. Actually he functions only by the advice of the prime minister and sometimes by that of the elder statesmen. And all Japanese laws, imperial ordinances and imperial rescripts of any kind that relate to state affairs require the counter signature of a responsible Japanese minister.

In spite of these constitutional restrictions the mikado plays, on the strength of his sacred personality, the predominant part in Japanese politics.

Even the masses in England realize that King George reigns, but that the prime minister rules. In Japan, although the situation is much the same, the masses do not comprehend its significance. If the words of the Japanese minister-president or prime minister are put into the mouth of the mikado, they at once become the emperor's own sayings and are thus invested with greater weight and dignity, becoming, so to speak, the ex-cathedra saying of a demi-god. This device often is used to support a ministry hard pressed by the opposition.

Japan established a national assembly or imperial diet in 1890, thus changing from an absolute monarchy to a constitutional monarchy. The principal political entities under the constitutional regime are the emperor, the privy council, the cabinet, the imperial diet, the electorate, the political parties and the elder statesmen.

The functions of the privy council, which consists of 26 members, is to advise the emperor, when advice is requested, o nsuch mamtters as constitutional legislation, the issuing of proclamations and imperial ordinances and all matters relating to international treaties.

The Japanese cabinet, called the "Naikaku," under the leadership of the minister-president or prime minister, determines how the government shall be carried on. It is the chief executive body of the empire and exercises all powers executive, legislative or judicial, such as the making of treaties, the command of the army and navy, etc., all of which is done in the name of the emperor.

The cabinet members hold office independently of the died, to which they are not wholly responsible, and independently of each other. Military and naval authorities exercise a great influence in the Japanese cabinet, and at least one cabinet has been forced to resign because no admiral could be found who was willing to take the portfolio of the minister of the navy under a certain government, it being ordained that this portfolio be held by an admiral.

The growing power of the diet makes it necessary for a cabinet to command a majority, otherwise no important state business can be transacted, as it is necessary to have the diet's approval. But when a prime minister resigns he does not recommend a successor to the diet.

The diet consists of two houses. The house of peers consists of princes of the blood and others of high rank who hold seats in their own right and by imperial appointment, and the house of representatives, which is elected. Boht houses are equal in authority.

The genro or elder statesmen have had no constitutional status, but as the surviving members of a body of elder statesmen whose work during the last half century has greatly aided in the rehabilitation of Japan they have been treated as political patriarchs by the emporer and their advice often sought. The genro is not being perpetuated, and only one of the elder statesmen, Prince Saionji, remains alive.

Suffrage was extended in January, 1928, from 3,000,000 voters to nearly 12,000,000 under a new "manhood suffrage law." Japan becomes more and more like the western parliamentary nations as time goes on.

Burgess Bedtime Story

The Perfect Home.

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

The talker knows not when to cease:
The wise knows when to hold his peace.

Danny Meadow Mouse.

Danny Meadow Mouse knew just where he was going. Nanny did not. But she didn't care. Anywhere was good enough so long as it was far enough away from their old home. That was all she asked—to get far enough away from that old home. It wasn't as hard digging as you might think it would have been. You see, down there close to the ground among the stems of the grasses, the snow was not packed. So Danny traveled along at a pretty good rate. When he got tired of digging he turned to Nanny. "Now you dig a while," he said.

"But how shall I know in which direction to go?" asked Nanny.

Danny chuckled. "Haven't you found out yet that we are following one of my little paths?" he demanded. "If we were not we should have to stop to cut away a lot of grass as well as to dig away the snow. This is a little path I made long before the snow came."

"But where is it leading us to?" demanded Nanny.

Now, Mice are hungry folk. I don't know of any folk who eat more for their size than do Mice. So Danny and Nanny stopped often to nibble at the grass. You see, it really didn't matter to them how long it took them to get where they were going. There was plenty of grass everywhere, for they were on the Green Meadows. That meant there was always something to eat. It also meant that any time they could cut a little grass and make a bed and curl up. It was very warm and comfortable down there under the snow. They made themselves a bed and took a good, long rest.

So it was that at last they reached the place that Danny was heading for. When they got there Nanny recognized it at once "Why," she exclaimed, "this is the big haystack!"

Danny chuckled. "Of course," said he. "Can you think of any better place? We can dig our way away under this big stack of hay and it will be as warm and comfortable as if it were summertime. There isn't but one enemy who can get at us here and he could get at us anywhere."

"You mean Shadow the Weasel," said Nanny, in a voice that trembled a little.

"Of course," replied Danny. "But we won't think about him. Now we'll go to work and make a new home."

This suited Nanny and she wasted no time. She burrowed around in and under that haystack until she found just the place to suit here. Then she made a very comfortable nest and was all ready to set up housekeeping. It really was a very wonderful place for a Meadow Mouse home. Danny insisted that it couldn't have been better and Danny probably was right. There was plenty to eat. There was not only the hay itself, but there were grass seeds of several kinds. No Meadow Mouse could possibly go hungry in such a place. Above all was the perfect safety of it. Reddy Fox or Old Man Coyote might dig down to the edge of the big haystack, but they couldn't possibly dig under it fast enough to catch a Mouse. It was a perfect home.

"We will stay here all the rest of the winter," declared Nanny happily. "We will have our next family of children right here. I don't know why we didn't come over here the first of the winter. Now I'm glad that you did insist on taking such risks over where we did live. If you hadn't done it we should still be there. That was a good home, but this is better."

Danny chuckled, but he didn't say a word.

Guarding Against the FLU

Don't wait to see if that first sneeze or cough is going to be a cold. Take Bayer Aspirin at the first sign of any cold, and be safe.

Guard against the flu by guarding against the colds that make you susceptible to the flu germs that lurk in crowded and poorly ventilated places.

IN THE DAYS NEWS

The Part of Dust in Rainfall

A "sand storm at sea," often the subject of jokes, descended on the Canary Islands recently, causing great discomfort. Although Las Palmas, principal city of the islands, is more than 100 miles from the shores of Africa, the heavy fall of sand in the city was borne by winds from Africa. With the sand a drenching rain fell, plastering the houses with a mixture of sand and water.

"Dust and sand play a more important part than is generally realized, in bringing about rainfall," says a bulletin from the National Geographic society, commenting on the unusual Canary Island storm.

"When water-vapor particles condense into water droplets, whether on their rise from the sea or after numerous cloud-making adventures, they not only grasp their nearest fellow molecules, but they must find infinitesimal bits of floating material, such as dust motes—a sort of magic carpet—and crowd upon them.

"Dust usually is present abundantly, thanks to the winds and to volcanoes; and in the thickly peopled regions of the earth thousands of chimneys throw into the air in their smoke billions of potential cloud nuclei.

"Even over the center of the greatest ocean there are as many as 750 dust particles in a thimbleful of air, and over the streets and buildings of large cities perhaps 200,000. In one cubic foot of air in any of our great cities there are twice as many dust motes as there are human inhabitants of the earth.

"Widely separated, the dust motes, with their vapor passengers, at first float about like asteroids in space, but gradually the cold of the upper regions causes more and more of the vapor molecules to jump out of their gaseous form and attach themselves to existing droplets until the latter are built into drops heavy enough to fall earthward.

"Dust and sand contribute also to the beauty of the skies. The infinitesimally short waves of sunlight would pour down merely as white light but for the diminutive dust motes that get in the way and sift out the component colors, from violet to red. And ever when the colors are brought into existence they would stream on through the atmosphere and into space, if the all but invisible water droplets did not huddle together into clouds to capture them and hold them for the world to see.

"The more dust, the more sumptuously the clouds are bathed in rose and gold and fiery red. Storms that raise tons of dust into the skies in arid regions sometimes seem a trying cross for the people to bear. But there is a wonderful compensation. High in the air the tiniest dust grains atone for the sins of their coarser fellows. Nowhere else do the skies burst into such a glory of color at dawn and sunset, nor does the approach of twilight cast such magical, soft-hued shadows that can transform bare, rugged mountains into fairylands."

KENNERSON CASE IS CONTINUED TWO MONTHS

Mrs. Ella Kennerson, 27, of Norwich, charged with abandoning her children, was presented in the city court Tuesday morning and the case was continued for two months. At the request of the local police she was arrested on Jan. 10, in New London, where she was found by the New London police to be occupying a room with Orrin Banning, 57, of that city. Banning and the Kennerson woman were presented in the New London court and each fined $50 and costs and given a sentence of three months in jail, suspended. Mrs. Kennerson was then taken in charge by the local police and tried here in court on the charge of abandoning her children.

REV. ARTHUR C. ADAMS RETURNING FROM AFRICA

Rev. Arthur Cary Adams, of this city, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Adams of East Great Plain, is on his way home from South Africa, where he has been engaged in missionary work for the last three years. Rev. Mr. Adams sailed for home January 6th and it is expected he will arrive in Norwich during the last week in March. Rev. Mr. Adams who was ordained at the United Congregational church in October, 1925 left immediately afterwards for the missionary field in South Africa. His future plans are as yet undecided. With references to his activities and popularity in the South African mission field, The Star, Johannesburg, Transvaal, says:

Remarkable tributes were paid by European and native speakers to the work done in connection with the Bantu Men's Social Centre, by the Rev. Arthur Cary Adams, during his three years' stay in Johannesburg. The occasion was a reception given by the centre in honor of Mr. Adams, and to permit the members to say farewell. Mr. Msimang, who presided, said they all felt that in losing Mr. Adams, they were losing a friend and they did not want the occasion to pass without telling him how much they appreciated his work and realized the loss to the institution. Mr. Adams had thrown his whole energy into the formation of the Pathfinder movement, forgetting his own convenience. Parents appreciated very much the way in which he had looked after the boys when in camp and tried to instil into them a sense of honesty, which was one of the finest things. How much they would like to say to him, "Don't go," that was the feeling of all.

Mr. Walter Webber, representing the Joint Council, said he wished to add their voice to the appreciation. Mr. Adams had been chosen for the work by their friend, Dr. Bridgman. He had undertaken and fulfilled a tremendous task and on behalf of the committee he wished to thank him for the way in which he had carried out his duties. The achievement he thought remarkable, and the value of the work done, especially among the children, it was impossible to overestimate. Self respect and love of order Mr. Adams had instilled and it was impossible to say how far that influence would spread. Mr. Adams was an example to them all. He had shown what could be done to uplift the natives in a short time by a white man coming from abroad, and hearts in South Africa would remember him with gratitude.

Mr. I. Rathebe, speaking on behalf of the members of the B. M. S. C., said, Mr. Adams might go away but his spirit, which was that of the founder, Dr. Bridgman, would live on in the institution. Mind and body had been trained by Mr. Adams' teaching and the natives had learnt to love him. They wished him a pleasant voyage home.

Mr. J. D. Rheinallt Jones, speaking as Chief Pathfinder Master for the Reef, said he had been lately in the Transkei where there was talk of sundry reinforcements coming from America. He hoped Mr. Adams was going to send them reinforcements. The American Board of Foreign Missions had a great name in South Africa but few South Africans knew how much had been done and he hoped the full story would be told some day. It was to the American Board that they owed Mr. Adams, who, by his sympathy and desire to understand had been able to get very close to the native people. No more joyous, happy troop of lads could be found anywhere than the Pathfinder in Mr. Adams' Council and the Scout Council were deeply grateful for the work done.

A musical program was successfully carried out and a gold watch was presented to Mr. Adams as a token of esteem from the members of the centre and their friends; also two handsome silver vases from the Indian gentleman.

The Rev. Ray Phillips enumerated three reasons why they might hope that Mr. Adams would some day return to work in South Africa. The first was the realization when he got to the states that there were no more loveable people to work amongst than the South African natives; and no country where a man might put his life to greater advantage. Then there would be the feeling that nowhere would it be possible to find a finer body of men as working associates than those who made up the Joint Council. Everybody would miss Mr. Adams and all would be wishing to see him back again on this side.

Successful Masquerade.

A large crowd attended the masquerade dance given by Richard E. Hourigan post, V. F. W., at their rooms Friday evening. Fifty couples participated and the evening's program started at 8:30 o'clock. The Ideal orchestra provided the music. Commander Lewis Hull, Jr., acted as prompter in the square sets. The committee in charge were, chairman, Raymond Kavanagh, Jesse Pelouin, Cornelius Hoelk, Lewis Hull, Fred Baldwin, Walter Stanley and Harry Richmond.

GOLD SERVICE EMBLEMS FOR TELEPHONE EMPLOYES

During the current year 90 employes of the Southern New England Telephone company will receive gold service emblems in recognition of 20 or more years of continuous service in the telephone business. These emblems are awarded at each five-year period in an employe's service and the 90 represent only those whose periods for receipt of the emblems arrive during the year. There are of course, many more telephone workers who have been in the business 20 years or more. As a matter of fact there are about 250 of them, all told, who have been with the company longer than that. John W. Ladd, general agent, being the "daddy" of the business with a service record which last September passed the half century mark.

Of the 90 receiving the service emblems this year for 20 or more years, 40 will get the 20-year button, 31 will receive the 25-year button, 12 will have been with the company 30 years, four 35 years, one 40 years and two have rounded out 45 years.

President James T. Moran is one of those who will receive a 45-year service emblem. Mr. Moran, as he often tells groups of telephone workers, entered the business back in the days when the telephone didn't amount to much as a public utility. He speaks of himself then as something in the way of an office boy for the late Morris F. Tyler, then president of the company.

Thomas N. Bradshaw, of New Haven, outside plant engineer, is the other whose 45-year term of service will be completed during the year and Walter J. McDermott, a plant department worker in New Haven, is the 40-year man.

Those who will receive 25-year service emblems this year are Louis J. Brague, of Bridgeport; Miss Alice A. Slater and Joseph G. Osborne, of Hartford; Harry J. Pond, of New Haven.

The aggregate of service represented by the 90 employes is 2,205 years and the 19 employes in the 45 to 30-year service classes, inclusive, have served the public of the state, through the telephone company, a total of 630 years.

TWO AUTOS, TWO SHEDS DESTROYED BY FLAMES

Fire believed to have started in an automobile burned a one-car garage, two small sheds, two automobiles and a large amount of farming implements at the Jacob C. Hafner estate at No. 28 Tanner avenue, Norwich Town, about 5 o'clock Tuesday morning. Due to the timely discovery of the blaze by the Hafner children and the efforts of Alfred Hafner, the house which is located a short distance from the garage, in which the fire originated, was saved.

The fire was discovered by the Hafner children shortly before 3 o'clock, when they were awakened by a crackling noise. They notified their parents and a call was sent in to the local fire station and the Yantic department was also notified. Before the arrival of the firemen a bucket brigade was formed and the roof of the house was wet down with pails of water from the skylight by Mr. Hafner. The corner of the house nearest the burning garage started to blaze, but it was soon extinguished.

CHARLES BREED'S BURIAL IN NORWICH DURING '65

The recurrence of Lincoln's birthday was a reminder to a number of Norwich residents of the fact that on the day of the funeral of Lincoln, in April, 1865, Norwich, too, had a military funeral.

It was that of Charles Breed, 20, brother of Andrew H. Breed and Mrs. Henry H. Gallup, of Norwich. The young man was in the navy during the Civil war, contracting a cold which resulted in his death.

His burial in Yantic cemetery drew out crowds from this and surrounding towns. The company of Free Academy cadets marched in the funeral procession and a squad fired a volley at the grave. The fact that the nation was mourning the assassination of President Lincoln added to the solemnity and sorrow at the Norwich young man's burial.

How Best to Use Vicks VapoRub After the Flu

If you catch a fresh cold, don't keep it overnight. If possible, go home and go to bed. Take a laxative and a hot lemonade, apply hot wet towels over throat and chest until the skin is thoroughly reddened. Then rub vigorously with Vicks. Spread on thickly and cover with warm flannel.

Leave the bed-covering loose, so that the vapors, released by the body-warmth, may be freely inhaled. At the same time, Vicks acts through the skin like a poultice.

Repeat this treatment every four hours, eat lightly, and stay in bed until the cold is broken. Complete rest helps the body throw off the cold more quickly.

Mothers especially appreciate Vicks for the children. As it is applied externally, it can be used freely and often, without upsetting delicate digestions, as too much "doctoring" is so apt to do.

REV. ARTHUR C. ADAMS RETURNING FROM AFRICA

Rev. Arthur Cary Adams, of this city, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Adams of East Great Plain, is on his way home from South Africa, where he has been engaged in missionary work for the last three years. Rev. Mr. Adams sailed for home January 6th and it is expected he will arrive in Norwich during the last week in March. Rev. Mr. Adams who was ordained at the United Congregational church in October, 1925 left immediately afterwards for the missionary field in South Africa. His future plans are as yet undecided. With references to his activities and popularity in the South African mission field, The Star, Johannesburg, Transvaal, says:

Remarkable tributes were paid by European and native speakers to the work done in connection with the Bantu Men's Social Centre, by the Rev. Arthur Cary Adams, during his three years' stay in Johannesburg. The occasion was a reception given by the centre in honor of Mr. Adams, and to permit the members to say farewell. Mr. Msimang, who presided, said they all felt that in losing Mr. Adams, they were losing a friend and they did not want the occasion to pass without telling him how much they appreciated his work and realized the loss to the institution. Mr. Adams had thrown his whole energy into the formation of the Pathfinder movement, forgetting his own convenience. Parents appreciated very much the way in which he had looked after the boys when in camp and tried to instil into them a sense of honesty, which was one of the finest things. How much they would like to say to him, "Don't go," that was the feeling of all.

Mr. Walter Webber, representing the Joint Council, said he wished to add their voice to the appreciation. Mr. Adams had been chosen for the work by their friend, Dr. Bridgman. He had undertaken and fulfilled a tremendous task and on behalf of the committee he wished to thank him for the way in which he had carried out his duties. The achievement he thought remarkable, and the value of the work done, especially among the children, it was impossible to overestimate. Self respect and love of order Mr. Adams had instilled and it was impossible to say how far that influence would spread. Mr. Adams was an example to them all. He had shown what could be done to uplift the natives in a short time by a white man coming from abroad, and hearts in South Africa would remember him with gratitude.

Mr. I. Rathebe, speaking on behalf of the members of the B. M. S. C., said, Mr. Adams might go away but his spirit, which was that of the founder, Dr. Bridgman, would live on in the institution. Mind and body had been trained by Mr. Adams' teaching and the natives had learnt to love him. They wished him a pleasant voyage home.

Mr. J. D. Rheinallt Jones, speaking as Chief Pathfinder Master for the Reef, said he had been lately in the Transkei where there was talk of sundry reinforcements coming from America. He hoped Mr. Adams was going to send them reinforcements. The American Board of Foreign Missions had a great name in South Africa but few South Africans knew how much had been done and he hoped the full story would be told some day. It was to the American Board that they owed Mr. Adams, who, by his sympathy and desire to understand had been able to get very close to the native people. No more joyous, happy troop of lads could be found anywhere than the Pathfinder in Mr. Adams' Council and the Scout Council were deeply grateful for the work done.

A musical program was successfully carried out and a gold watch was presented to Mr. Adams as a token of esteem from the members of the centre and their friends; also two handsome silver vases from the Indian gentleman.

The Rev. Ray Phillips enumerated three reasons why they might hope that Mr. Adams would some day return to work in South Africa. The first was the realization when he got to the states that there were no more loveable people to work amongst than the South African natives; and no country where a man might put his life to greater advantage. Then there would be the feeling that nowhere would it be possible to find a finer body of men as working associates than those who made up the Joint Council. Everybody would miss Mr. Adams and all would be wishing to see him back again on this side.

Successful Masquerade.

A large crowd attended the masquerade dance given by Richard E. Hourigan post, V. F. W., at their rooms Friday evening. Fifty couples participated and the evening's program started at 8:30 o'clock. The Ideal orchestra provided the music. Commander Lewis Hull, Jr., acted as prompter in the square sets. The committee in charge were, chairman, Raymond Kavanagh, Jesse Pelogu'n, Cornelius Hoelk, Lewis Hull, Fred Baldwin, Walter Stanley and Harry Richmond.

GOLD SERVICE EMBLEMS FOR TELEPHONE EMPLOYES

During the current year 90 employes of the Southern New England Telephone company will receive gold service emblems in recognition of 20 or more years of continuous service in the telephone business. These emblems are awarded at each five-year period in an employe's service and the 90 represent only those whose periods for receipt of the emblems arrive during the year. There are of course, many more telephone workers who have been in the business 20 years or more. As a matter of fact there are about 250 of them, all told, who have been with the company longer than that, John W. Ladd, general agent, being the "daddy" of the business with a service record which last September passed the half century mark.

Of the 90 receiving the service emblems this year for 20 or more years, 40 will get the 20-year button, 31 will receive the 25-year button, 12 will have been with the company 30 years, four 35 years, one 40 years and two have rounded out 45 years.

President James T. Moran is one of those who will receive a 45-year service emblem. Mr. Moran, as he often tells groups of telephone workers, entered the business back in the days when the telephone didn't amount to much as a public utility. He speaks of himself then as something in the way of an office boy for the late Morris F. Tyler, then president of the company.

Thomas N. Bradshaw, of New Haven, outside plant engineer, is the other whose 45-year term of service will be completed during the year and Walter J. McDermott, a plant department worker in New Haven, is the 40-year man.

Those who will receive 35-year service emblems this year are Louis J. Brague, of Bridgeport; Miss Alice A. Slater and Joseph G. Osborne, of Hartford; Harry J. Pond, of New Haven.

The aggregate of service represented by the 90 employes is 2,205 years and the 19 employes in the 45 to 30-year service classes, inclusive, have served the public of the state, through the telephone company, a total of 650 years.

TWO AUTOS, TWO SHEDS DESTROYED BY FLAMES

Fire believed to have started in an automobile burned a one-car garage, two small sheds, two automobiles and a large amount of farming implements at the Jacob C. Hafner estate at No. 28 Tanner avenue, Norwich Town, about 3 o'clock Tuesday morning. Due to the timely discovery of the blaze by the Hafner children and the efforts of Alfred Hafner, the house which is located a short distance from the garage, in which the fire originated, was saved.

The fire was discovered by the Hafner children shortly before 3 o'clock, when they were awakened by a crackling noise. They notified their parents and a call was sent in to the local fire station and the Yantic department was also notified. Before the arrival of the firemen a bucket brigade was formed and the roof of the house was wet down with pails of water from the skylight by Mr. Hafner. The corner of the house nearest the burning garage started to blaze, but it was soon extinguished.

CHARLES BREED'S BURIAL IN NORWICH DURING '65

The recurrence of Lincoln's birthday was a reminder to a number of Norwich residents of the fact that on the day of the funeral of Lincoln, in April, 1865, Norwich, too, had a military funeral.

It was that of Charles Breed, 20, brother of Andrew H. Breed and Mrs. Henry H. Gallup, of Norwich. The young man was in the navy during the Civil war, contracting a cold which resulted in his death.

His burial in Yantic cemetery drew out crowds from this and surrounding towns. The company of Free Academy cadets marched in the funeral procession and a squad fired a volley at the grave. The fact that the nation was mourning the assassination of President Lincoln added to the solemnity and sorrow at the Norwich young man's burial.

The patients at the Norwich State hospital were entertained from 7 to 9:30 o'clock Tuesday evening through the generosity of the welfare committee of the Norwich lodge, No. 430, B. P. O. Elks. The entertainment furnished by the Elks' committee comprised a fine programme of dance music by Thumm's orchestra and vocal selections and specialties by Edward T. Connelly and Nicholas J. Spellman. Features of the evening were two quartette numbers by the "one-ton of harmony," the quartette comprising William Fitzgerald, Fred Thumm, Dr. Robert G. Urquahart and Edward T. Connelly. William Fitzgerald was chairman and master of ceremonies for the evening. Refreshments were served.

DANIEL ZEZUNK SLIGHTLY INJURED LATE LAST NIGHT

Daniel Zezunk, about 42, of No. 46 Summit street, received a slight gash over the nose in a fall outside his garage about 11.30 o'clock Tuesday evening. Mr. Zezunk, with his chauffeur, Frank Boduria of the same address, had just returned from a visit to Clifton, Mass., and were about to put the car in the garage. He was attempting to get into the machine and evidently overtaken with a fainting spell fell onto the ground, striking his nose. As it was thought that Mr. Zezunk had suffered a fatal attack, the police and Dr. C. C. Gildersleeve were notified. Sergeant Matthew Delaney and Officer Patrick Sheehan were dispatched and made an investigation. The man's injury was treated by Dr. Gildersleeve.

MANY GET BACK YOUNG APPETITE

Quick lunches, usually cold, gulped down so the "dinner hour" will not be over before you can do a little playing is the best way to ruin your stomach, and you suffer from indigestion, heartburn, bloating, nervousness headaches; and, worst of all, you get thin, pale and weak.

If you must eat that way, always keep a package of Pape's Diapepsin handy so you can chew one of the pleasant-tasting tablets after your meals. It keeps the food sweet so your stomach can digest it.

Follow the experience of thousands who again have a young appetite. All druggists recommend and guarantee Pape's Diapepsin to relieve indigestion and sweeten the stomach in 5 minutes.

How Best to Use Vicks VapoRub After the Flu

If you catch a fresh cold, don't keep it overnight. If possible, go home and go to bed. Take a laxative and a hot lemonade, apply hot wet towels over throat and chest until the skin is thoroughly reddened. Then rub vigorously with Vicks. Spread on thickly and cover with warm flannel.

Leave the bed-covering loose, so that the vapors, released by the body-warmth, may be freely inhaled. At the same time, Vicks acts through the skin like a poultice.

Repeat this treatment every four hours, eat lightly, and stay in bed until the cold is broken. Complete rest helps the body throw off the cold more quickly.

Mothers especially appreciate Vicks for the children. As it is applied externally, it can be used freely and often, without upsetting delicate digestions, as too much "dosing" is so apt to do.

BRAVES MUST ANSWER IN COURT TO COMPLAINT MADE BY WARNER

BOSTON, Feb. 12.—(AP)—State Attorney General Joseph E. Warner announced tonight that he would make complaint in municipal court tomorrow against the Boston Braves as a consequence of his investigation of the Outdoor Recreation league, which supported a bill legalizing Sunday sports in this state during the last state election.

Action would be taken in municipal court rather than before the grand jury because the offenses alleged to have been uncovered in the investigation were misdemeanors and not felonies, Warner said.

During his investigation, Warner and his assistants interviewed most of those whose names were affixed to the contribution list. Shortly after the probe got under way he announced that several of those persons had denied contributing to the fund.

The specific law violated, according to Warner, was the corrupt practices act. Conviction under this act provides for a maximum fine of $10,000 or a six months jail term.

The complaint against the Braves would be against the Boston National League Baseball company as a corporation and not specifically against any officer in that company. The only individual against whom complaint would be made is Brusse.

Warner's statement follows:

"I have been investigating during the past month, alleged violations of the corrupt practices act by the Outdoor Recreation League, The Boston National Baseball Company and individuals connected with these organizations.

"The investigation disclosed I believe, violations of the corrupt practices act and consequently duty permits me but one course. Violations of the corrupt practices act, as disclosed by my investigation, if proven, are misdemeanors and not felonies with which our grand juries are more primarily and properly concerned.

"The usual practice in misdemeanor cases in Suffolk county is to bring complaint in the municipal court. I intend to follow the usual procedure.

"Counsel requested in event proceedings should be initiated that the rights of their clients might be protected by notice. Consequently I am notifying counsel that I shall make complaint in the municipal court tomorrow against the Boston National League Baseball Company and Mr. O. J. Brusse at which they may be heard if they so desire."

Complaint would also be made against O. J. Busse, of Brookline, treasurer of the league, which raised a fund of $30,000 to wage a campaign in favor of the sports measure, Warner said.

Investigation of the league by Warner started when in an altercation between officials of the Braves and the Boston city council over the adoption of the sports measure in Boston, it was charged that the Braves had contributed heavily to the $30,000 fund. It also was charged that Brusse filed a false list of contributors to the fund with the secretary of state to cover contributions made by the Braves.

For many weeks the investigation has been going on simultaneously with an investigation of alleged attempts by members of the city council to obtain bribe money from Braves officials to insure ratification of the sports bill in Boston. The Boston finance commission, which conducted the bribery investigation recently reported that, although unwilling to pass on the guilt of parties involved, the affair was a "suspicious array of circumstances."

Yesterday the city council, after several stormy meetings, passed an order granting the Braves a permit to play Sunday baseball here.

STRIBLING IDLE WHILE SHARKEY TRAINS HARD

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 12—(AP)—While Young Stribling angled in Everglades waters today, Jack Sharkey figuratively took the bull by the horns and enjoyed a strenuous round of training.

Avoiding a threatened rain squall, the Boston ex-sailor began his workout an hour ahead of schedule in preparation for his contest with Stribling in Miami's Park arena the night of February 27. He sparred one round each with Paul Hoffman, Pat McCarthy and John Grosso.

Sharkey added to his activity a round of jabbing at the light bag, skipped the rope a round, shadow boxed another and then worked on the heavy bag. The day's work was tapered off with a setting up exercise.

Tomorrow, the Georgian will return from the Everglades and get down to business in shaping himself for the fray. He has been taking a daily run of two to three miles but will no after his sparring partners hereafter.

Leaving here tonight for New York, after a month in southern waters aboard the yacht Arcadia, Richard A. Hoyt, chairman of the board of directors of Madison Square Garden, said he wished to deny published reports that the Garden was to change hands.

"That would be impossible for a year and a half," said Mr. Hoyt, "according to the terms of the voting trust under which the stock originally was purchased. The majority of the stock is in hands favorable to the present control."

Mr. Hoyt declared "that everything has been in perfect harmony at the Garden since before Tex Rickard's death."

"There has been no dissention," he declared, regarding the presidency of the corporation which Rickard's death left vacant. Mr. Hoyt asserted that he did not believe it would be necessary to go outside of the corporation. He indicated that a president would be selected within two or three months and that he would not be interested in the post himself.

The names of William Carey, vice president and treasurer, now in Miami Beach, and John Hammond, another vice president, now in New York, discussed as probable presidents.

JORGENSEN WINS DUNN TROPHY FOR SKI JUMPING

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Feb. 12—(AP)—John Jorgensen, of the Norway Ski club, New York city, today defeated 19 other competitors from the United States and Canad to win the Dunn trophy for ski jumping, Class A, in the ninth annual tournament here.

Jorgensen jumped 51 meters and 53 1-2 meters 157 feet and 176 feet, for a point score of 226.6. The 176 foot jump bettered by one foot the intervales Hill record set last year by Strand Mikkelsen, of the Greenfield, Mass., Outing club. Mikkelson, defending his trophy was third in Class A today with a point score of 203.4. Rolf Monsen, of the Brattleboro Vermont Outing club, was second. His point score was 211.2.

Another representative of the Norway Ski club, of New York, took first place in Class B jumping. He was Birger Torrisen, who made jumps of forty and 45 meters and amassed 211.1 points. Bill Robes, of the Hanover, N. H., Ski club, with 207.9 points, placed second while Otto Jansen, of the Norway Ski club, New York city, made third with 207.7 points. While Robes made the longest jump in his class, his other jump was short.

The Beck trophy for the best showing in ski running and jumping combined was won by Magnus Satre, of the Salisbury, Conn., Outing club. Satre yesterday captured the 18 kilometer ski race and took eighth place in the ski jump of Class A today.

The jumps today were made with unusually few spills.

TWO HOLDOUTS REPORTED IN FOLD OF YANKEES

NEW YORK, Feb. 12—(AP)—Sufficient evidence today sifted through the wall of mystery surrounding the contract relations the world's champion Yankees with their players to indicate that only two players are yet unsigned for the 1929 campaign.

Just who these may be, Secretary Ed Barrow refused to reveal, but the baseball writers guessed they are Ben Paschal, the North Carolina fly chaser, and Bob Meusel, lanky California outfielder. The club has not received the signed document of Lyn Lary, of Oakland, Calif., recruit, but considers him in the fold on the face of dispatches.

The advance party of Giants, headed by Secretary Jim Tierney, departed today for San Antonio and the spring training siege. Four players were Jack Cummings, catcher, Floyd Johnson and Curley Ogden, pitchers, and Johnny Kavanaugh, recruit outfielder from New York "gas house" district.

CROWLEY RESIGNS AS COACH AT GEORGIA

ATHENS, Ga., Feb. 12—(AP)—Jimmy Crowley, for several years backfield football coach at the University of Georgia, and formerly a member of Notre Dame's "Four Horsemen" combination, has resigned, athletic officials announced here today. Coach Crowley said he was considering a position as head coach at another institution.

The resignation comes as no surprise, as it had been reported several times since the end of the 1928 season that Crowley would leave. Frank Thomas, University of Chattanooga coach and former Notre Dame star, has been mentioned for the place.

Thomas before going to Chattanooga was assistant coach at Georgia under Coach Kid Woodruff. Woodruff since then has resigned and Harry Mehre, Notre Dame center of a few years ago, succeeded him.

MISS PATTISON WINS MEDAL AT BERMUDA

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Feb. 12—(AP)—Miss Aileen Pattison of Bermuda, former holder of the Bermuda women's championship, won the qualifying medal in the annual Belmont Manor ladies' tournament here today. Miss Pattison had a score of 80, going out in 38 and coming back in 42. Her nearest opponent, Betty Guthrie of Buck Hill Falls, Pa., scored 82. Mrs. E. S. Kelley of Boston was third with 83. Miss Pattison had only one hole above six on her card. Three of them were threes while she required only four strokes on eight other holes.

SCHAEFER PUTS JAP BILLIARDIST OUT OF RUNNING

NEW YORK, Feb. 12—(AP)—Jake Schaefer, former champion from Chicago blasted the title hopes of Kinrey Matsuyama and jumped into a tie for first place with Welker Cochran, Hollywood, Cal., sharpshooter by defeating the tiny Japanese sensation 400 to 321 this afternoon in a final round match of the 18.2 balk line billiard title tournament. The match ended in the 15th inning.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 12—(AP)—Choice of Fritz Maisel, Baltimore International league third baseman, as manager of the club for the coming season, was announced today.

He succeeds the late Jack Dunn, who was manager as well as principal owner.

BASKETBALL TALK

Taftville Not Heard From

Taftville is pretty quiet this basketball season. Usually the village has at least two teams, a junior and senior one, but to date, outside of a little spurt by the Whirlwinds, (who now appear to have disbanded) the court game has been rather dormant. Not in a long time has such a condition existed. The Crescents have not stepped on the floor this year. They had a game advertised with Danielson Christmas night but something went wrong and since then no attempt has been made to stage basketball. Taftville A. A. has just concluded a carnival, the proceeds of which will go towards baseball, this year, which after all is Taftville's first love.

Durr to Play With Emps

Georgie Durr, former Taftville Whirlwind flash will play with the Y Emps, starting very shortly, is the talk. The local Y may stage another Eastern Connecticut Intermediate tournament shortly and evidently the local Emps are preparing to give battle to Willimantic Emps. Noank Whirlwinds or any other of the clubs in that class who wish to enter.

Let's Have a New London Team

Last year's tourney was very successful, even though Norwich didn't win. The one-day affair brought out a goodly number and each team went through without hardly a hitch. However, there was no representative from New London, which, next to Norwich, has the most inhabitants in this section. Surely there are enough boys around the age of 16 to form a team in the Whaling City. A team from there for a tournament this year would help matters greatly.

Still Windham and Tech

By the results Tuesday night it is still a battle between Windham and Chapman Tech for the championship in the Eastern Connecticut high school conference. Putnam also figures as a mathematical possibility. Putnam will have to beat both Windham and Tech however, and as these games come on the up-staters home-floor there is some chance of them doing it on both occasions.

Monast's Loss Felt

The loss of Monast, its captain, has hurt Windham, it seems, and it may be that the Willimantic team will find it quite difficult in the home stretch for the title. That part of the season has now practically begun. Both Tech and Windham will point to their game at Putnam now and, incidentally, both of these tilts should be stiff tussles.

Presidents Ruling Again

As is their usual custom in all sports, Warrren Harding high is setting a fast pace in state basketball again this year. The Presidents haven't lost a game and should they continue this pace for another couple of weeks they will be the favorites going into the Yale tourney. Victory is surely a habit with Jack Mead and his boys.

WINDHAM STAGES RALLY IN LAST HALF TO BEAT ACADEMY; ENDEES WIN

Norwich quintets lost the two feature clashes at the Y gym Tuesday night when the Elmwood Endees nosed out the Y Seniors, 22 to 21 and the Academy dropped a 25 to 18 decision to Windham high in an Eastern Connecticut conference clash. In another game of the evening, played first, the Brothers of Joseph quintet won a Church league game from the Kappa club 20 to 14.

A fair crowd witnessed the games, which were well-played.

The Academy put up a good fight in their game in the first half, leading at its conclusion by 12 to 9 but Windham rallied in the last two quarters and gained the decision. By winning Windham kept in the race for the conference title.

Meikle was high scorer with 11 points and played a nice game for the victors. Chet Berghinzo led the locals in scoring. This was the Academy's ninth straight loss and their tenth setback in twelve games.

The Y Seniors were bested only by the closest of margins. Flydal was the shining light for the visitors, who had a team picked mostly from the semi-pro baseball stars of Hartford. Brown led the locals in scoring. This was the last game for the Y before their state title game with New London here tomorrow night. Summaries:

OVER 50 INTERESTED IN WRESTLING AT STORRS

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Feb. 12—Neil Quinby, New England Intercollegiate 121-pound champion wrestler for the past three years, and now a senior at Springfield college, made his first appearance at the Aggies to take up his work in the training of the football men for the 1929 eleven. Over 50 men were present to watch the exhibitions given by Quinby on the more common holds used in the wrestling game.

The plan of having a continuous program of training has always been a problem to Head Coach Sumner A. Dole. In obtaining the services of Quinby, the athletic authorities have branched out into a new line which in time may develop into, and add in a few years, a new sport to the already expanded department.

GARDINER IS RECALLED BY LES CANADIENS

CHICAGO, Feb. 12—(AP)—Herb Gardiner, manager of the Chicago Black Hawks, was recalled by Les Canadiens today and will play against the Hawks at Buffalo Thursday.

Gardiner was loaned to the Chicago club at the start of the season as a non-playing manager after playing a stellar role as a defensive player in the Canadiens' line-up for three years. When the Black Hawks became crippled and dropped hopelessly out of the National Hockey league pennant race, the Canadiens granted Gardiner permission to play.

A temporary manager probably will be named for the Black Hawks for the remainder of the season.

PLAINFIELD AND PARKWOOD PROS IN CLASH AT PLAINFIELD TONIGHT

Plainfield	Parkwood
Tisdale, rf	rf, Parnell
Kasper, lf	lf, Johnson
Williams, c	c, Smith
Bernot, rg	rg, Goggins
Dissinger, lg	lg, Slate

Fresh from victories over the Utica Boosters, Central New York champions, and other equally as strong clubs the Parkwood Professionals of Springfield, Mass., aspirants for the N. E. Pro title come to the Plainfield Community house this evening for the second time this season. The Parkwood club has been sailing along toward the New England title, the only blotch on an otherwise clean slate, being put there by the Plainfield club last November. Since Plainfield rallied in the last half of that game to beat the Parkwoods 36 to 28 the Parkwoods have strengthened and have not lost another game.

"SPIKE" SMITH

Included on the Parkwood roster on some well known basketball stars now playing the New England courts. Topping these stars is Spike Smith, the rangy center, who was the mainspring of the Parkwoods in the last encounter. It was the Springfield college star's basket in an overtime game that won from the Utica club last Saturday. Slate is another star, he being remembered for his spectacular work with Penn State several years ago. Red Goggins is another player who was not with the Parkwoods on their last appearance and he has added a world of strength with his rugged playing. Parnell and Johnson are the other two regulars who round out this fast club, along with Scotty Welsh and Red McGowan.

Plainfield will use its regular lineup in an attempt to put another crimp in the Springfield club's hopes for a New England professional title. Tisdale and Kasper will be in the forward berths, with Pop Williams at center and Dissinger and Bernot at guards.

A fast preliminary is anticipated between the undefeated Buddies and the fast Five Aces of Putnam. These preliminary games have been almost as interesting as the main attractions and many of the fans come to see the youngsters play. Dancing will follow the game.

New Horizons

Never was there path our childhood used to roam
So long it led not in the evening home;
Nor could the magic of the unknown track
Prevail against the hearth that called us back.

Over the same hilltops, wild-rose or gray,
Our evening and our twilight always lay.
And when the night fell all the unknown stars
Grew homely shining through our window bars.

Now we have fared to the country, o'er the hill
And unknown journeys lie beyone us still—
Ways unadventured, countless paths to roam.
But none that leads us in the evening home.

Onward, not homeward, some adventure calls
With every dawn and every evening falls
Over new horizons, wild-rose or gray,
And old stars shining on the unknown way.

Strange, look and far, not those we saw of old
Safe moored in haven skies above our fold.

—S. P. Lysaught.

Ballade of the Primitive Jest

I am an ancient Jest!
Palaeolithic man
In his arboreal nest
The sparks of fun would fan
My outline did he plan,
And laughed like one possessed.
'Twas thus my course began,
I am a merry Jest!

I am an early Jest!
Man delved, and built, and span;
Then wandered South and West
The people Aryan.
I journeyed in their van!
The Semites, too, confessed—
From Beersheba to Dan—
I am a merry Jest!

I am an ancient Jest!
Through all the human clan,
Red, black, white, free, oppressed,
Hilarious I ran;
I'm found in Lucian,
In Poggio and the rest,
I'm dear to Moll and Nan!
I am a merry Jest!

ENVOY

Prince, you may storm and ban—
Joe Millers are a pest,
Suppress me if you can!
I am a merry Jest!

—Andrew Lang.

Heard Milton J. Cross.

An audience crowding the high school auditorium Monday evening greeted the first Westerly appearance of the well-known radio singer and announcer, Milton J. Cross. His Westerly appearance was under the auspices of Christ-church choir. In his program Announcer Cross gave several tenor solos, which have been in great demand from station WJZ, at which he had been heard, also as a member of the Stromberg-Carlson quartet. PLEASURE BEACH HOUSES ENTERED AND RANSACKED

WESTERLY, R. I., Feb. 12.—Two summer places at Misquamicut were broken into and ransacked over the week end. The summer homes visited were those of William G. McKechine of Springfield, Mass., and Dr. John Cummings of Worcester. The depredations were committed sometime between 10 o'clock Saturday night and 1.30 o'clock Sunday morning. The breaks were discovered by Fire Chief Charles E. Lamb, who is employed as patrolman at the resort during the winter months.

Nothing of value has been reported missing from either of the houses. Entrance was gained by smashing a shutter and cutting glass about the window catch. The contents of bureau drawers and closets were thrown about the rooms. In the Dr. Cummings' house the burglars found a large supply of canned goods. Canned sardines, pineapple, soup and spaghetti were appropriated for a lunch in the kitchen. Chief Lamb's attention was attracted to a certain fluttering in one of the windows of the McKechine cottage and upon making an investigation he found the house had been entered. He learned of the other break when he started a tour of investigation of the property in that vicinity.

HUSBAND FINDS WIFE DEAD ON PANTRY FLOOR

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Feb. 12.—The sudden death of Mrs. Emma Bisonette Couchaine, 55, occurred at her home, 39 Mechanic street, Pawcatuck, early Tuesday morning. Her death was discovered by her husband, Joseph D. Couchaine, when he returned home from the Pawcatuck mill of the Lorraine Manufacturing company across the street at dinner time. Her body was found lying on the pantry floor.

Mrs. Couchaine heard with difficulty and it had been customary for her to lock the doors while alone in the house. When Mr. Couchaine arrived home, this noon, he found the doors locked, but when he called to his wife as usual, she did not answer. Mr. Couchaine opened a window and called to his wife again. There was no answer. Leaning forward into the kitchen window he saw his wife lying on the floor in the pantry. He notified a physician and Dr. A. H. Myers, medical examiner for Stonington, was summoned. The woman had been dead for some time. Heart trouble was the cause of death. Mrs. Couchaine had been ill with grip recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Couchaine were married 20 years ago. There are four children by a previous marriage, Mozel Couchaine, of White Rock; Joseph, who resided at 89 Mechanic street; Miss Aldea Couchaine, of Groton, Conn., and Miss Etolia, of New London.

CATHOLIC CHAPEL AT BEACH NEEDS TO BE ENLARGED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Feb. 12.—The zoning board met Tuesday evening in the council chambers of Westerly town hall for a hearing on a petition of the Church of the Immaculate Conception to enlarge St. Clare's chapel at Misquamicut.

The chapel is located on the westerly side of Crandall avenue, about 400 feet north of the northerly line of Atlantic avenue, in a residential district. Permission is requested to extend the present existing church southerly and westerly to within five feet of the southerly and westerly boundary lines of said lot. The adjoining property owners are Annie Salimento on the north, Crandall avenue on the east, Mary G. Brophy on the south and Susan Smith and James J. Dwyer on the west. The chapel is 80 feet long and 26 feet wide. The new proposed addition at the rear of the structure will be 69½ feet by 24 feet, and would greatly enlarge the seating capacity of the building.

Attorney John J. Dunn appeared for the parish of the Immaculate Conception, Rev. Fr. J. F. Vincent, pastor, of which St. Clare's chapel is a mission. He stated that the crowded conditions at this summer chapel required the additional space requested and that the logical place was at the rear, where part of the addition would be one story, 25 feet in height.

A letter of remonstrance was received by the zoning board from Mary C Brophy of New York, a summer visitor at Misquamicut, and the occupant of a cottage on the ocean front. Her objection was based upon the additional fire hydrant involved. The Westerly building code regulation requires any building of over 1,000 square feet to be of fire-proof construction.

On motion of Frank A. Sullivan, seconded by D. H. Rogers, the zoning board voted the petition granted, subject to the rules and regulations of the Westerly building code.

A petition for a special building permit to Building Inspector Thomas Wills will be addressed to the Westerly town council, which is to meet in special session on Friday at 4:30.

Mrs. Mary E. Arnold was in Providence Tuesday.

William P. Dodge of Providence was the guest the first of the week of Westerly relatives.

F. B. Fountaine, Jr., of Middletown, Conn., was in Westerly Tuesday during a motor trip to Mystic, New London and New Haven.

NORWICH PLAYERS ENTER FOR CARD TOURNAMENT

To the list of 56 couples entered for the third annual elimination bridge-whist tournament of the Westerly Square and Compass club, published in Tuesday morning's Bulletin, there have been added the following: George B. Spargo and Walter Reith, Rawley and Chesterfield, of Norwich; Clark Barnes and Harry B. McKenzie, of Mystic; George Dunn and W. Greene, W. O. Stewart and Mr. Latham, Carpenter and partner. The list now includes 62 teams out of a total of 64 required by Feb. 15, when entries close with play to begin Feb 18.

On a special request of William C. Smith for permission to erect a two-car garage, 20 by 32, on Park avenue, the board voted a location at the rear of the property, five feet from the property line, on the request of a three-foot special location.

A one-year temporary permit was recommended Don Dickerson for a wayside stand building, 7 by 9, on the old Chapman farm near the junction of the Shore and Pond roads with a setback of 60 feet, in place of the required 80 feet, which would hide it behind a knoll. The hearing will come up at the regular March zone board meeting.

A request of Willard P. Hall of Watch Hill road to remove present shacks and erect a building 20 by 60 feet was granted with permission to fill in on the Pawcatuck river front to his property line. If more filling is wanted, Attorney Ferguson, for the board, stated that permits would have to be sought from the Rhode Island harbor board and next from the war department of the U. S. government.

Old Folks Say Doctor Caldwell was Right

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1876, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, poor stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs, with pepsin.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs?

A bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will last a family several months, and all can use it it is good for the baby because pleasant to the taste, gentle in action, and free from narcotics. In proper dose, given in the directions, it is equally effective at all ages. Elderly people will find it especially ideal. All drug stores have the generous bottles.

W. B. Caldwell M.D. AT AGE 69

A Doctor Talks About Cascara

It is unfortunate that many people judge the thoroughness of laxatives by its violence. The salts that rush through the system may not even penetrate the film of poisonous matter that has coated the colon. A long list of drugs will "loosen the bowels" but what is the best way to CLEANSE them?

The world's best laxative is one that Mother Nature makes in her own laboratory. It is the bark of a tree, called CCASCARA. The Indians used to chew this bark—and reach old age without a sick day. It is the best thing there is today, for any system; best for the blood. The most beneficial in its action on the bowels of anything yet disclosed. For many reasons:

First of all, there is no HABIT formed from cascara. The bowels are not weakened, but strengthened by its occasional use. The occasions when one needs this aid grow less and less, its influence is long-felt. You don't find yourself worse bound-up the day following. You do find the bowels more inclined to move of their own volition. The candy Cascaret that every drugstore always has in stock is the ideal form of cascara.

JEWETT CITY WOMAN BUYS MILAN COTTAGE AT BEACH

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Feb. 12.—On Feb. 11, Michael B. and Margaret A. Milan of Providence sold to Nellie M. Leonard of Jewett City, Conn., land with house at Pleasant View Beach, now Misquamicut, being Lot No. 141, near Winapaug pond on the south side of Atlantic avenue and adjoining land now or formerly of Ellen T. McGuinness.

Heard Milton J. Cross.

An audience crowding the high school auditorium Monday evening greeted the first Westerly appearance of the well-known radio singer and announcer, Milton J. Cross. His Westerly appearance was under the auspices of Christ church choir. In his program Announcer Cross gave several tenor solos, which have been in great demand from station WJZ, at which he had been heard, also as a member of the Stromberg-Carlson quartet. Mrs. Willard Kelswin of Mystic, pianist, was his accompanist. Among the older announcers, Mr. Cross related many stories and present d a number of letters received in his five years' experience.

A number of motor parties of members of Westerly Square and Compass club visited Wakefield, R. I., Monday night, to attend the whist given by Wakefield Square and Compass club. The party was held in Wakefield Masonic Temple, there being 40 tables in play. Baskets of home-made candy were on the tables and cake and chocolate were served.

George E. Phillips, of Providence, a summer cottager at Misquamicut, is exhibitor of a Boston terrier at the annual show of the Westminster Kennel club at Madison Square Garden. These dogs were judged at 10 a. m., Tuesday.

More than the average number of aeroplanes has passed over Westerly the past week headed both easterly and westerly. A Westerly man interested in air navigation, explained that their presence was due to the fact that motor shows were being visited where the latest models of plane motors were on exhibition and the flyers were enabled to meet dealers from distant points at short notice and in quicker time by air trips.

Lincoln Day Observance.

Outward signs of this year's observance of Lincoln's birthday in Westerly were the general display of the Stars and Stripes flown from staffs on public buildings, business blocks and private poles; the Shenandoah flag display from curbline poles. On the Rhode Island side of the Pawcatuck river banking houses remained open while on the Pawcatuck or Stonington side a legal holiday resulted in their closing. The public schools in Westerly and Pawcatuck observed Lincoln day with special programs and members of patriotic societies were heard in short talks.

PLEASURE BEACH HOUSES ENTERED AND RANSACKED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Feb. 12.—Two summer places at Misquamicut were broken into and ransacked over the week end. The summer homes visited were those of William G. McKechine of Springfield, Mass., and Dr. John Cummings of Worcester. The depredations were committed sometime between 10 o'clock Saturday night and 9.30 o'clock Sunday morning. The breaks were discovered by Fire Chief Charles E. Lamb, who is employed as patrolman at the resort during the winter months.

Nothing of value has been reported missing from either of the houses. Entrance was gained by smashing a shutter and cutting glass about the window catch. The contents of bureau drawers and closets were thrown about the rooms. In the Dr. Cummings' house the burglars found a large supply of canned goods. Canned sardines, pineapple, soup and spaghetti were appropriated for a lunch in the kitchen. Chief Lamb's attention was attracted to a curtain fluttering in one of the windows of the McKechine cottage and upon making an investigation he found the house had been entered. He learned of the other break when he started a tour of investigation of the property in that vicinity.

HUSBAND FINDS WIFE DEAD ON PANTRY FLOOR

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Feb. 12.—The sudden death of Mrs. Emma Bissonnette Couchaine, 55, occurred at her home, 39 Mechanic street, Pawcatuck, early Tuesday morning. Her death was discovered by her husband, Joseph D. Couchaine, when he returned home from the Pawcatuck mill of the Lorraine Manufacturing company across the street at dinner time. Her body was found lying on the pantry floor.

Mrs. Couchaine heard with difficulty and it had been customary for her to lock the doors while alone in the house. When Mr. Couchaine arrived home this noon, he found the doors locked, but when he called to his wife as usual, she did not answer. Mr. Couchaine opened a window and called to his wife again. There was no answer. Leaning forward into the kitchen window he saw his wife lying on the floor in the pantry. He notified a physician and Dr. A. H. Myers, medical examiner for Stonington, was summoned. The woman had been dead for some time. Heart trouble was the cause of death. Mrs. Couchaine had been ill with grip recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Couchaine were married 20 years ago. There are four children by a previous marriage, Mozel Couchaine, of White Rock; Joseph, who resided at 39 Mechanic street; Miss Aldea Couchaine, of Groton, Conn., and Miss Etolia, of New London.

Caught Hand In Wringer.

Painful injuries were received Monday afternoon by Raymond Sacco, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Sacco of 50 Pierce street, who, nearly lost his right hand when it was caught in an electric wringer. The child was taken to the office of Dr. M. H. Scanlon and then to Westerly hospital where Drs. Scanlon and C. Grant Savage dressed the hand. It required 18 stitches to close the lacerations.

Cap And Gown For Seniors.

For a second time in the history of Westerly high school, the class of 1929, graduating in June next, will appear at commencement exercises in cap and gown. Among those to have leading parts in the commencement program, recently selected are: Class historian, Miss La Kenyon; prophecy, Gordon Michie; will, Reginald Lamb; statistics, Miss Bertha Beaudreau; degrees, Fred Dotolo; gifts, Robert Bonner. Announcement was also made that a letter was received from Everett high school, Everett, Mass., requesting a date on the local school's football schedule next fall. However, as Westerly already has 10 games scheduled, the request had to be denied.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Feb. 12.—The zoning board met Tuesday evening in the council chambers of Westerly town hall for a hearing on a petition of the Church of the Immaculate Conception to enlarge St. Clare's chapel at Misquamicut.

The chapel is located on the westerly side of Crandall avenue, about 400 feet north of the northerly line of Atlantic avenue, in a residential district. Permission is requested to extend the present existing church southerly and westerly to within five feet of the southerly and westerly boundary lines of said lot. The adjoining property owners are Annie Salimento on the north, Crandall avenue on the east, Mary G. Brophy on the south and Susan Smith and James J. Dwyer on the west. The chapel is 80 feet long and 36 feet wide. The new proposed addition at the rear of the structure will be 69½ feet by 24 feet, and would greatly enlarge the seating capacity of the building.

Attorney John J. Dunn appeared for the parish of the Immaculate Conception, Rev. Fr. J. F. Vincent, pastor, of which St. Clare's chapel is a mission. He stated that the crowded conditions at this summer chapel required the additional space requested and that the logical place was at the rear, where part of the addition would be one story, 25 feet in height.

A letter of remonstrance was received by the zoning board from Mary C Brophy of New York, a summer visitor at Misquamicut, and the occupant of a cottage on the ocean front. Her objection was based upon the additional fire hydrant involved. The Westerly building code regulation requires any building of over 1,000 square feet to be of fire-proof construction.

On motion of Frank A. Sullivan, seconded by D. H. Rogers, the zoning board voted the petition granted, subject to the rules and regulations of the Westerly building code.

A petition for a special building permit to Building Inspector Thomas Wills will be addressed to the Westerly town council, which is to meet in special session on Friday at 4:30.

John Shannon of Stonington left Westerly Tuesday morning on the New England express for Boston.

Mrs. Mary E. Arnold was in Providence Tuesday.

Andrew E. Ralston and party of members of Deborah chapter, No. 9, O. E. S., returned to Westerly Monday night from a motor trip to Chicopee, Mass.

NORWICH PLAYERS ENTER FOR CARD TOURNAMENT

To the list of 56 couples entered for the third annual elimination bridge-whist tournament of the Westerly Square and Compass club, published in Tuesday morning's Bulletin, there have been added the following: George B. Spargo and Walter Reith, Rawley and Chesterfield, of Norwich; Clark Barnes and Harry B. McKenzie, of Mystic; George Dunn and W. Greene, W. O. Stewart and Mr. Latham, Carpenter and partner. The list now includes 62 teams out of a total of 64 required by Feb. 13, when entries close with play to begin Feb. 18.

On a special request of William C. Smith for permission to erect a two-car garage, 20 by 22, on Park avenue, the board voted a location at the rear of the property, five feet from the property line, on the request of a three-foot special location.

A one-year temporary permit was recommended Don Dickerson for a wayside stand building, 7 by 9, on the old Chapman farm near the junction of the Shore and Pond roads with a setback of 60 feet, in place of the required 80 feet, which would hide it behind a knoll. The hearing will come up at the regular March zone board meeting.

A request of Willard P. Hall of Watch Hill road to remove present shacks and erect a building 20 by 60 feet was granted with permission to fill in on the Pawcatuck river front to his property line. If more filling is wanted, Attorney Ferguson, for the board, stated that permits would have to be sought from the Rhode Island harbor board and next from the war department of the U. S. government.

Old Folks Say Doctor Caldwell was Right

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he pitched on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs, with pepsin.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs?

W. B. Caldwell M.D.
AT AGE 85

A bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will last a family several months, and all can use it. It is good for the baby because pleasant to the taste, gentle in action, and free from narcotics. In proper dose, given in the directions, it is equally effective at all ages. Elderly people will find it especially ideal. All drug stores have the generous bottles.

A Doctor Talks About Cascara

It is unfortunate that many people judge the thoroughness of a laxative by its violence. The salts that rush through the system may not even penetrate the film of poisonous matter that has coated the colon. A long list of drugs will "loosen the bowels" but what is the best way to CLEANSE them?

The world's best laxative is one that Mother Nature makes in her own laboratory. It is the bark of a tree, called CCASCARA. The Indians used to chew this bark—and reach old age without a sick day. It is the best thing there is today, for any system; best for the blood. The most beneficial in its action on the bowels of anything yet disclosed. For many reasons:

First of all, there is no HABIT formed from cascara. The bowels are not weakened, but strengthened by its occasional use. The occasions when one needs this aid grow less and less. Its influence is long-felt. You don't find yourself worse bound-up the day following. You do find the bowels more inclined to move of their own volition. The candy Cascaret that every drugstore always has in stock is the ideal form of cascara.

FLORIDA SIGHT-SEEING BY MYSTIC MOTOR PARTY

Mrs. A. B. Phillips, The Bulletin's Mystic correspondent, now in Florida, sends the following interesting letter from St. Petersburg:

I hope a description of my trip down and some of the places visited may be of interest, especially to those who have never seen beautiful Florida. This is surely the Sunshine city. The Daily Evening Independent fourteen years ago agreed to give away its issue any day the sun did not shine and during the fourteen years only seventy-five free issues have been so donated.

My friends called for me Friday morning, Jan. 4 at 7.05. We stopped in New London to get one more to complete our party. That day we drove to Bel Air, Md. where we stayed over night. We left the next morning before light (for we could make better time early in the morning) and traveled 438 miles reaching Rockingham, N. C., driving all the afternoon in a pouring rain.

A Day's Journey.

We did not leave as early Sunday morning and stopped in Camden to attend Sunday school in the Baptist church at 9.30 a. m. Then continued our journey, passing through South Carolina and Georgia, reaching Callahan, Fla., before 3 p. m., having traveled 437 miles that day.

Monday we left at 8 a.m., arrived at Ocala before noon. We spent two hours there, arriving at St. Petersburg at 5 p. m., a distance of 143½ miles from our home.

We had all state roads except one detour and good hotel accommodations at a reasonable rate.

Animals Slaughtered.

On the roads in the southern states for lack of fences we saw two cows dead, several hogs, pigs, and the dogs and cats were not able to escape the autoist, but we never hurt any animal and others can do likewise if they will make an effort to do so. Any animal that has been killed is soon surrounded by many turkey buzzards. All enjoyed the ride and think it a splendid record for a girl in her teens to accomplish without any accident or delay of any kind except to get gas and to eat.

Thursday, after a ride, we went to the Connecticut club, joined, had supper and instructive moving pictures and some funny ones. Met friends from home and other places.

Early to Church.

On Sunday had to be in Sunday school at 9.30 a. m., before the preaching service and to see probably about three thousand present and the collection after being taken up put into a dishpan, was an unusual sight. The churches are very large with seating capacity of two to three thousand, every seat filled. Any one expecting to get a seat must go early. Have attended Sunday school in three denominations and services in four.

Morning morning, Jan. 21 we left home for a trip over the Tamiamia trail stopping ten minutes at Venice, the next stop at Fort Myers, passing the homes of Edison and Ford. This street is no doubt as beautiful as any in the state. We crossed Tamiami trail bridge, one and a half miles long, and driving miles we reached the Everglades, where you drive for miles without seeing any signs of life except the Indians and sea blue and white heron thousands in a flock, pelicans, ducks and geese.

Reached Miami.

This short route across to Miami was opened last spring and is used by hundreds of automobilists. We reached Miami before dark and had a chance to see some of the city. We secured accommodations at a hotel on Flagler street and were lucky to get it, for the city was crowded.

Tuesday morning we were out early to drive around the city and to Cocoanut Grove and Coral Gables. Saw the Deering estate of many acres and the home of the late W. J. Bryan, now for sale. We went to Hialeah and then went up to the 24th story of Dade county court house and Miami city hall, from which one can see all over the city. We had a chance to see the J. C. Penney estate and saw the train arrive bringing President-elect Hoover and his party. The court house steps was an excellent place to see the parade and we saw it twice. The streets were thronged and the decorations of buildings and homes something never to be forgotten.

The papers said 200,000 were there and by the automobiles parked it looked as though everyone in the state was there. Every available bit of space was used and some made money out of it.

The next place visited was West Palm Beach, where we stayed for the night and then drove all around the city and saw the devastation of the hurricane last fall. They are rebuilding and repairing fast but the beautiful cocoanut palms are bare of foliage, many blown over and broken. The others of our party had visited there before and thought it a sad sight.

We went into the Whitehall hotel, formerly the home of H. M. Flagler. The decorations and furnishings of some rooms cost over a million dollars. We were told at the rear a large addition has been built and it is where the defeated candidate for president and his party are at this time.

Hurricane's Effects.

We continued up the east coast, seeing the effects of the hurricane, buildings and trees blown over. We stopped at Gomez, saw friends from home, also visited an orange grove nearby where we were given fruit by the owner, who lives in New London. We arrived at Orlando and spent the night with Mr. and Mrs. Allyn, from home.

Next morning we drove around the city seeing the seven lakes and all the principal streets. Here large oak shade trees make it beautiful. We went to the aviation field, got in a twelve-passenger airplane that makes a half-hour trip each afternoon at 3.30 for $5 apiece.

The Winter Fairs.

We couldn't wait for that, but drove to the fair at Winter Haven, the center of the citrus industry in Florida. Also went to Mountain Sanctuary Lake, adjoining Lake Wales and heard the finest carillon in the world, erected by Edward W. Bok and dedicated by President Coolidge Feb. 1st. Our trip covered 848 miles. Fairs are held here in the winter. We attended the county fair at Largo three times. Spent one day at South Florida fair held annually in Tampa for ten days. It seems as if there are more buildings than at Springfield, Mass., fair. The citrus exhibits are marvelous and impossible to describe. Monday was Gasparilla Day and the parade the finest I ever saw. The floats must have cost a large sum and there were several bands of music. The streets were thronged and the buildings decorated.

Houses Sold Cheap.

Have attended an auction—saw two new houses of four rooms, bath and lights and some had a garage, sold from $450 to $750 each. Many have lost all they had here and others are waiting for the real estate values to come back.

Always Dead Tired?

How sad! Sallow complexion, coated tongue, poor appetite, bad breath, pimply skin and always tired. What's wrong? You are poisoned. The bowels are clogged and liver inactive. Take this famous prescription used constantly in place of calomel by men and women for 20 years—Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. They are harmless yet very effective. A compound of vegetable ingredients and olive oil. They act easily upon the bowels, free the system of poison caused by faulty elimination and tone up liver.

Be beautiful. Have rosy cheeks, clear eyes and youthful energy that make a success of life. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, nightly. Know them by their olive color. 15c, 30c and 60c.

No matter whether failure is due to accident, or collision, or blow-out, or misalignment, or stone-bruise, or road-cuts, or rim-smash, or side-wall injuries, or tube-pinching, or valve-tearing, or faulty toe-in, or under-inflation. We will either repair it free of charge, or you get a new tire at reduced price, depending on how long you have run the first one.

And no delay and no argument. You bring your Surety Bond back to us with the ruined tire and bang!.... we settle the thing ourselves right here and NOW!

Of course we offer this Surety Bond only with genuine Dunlops. They are the only tires that are built strong enough and fine enough to make possible a Surety Bond, especially one as liberal and sweeping as this is.

Columbia Grange held its regular meeting Wednesday evening with the new 1929 officers in charge. The lecturer's hour was observed as Library Night. Each member had on something which represented a book, author, or character in the book, each one guessing what the others represented. Several pictures illustrating a poem or book were also pinned on a screen and the members guessed what they represented. Mrs. Ethel Blakely, daughter of the late Alanson Fox who was librarian for many years, gave an interesting paper on her recollections of the early days of the library, and the present librarian, Mrs. Lillian Rice told about something of its work at present. A series of tableaux illustrating famous stories and characters, was much enjoyed. The following were acted "Paul Revere's Ride—The Last Leaf, Mother Goose, Maud Muller, Pocohontas, Barbara Frietchie. There were two musical numbers, one a piano solo by Arlene Badge and an old time song "Johnny Sands" by Frederick Hunt. The most notable number on the programme was an Ode dedicated to the officers of the Grange, written by the worthy lecturer, Mrs. Lillian Rice. The next meeting will be dedicated to Art. MIGHT ABOLISH OFFICE OF JUSTICE OF PEACE

STATE CAPITOL, HARTFORD, Feb. 12—(AP)—The judiciary committee of the general assembly indicated this afternoon it might report favorably on a bill which has been regarded as an indirect effort at abolishing the office of justice of the peace, though its author and introducer, Mr. Markham, of Hartford, denies this intent.

The bill seeks to have appointed a committee of six representatives and three senators, with the motor vehicle commissioner an ex-officio member, which would survey the advisability of and draft a bill on, county or district courts, in communities without city, borough or town courts, which would have sole jurisdiction over motor vehicle cases.

Both bills were drawn up by labor—one, establishing a 48-hour week in "seasonal industry" by the Connecticut Federation and offered, in the house, by Miss Davids, of Greenwich; the other, establishing a 49 1-2 hour week for all women over 16 in general industry, by the Consumers' league and offered by Mr Hanbury, of Newington. The latter bill will have many proponents from women's organizations.

Defendants' Judgment

By a decision handed down in the common pleas court by Judge Charles B. Waller, judgment for the defendants, James Shelley, Sr., and James Shelley, Jr., is given in the $750 damage suit brought by Charles W. Frink of this city. The plaintiff, a local milk dealer, sued for damage done to his truck following a collision on Nov. 11, 1927, corner of Broadway and Elmwood avenue, this city, with an automobile owned by James Shelley, Jr., and operated by his father.

Helped at Change of Life

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a wonderful medicine at the Change of Life. I would get blue spells and just walk the floor. I was nervous, could not sleep at night, and was not able to do my work. I know if it had not been for your medicine I would have been in bed most of this time and had a big doctor's bill. If women would only take your medicine they would be better."—Mrs. Anna Weaver, R. F. D. No. 2, Rose Hill, Iowa.

New Store for Model Booterie

P. F. Sweeney is now working on a new and larger store which the Model Booterie will occupy very soon. This is at 138 Main street, two doors away from their present location, and directly opposite the Plaut-Cadden Co. In making this move, there will be specific advantages in the acquisition of more space both in the store and front display. The management is assured that the Norwich people will be pleased with the added improvement to the appearance of Main street in that the effect will be parallel with a cosmopolitan store. Further announcements will be made of future policies to be carried out by the Model Booterie.

PAUL W. CHAPMAN'S BIDS HAVE LOCAL PEOPLE GUESSING

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 12—The announcement that the Federal Shipping Board has reported to the senate committee on commerce that the bids of Paul W. Chapman for the vessels the government is to sell, has awakened an interest in whether New London will ever be the western terminus of a line of ocean steamers. Mr. Chapman is a banker with connections in a business way in Chicago and in New York Whether he intends to establish companies to operate the ships is not known, but it is apparent that he does not intend to engage in the shipping business himself. Neither is it known whether he is bidding for the Brown-Boveri company with Messrs. Wilder and others. The fact stands out nevertheless, that New London can offer facilities for a line to Europe that no other port on the Atlantic coast can profer and that if the intention is for the establishment of a line that will render it practicable to make the passage over the Atlantic in the shortest possible time, New London will be selected as the American terminal.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre.

The current program which comes to a close today is one that should not be missed. Heading this well balanced bill is Princess Watawaso with her all American Indian company in an Indian revue. McGill and Bigelow in the Silent Fool, Rathburn Four featuring Master Vernon, world's greatest triple tongue tongued saxophonist. Great Lovers, a miniature musical comedy and the girl with the golden voice, Nina Caponi.

Mr. Hoffman got so interested in The Gun Runner that he insisted on adding one of his most prized possessions, a Velasquez portrait of a Spanish duchess, for the office of the president of the republic. The picture, which he bought in Italy some time ago, is in what the critics term Velasquez' "later" style, a beautiful canvas which added immeasurably to the dignity of the president's room.

The Gun Runner stars Ricardo Cortez in the leading role suggested by Arthur Stringer's fascinating adventure story. Nora Lane, John St. Polis and Gino Corrado complete the cast, which Edgar Lewis directed. John Francis Natteford made the adaptation from the novel.

The new program which opens at the Palace tomorrow brings to the stage of this theatre one of the cleverst and classiest girl revue ever brought to the city produced by Mr. Jack De Sylvia entitled Rhelm of Beauty, this attraction will be presented with four other high class acts of vaudeville.

One of the most elaborate cabaret numbers ever staged furnishes atmosphere for the night club in Sinners' Parade, the Columbia production which will be the attraction at the Palace theatre on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The number serves as a means of building up a smashing climax to the picture.

For this sequence Columbia Pictures engaged ten of the best and prettiest dancing girls in Hollywood. They were placed under the direction of a ballet master who worked out the Chicken a-la-King number. Befor a diaz upon which sits a king surrounded by courtiers and jesters in gaudy attire, the ten girls execute some exceptionally difficult steps. The dance becomes wild and abandoned, and then when the excitement reaches its height a huge silver platter is bourne before the king on the shoulders of seval waiters.

To the blare of trumpets and the rattle of drums the platter is lowered and the cover removed. Reening on a golden-brown pillow representing a slice of buttered toast, is Dorothy Rvieer.

The Chicken a la King number proved so effective that a large cafe in Hollywood engaged the entire company with the exception of Dorothy Revier to present it nightly to the patrons.

Broadway Theatre.

Two important Paramount featured players, Gary Cooper and Nancy Carroll, were assigned to Richard Wallace's direction when the well-known director of McFadden's Flats undertook his first directorial work for Paramount. These three worked together, with Paul Lukas in an important role, in making The Shopworn Angel, which will feature the Broadway theatre bill for the last half of this week.

Wallace directed several impt tant pictures before he was taken over by Paramount for The Shopworn Angel. Besides the picture which won his his greatest fame, McFadden's Flats, he is credited with such successes as The Poor Nut, A Texas Steer, Lady Be Good and The Butter and Egg Man. His excellent work in The Shopworn Angel won him unstinted praise from moving picture experts in Hollywood.

The Shopworn Angel is a story of boy an girl love. The boy, played by Gary Cooper, whose initial success was registered with the successful picture, The Legion of the Condemned, falls in love with a flashing little person, who is delighting some of the more sophisticated of the Broadway playboys. When she realizes the love of this boy, poor, bashful and countrified, she attempts to reform her life in order to be worthy of him. She finds this difficult, however, and a athetic drama is enacted.

Wallace had a great deal of good material to work with in making The Shopworn Angel, not the least of which was the excellent story adapted from an original by Dana Burnet, well-known magazine writer.

Breed Theatre.

Olive Borden comes to the Breed theatre in Fox Films' "Come to My House," which will be shown for a two days' run starting today.

The picture, which is taken from the well known story of the same name by Arthur Somers Roche, has many tense situations that rise to a powerful climax. The photoplay is further enhanced by lavish settings, picturesque scenery and beautiful gowns.

The splendid characterization of Miss Borden as the high spirited girl who is engaged to one man and in love with another is excellent, and Antonio Moreno, who plays opposite Miss Borden, proves an interesting foil for Miss Borden's temperament.

Others in the case of "Come to My House," are Doris Lloyd, Ben Bard, Cornelius Keefe and Richard Maitland. Alfred E. Green directed.

Louise Fazenda has made you laugh many a time—but it is not only Louise who will greet you in Warner Bros.' comedy, "Five and Ten Cent Annie," the added feature on the bill, but Clyde Cook, Louise's diminutive teammate, and Bill Demarest, the rough-and-ready.

These three head the cast which includes Gertrude Astor, Douglas Gerrard, Tom Ricketts and Eddie Haffner. The story is by Leon Zurade and Charles Condon did the scenario while Roy Del Ruth directed.

TAFTVILLE

Mrs. Agnes Gordon of Norwich avenue died Monday after an illness of pneumonia. She had been a resident of the village for many years, and up to the time of her illness was employed as a weaver at the No. 4 mill of the Ponemah company. She is survived by a son, Albert Gordon and by a daughter, Miss Stephania Gordon. Mrs. Gordon had many friends in the town who extend their sympathy to the stricken family. She was 45 years of age, and was a devout member of the Polish National Catholic church of the Divine Providence of Norwich.

Louis N. Frechette, Jr., of New Haven, a former resident of Merchants avenue was calling on friends in the village over the week end. Since leaving Taftville Mr. Frechette has been in the New Haven office of the N. Y., N. H., & H. R. R., and has been prominent in Building and Loan association work in New Haven. He is at present employed in the same department as Major John Coolidge, son of the president and Mrs. Coolidge.

A letter for Joseph Varienne is held at the local postoffice, the addressee unknown to the postmaster.

The girls of the Taftville Congregational church school held a food sale Tuesday afternoon in the vacant store in the Ponemah building. It was well patronized. The proceeds are to finance the girls share in the annual "stunt night" of the Interchurch Girls' council. Those in charge were Mrs. Eugene N. Monty, Mrs. John Wohlleben and Mrs. John Volkman.

Mrs. Charles Schmidt, George Schmidt and the Misses Freida, Alice, and Louise Schmidt were in New Bedford, Mass., on Tuesday to attend the funeral of a relative, Jacob Schmidt.

ANNUAL BOY SCOUT CAMPAIGN TO BE LAUNCHED IN NEAR FUTURE

According to an announcement made Tuesday by Charles Colt, president of the Northern New London County Council of the Boy Scouts of America, plans are now underway for the council's annual financial campaign which will be launched shortly. The budget committee has prepared the budget which has been accepted by the executive committee. Mr. Colt, in outlining the standing achievements of the council for the past year, says:

Six new troops were organized with 79 new scouts enrolled. Four scouts were advanced to star scout rank and approximately 200 scouts successfully passed various merit badge tests and tests required for advancement in the various ranks. Twenty-two scouts were taught to swim and seven scouts passed the required tests for the Junior Red Cross Lifesaving corps.

During the past few weeks scouts, at the request of the mayor, made a survey of more than 50 city streets, and placed new numbers on houses where numbers were lacking or where numbers could not be distinguished. Every street in the city will be included in the project.

Our summer camp accommodated the greatest number of scouts in its history, and insured for a large number of boys a period of life in the open under expert direction in ideal conditions, and at a low cost.

We are proud of this record. We know that the citizens of Norwich wish to have this work continue and we are confident that if each member of the community does his share in giving the required financial support, the success of scouting during the ensuing year will be assured.

CLUB LEADER WHAPLES GAVE TALK ON RADIO

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Feb. 12—Randolph Whaples, graduate of the Connecticut Agricultural college, and now county club agent for New London county gave an interesting talk over station WCAC here last night as one of a series of talks in the 4-H club programme that is sponsored by the United States department of agriculture and the New London County Farm bureau.

Mr. Whaples brought out the important points in the club work being carried out in New London county, and the advancement the New London County 4-H clubs have made since the spring of 1927. In that year there were organized in the county from May until November 26 clubs, with a membership of 368 boys and girls. At the end of the fiscal year of 1928 the membership had increased to 454 with the addition of six new clubs. He also stated that the New London county clubs had a larger percentage of completions in club work than any other county in the state of Connecticut.

The increased efficiency exhibited by the young workers was a fact that amazed the other county workers. With the intense rivalry set up between the young individuals each strives to head the county in the work being done.

4-H work is a branch of the extension service that can help the younger folks in their preparation for their future life according to the remarks made by Mr. Whaples in closing. The club work aims to demonstrate better practices in agriculture and home economics, to promote industry and thrift, to apply business methods to farming, to foster self reliance and ambition by individual work, and to foster individual ownership.

To the young folks of New London county he asked tp assist in the forming of new clubs, and if they know of groups that are interested, to communicate with him at the farm bureau office in Norwich.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR GRAND MONARCH'S VISIT

The committees in charge of arrangements reported at a meeting of Nemrod Grotto at its new home on Cliff street Monday evening that final plans have been completed for the grand monarch's ceremonial to be held at the Strand theatre Saturday evening. WOMAN'S CITY CLUB HELD SUCCESSFUL BRIDGE PARTY

A large and successful bridge was held in the Wauregan ball room Tuesday afternoon under the auspices of the Woman's City club. Arrangements for the affair were made by members of the executive board of the club, under the leadership of Mrs. Charles B. Gilbert. About 40 tables were in play and approximately $100 was raised. The prizes, attractive, varied colored table covers which adorned each table, were made by the home economics group of which Miss Viola Hill is chairman. In the center of the room was placed the large and beautiful flag, belonging to the D. A. R. and lent by them for the occasion.

BRINGS INSURANCE RECORD FROM 'FRISCO TO NORWICH

The local agent of the New England Mutual Life Insurance Co. of Boston, L. M. Crandall, broke the company's world's record for the number of applications written and examined in one day. It was on Wednesday of last week that Mr. Crandall broke the record. The day previous the state agent for the company wrote to Crandall asking that he make a special effort to write as many applications as possible during February which is tribute month to the superintendent of agencies, Earle Bralley. Crandall got busy next morning at seven o'clock and worked through to midnight. The best previous record for one day's business has been held for several years in San Francisco, an agent there having written eighteen completed applications in one day. Crandall decided to beat this record on Wednesday and the following is what the Nemico, the weekly agency paper has to say of his effort.

"Another New England Mutual Life record comes to Connecticut." Twenty-six applications written and examined in one day representing a total volume of applied for business amounting to $80,000, with three hundred miles registered on the speedometer of "L. M." Crandall's car between seven o'clock in the morning and twelve o'clock midnight, Wednesday, February 6th.

Additional business secured over the telephone and examined later brought the grand total of the day's reward to thirty-five applications for an even $93,000. This is the unique and extraordinary record of L. M. Crandall of Norwich. No other New England representative has ever equalled this record. Only a few other men with months of preparation have equalled so splendid a production. "L. M." we congratulate you. For three hundred and thirty-eight weeks Mr. Crandall's name has appeared on the weekly honor roll of the agency, he having written from one to 35 applications a week without missing a single week. For conspicuous merit the company has three times awarded him the Tilney bronze medal which is never issued for an annual production of less than $300,000 in any one year. On two occasions he has led all the company agents in Connecticut.

"L. M." is running ahead of his quota for this year which he has volunteered to accept at one half a million dollars worth of paid for and delivered business for 1929. He has a quota of at least four applications a week and he is also running ahead of this quota to date. Agents everywhere are wondering how he does it, in addition to working so much on fraternal, civic and financial campaigns and devotes so much time to the commercial school of which he has been principal for the past 20 years. "L. M." gives all the credit to his many friends, a splendid contract and the wonderful co-operation which he receives from every one at the state office as well as home office. His many friends are congratulating him most heartily on completing this splendid piece of work and in bringing the company's world record from San Francisco to Norwich.

GOD'S DOORWAY ALWAYS OPEN, SAYS DR. TWOMEY

Rev. M. Joseph Twomey, D. D., of Newark, N. J., continued his series of sermons Tuesday evening at the Central Baptist church, speaking before a large audience on the subject, Old Doorways. Delegations from churches in Montville, Jewett City, Plainfield and Hartford were present, as well as a delegation from the Baptist church at Danielson, where Rev. Dr. Twomey held his first pastorate 23 years ago. Rev. David A. Pitt, D. D., pastor, was the leader of the service and prayer was offered by Rev. Joseph Cooper, pastor of the Trinity Methodist church. Dr. Pitt introduced Rev. Dr. Twomey, who gave an eloquent and stirring sermon.

After expressing pleasure over the presence of his friends from Danielson and the other members of the audience, Rev. Dr. Twomey, in announcing as his topic, Old Doorways, said that I have walked through doorways that kings have walked through. Years ago I was standing on a hillside in Norway, he continued, I noticed a stone shaft. I asked a man what it represented, but he could not speak English. A little later a woman came along and I asked her. She was able to speak English and told me that it was there for a poet, the greatest poet of Norway. I went to the house where he once lived and sat where he sat; also went through the doorway he passed through.

I was walking down the street in New York on another occasion and met a man, who said to me, "Do you see that doorway? It is one of the most beautiful doorways in America. It is not beautiful in itself, but it is beautiful becau e of those who have passed through it." It was the doorway through which Theodore Roosevelt passed and he toldy me of his life.

There is a doorway in a small cabin in Kentucky, through which one of the greatest men of America passed. That man had a fine spirit and was one of the greatest souls that ever walked here. He was Abraham Lincoln.

There is another doorway through which a boy passed to give his life for his country. There is something about it that makes it different. The boy's mother said that the house will always be kept in good repair. If she were not able to do so she would keep the step and doorway. You had a doorway just like that, Rev. Dr. Twomey said. I can remember a doorway where my mother stood. You can go back to the old doorway and see your mother there and hear her voice.

There was a doorway in a house in Maine that attracted my attention. No one lives there now. I inquired and was informed that the Vergason family used to live there. I was told what they did; how the father would call the boys and girls to the doorway and looking up at the mountains, tell them of the great things that had happened. The old doorways are where the old ones stood.

A boy was leaving for college. His mother was in the doorway of the house with tears in her eyes. I wondered where his father was. I went to the barn and found him at a side door with tears streaming down his face. They were watching their boy and held high hopes for his future.

My mother believed in me. Your mother and father believed in you. When anybody despised us, they praised us, they dreamed for us. There was only one who believed in us more than our father and mother, and that was God. When Jesus came out of the doorway of heaven He left the doorway ajar and God is looking out of the doorway and waiting for you.

I noticed a light in a house late every night and asked the woman the reason for it. She told me that her boy went out through the doorway and never came back. The door had never been locked since the boy left 21 years ago. I asked her if she thought the boy would ever come back. A little later he did return and came in through that open door.

That is the way God is. His door is always open, waiting for you. That is where I've been trying to lead you Go into that old doorway of love which has never been locked since Calvary, concluded Rev. Dr. Twomey.

Preceding the evening meeting Rev. Dr. Twomey addressed the Council of Sunday School Workers at a supper meeting in Bushnell chapel. The supper was served at 6.15 o'clock and the business session was omitted to allow the members to hear Rev. Dr. Twomey. He spoke of the infuence of Sunday school teachers in bringing back old members who have wandered away from the Sunday school classes. He also told of the fact that in the penitentiary at New Jersey that only six per cent. of the inmates ever attended Sunday school.

Rev. Dr. Twomey will speak again this (Wednesday) evening at the Central church at 7.30 o'clock.

NORWICH TOWN

ILLUSTRATED ADDRESS BY REV. FRED R. BUNKER

An audience of about 100 greeted Rev. Fred R. Bunker, Sunday evening at the First Congregational chapel, when, under the auspices of the New London Association of Congregational Churches and Ministers, he gave an illustrated lecture on Life in South Africa, where he spent many years. Rev. Mr. Bunker, who had on a former occasion delighted Norwich people with his beautiful colored slides, showed about 100 Sunday evening. These depicted, in general, the life of an African boy from a baby to manhood, showing how he had developed into a missionary and is now serving his native country as such. Other pictures shown included various homes in the Dark Continent, schools, people, and the natives working in the fields, also animal pictures. The pastor, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, assisted by operating the slides.

Prior to the pictures being shown, the Young People's C. E. society, Miss Dorothy Waterman president, held its service at 6:30, with an attendance of 47. Miss Bernice Underwood was leader. The topic used was "Service—Jesus Teaching Us to Serve."

The Red and White attendance contest which is to run for several weeks commenced Sunday evening. Reginald Avery is captain of the Reds, which numbered 26, and Miss Lucile Browning is captain of the White side, with an attendance of 21, at the first meeting. At the Junior Intermediate C. E. service Sunday afternoon, Miss Sadie J. Dawson, one of the senior leaders, was in charge. The meeting was informal and somewhat brief, due to the fact that many were unable to be present owing to illness. Those present talked over future plans, and listened with interest to the talk about junior work by Miss Dawson, who also read a story about "The Righteous Penny." A quartet of small girls led in the singing in a very pleasing manner. Doris Seagraves was heard in a selection on the piano.

Sunday morning at the First Congregational church, the pastor, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, preached on "Some Characteristics of a Great Soul."

Supervisor of Agents Walter H. Phelps of the Connecticut Humane society, accompanied by his wife and their daughter, Miss Janice Phelps, of Bloomfield, also by Mr. Phelps' mother, Mrs. Ida C. Phelps, of Hartford, were callers Saturday afternoon at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Charles H. Lamb. The party motored to Norwich Town from Hartford.

Monday noon, the large police dog, six years old, belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Moran of Norwich Town, was struck by a trolley car and seriously injured. The car, which was in charge of Operator Alfred Martin, left Franklin square at 12 o'clock, going toward Yantic. At a point on East Town street, near the little old brick schoolhouse, the dog was struck by the car. A local veterinarian was sent for by the owner to examine the dog, which was running after Mrs. Moran, who was crossing Norwich Town Green. The dog is supposed to have been shut in the house, but was successful in getting out, eager to follow its mistress.

John Eyberse of Harland road returned recently from several weeks' stay in a Providence hospital, where he underwent a serious operation for appendicitis, with complications, which necessitated much treatment before he was able to return home. Mr. Eyberse is greatly improved and is regaining his strength daily.

HOME CHAPTER PLANS FOR 32ND ANNIVERSARY

The February meeting of Home Chapter of the King's Daughters was held Monday afternoon at the Johnson Home, with a good attendance. Mrs. William E. Mrs. Manning conducted the lesson assisted by members of the chapter with questions and responses. The secretary and treasurer's reports of the preceding meeting were submitted and approved. The secretary also read several letters from members who are ill, acknowledging flowers, etc. Mention was made of the 32nd anniversary of Home Chapter, which will be observed with all due significance on Monday, March 11th. At this meeting there also will be a silver collection. Mrs. George H. Prior, branch president of the King's Daughters, has been invited to attend this anniversary meeting and has accepted.

Home Chapter Sewing society has planned a meeting for this week, Thursday at the home of Mrs. Charles Copeland, of Russell Road. D., was the guest at a turkey dinner served by St. James' circle. She also attended that week, the Sunday afternoon vesper service at this church, which also was the admission service of St. James' circle of K. D. The rector, Rev. Philip M. Kerridge officiated. This was followed by a social hour with music, when tea was served. While in New London, Mrs. Manning also visited Friendship circle of the Second Congregational church, and Mizpah circle of the First Congregational church.

The meeting closed with Home chapter motto and the regular collection. The social hour which followed was under the direction of Mrs. John C. Atterbury, who substituted for the chairman of entertainment, Mrs. David M. Dean, who was unable to be present because of caring for an ill neighbor and member of the chapter. Mrs. Atterbury assisted by other members served sandwiches and coffee.

Due to so much sickness about town, it has been decided to defer meetings of the Junior Intermediate C. E. society of the First Congregational church.

The postponed meeting of Dorcas Home Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church has been planned to take place Thursday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. William Weaver.

Encouraging news was given out Tuesday to the effect that little Mary Fields was comfortable, at Backus hospital, where she underwent a surgical operation for appendicitis, Friday afternoon, following an attack of grip. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Fields, of West Town street.

Today (Ash Wednesday) the beginning of Lent, following the mass at 7:30 at Sacred Heart church, the penitential ashes will be blessed and distributed. Wednesday evening, Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament will take place, followed by the distribution of ashes. Friday evening at 7:30, again there will be Benediction.

It is not an uncommon sight when so much sickness is prevalent to see a physician, district nurse, minister or priest calling at various homes where one or more may be afflicted. Reports are current each day about one or more patients in a family perhaps recovering from an attack which has kept them confined to the bed from one to three weeks. At present in several localities many in the same household are still afflicted. In some cases the illness has been so serious, that pneumonia has threatened.

The friendly little Boston bull terrier belonging to Mr. and Mrs. William H. Whitman of 232 West Town street, died Tuesday morning, following sickness due to heart trouble. "Tony," a great pet in the family was about eleven years old, having been Mr. Whitman's companion for the past ten years. He was just a year old when he came to the family and was ever a faithful watchdog. Mrs. Whitman an enthusiastic motorist, often had him by her side, and when leaving her car, never entertained any fear of any one entering it, for it was always safely guarded by Tony.

WIDOW OF JACKSON, SLAIN DETECTIVE, COMMITS SUICIDE

Mrs. Jackson Left Note Exonerating Rice, Indicted For Murder of Her Husband

Shot Herself With Rifle About 4.15 p. m. Yesterday at Her Home in Willimantic—Daughter, Juanita, Heard the Body Fall, But Heard No Shot—Body Was Found on Bathroom Floor—Mrs. Jackson and Her Daughter Earlier in the Day Had Been Witnesses at Coroner's Inquest on the Death of Detective Jackson, Who Was Slain Sunday, Jan. 29.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 13—Driven to desperation by the spectacular events which followed the murder of her husband, County Detective William E. Jackson, at his home Tuesday night, Jan. 29, and which resulted in the indictment of Trenor A. Rice, on a charge of the murder, Jackson's widow, Mrs. Gertrude Belle Jackson, committed suicide at 4:10 o'clock this afternoon leaving behind her a note which purported to exonerate Rice of having committed the murder.

While the investigating officers, County Detective Edward J. Hickey of Hartford and Officers Arthur Hurley of this city and Rowe H. Wheeler of Munson, Mass., all flatly denied that they had seen the post-mortem note in which Mrs. Jackson evidently assumed the blame for the killing of her husband, it is known that such a note was found in the clothing of the dead woman and is now in the possession of Medical Examiner Louis I. Mason, who will turn it over to Coroner Arthur G. Bill of Danielson, who is to come here at 10 o'clock Thursday morning to further probe into the suicide of the slain man's widow.

Status of Rice Unchanged

Regardless of the existence of the note, however, there is nothing forthcoming from the investigators to indicate that it will cause any material change in the circumstances now incriminating Rice, accused of the murder. Rice, held at the county jail at Brooklyn, had not been acquainted of the suicide tonight and will probably not learn of the tragedy until some time tomorrow.

The state has built up its case against Rice and it is fully expected that he will be presented in court on a charge of first degree murder as charged by the jury. In that event it is assumed that Mrs. Jackson's decision to take her life had the dual motive of exonerating the man, who was a former boarder at her home and whom she evidently loved and trusted, and of a desperation brought on by the sensational part which she and her daughter, Juanita, had played and would continue to play in the tremendous amount of publicity given the case.

Mrs. Jackson, 49, took her own life with a .22 short calibre repeating rifle that had been used some three years ago in the suicide or murder of Francis Distefano, an Italian youth who was found dead in a lot off Meadow street, near the home of the young woman who was to have become his bride the following morning. County Detective Jackson had had possession of the gun since the wedding eve mystery.

Mrs. Jackson Smuggled Gun

The widow of the slain detective smuggled the gun, the only one of several left in the Jackson household since the night of the murder, out of a corner of the kitchen where the murder of her husband took place. The gun came directly under the guarding eye of Police Officer Pierre Marrotte, one of the guards at the Jackson home since the murder. The woman apparently secured possession of the weapon while the officer was out for a few minutes at the Jackson garage and during the absence from the house of Juanita and Mrs. Merton A. Andrews, leaving Mrs. Jackson temporarily alone this afternoon. Mrs. Jackson took the gun into another part of the house where she hid it until such time as she had use for it.

Mrs. Jackson gave no visible indication that she intended to take her life, and was preoccupied during the afternoon with material she was to use in making a dress. Miss Jackson and Mrs. Andrews, who has been constantly with the two women since the night of the murder, had been at home for about 45 minutes before the suicide. About 4 o'clock Mrs. Jackson went to the second floor and some minutes later went into the bathroom. Suddenly her daughter, Mrs. Andrews and Officer Marrotte who were sitting downstairs, heard a thud as of a falling body.

As the officer, closely followed by the two women, rushed up the stairs he heard Mrs. Jackson moan out twice, "Juanita, Juanita." As he reached the woman's side she gasped feebly twice and expired.

The woman had held the rifle with the stock against the sink and the muzzle against her breast, pointed directly for the heart. With the pressure of a finger the leaden messenger of death crashed into her breast and heart. She fell backward, striking against an electric heater as she fell. The gun dropped beside the body.

Newspaper Men Barred

Juanita called police headquarters and Chief Thomas F. Grady immediately despatched Investigating Officer Hurley and Officer Roderick Lariviere to the house. Officer Hurley in turn notified County Detective Hickey who has been leading the investigation of the murder, and who arrived in fast time from Hartford. On his orders newspaper men and others not officially connected with the case were barred from the Jackson premises.

Dr. Fred M. Smith was summoned at 4:20, but upon his arrival the woman was dead. Medical Examiner Mason was called at 4:33 and arrived at 4:42. Dr. Mason said that the woman had been dead since about 4:15 o'clock, and indicated that circumstances pointed definitely to suicide, although the formal announcement of that fact will be made by Coroner Bill.

That the two Jackson women, especially Juanita, who is now the lone survivor of the dramatic small family so suddenly visited by violent death, had begun to fear the consequences of the indictment of Trenor Rice for the murder was manifest in events which have taken place within the hours since the report of the grand jury, which convened at Putnam Monday to hear the evidence against Rice. Mrs. Jackson and Juanita have been positively identified as two of the three women who visited the home of Investigating Officer Arthur Hurley at 19 Bellevue street Tuesday night, arriving shortly after 9 o'clock and remaining for some two hours. The third woman is believed to have been Mrs. Andrews, who has been with the Jackson family for two weeks and a day. Arrangements had also been made for the removal of Rice's dog, a great Dane, and of his car from the Jackson premises to where they were taken some days after the shooting.

Much significance was attached to the actions of the Jackson women immediately following the indictment at Putnam Monday and the remanding of Rice to jail, in a scene at the court room when they rushed to him, grasped his hand and sought to cheer him, thereby making a public avowal of their trust in him.

Had Testified at Inquest

Mrs. Jackson had testified for 26 minutes at the grand jury hearing Monday but this forenoon she remained under questioning at the inquest conducted here by Coroner Bill for one hour and 12 minutes. Juanita testified for 44 minutes at the inquest, this also being longer than required before the grand jury. Their friend, Mrs. Andrews, was not presented before the grand jury, but testified for 46 minutes before the coroner. In leaving the inquest Mrs. Jackson and daughter rushed across the courthouse lawn here to their car to avoid a newspaper photographer.

Mrs. Gertrude Belle Tracy Jackson was born in Lebanon Aug. 16, 1879, the daughter of George A. and Mary Browne Tracy. She leaves beside her daughter, Juanita, one sister, Mrs. Everett Thorne, of Hartford. Her father was well known in this city as a milkman and a breeder of pedigreed collie dogs. William E. Jackson and Mrs. Jackson were married in this city by the rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church in 1903. Two children were born to them, Juanita, who survives, and William E., Jr., who died about 18 months ago. The county detective never recovered from the loss of his son. Mrs. Jackson and her daughter went into deep mourning upon his death, remaining in black up to and since the murder of their husband and father.

An autopsy will be performed on the body of Mrs. Jackson, which has been removed to the undertaking rooms of Avery & VanZandt.

"SUBWAY SLASHER" AGAIN AT WORK IN BOSTON

BOSTON, Feb. 13—(AP)—The so-called "subway slasher" numbered his seventh victim today, when he attacked Adelaide Getchell, 20-year-old Charlestown girl.

As in previous instances, the girl was not injured, only her clothing being cut. Miss Getchell told the police she noticed a young man about 25 years old, dark complexioned and dressed in dark clothing, staring at her while riding on a subway train. She felt several tugs at her clothing and left the train at the next station. She then discovered that her clothing had been damaged in several places by a sharp instrument.

Lindbergh Has Arrived At Miami

Had Cruised in Search of Missing Dunten Plane, Which Had Been Found in Meantime.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 13—(AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh landed at the Pan-American airport here at 4.46 p. m., after a four and a half hour air cruise over the ocean near Key West in search of the stranded plane carrying R. I. Dunten and Lieutenant Steven Callaway.

Word that Dunten, operations manager of the Pan-American Airways corporation and Callaway, his pilot, had been found by a ferry, was received at the field about 15 minutes after Col. Lindbergh hopped off to join the search for them.

There was no way of notifying the trans-Atlantic flier of the safety of the two men he was seeking. Dunten and Callaway were little the worse for their night spent in floating among the Florida keys.

TWO AIRMEN WERE RESCUED BY FERRYBOAT

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 13—(AP)—A ferryboat plying between two Florida keys, today rescued two airmen and their amphibian plane while skippers and aviators headed by Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh searched the seas for them.

R. I. Dunten, operations manager of Pan-American Airways, Inc., and his pilot, Lieutenant Steven Callaway, were taken off their amphibian plane and the craft taken in tow by an automobile ferry sixty miles northeast of Key West and landed at No-Name key none the worse for their experience.

They were forced down southeast of Key West yesterday by motor trouble.

Later the two aviators were brought here in a plane sent to the key for them, arriving shortly after Colonel Charles Lindbergh returned to the landing field here after a four and a half hour search.

STEAMERS IN DISTRESS OFF COAST OF ALASKA

SEATTLE, Wash., Feb. 13—(AP)—Battling high seas in a dying sub-Arctic storm, the steamship Illinois today reached the side of the grounded Japanese freighter Meiyo Maru, ashore on the rocky coast of a small islet in the Aleutian archipelago, about 100 miles from Dutch harbor, Alaska.

Tremendous breakers extending far out into the sea, from the barren coast of Akiktak, or Ugamak Island, where the Meiyo Maru was being pounded to pieces, prevented the Illinois from sending out lifeboats to take off the 25 Japanese seamen, the captain of the Illinois wirelessed.

For that reason a Lyle gun was made ready to shoot a line aboard the Japanese freighter, preparatory to rigging a breeches buoy.

Meanwhile Capt. Richard J. Healy of the freighter Montauk had taken 33 members of the crew of the abandoned steamer Alloway Stemer to Dutch harbor after a heroic rescue yesterday.

The crew of the Alloway, with the exception of one man, an oiler named Poley, who refused to leave his ship, escaped in lifeboats and were picked up by Captain Healy when the tow line with which the Montauk was bringing the Alloway to safety at Dutch harbor, snapped as the two ships were maneuvering the entrance to Unimak pass. Today the radio station at Dutch harbor was advised the Alloway still was holding her anchors, but her stern was swinging perilously close to the rocks and the ship was expected to go ashore at any moment.

BILL WOULD ABOLISH OFFICE OF CORONER

STATE CAPITOL, HARTFORD, Feb. 13—(AP)—A bill drawn up in the judiciary committee as a substitute or elucidation of that which would abolish the office of coroner, will come up for hearing Feb. 20. The bill divides the authority now exercised by the coroner between the medical examiner and the state police commissioner, though it leaves with the medical examiner some of the authority he already has.

Much opposition is expected to this bill from attorneys and adherents of coroners, as well as from coroners. The supporting faction will probably be built up around medical examiners and those who favor elimination of obsolete legislation, "obsolete" being a description given by proponents of the proposed measure to the act creating the office of coroner.

Higgins Now Head Of Salvation Army

Has Been Elected by High Council to Succeed Bramwell Booth, Adjudicated Unfit.

SUNBURY-ON-THAMES, England, Feb. 13—(AP)—The high council of the Salvation Army tonight elected Commissioner Edward J. Higgins, general of the army, succeeding Bramwell Booth.

The council moved swiftly to confirm its action earlier today when Bramwell Booth was adjudicated unfit for service by a vote of 55 to 8.

The new commander in chief of the Salvation Army is an Englishman occupying heretofore the post of chief of staff. He has been in close touch with the international headquarters at London and, at the same time, has been regarded as highly acceptable to the American commissioners because of his knowledge of conditions in the United States. The new general lived for eight years at Mount Vernon, N. Y.

FLU AND MORTALITY DECREASING IN THE U. S.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—(AP)—Surgeon General Cumming of the public health service said today that while influenza prevalence and mortality in the United States still are decreasing, there is as yet no indication that the predicted second and more severe wave of the disease will not materialize.

Reports from 41 states, the District of Columbia and New York city today showed a total of 16,612 new cases during the week ending Feb. 9, compared with 25,129 in the same territory during the preceding week.

"This is a substantial decrease," Dr. Cumming said, "but with more than 16,000 cases reported in one week it is impossible to believe the epidemic has subsided to near normal conditions."

Information he has received from Europe indicates that the outbreak there is widespread and in some places serious, he added.

"State reports in this country indicate the outbreak is subsiding in many sections," he said, "but the prevalence is still increasing in some parts. Texas, for instance, had a large increase during the past week. The outbreak in New England is far from over. There has been as yet no definite indication that the present wave will not be followed by a more severe outbreak during the months of cold weather still ahead."

ELECTION OF HOOVER ANNOUNCED BY CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—(AP)—Congress met in joint session today and went through the ceremony of apprising itself officially of the fact that Herbert Hoover and Charles Curtis had been chosen president and vice president, respectively, of the United States, for the next four years.

Observing the constitutional formula, the tellers of the two houses announced the result of the election in each state, arrived at a total, and this was made known to the congress by Vice President Dawes with instructions that it be recorded in the journals of the two houses.

The vice president made the formal declaration that of the 531 electoral votes, Herbert Hoover had received 444 and Alfred E. Smith 87 for president, and Charles Curtis, 444, and Joseph T. Robinson, 87, for vice president, then he announced the session dissolved and induced the senators to return to the senate.

COLDEST WEATHER EUROPE HAS KNOWN IN 200 YEARS

Governments Are Calling on Each Other For Aid—Death Has Come to Whole Groups in the Balkan States—Many Communities Face Semi-Starvation Because of the Stoppage of Food Supplies—Breakdown of Transportation Has Affected Shipping as Well as Railroads.

LONDON, Feb. 13—(AP)—Europe which has been congealing for a week under a cold wave of greater intensity than some sections had known for 200 years, began today to feel the full effects of the arctic visitation. Coal and food have become the crying needs of some countries, while the governments of others were trying to find means of halting threatened shortages in these necessities of life.

All of Europe, except Spain and the southerly portions of the Italian and Balkan peninsulas, have been affected by the weather. Death has come to whole groups in the Balkan states, influenza has increased in intensity and many communities face semi-starvation because of the stoppage of food supplies.

At the other end of the continent, in the far north of the Scandinavian peninsula, temperatures have been above normal. There is, however the usual amount of winter in those regions.

Swedish meteorologists, said a report from Stockholm, believe that the unprecedented cold has been caused by higher tempegatures in the gulf stream. They have heard that these have been five degrees centigrade more than usual and they think that this has interrupted the regular atmospheric pressure fields. The result has been high barometer records over central Europe accompanied by constant easterly winds bringing extreme cold.

The breakdown in transportation has affected waterways as well as railroads. Even the Scandinavian countries, equipped for fighting the effects of frost, have found their facilities strained by the unprecedented conditions in the Baltic and the straits leading to that sea. Northern German ports are having difficulty in keeping entrance lanes open and fuel has become the need of the north, just as in the less hardened countries of the south.

Governments are calling on each other for aid. Austria's envoys made personal appeals to the executives of Poland and Czechoslovakia for coal while Sweden and Germany asked Finland for the loan of ice breakers with which to fight against the frost king's attack on their seaways.

England has had an appreciable cold snap but has escaped most of the ills that have been visited upon the continent. The most noticeable effect has been upon sports, especially dog racing and cross-country horse racing events. Several of these contests have been postponed. The National Skating association, however, is going ahead with an uninterrupted program.

COLD WEATHER CAUSE OF DEATHS IN ALSACE

STRASBOURG, France, Feb. 13—(AP)—Five persons have died in Alsace as a direct outcome of the cold weather which has been gripping France. The cold wave is reported to have killed or damaged most of the grapevines in the province whose products have a high reputation in Europe. Temperatures in Alsace ranged as low as 30 degrees below zero.

ICE BARRIER BETWEEN GERMANY AND SWEDEN

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Feb. 13—(AP)—Severe cold and an incessant easterly wind have combined to erect a tremendous ice barrier between Germany and Sweden, forming at times a complete blockade of traffic in the Baltic. Conditions are especially threatening in the three straits between Sweden, the Danish Isles and the continent.

The safety of ships has not only been jeopardized but the ice heaped up in those waters has threatened a blockade that would shut off supplies of coal and paralyze sea traffic. In the Cattegat and the Sound, 136 steamers are fast and are awaiting the arrival of a big ice-breaker belonging to this municipality.

GERMAN SCHOOLS CLOSED TO CONSERVE FUEL

BERLIN, Feb. 13—(AP)—Schools and similar institutions were being closed by many German communities today to conserve fuel and prevent a threatened cold weather catastrophe. The federal government has two battleships at work in the Baltic sea smashing lanes to ice-bound vessels of all nationalities.

Airplanes have been used to locate distressed boats and have found more than 30 in German waters. About two dozen other craft reported their locations by wireless and Lufthansa has been commissioned to send planes out over the North sea and the Baltic to carry water and provisions to isolated mariners.

Here in Berlin the municipal council ordered all schools closed for a week and also shut up all public baths. Some of the largest industrial plants said they had fuel only for another week.

CRUISER BILL SIGNED BY PRESIDENT COOLIDGE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—(AP)—Overlooking his objection to its time restriction clause, President Coolidge today approved the naval construction bill under which 15 cruisers and one aircraft carrier will be laid down before July 1, 1931.

The measure was signed shortly after the president had conferred with leaders of both parties in congress on means of providing money for beginning the construction, and of preventing the enactment of other measures calling for expenditures in the present fiscal year.

The budget bureau has recommended that $35,000,000 to $40,000,000 be appropriated under the bill for use in the 1929-1930 fiscal year, with a small amount, as yet unspecified, available for the current year. Chairman Hale of the senate naval committee, who attended today's conference, predicted that the appropriation would be included in the annual navy department supply bill which is now in conference.

Under the terms of the measure, five cruisers of 10,000 tons each, the maximum tonnage allowed by the Washington treaty, must be laid down in each of the fiscal years of 1929, 1930 and 1931, with work started on the aircraft carrier, a vessel of 13,800 tons, before the expiration of that period.

ASK HIGHER DUTIES ON PAPER AND PRODUCTS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP)—A billion dollar American industry employing 130,000 workers in the production of paper and paper products paraded a long line of witnesses before the house ways and means committee today seeking higher duties on 21 of the 74 items covered in this section of the tariff law.

Speaking for the industry as a whole, D. C. Everest, of the American Paper and Pulp association, told the committee that economic conditions since the 1922 act was passed and classifications which permitted wholesale evasions of the customs laws, made it essential that these revisions be made in the new act.

Other witnesses spoke for their particular branches of the industry, calling attention particularly to a revolution which has taken place in the last few years in the production of fancy decorated papers, box coverings, light weight papers for envelope lining, for fancy stationery and cover paper for radio loud speakers.

PENITENTIARY SENTENCE FOR CHICAGO COUNCILMAN

CHICAGO, Feb. 13—(AP)—A two-year penitentiary sentence and fine of $11,000 were handed Titus A. Haffa, Chicago councilman and formerly political lieutenant of Mayor William Hale Thompson in federal court today. He was convicted last week of operating a $5,000,000 liquor ring.

Four others were found guilty with him and received less severe sentences on the charge of conspiracy to violate the national prohibition law.

They were: Sam Simons, Haffa's chief lieutenant, sentenced to 18 months and fined $3,000; Edward Hug, an aide, a year and a day in the penitentiary and fined $3,000; Joseph Bagheria, president of the Republican Boosters club in Haffa's ward, one year and a day and a $3,000 fine, and Henry Murray, a minor defendant, three months in jail and a $200 fine.

INDIAN PRINCES TO BE LOYAL TO BRITISH CROWN

NEW DELHI, India, Feb. 13—(AP)—Ruling princes of 40 Indian states today expressed unswerving loyalty to the British crown and deprecated the attitude of native leaders of British India who have been advocating a Dominion status for the country with complete independence in the background. The princes passed a resolution setting forth that any negotiations between themselves and British India must proceed on a basis of loyalty to Great Britain.

Lord Irwin, viceroy of India, presided over the conference, which constituted the chamber of princes. The resolution was moved by the Maharajah of Patiala, and seconded by the Maharajah of Kashmir.

The mover of the resolution said in offering it that any permanent adjustment of the Indian situation must take into account the interests of the Indian states, British India and Great Britain. The Maharajah of Kashmir said he looked forward to a form of federation, rather than independence with accompanying isolation, as the ideal for the Indian states, but under the aegis of the British crown.

MISS MORROW DELUGED WITH CONGRATULATIONS

Miss Morrow, blushingly unaccustomed to such a dizzy height of international fame, spent most of the day noting the signatures of her well-wishers. These included former school friends, relatives, friends of her family and a distinguished list of men and women known in world affairs. Some messages were received even from persons whom Miss Morrow did not know and whose chief reason for sending the messages was their interest in Colonel Lindbergh and his romantic digression from aviation.

HOOVER TO END FLORIDA VACATION NEXT WEEK

MIAMI Beach, Fla., Feb. 13—(AP)—President-elect Hoover will wind up his Florida vacation early next week, returning to Washington Monday or Tuesday to clear up a number of matters which must receive his attention before March 4.

These include his completion of his inaugural address, finill plans for the extra session of the 71st congress in April for the enactment of farm relief and tariff revision and conferences with a number of party leaders.

Announcement that the next president would return to the national capital nearly two weeks in advance of his inauguration was made today at his headquarters at Belle Isle and followed his sudden return here yesterday from a projected four day fishing trip on the west coast of Florida below Fort Myers.

PROCEEDINGS IN GENERAL ASSEMBLY

(Special to The Bulletin)

HARTFORD, Feb. 13—The house received several favorable reports today from the judiciary committee and two unfavorable. The creation of another judicial system for taking care of motor vehicle trials was not met with their favor. A bill, introduced from Waterbury, that would reduce the salaries of the judges and prosecutors of the city court of Waterbury, fell by the wayside as its only supporter was some one who evidently had a grievance. The use of the hall of the house was granted the committee on education on March 27, as a large gathering is expected on that day.

Committees were busy with a great variety of bills before them, many of them being "freaks." Before the finance committee Mr. Diana of New Haven had a bill that imposes a penalty of $20 upon any elector who did not vote at any state municipal or town election and if he did vote his personal tax was to be remitted.

The judiciary committee were considering an act providing a pension for Winifred M. Skelly, a disabled school teacher of Norwich. Another bill before them would authorize the Thames Street Union Evangelical society of New London to convey its property.

The committee on fish and game hearing had a large attendance. Several bills affecting grouse, pheasants and quail were before them. The opinion among the speakers was unanimous that it would be well to have a closed season till October, 1930, thus affording two breeding seasons. Some bills would open the season on quail and others would continue the ban that is now upon it. Some wanted a longer and some a shorter season on pheasants. From the number of conflicting bills that are before this committee it is evident that there will be some warm discussion. A large number of reports, pro and con, will be in within a few days.

The judiciary has hearings listed up to February 27. The bill concerning jury service for women is set for hearing in the hall of the house for March 20th.

The bill providing for a state athletic commission is on the calender and will probably come up for action this week. The bill is as follows:

Section 1. Section four of chapter 243 of the public acts of 1925 is amended to read as follows: The state athletic commissioner shall have sole control of and jurisdiction over all boxing exhibitions and wrestling bouts held, conducted or given within

CORONER STARTS INQUEST IN JACKSON MURDER

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 13—Coroner Arthur G. Bill of Danielson commenced his inquest into the death of County Detective William E. Jackson at the local police headquarters Wednesday morning. Six witnesses were heard during the morning session and when a recess was taken, Coroner Bill announced that Trenor A. Rice, under indictment for the murder, would not be brought to this city for the proceedings but eventually would be questioned at the county jail in Brooklyn, where he is being held without bail. The suicide of Mrs. Jackson late this afternoon may cause a change in the coroner's plans.

The first witness to be presented before the coroner was Dr. Fred M. Smith who was followed by Mrs. Gertrude Jackson, widow of the slain detective. She remained in the inquest chamber one hour and twelve minutes, being followed by her daughter, Miss Juanita Jackson, her daughter, who was questioned for about three-quarters of an hour. Mrs. Jackson and her daughter arrived at police headquarters to appear before the coroner, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Merton Andrews of this city. Mrs. Andrews, who was not a witness at the grand jury hearing, was questioned briefly by the coroner. Joseph F. Paulhus of 1705 West Main street and Officer John Shea of the local police department also gave testimony before the recess was declared.

The afternoon session commenced at 1:30 o'clock, the first witness being Gerard E. Loiselle, Norwich Bulletin correspondent, who was followed by Gilbert P. Flynn. Other witnesses were Miss Irene Mannick of Trapella Road, Mrs. George Despathy of the same thoroughfare, Miss Eva Ellis and the little niece of the last-mentioned, Lillian M. Billings. Mrs. Despathy's daughter, Medora, was summoned to appear before the coroner but was not called.

The inquest was concluded for the day at 2:40 o'clock and soon after Coroner Bill returned to Danielson. He said that the inquest was not completed and that there were other witnesses he wished to question. The three investigators in the case, County Detective Edward J. Men Who Guard Their Health Smoke Cigars

A cigar is smoked for enjoyment and taste, slowly and quietly, not a mere nervous habit or craving. The day's end does not find the cigar smoker tired, with nerves a-flutter, throat irritation and mouth parched.

Perhaps the basic reason for the great prevalence of throat trouble is the irritating action of HOT tobacco smoke on the very sensitive membrane of the mouth and throat.

Cigar smoke is cool, because the tobacco burns slowly and the smoke is filtered and cooled as it is drawn through the cigar itself. To really test cigars with justice to yourself and to cigars, we suggest the test to be made with

DANIELSON

KILLINGLY DOGS WILL BE INDEFINITELY QUARANTINED

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 13—The prospect this afternoon was that all dogs in the town of Killingly will be in quarantine by the end of this week. Dog Warden Charles E. Ayer said today that a quarantine will be for an indefinite period. Under its provision no dog will be allowed at large, but kept carefully confined, either in some building or chained on the premises of the owner.

The order is the result of the killing of a rabid dog the past week end in Goodyear. However, it has been established that this particular dog has been roaming about Danielson as well as in Dayville, Goodyear and Attawaugan. There is no means of knowing how many animals the dog bit before being killed, but it is believed that the number is about 15. Three persons also have been bitten by the animal, one of them a child who has since gone to Warren, R. I. Rhode Island authorities have been notified to seek out the child and suggest that the Pasteur treatment be given.

It developed today that a horse was bitten on the nose by the dog that has proved to be the cause of the effort now to be made by the state to check any possibility of the spread of the rabies. The dogs that were attacked by the mad one have been ordered confined. What disposition will be made of them had not been determined today.

Special Agent Chauncey Genung of the domestic animal bureau continued his work here today checking up on the case and seeking for additional dogs or other animals that may have been bitten.

SECOND INFLUENZA DEATH IN THE BROWN FAMILY

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 13—John Brown, aged Foster farmer, joined his wife, Celinda Slater Brown, in death last night and both bodies are now at A. F. Wood's funeral home on Mechanic street, while preparations went on today for a double funeral. Mrs. Brown's funeral was originally scheduled for Thursday, but Mr. Brown's death has brought about a change in that arrangement. He was 72 years of age.

Mrs. Brown died Monday evening. Mr. Brown during Tuesday night at the home in Foster, six miles east of here and just over the Connecticut line in Rhode Island. Both were victims of influenza. At the time of Mrs. Brown's death Mr. Brown's condition was not regarded as sufficiently serious as to indicate that his end was so near at hand.

Mr. Brown was a native of Foster, a son of Andrew and Martha Hopkins Brown. He had lived in that town all of his life, as had generations of his ancestors. Throughout the active years of his life he was engaged in farming. One son, J. Lester Brown, survives, and is now left alone at the old homestead.

FUNERAL.

Nason Oatley.

This afternoon at A. F. Wood's funeral home services for Nason Oatley were conducted by Rev. Albert Abbott of the Methodist Episcopal church, with numbers of relatives and friends attending. Burial was in Westfield cemetery. The bearers were Alcott D. Sayles, Dana Shippee, Byron Billington and Walter Y. Wood, all of East Killingly, where Mr. Oatley spent many years of his life.

Dr. Winfield Scott Hall, noted hygienist who has been speaking in Windham county this week under the auspices of the County Y. M. C. A., last evening addressed a meeting arranged by the Tri-Y Girls at the Westfield Congregational church. The members had invited members of boys' groups affiliated with the Y. M. C. A. and also their mothers. Dr. Hall first addressed the boys, afterwards the mothers and their daughters and then the mothers separately. Dr. Hall's talks were followed by a recreational hour.

The prospect appears to be just now that Danielson again will be facing a housing shortage by mid-summer, when Powdrell and Alexander will be operating the Connecticut Mills plant, which has been idle for a year. Though this mill has not been operating practically every home that the Connecticut Mills company built is occupied. The majority of these meanwhile have been sold off and now are the property of individuals. Very few rents are available in Danielson even now. With the mill working there appears almost a certainty of a house shortage. Over a dozen years ago Danielson began a home building program that has resulted in the erection of many houses, but has never quite caught up with the demand for rents.

Motor coach travel through Danielson now includes an increasing number of coaches operating on the Boston-New York run, via Providence and Hartford. There is a heavy run of traffic on this line week ends, when some of the coaches run through here in the daytime. Few people excepting those who stay up very late or are very early risers ever see the big Boston-New York coaches, for they are scheduled through Danielson between 1 a. m. and around 6 a. m., unless they see them on a Saturday afternoon when extras are being run.

The influenza epidemic that appeared to be abating through this territory a week or ten days ago appears to have taken on a new ease of life and is attacking humanity with vigor. While all ages of people have been afflicted in nearby territory the illness has dealt most severely with people of advanced years. Few serious cases of the illness have been noted among young people, though there have been some, but with the aged the attack has resulted in a considerable number of deaths.

Miss Claudia Bernier of Reynolds street and Louis Dascoli of Moosup were married Monday evening at St. James' church by Rev. J. A. Demers. Witnesses were Oscar Bernier and Van Beroler, brothers of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Dascoli are to live in Moosup, where the groom is engaged in business.

President E. B. Wilbur of the chamber of commerce is having data collected for use in a pamphlet to be published by the chamber to set forth facts or interest pertaining to this town and for distribution in quarters from which some benefits may be derived.

Coroner Arthur G. Bill was in Willimantic today proceeding with the inquest in the County Investogator W. E. Jackson case.

The newly organized Killingly High school band held its first rehearsal this week, and hereafter will hold such rehearsals regularly on Mondays under Director Messinger.

J. Carl Witter was in Hartford today attending a meeting that brought together lovers of horses from various parts of the state.

This morning a "33" call sent the firemen scurrying down onto Furnace street to extinguish a chimney fire at the A. Zipkin place. There was no damage to the property.

Friday of next week, Washington's birthday, will be a holiday for pupils in the schools of the town of Killingly.

Civil actions are being instituted in Danielson and various communities hereabouts against business men who have not paid their state taxes. Legal costs attached to the settlement makes the cost considerably more than it would have been in prompt payment had been made.

Despite the campaign of Fire Chief Ralph E. Thurston against the excessive number of chimney fires which occur, these minor blazes, chiefly the faults of the property owners continue to make work for the firemen daily. A four stroke alarm for a chimney fire in a house on Powhatton street called the members of the hook and ladder company out Tuesday evening shortly after six o'clock. No damage resulted from this fire. A second call of the same nature received this morning at eleven o'clock brought the firemen to clean out another soot-filled chimney at the corner of School and May street. No fire loss was experienced.

Martin B. Robertson addressed the members of the Putnam Rotary club at their weekly luncheon held today at the Putnam Inn. Mr. Robertson spoke on the "Growth of Rotary." The international organization will enter upon its 24th year this month. In nearly a quarter of a century it has become recognized as one of the largest business men's organization in the world and continues to expand daily. Mr. Robertson's talk was interesting and was well received by the members of the organization.

The program commenced at 8 oclock with the new president, Ralph Hopkins, in the chair. The entertainment consisted of readings by Mrs. Carl Gallup who responded to an enthusiastic encore. James Royle sang The Village Blacksmith, which was well received, his son Alfred Royle being at the piano. The president presented as the speaker of the evening, Rev. Gurdon P. Mr. Bailey was listened to closely as he touched upon details in the life of the great man, relating dramatic incidents in the career, bringing out leading features in the character, making his strong climax on the magnanimity of this great American. All were agreed that it was one of the strongest addresses ever given before the club. Dwight W. FADA Radio

The inside story

MAYBE you don't understand the insides of a radio...lots of people don't. But the things inside make fine radio. And every modern improvement is in the beautiful console of the Fada 32 . . . for only $225.

You may not know, for instance, the significance of heater element tubes, or the meaning of push-pull amplification . . . but that doesn't alter their vast importance to perfect reproduction. Perhaps you can't explain the difference between a dynamic and magnetic speaker . . . but your ear quickly tells you that the dynamic speaker gives you far greater depth and tonal range. And you don't have to understand a phonograph attachment to enjoy the superior tone of your favorite records, heard through the dynamic speaker of your Fada radio.

The story of Fada 32 value is in its specifications. They tell you that no other radio of this quality has ever offered so much for its price. Just hear a Fada 32 at any Fada dealer's. Then you'll know that here, at last, is truly fine radio for only $225.

ORDERING THE CRUISERS.

In keeping with expectations the president has attached his name to the cruiser bill which authorizes the construction of 15 new cruisers and a plane carrier, all of which are to be laid down within the next two years. This puts an end to the efforts which have been made to prevent the passage of this bill, and the replacement of ships in the navy, because of the ratification of the Kellogg peace treaty and the belief that for the former to follow the latter would be inconsistent.

President Coolidge advocated the construction of the cruisers. He presented to congress the need of such action in order that provision might be made for the proper defense of this country. But while he was desirous that the cruisers be authorized he was equally anxious that there be no definite time set for the construction of the warships. He was prepared to see that the work was not delayed but he didn't consider it necessary to set a date. He was concerned with the prevention of outlays which would be larger than conditions of the treasury would warrant.

Thus while he backed the cruisers and opposed the time limit it was within his right, if he considered it wise and necessary, to apply his veto to the bill. Evidently as the result of study and conferences he has reached the conclusion that the measure ought not to be interrupted and that outlays can and probably will be kept within bounds so as not to force a deficit.

There isn't anything which Mr. Coolidge balks at much more than a deficit, and in view of the fight that he had made against it and the pleas for economy and conformity with the budget he could not consistently do otherwise. His judgment has been particularly sound in this respect and the country has repeatedly experienced benefits therefrom which are of lasting value not only to the government but to the individual. In the signing of the cruiser bill there is no other conclusion than that he regards it as of much importance for the country.

READY TO SELL.

After giving careful consideration to the bids which were received for the two steamship lines, and studying them from all angles, it is the judgment of the shipping board that a sale should be made to P. W. Chapman & Co. This is the bid that will net the government a higher figure than the book value placed on these ships and the attitude of the board has been communicated to the senate committee which is investigating the bids and the bidders.

Here we find the experts, who have been named to handle the shipping interests of the country relative to the merchant marine, favorably inclined to a disposition of some of the best vessels the government owns. They are in sympathy with the administration's policy to get rid of the ships and turn the business over to private enterprise just as soon as a favorable opportunity presents itself because they believe they have obtained a fair offer and because they are satisfied that the bidder is able and intends to carry out the requirements of maintaining and enlarging the service in which those ships are engaged.

There has appeared, as yet, no good reason why the senate committee should have felt it necessary to rush in and go over the ground which the board has already covered. It is to be hoped that it will not be prolonged to the point where the deal will be abandoned, unless it develops that there are reasons, not now known, why it should not be consummated. The board is called upon to govern its action by senatorial committee declarations. It naturally feels that there is nothing but what can stand the fullest inquiry and it has placed the cards on the table as far as it is concerned. Now it remains for the committee to do its work promptly, render its decision and give the reasons for it. The shipping board has struck a stride that ought to be handicapped in no way, and from the announcement that it has 253 more ships for sale it would appear to be desirous of complying with the administration's wishes, although at such a late date that it may run over into the next.

DISCUSSING REPARATIONS.

The reparation experts are at it but in such a manner that it is difficult to tell just what is being accomplished. The closed session, closed even to the extent of having the shades drawn tight, make it impossible for information to get out except in limited quantities, and that is their object. Executive sessions were ever thus. What they want known is told, the rest remains a secret.

Thus when we are told that Dr Schacht of Germany in presenting the attitude of that country concerning future reparation payments has said that Germany cannot contingent to pay the annuities fixed in the Dawes plan, we are not told on what he bases this view, or how his presentation of the case of his country compares with the recent report that was made by Agent General Gilbert in charge of reparations.

That they differ is apparent. Mr. Gilbert took the position that Germany was in condition to meet the requirements under the Dawes plan. There were those who were disposed to take exception to his estimate of the conditions in Germany but there was also a disposition to accept it upon a careful study of its statements. From the report given out at Paris Mr. Gilbert and Dr. Schacht are not in agreement, but it remains for the experts to pass judgment upon which is right and that they evidently intend to do before making public the discussions which take place.

Of course, if Germany presents its case in the most favorable light to itself it is only what is to be expected. Germany has invariably claimed that it could not do what was asked of it. Even after concessions have been made there has been a disposition to feel that the burden was too great. Nevertheless when the time has come to meet the requirements it has invariably done so, and it will not be surprising now if Germany looks upon what it can pay in a different light than the others.

The problem before the experts is not going to be solved according to German suggestions. Conditions are bound to be considered with their bearing upon the countries involved and world conditions. If the facts justify a moderation of the Dawes plan we can expect something will be done, but they will have to be facts, not mere claims. Without a doubt Germany is justified in asking that it be told what its total payment must be.

GAS TAXES.

From Maine comes the expression of fear that there is danger of the gasoline taxes, if they persist in their upward trend, becoming so prohibitive as to seriously handicap the farmers.

This view is taken because of the increased use to which the farmer is putting gasoline in the operation of tractors, stationary engines and in running other farm machinery.

In most states the gasoline tax is imposed for the purpose of providing funds for the construction of highways. In some like Connecticut it is restricted to the building and maintenance of highways, but in certain others there is distribution for other purposes or in a slightly different manner. However it was a method of taxation that was decided upon because those who wanted the improved roads were those who used gasoline for the propulsion of their vehicles. Therefore they received a direct benefit for the tax paid. It was as it should be.

When it comes to the farmer who uses gasoline for the purposes which do not involve the use of the highway, the situation changes. For the tax from tractors used in plowing or similar farm work, from stationary gasoline engines which run machinery whether on the farm or elsewhere, from the launch or larger boat that has no use for a highway to be exacted for the purpose of road building is by no means justified, and it is only right that Maine should so regard it. It is quite as unjust as it would be for the auto owners to be taxed for the purpose of building new state institutions or of establishing a sinking fund to pay off a state's indebtedness. Auto owners are bearing a heavy burden of taxation but even so they do not expect unjust taxes to be placed upon others to provide benefits for them.

SERVICE PUBLIC CONVENIENCE.

Thomas H. MacDonald, chief of the United States bureau of public roads does not believe that it is a sound policy to grant the right to collect a private profit from the use of the highway. His opinion is expressed against toll bridges and toll roads. He doesn't stand alone in this attitude, but it is to be remembered that it is seldom the case that such a right is granted.

Where toll bridges are permitted it is invariably the case that there is no highway. It is at a point where slow and inconvenient ferries are encountered, where expense must be encountered in getting across a stream, where there is an endless amount of kicking because of delay and where there is a break in the highway that ought to be ended.

It may well be held that towns or the state ought to meet the expense of a bridge at such a point, but that doesn't bring about such action. For various reasons they may not be able to do so, but if they were it is only fair that those who are willing to pay the ferry toll should pay the bridge toll until the construction cost is met. When states cannot or are not willing to shoulder the cost of a bridge the granting to private companies of the right to construct a bridge and collect toll at such a point doesn't alter the situation provided the state reserves the right to regulate the tolls and to take the bridge over when it desires.

Plenty of autoists know the advantage of such a convenience, know how much better it is than a slow and overburdened ferry and know that for the better service they pay no larger fees. There may be instances where the private toll bridge is burdensome but there are likewise those where it is a blessing. Much depends upon the restrictions established at the time of construction.

UMBRELLA TO LEND

When, at 5 o'clock, it commenced to rain, Donald decided to make an evening of it at the office and clean up some routine work which had fallen behind. As he turned from the doorway of the big building, where he had been contemplating the downpour, he was surprised to see the dainty Miss Helen Homer step out of the elevator in front of him.

"Where's your umbrella?" he inquired.

"I didn't bring one. I was too optimistic this morning," Miss Homer said.

"You can't very well go out in that," said Donald, indicating the doors, against which the rain was beating.

"But I must," said Miss Homer, holding up the music case she was carrying. "I have a music lesson at 5:30." Donald rose to the occasion at once.

"Well, look here. I have a folding umbrella upstairs. This rain won't last long and I'm going to work for three hours at least. I'll run up and get it."

Despite her protests, Donald went up and returned with the trick umbrella. His answer to her objections was to show her how to use it opened and closed. Standing in the doorway he unfurled it, let Miss Homer slip past him and under the umbrella and watched her go through the swirling rain until she was lost in the crowd.

A month later, for the tenth time at least, Miss Homer started back in mock terror as she met Donald in the corridoor.

"Oh! Mr. Frazier!" she exclaimed. "You must think I'm just terrible. Mother has scolded me for neglecting to bring your umbrella down with me."

"I'm not worrying, Miss Homer," said Donald. "I guess it's in good hands."

He strode down the hall in sudden embarrassment, yet with a certain satisfaction. It wasn't, it seemed, so difficult to make the gallant remarks he heard other fellows making to girls.

Two months passed. This time they met at the door on the way home in the evening.

"I don't know what to say, Mr. Frazier," said Miss Homer, looking adorably disturbed. "You must think I haven't a brain in my head. I've forgotten it again!"

"Oh, that's all right," protested Donald. "I guess—I guess it's in good hands." That remark returned to pester him for a month. Imagine—pulling the same remark twice! And with a whole month in between to think up a smart one.

Every time he thought of the inanity o fsuch a blunder he clenched his fists and mentally writhed. Such a trite remark.

A third month passed, and Donald's umbrella was still in Miss Homer's possession.

Then one evening Donald once again stayed late at the office. When about 8:30 the down-going elevator paused at his floor, he found Miss Homer in it, her music case in her hand.

It seemed to him that she avoided mention of the umbrella. Hitherto it had been her custom to berate herself. Tonight she explained that she had gone for her usual music lesson, and had then returned to the office to help with some rush work.

Donald had had a month in which to think over what he would say if the subject of the umbrella came up. It didn't—but he said it anyway.

"I guess I'll just have to see you home this evening, Miss Homer, and then you can give me that trick umbrella of mine." He possessed himself of her music case and went home with her.

What other things he may have said to Miss Homer on that and on many other evenings which followed, remain their secret. At any rate, within three month sthey were engaged, and within the year, married.

"You know," he said, "you're so efficient in everything that I've never been able to understand why I had to call for that umbrella of mine." Mrs. Frazier, nee Homer, looked long at him, and was melted by his guiltlessness.

"Silly," she said. "I had it in my music case the evening you insisted on coming home with me," and ran to hide her face against his shoulder.—Exchange.

Glaucoma Sometimes Mistaken For Incipient Senile Cataract

By Dr. C. F. Yerger, Chicago.

Glaucoma is a disease of the eye in which the eye becomes hard and tense due to increased intra-ocular tension, which may be due to an increased inflow or a diminished outflow of the intra-ocular lymph fluid of the eye. It is one of the most malignant diseases of the eye that without early and appropriate treatment leads to permanent blindness. It consists of one per cent of all eye diseases. It usually involves both eyes at some time or other in the course of the disease.

Glaucoma is subdivided into two groups, primary and secondary glaucoma. The cause of primary glaucoma is unknown; it attacks an apparently healthy eye. Secondary glaucoma is caused by some disease or injury to the eye. Primary glaucoma is usually bilateral while secondary blaucoma is usually unilateral, with respect to eye involvement.

What we know about the causation of primary glaucoma is relatively unimportant because we are not certain how it is brought about. Our statistics show that it is rare before 40, that it is most frequent between 50 and 60 years of age and less common after 70. It is more common in women than men. Jews are predisposed and heredity is a frequent factor. It occurs more frequently in small farsighted than in large near-sighted eyes. There is no doubt present in all the cases a peculiar anatomical condition of the eye that favors the development of the disease. The exciting cause is usually ascribed to some emotional shock, as grief or joy, improperly corrected glasses and the inappropriate use of mydriatics.

All the symptoms and signs of glaucoma are rapidly explained on the basis of the increased intra-ocular tension. Primary glaucoma, which arises independent of any antecedent disease of the eye, will be considered under two heads: 1—The acute inflammatory or congestive type, and 2—the chronic non-congestive type.

While these two types, as to the mode of onset and superficial external appearance, are apparently one the antithesis of the other, they are in reality closely related in that both have associated an increased intra-ocular pressure. They differ, however, in the method by which the increased pressure occurs. In the acute congestive type the onset is sudden, while in the chronic or non-congestive type it is insidious or gradual.

In the congestive type, the eye is congested or inflamed, while in the non-congestive the eye is not reddened. In the former, the eye is painful and the attack may be diagnosed by the patient as migraine, neuralgia or tooth-ache and valuable time lost before the correct diagnosis is made and the correct treatment instituted to prevent permanent damage to the eye.

Chronic non-congestive glaucoma is one of the most insidious eye diseases, and if untreated usually terminates in blindness. It may present no grave external manifestations for months or years, but there is always associated a steadily progressive deterioration of vision, especially peripherally and toward the nasal side. In these cases suspicion should be aroused when frequent changes of glasses is needed in presbyopia, and especially when this is associated with attacks of dimness of vision and when artificial lights are seen at night surrounded by colored halos or rainbows. Since these cases are unassociated with redness or pain and the lens has a grayish hue, they are sometimes mistaken for an incipient senile cataract, and the patient mistakenly advised to have nothing done until the supposed cataract ripens, by which time there occurs a permanent and irremediable loss of sight due to pressure atrophy of the nerve fibers of the optic nerve head and the retina.

In both types there is increased intra-ocular tension or hardness of the eye ball and defective sight.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

"Dad" Shaw Answers Queries.

Mr. Editor: I have noted through the columns of The Bulletin several references to the writers, and I have decided to take them in their sequence and try and answer them. A short time since in the Social Corner section some one, no doubt a lady, wanted to know if "Dad" Shaw could recall when the dummy engine furnished the transportation on the line to Greeneville. In answer to this I will say yes, and there is quite a story connected with this, for it shows the evolution of the transportation system. Going way back to about the year 1866 or perhaps even earlier, the only means of getting back and forth from the "Landing" was by omnibus, and with the driver perched upon the seat which was on the level of the roof, and with the propelling power a couple of horses, it would look strange today. But in those times it looked rather fine. If you will recall my early letters you will remember that I told you the name of the pilot of this ancient ark was named Fred Bushnell and he lived at the corner of Ninth street and Central avenue in the house that was occupied afterwards by Ed Turner. The terminal or starting point for the bus was at the corner of Twelfth street and Main near St. John's hotel. That, I told you, was kept by Moses Elijah St. John. This was our only means of getting to and from the city or "landing" as it was known at that time. Then came the horse cars and I can recall them for we were given a recess when the first car went through the village streets for now we had the last word so far as traveling was concerned. There were about 20 or 25 horses that were used in pulling the many cars, and the barn to take care of them was at the corner of Twelfth street and Central avenue, exactly where now stands the drug store of Andrew McLaughlin.

During the regime of the horse cars the Norwich Street Railway Co. bought the "dummy" that is in question and the first engineer of this strange craft was Ed Chamberlain. This was an expensive toy for it would go down hill by the force of gravity, but would balk on climbing up the one hill, and that was Schofield's hill. But some bright mind conceived the idea of having a couple of tow horses waiting at all times to render assistance, and they were waiting at the ton of the hill, about where now stands the fine St. Mary's church.

They used to tell a story to show how inefficient this "dummy" was that one time there was but one passenger on board this "dummy," and running true to form, it would not climb the hill. It seems this passenger had been shopping and he had a box of matches in his pocket, and he threw it away and then the car with many a wheeze and groan, finally got up the hill. I do not vouch for this story, but it sounds reasonable. What do you think?

In the Jewett City column as of Friday, Jan. 25, there appears a query as to whether "Dad" Shaw recalls a man named Charlie Cole, and I say yes. This query comes from the assembly man from Lisbon, George Ross, who lives in the Ross homestead in Lisbon. But at one time if my memory serves me, he lived on the back road in Greeneville that was afterwards dignified by the name of Boswell avenue, and he lived very near to Harvey Spalding and Lloyd Caswell. Without going too deep into details I think Mr. Ross had a brother named William, but who was better known as Billy Ross. He went out as a corporal in Co. A, 18th regiment, C. V., and after the war was over entered the regular army as a captain and went to Tucson, Arizona, in the early days of the wild and wooley west. Is this correct? As I recall Billy Ross he was a fine looking fellow, and he enlisted in Co. A, July 23, 1862.

Now for the story of Charlie Cole. What can I add to it? Nothing, for the story has been told, at least the main points of it, by your correspondent from Jewett City. Certainly I knew Cole, although he was older than I was. Still we would swim from the little gates down through the canal and to the "waste way," and did I win? Well—to be honest, I usually came in second. Cole lived in a house that stood between Eleventh and Tenth street, on what is now called Main street, and this house overlooked Houston's dye works and the Hubbard paper mills. Cole was no different from the rest of us kids for we all used to pull some sort of a stunt when we saw a train coming. Some of us, and I with the others, would lie on the ground and see how close we could place our hands to the rails. At the same place where Cole had his leg cut off, Granny Wise, who lived in the little house beside the track, also lost half of a foot while trying to chase a goose off the track to prevent its being killed by an approaching train. It may interest you old timers to know this little house is standing today in fine condition in the rear of the yard of Mrs. McClure on Prospect street. All this is from memory and as I write this I think of the many nice people who called that little house home. Although the crossing where this house stood had a clear view up and down the track, still there has been many accidents, for not a great way from here a young man named Tom Scott had both legs cut off. I recall him as if it were but yesterday, for he was a fine young man, and he had many friends among us young fellows.

I think the above outline will answer the query of George A. Ross, of whom I have but a slight recollection, for in the many years since I was a boy, much water has passed over the bridge. But still the hand of memory weaves the blissful dreams of long ago. And here I want to quote from Donald Mitchell (Ik Marvel), a famous son of Norwich: "This is a history of dreams, and perhaps you will think these are idle dreams, and still they are memories of other days, a world of memories that reach over half my life, and are enameled with memories that perfume the soul." And we reach out as in a dream and think we see our "pals" of yesterday who are now recalled only in blessed memory.

Governors From Lisbon.

Mr. Editor: Reading today's paper, I came to questions. What do you know about eastern Connecticut? Excuse me but I think there is very little known about it.

Governors of Connecticut, natives of Lebanon, are five in number: Gov. Jonathan Trumbull, from 1769 to 1784; Gov. Jonathan Trumbull, Jr., 1798 to 1809; Gov. Clark Bissell, from 1847 to 1849; Gov. Joseph Trumbull, from 1849 to 1850; Gov. William A Buckingham, from 1858 to 1866, Civil war governor. My information came from the book Early Lebanon, an historical address delivered in Lebanon, Conn., on the national centennial, July 4, 1876, by Rev. Otis D. Hine, pastor of the First Congregational church at that time.

"LENT AND MYSELF"

Memory Verse for Thursday:

"But was in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin (Hebrews 4:15). (Read: Matthews 4:1-11.)

MEDITATION: It is though that our Lord's temptation in the wilderness was subjective. The pictures he saw were in His own mind, the words he heard were the echo of His own thoughts. If He had not told about it nobody would ever have known. So with me, my struggles are hid from the world. These suppressed desires, these concealed ambitions, how they beset me! And I let them deceive me, as Jesus did not. I even try to justify them to myself, which is a futile attempt at self-deception. I have but to be honest with myself, and I will be started on the way to better things.

PRAYER: Holy and Loving Father who knowest the thoughts and intents of the heart, have compassion on my weakness. Search me and know my heart. Try me and know my thoughts. Wash me and I shall be whiter than snow. Create in me a clear heart, O God, and renew a right spirit within me. Through Jesus Christ my Lord. Amen.

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—One of the congress-ladies-elect—if that's the proper way to put it—who will not get actually started on her life at the capitol until the special session in spring or whenever is nevertheless quite actively on the job in Washington and figuring frequently in the news.

She is Ruth Hanna McCormick, of that trio of Ruths who will grace proceedings of the house of the 71st congress. And judging by her most recent public pronouncement, Ruth harbors ideas of her own as to what her style and title of address as a house member shall be. Twice in her former denial of some other lady's charge that she was dabbling in patronage, Mrs. McCormick described herself as "congressman-at-large" from Illinois.

All "Members"

It has become the practice of the house to address its feminine members as "member," avoiding any difficulty. It falls to the lot of the speaker, for instance, to question the purpose for which a member rises to demand recognition.

The usual form is to ask "For what purpose does the gentleman rise?" Obviously this would not do in the case of a woman member, so Speaker Nick Longworth has patented the line:

"For what purpose does the member from California (or New Jersey or Kentucky, as the case may be), rise?"

Informally, the house refers to its feminine members as congresswomen. It's just the feminine form of that wholly improper title, congressman. There is no such office. House members are representatives. Senators are as much congressmen as representatives.

Still, Mrs McCormick seems inclined to like "congressman," just like that, regardless of the sex of the member. She will have to put on a lot of speed to overcome house resistance to accepted forms, however.

Don't Speak Much

Not that the presence of four woman members in the present house membership seems to have called very frequently for exercise of Longworth tact in the matter of recognizing them in floor debates.

Examine the Congressional Record for December and January and you will find only six times that a woman member has risen in her place to speak. Most of those occasions actually were merely to make good a place in the record for a subsequent extension of remarks, a speech not actually delivered.

By contrast, look up the record of a notably loquacious man member, like Schafer of Wisconsin. In a two-week period in January he barged in or house debate 26 times on that many different subjects.

That is exceptional of course, except for committee chairmen, floor leaders or other specialists. Still, it seems quite clear that, despite the supposed feminine weakness for the last word, women members of congress are rarely heard on the floor.

YOUR INCOME TAX

Net income upon which the tax is assessed is gross income less certain specified deductions, such as business expenses, losses, interest paid, bad debts, depreciation, rents, contributions, etc.

Deductions for business expenses form a large item in the returns of many taxpayers and must have certain qualities to be allowed. They must relate to the business, trade, profession or vocation in which the taxpayer has invested time and money for the purpose of a livelihood or profit.

A taxpayer may conduct more than one business and claim deductions for the business expenses of each.

FR. REILLY AT NEW LONDON LAUDS ABRAHAM LINCOLN

Fully 125 attended at New London the annual banquet and dance of Rev. George Deshon assembly, Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus, held Tuesday night at the Mohican hotel. The principal speaker was Rev. John J. Reilly of St. Patrick's church, Norwich. The banquet was served in the main dining room and the knights brought their ladies with them. Senator William C. Fox was toastmaster.

During the dinner, Shepard & Swanson's Whaling City Boys furnished music, also played for the dancing which followed in the Mohican ballroom.

Rev. Raymond J. OCallaghan of St. Mary's church said grace. James McInnich sang several solos. Senator Fox called upon Mayor Scott who briefly addressed the gathering telling of his pleasure at being present.

The toastmaster then presented Father Reilly who delivered an inspiring address on Lincoln, the great emancipator.

Father Reilly compared Lincoln to Christ saying that Lincoln freed not only the bodies of human beings but thereby also freed their hearts and minds. Most interesting and impressive was his description of the first statue of Lincoln he had ever seen outside of the United States. This was in London at 5 oclock one morning and he said through the fog loomed up the big statue of the great emancipator in front of the house of parliament. Lincoln's greatness might be measured by this mark of honor when the English erected the statue directly in front of the house of parliament.

He lauded Lincoln as a man who did much for the world at large and at the conclusion of his talk was given a storm of applause.

Among the guests present was Father Oliver T. Magnell, new pastor of the Sacred Heart church of Groton. The committee of arrangements Lawrence Conti, chairman; P. J. Moriarty, Harry J. Kennedy, Cornelius C. Costello and Col. Henry S. Dorsey.

WILL CONSIDER RETEST OF AUTOMOBILE DRIVERS

According to the February bulletin issued by the state motor vehicle department practical application of Governor Trumbull's recent recommendation for a retest of motor vehicle operators will be considered by the general assembly and some form of re-examination may be expected within a year or two.

The question of whether all drivers should be included in the project is discussed in the article. Arguments which might be made for or against such a plan are presented.

"There might be criticism of a plan to re-examine all operators," it is pointed out "on the grounds that operators ought not to become worse as they gain added experience. A general plan would be directed against a large body of good performers as well as against bad performers."

Attention is also called to records which show that about fifteen out of every 100 drivers are responsible for most of the trouble in motor vehicle operation, while the other eighty-five do respond quickly and successfully to every situation arising in the course of their operations.

On the other side of the question, the article says that "if re-examination of everybody can be accomplished and thereafter a policy adopted by which every person who committed any offense whatever is at once re-examined by a high grade examiner capable of studying human characteristics and under the direction of expert advice as to the detection of mental imperfections, it would not be long before most of the trouble makers would be detected and to a large degree eliminated from traffic."

The apparent impossibility of arousing public sentiment to an extent where its expression will help solve transportation problems, is also discussed in the article. "There has been no great public demand overwhelming in its expression directed towards abolition of traffic annoyance and danger," it says. "Whatever advance in safety has been made has been gradual and always because emergencies have reached an acute stage, making change of some kind absolutely necessary.

"It begins to appear as a broad conclusion that in order to make the present traffic situation better and safer all of the efforts of every expert ought to be directed at once towards better traffic control. This means more convenient travel back and forth to work and play so that the public, upon whom any great movement for betterment must depend, will be well served and because it is well served will consent to the other items of regulation which are purely for safety.

"If it be possible to make a traffic plan simple enough and easy enough to produce the result that each citizen will be able to go from place to place faster and with less annoyance, then it stands to reason more people will make use of it. When such a plan has been demonstrated convenient, the people who use it will submit to almost any safety regulation which traffic authorities may impose."

Borden, pastor of the Leffingwell Baptist church. There were many mourners present and the flowers were beautiful. Burial was in Union cemetery, Waterford, where a committal service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Borden. The bearers were Henry C. Bogue, Milton Bogue, Charles Clark and John C. Burgess. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertakers Church and Allen.

ANNOUNCE COMMITTEE FOR NEAR EAST RELIEF DINNER

The personnel of the committee in charge of the Near East Relief dinner to be held Saturday evening at the Wauregan hotel, was announced Wednesday evening. The committee comprises: Honorary chairman, Rev. Alexander H. Abbott; chairman, Miss Elizabeth B. Huntington; treasurer, Guy B. Dolbeare; James L. Case, Rev. Joseph Cooper, Mrs. Wm. H. Dawsey, Mrs. Chas. Gilbert, Nathan A. Gibbs, Miss Marion Bishop, Edwin Hill, Miss Mary E. Richards, Miss Louise C. Howe, Miss Susan C. Hyde, Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May, Mrs. Charles Henry Osgood, Shepard B. Palmer, Robert W. Perkins, Rutherford C. Plaut, Abner Schwartz, Mrs. Chas. D. Sevin, Mrs. Edwin W. Higgins, Walter H. Pilcher, Mrs. Albert H. Chase, Miss Ella Norton, Mayor Lee Roy Robbins, Miss Marina Osgood, Miss Mary Osgood, Elizabeth Huntington, Guy B. Dolbeare, Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, Rev. Eldred Brown, Rev. Charles Ricketts, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, Rev. A. N. Foster, Rev. D. A. Pitt.

The speakers are to be H. C. Jaquith, managing director of the Near East Relief, and Lady Anne Azgapetian, who served in the Russian army during the World war. Lady Anne was herself a refugee.

Lady Anne's little daughter was born while her mother was serving with the Russian army. The child, who is now 12 years old, has written an interesting letter, as follows:

"I am a little Armenian girl. I am 12 years. My name has a history as long as the tail of a cat. I am called Iranch Esther Araxie Azgapetian.

"Iranch, because I was born in Persia and that is a good Persian name. Near the Red Cross hut where I first opened my eyes was the tomb of Esther and Mordecai, so my father also named me Esther. Then being a good Armenian, I had to have the name of our beloved river Arax—therefor I am Araxie.

"My father was General Mesrop Nevton khan, Azapetian. He was with an army in the Caucasus mountains during the great war. We have many fine colored ribbons and bright medals he wore which he got in the war. But he is dead now.

"My mother, Lady Anne Azgapetian, says I was a really truly Red Cross baby because I was born in a Red Cross tent, and I was red and cross at the time. We were living just inside the city wall. I could hear the jackals at night—howling, howling, all the time. I howled too. My nurse said the jackals set me a bad example. My first nurse was a great big soldier. He belonged to the Russian army which was encamped near us.

"My mother tells me that she paid five roubles a day (that is $2.50 in American money) for half a loaf of bread. The bread was often full of dirt and splinters. One had to eat the bread as there was no other food except sometimes soup from the soup kitchens. I did not get enough to eat. All the time I cried because I was hungry. One fine day my father found a can of condensed milk in a shop and bought it for $6. That day I had a feast and did not cry at all. Several times my father was able to buy a salt herring for which he paid $1.50.

"I began to get very thin. My mother said she must take me away so that I would not die. We began to go away but it took a long time. Everywhere there were people going. They mostly had no clothes and often they would fall down. My mother said they would never get up again. My mother said they did not have the money to buy even the bad bread we had and they could not live without food. We traveled in an ambulance, on horseback, donkeyback and camelback, in a truck, a motor lorry and a cart—in fact by every way except an airplane.

"It was many months before we could come to America. There is much to eat here. I like America. I never cry any more. My mother cries. She says there were thousands of little children who starved to death in our country. It is not nice to starve. I did not like it. It makes her sad. But some days she smiles. That is when my mother says she knows America will not let the little Armenian babies suffer or be hurt, but will see them through as mother is seeing me through.

In a recent letter, C. C. Thurber, well known to many Norwich people and acting managing director of the Grecian area of the Near East Relief, gives a graphic idea of conditions in his area. Mr. Thurber says:

I wish I had time to write you volumes about these strenuous days. We have sent 500 children from Syra and many of them are too young to start life's struggles. At this time America really seems tired of giving, and children as young as 11 and 12 are going forth now daily to support themselves. I try not to be bitter but I wonder if God will forgive the great prosperous America. All we need are the crumbs from America's great table for a year or two longer but even these seem to be denied.

We are reducing our personnel as rapidly as possible and today have only three Americans on the Syra staff and only one American on the Athens staff in addition to myself. Mr. Davidson is struggling along in Egypt trying to find open doors for blind and deaf mutes, cripples and other liabilities. When I recently pleaded with the government to take over these great responsibilities the government said they had thousands of liabilities of the same sort, and that if they took our blind children all they could do was give them a tin cup and turn them out on the street to beg.

I shall stay on until the end when I really can feel my work is done. It is a great cheer and comfort to feel that you will keep on the work with us to do what little we can for the little ones who cannot be turned out to a certain death.

SEASON OF PENITENCE IN CATHOLIC CHURCHES

Psalm 68, beginning, "Hear Me O, Lord, for Thy loving-kindness is good; turn unto me according to the multitude of Thy tender mercies," was read at services attended by the thousands of Catholics in Norwich Ash Wednesday, as in every Catholic church throughout the world. The priests were blessing the penitential ashes, obtained by burning palms remaining from Palm Sunday. Later, following the offering of the Holy Sacrifice of the mass, the members of the congregations went to kneel at the sanctuary railing. Here the priests signed the ashes in the form of a cross on the forehead of each person, with the warning spoken in Latin to each, "Remember, O, man, that thou art dust, and into dust thou shalt return."

The prayer was: "Almighty and eternal God who didst grant the remedy of Thy pardon to the Ninivites doing penance in ashes and sackcloth, mercifully grant us so to imitate their penpnance, that we may follow them in obtaining forgiveness." The antiphon was Joel 2. Let us change our garments for ashes and sackcloth: let us fast and lament before the Lord: for our God is plenteous in mercy to forgive our sins. This was followed by the petition, from Esther, 13, Let us amend for the better in those things in which we have sinned through ignorance: lest suddenly overtaken by the day of death, we seek space for penance, and are not able to find it. The epistle read was Joel 2 and the Gospel Matt. 6, 16-21. Following the mass read by Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May at 4 o'clock in St. Patrick's church, Rev. Myles P. Galvin and Rev. John J. Reilly distributed the sacred ashes. In the evening at 7:30 after benediction again there was this distribution, large congregations attending both services.

PLAINFIELD, Feb. 13.—For the second time this season the Plainfield Pros proved their superiority over the Parkwood Pros of Springfield, Mass., here tonight when they downed the visitors 3 to 26. Although Plainfield won it was not without a stiff battle and plenty of opposition. Parkwood got under way at top speed and before five minutes had elapsed they had a nine point lead. When the attack of the Plainfield club began to function Dissinger and Brusso soon brought the locals to even terms and at the half they were holding a three-point lead at 13 to 10.

Opening the second half Plainfield increased their lead to eight points only to have the Parkwoods draw up to within three points, the score at that time being 27 to 24. Plainfield spurted and the whistle found them out in front 30 to 26. This is the second defeat suffered by the Parkwoods this season, both being administered by Plainfield.

In the preliminary game the Plainfield Buddies overcame a lead of 10 points in the second half to beat the Putnam Aces 27 to 19. Putnam piled up a big lead at the start and were leading 17 to 7 at the end of the first half. In the second half the Buddies rallied, holding Putnam to two points while they scored 20 points. FUMBLE RULING WOULD ROB GAME OF THE SPECTACULAR

NEW YORK, Feb. 13—(AP)—The chances seem to be that the national football rules committee will decide this week to make all fumbled balls dead at the point of recovery—if recovered by the opposing team.

On this salient point, at least, the committee will hear strong recommendations from the coaches when it meets in secret session at Absecon, N. J., this Saturday and Sunday. The advisory committee of coaches, including Knute Rockne, will be there to argue for this sweeping change in the rules.

The rules committee, as a matter of fact, considered making this change a year ago to affect all fumbles. Such a rule aplies now to the recovery of fumbled punts or backward passes but the committee has sought more widespread opinion before considering more sweeping application.

The argument has been put forth that to rule dead a recovered fumble from scrimmage or in the open field would rob the game of many spectacular features. It would have prevented, for instance, the famous run in the wrong direction of Roy Riegels at Pasadena. Had it been in force years ago the name of Sam White would not ring down through Princeton's football annals such as it does because of his twin feat of beating Yale and Harvard in 1911 on runs of 60 and 95 yards from recovered fumbles.

But the answer of Rockne and other coaches to this is that the game already is spectacular enough, through the development of more open play, and that it would be even more so with the attacking side not subjected to any greater penalty than losing the ball on a fumble.

CUBS HAVE FAIR SHOW TO WIN NAT. PENNANT

ROCKY MOUNT, N. C. Feb. 13.—(AP)—The Chicago Cubs, if their pitching staff performs as well this season as it did last, stands a fair chance to win the National league pennant in the opinion of John A. Heydler, president of the circuit.

Mr. Heydler, here on a visit today while en route to Florida, stressed that he was merely guessing on the outcome of the pennant race, but said he was certain of one thing "the National league faces the possibility of a better season than it has had in years."

TWO LOCAL BOYS MAY GET N. Y. LEAGUE TRYOUT

It is understood from a reliable source that Lefty Dugas and Nap Liberte, two local semi-pro diamond stars, will join the York, Pa., White Roses of the New York-Penn. league for a tryout on the coming spring training trip. York goes into training in about a month. Dugas plays either pitch, first base or the outfield and Liberte is an infielder.

Jack Bentley, the former Giant and Baltimore Oriole pitcher-first baseman, is the new manager of York. This is the club with which Joe Faber, another product of Eastern Connecticut nines, has played during the past few years. Faber was traded at the close of last season by Montreal to Oklahoma City in the Western league. He finished the year with York.

Both Liberte and Dugas have had previous tryouts with minor league clubs. Liberte was with Hartford in the Eastern and later with a club in the Blue Ridge loop down in Maryland, at the time Tony West was with Baltimore. Dugas had a tryout with Hartford in 1927.

Both boys were members of the Riverview team of 1927 which cleaned up everything in New England and had a valid claim to the title. Dugas got his start with Sacred Heart school in Taftville and later Taftville A. A. while Liberte first played with Ashland A. A., later Riverview and last year with J. B. Martin.

The N. Y. P. league is a Class B affair and many of its players go to the International league.

Reports now have it that Denny Murphy, Taftville boy, who was with the Chicago Cubs last year as third-string catcher, understudying to Gabby Hartnett and Mike Gonzales, may again have that job this year. It was first thought that Denny was slated for a trip to the Cubs' farm at Reading in the International league but the present prospect is that something different will occur and that it will see Murphy staying in the Windy City with Hornsby, Wilson, Cuyler, et al.

Two local boys will make strong bids for shortstop berths on college varsities of New England this coming season. Ray Yerrington, who held down the shortfield on last year's frosh nine at Springfield college is expected to be a candidate for the varsity this spring while Pheno Tombari will be out to defend his job at Conn. Aggies. Pheno was captain of the 1927 freshman team at Storrs and regular short-fielder on the varsity last year.

SCHAEFER REGAINS HIS TITLE BY BEATING COCHRAN

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Jake Schaefer, Chicago star, beat back the courageous rally of Welker Cochran, former champion, tonight to retain his 18.2 balkline billiard crown in the final match of the international series. Schaefer, tournament victor in 1921 and 1928, won 400 to 328.

HIGH SCHOOL SPORTS

Torrington high beat Gilbert high of Winsted Saturday night so local fans know what to expect from this club Friday night. The Academy will probably be facing Torrington at its best Friday evening at the Y gym. This is the first game of its three-game trip into Eastern Connecticut and the Garymen will be in top shape. Chapman Tech will play them Saturday night at New London and Windham Saturday afternoon at Willimantic.

Eastern Connecticut high schools can boast of but few gymnasiums. Putnam and Killingly have about the only halls of their own suitable for basketball. This having to play away from the school no doubt cuts into the receipts. Probably this is one reason why Eastern Connecticut hardly ever has basketball teams that can compare with those from the western part of the state.

Chapman Tech's team will get a strong test with Torrington Saturday. This is the first really strong team the New Londoners will have played and the result will be interesting.

If Torrington goes away with a clean sweep Saturday night, it will be quite a black eye for local high schools.

The Academy-Stonington clash here Saturday night is looked upon by many as one of the hardest fought tilts of the year in scholastic circles. Neither team has much to fight for except to stay out of the cellar but anyway, it ought to be a good game. It's quite an even bet right now.

Torrington high's baseball slate, recently announced, includes nine games and one open date. Five of them will be played at Torrington. This is some difference with the 22 of Deep River and the 18 of the Academy and Bulkeley.

SCHMELING BOUND BY CONTRACTS OF GERMAN MGR.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—(AP)—The New York state athletic commission laid a heavy hand upon the shoulder of Max Schmeling today, deciding that he must be bound by contracts made by his German manger, Arthur Bulow, whom he is seeking to repudiate, and of by no other.

The commission passed a brace of rules designed to prevent future controversies of similar nature by curbing the activities of American managers who swarm about visiting heavyweights of promise and checking the custom of assigning "pieces" of fighters to speculators.

M'CRACKEN MAY BE STRIBLING-SHARKEY REFEREE

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 13—(AP)—Frank McCracken, local sports writer and boxing referee, received a letter today from Jack Dempsey asking if he would be available to referee the Sharky-Stribling fight in Miami Beach, Fla., February 27, and to name his terms.

McCracken replied that he was available for the assignment and set his price for the job. He assumed, he said, that similar letters had been sent to a dozen other persons and that selection of a referee was to be approved by both fighters.

DANIELSON TO PLAY MILLVILLE FRIDAY

Danielson Town team again stacks up against one of the strongest basketball teams in New England on Friday evening when the fast Millville Five will furnish the opposition. Millville is no stranger to the Danielson basketball fans for this sterling club has played at Danielson three times during the past few years and the Towners have been able to beat them but once. However with the Danielson team so strongly reinforced this season things may be entirely different.

Millville boasts such stars as Peloquinn, Kettridge and Curran, all well known to eastern Connecticut basketball followers. Jack Powers promises that his club will give the Towners a stiff game.

SHEA STILL LEADS IN RACE FOR DIAMOND TROPHY

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Feb. 13—(AP)—Jack Shea, of Lake Placid, winner last week of the North American outdoor amateur skating championship, held his lead in the second day's races here for the diamond trophy, today, by winning the half mile and increasing his point score to 30 for the two days.

Ross Robinson, of Toronto, who took third in both the half mile and the five mile skates, was second in points, with 50 to his credit. Willie Logan, of Detroit, who won the mile Monday, were tied for third place with 30 points each. Valentine Blalis of Utica and Alex Hurd of Toronto had 20 points each, and Allan Potts, of New York, ten.

Sonnenberg Wins Again.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 13.—(AP)—Gus Sonnenberg, world's heavyweight wrestling champion, successfully defended his title here tonight against Stanley Stasiak, giant Pole, of Boston, winning the match in one fall in 40 minutes with his "flying tackle." Stasiak was unable to return to the ring to finish the match which was scheduled for two out of three falls.

AGGIES LOSE CLOSE ENCOUNTER TO HOLY CROSS BY TWO POINTS

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Feb. 13—The Holy Cross five defeated the Conn. Aggie team here tonight 23 to 21. The game was close throughout with the Aggies holding the lead at the end of the half, 12 to 10. The first quarter was marked by good defensive play, the visitors scoring only on long shots. The Aggie five was weakened by the loss of Chubbuck throughout most of the first half. The Aggies took a three-point lead, 17 to 14, but Morris and Sullivan cut down the lead with goals from the floor. Holy Cross held the ball during the last few minutes of play and the Aggies lost their last chance when Chubbuck missed a shot which dropped out of the basket at the gun. The summary:

MASS. PRO BOXERS PERFORMED AS AMATEURS IN CONN.

HARTFORD, Feb. 13—(AP)—Professional boxers from outside the state have been coming to Connecticut to box as "amateurs" with the increase in popularity of the amateur boxing shows, Miss Ellen M. McLaughlin, secretary of the state athletic commission, said in a discussion of the bill, which would give the sanction of amateur bouts to the athletic commission, at a hearing of the appropriations committee of the legislature today.

The effect of the bill, which has been favorably reported by the judiciary committee and is awaiting action in the house of representatives, will be to force these men into the higher professional class, where they belong, she declared. Without state supervision, according to Miss McLaughlin, it is now very easy for professionals, temporarily out of work, to sign as amateurs the day before a bout, and to compete for prizes before their identity is discovered.

Strict supervision of amateur boxing will also result in the better amateur boxers turning professional, she said, and competing with professionals of equal ability. Miss McLaughlin appeared before the committee to request an additional $16,000 in the biencial appropriation for the athletics commission, the estimated cost of state supervision of amateur boxing.

REV. DR. TWOMEY SPEAKER AT ROTARY CLUB MEETING

Fitting tribute was paid to the life of Abraham Lincoln by Rev. M. Joseph Twomey D. D., of Newark, N. J., in a very inspiring address before the Norwich Rotary club at the Wauregan hotel on Wednesday noon. Dr. Twomey, who spent his boyhood in Norwich, prefaced his address with recollections of his days in Norwich. His ready wit and personal charm added greatly to the interest of his talk. Speaking of Lincoln Dr. Twomey said:

It is not the hour a man is born nor yet the day his funeral bell is tolled that is of importance to the world. What lies in between his cradle and his grave, the contribution he made to human welfare and progress that is of moment. It is that which causes us to remember his birthday. It is his service, sacrifices, character, and achievements that we celebrate on the return of his birthday.

Lincoln's service to humanity is one of the finest things man has been permitted to record. Two achievements mark his life: He made the worth of a human being to be re-estimated and that estimate recorded. He kept our Great Republic together. Neither is secondary to the other in the furtherance of human progress.

Lincoln traveled far. It is not the point reached, but the road covered to reach it that is of primary importance to him who would acclaim worth. It was a tremendously hard and a mighty trying journey from the log cabin in Kentucky to the white house as he travelled it. It is second to only one recorded journey, and I say this reverently. It is second only to His who came down from heaven and went back there by way of the cross.

It is a great honor to be president of the United States. It is a greater to be a MAN. He was president and he was a MAN. It is our joy and pride to be citizens of this republic which he enriched with his manhood, and whose whole round circle of members of men and women had its averages raised by his life.

Five things mark his character. They are the things of which poets sing. They are the ingredients out of which a novelist compounds his hero. They were facts with him. He was square. He was patient. He was strong. He was tender. He was loving. Those fused by labor, by faith in humanity and in God, by failure and by victory have given us the greatest American of all our years. When the actor came forth in the play of Aeschulyus and said, "To be what you seem is that man's making": the whole audience in the great stadium turned toward Aristides. When the audiences of the great erax to come hear of nobility of character coupled with love of humanity and fervor for the rights of men, when they hear of long journeys to places of power of influence, when they hear that one man incarnated all these and still was humble, they will turn to Abraham Lincoln, America's great gift to the nations and the ages.

Mr. Twomey, who was introduced by James L. Case, was given a rising vote of appreciation at the conclusion of his talk.

Joseph W. Curtis, vice president of the club, presided at the business session with Frank R. Murdy as songleader. Among the numerous musical numbers was a solo by Ted Van Tassel and a duet by the two honorary members of the club Mayor Lee Roy Robbins and Joseph C. Worth, which proved to be very harmonious.

Mrs. E. W. Higgins at the opening of the meeting briefly made announcement of the Child Welfare luncheon on Monday at which Bird S. Coler of New York will be the speaker. There were several reports of committee chairmen.

LOCAL Y QUINTET CLASHES WITH WHALERS IN LEAGUE TILT TONIGHT

The outcome of tonight's game at the local Y. M. C. A., between Norwich and New London Y. M. C. A. basketball teams will decide which team is to drop from the race for state basketball honors. The local Y is up against a big handicap as they must win by 22 points over the Whalers if they would remain in the running. This is by virtue of their 47 to 26 defeat by New London two weeks ago. The league rules that if each team wins a game the aggregate scores will decide who shall be declared the winner.

The local Y is in much better condition than when they played New London. In that Pingree, the star forward for the Y, has recovered from his injuries which kept him out of the other encounter. Norwich has been practicing hard for this encounter and only Tuesday evening lost a hard fought game to the Hartford Industrial league champions, 33 to 31, a team rated higher than the team to be opposed tonight.

New London has one advantage, that of numbers for they have two complete teams representing them, the Sub Base five and the five of the U. S. Coast Guards. Both teams are strong and in the last game one played one half and the other the last half. This makes the locals stacking up against a fresh team in the second half which is a decided disadvantage.

Old Golds

WALLACE BEERY transport pilot No. 3298, now appearing in "Tong War" tells how the movie stars are guarding their throats with OLD GOLDS.

"A year or so ago, Hollywood didn't think much about its vocal chords or its voices. We were all in the silent drama then.

"But the coming of the 'Talkies' has changed things. Lovely stars, leading men, 'heavies' and ingenues are guarding their throats with zealous care . . . and smoking OLD GOLDS.

"It didn't need the 'Talkies' to win me to OLD GOLDS. I've been smoking them ever since they came to Hollywood, two years ago. But it's an added satisfaction to know they are kind to the voice, when the voice has assumed a new importance!"

POETRY

St. Valentine

St. Valentine, "There swims no goose so gray,
Some one has said or sung, "but soon or late."
(The time most opportune, your natal day!)

What power supreme, what magic art
Lies in the wondrous wand of thine,
To thrill anew the sluggish heart,
St. Valentine!

The birds, in storms of song that shine
With bubbles of bright joy, now dart
And circle round thy vernal shrine.

The pulses of the Springtime start
And throb again in bud and vine;
Dan Cupid "plays the leading part,"
St. Valentine!

St. Valentine! The countless deeds
Committed in your name;
There is the broken heart that bleeds,
The all-consuming flame;
The fond epistles that are penned,
And all beginning, Love;
And running onward, always end
With Love!

St. Valentine! Your henchman bold,
Dan Cupid stands beside;
His sightless orbs in wonder rolled,
A quiver well supplied;
And "hit or miss," the saying goes;
But it is safe in this
One instance, always to suppose
A Miss!

—Alonzo Rice, in Indianapolis News.

An Old-Fashioned Valentine

Searching through a box of treasures
Now untouched for many years,
Sorting over notes and letters,
Tokens of a past so dear,
There I found it, worn and faded,
Quaint, its pattern and design,
Filled with loving thoughts the verses—

Once again I see the schoolhouse
In a village far away,
And the teacher's voice speaks sternly
Saying, "John tonight may stay."
Then with blue eyes, shy, uplifted
In which beams of mischief shine;
It was just a valentine.

Then he takes from out its cover
While the teacher now be faced
Just a little square of paper
Where a boyish hand had traced,
"I will always love you, Molly
As the blossoms love the vine
I must stop for teacher sees me,—
Won't you be my valentine?"

Years have passed and John has left me
For the realms of light above,
But how true the words then written
Of a pure and lasting love!
So among the treasured tokens
Of those early days of mine,
There is one I'll ever cherish
That old-fashioned valentine.

—Seymour Record.

She—John, what did you do with the beauty doctor's bill?
He—Vetoed it.—Life.

"Do you think boarding-house life has any effect on a person?"

"I'm going to Mexico to meet my wife."
"Tia Juana?"
"No, not very much."—Detroit News.

Husband—What, another hat! Will you never stop buying things under the pretext that they are bargains?
Wife—I've largely stopped, dear. I paid twice as much for this as it's worth.—Boston Transcript.

He—Don't know about a cure, but it might act as a preventive if you tried it—I should postpone kissing you.—Exchange.

Husband—Yes, I'll bet it's that young imp who soaked me there with a snowball. He's probably telling his chums about it.—Boston Transcript.

An old man was standing on the curb playing a one-string fiddle outside a Bridgeport Hill shop. An acquaintance came up.
"Watcher doin' down 'ere, Bill? I thought yer worked the West End?"
"Not now I don't. I give that to me son-in-law as a weddin' 'present.'"—Brooklyn Eagle.

A reporter turned in an item about "Jimmie Brown, the boy who was burned to the West End by a live wire."
"The end the son sets on, of course," replied the witty reporter.—The Pathfinder.

ST. TERESA'S HOSPITAL HAS FINE REPUTATION

There are times in the life of women when exeprt nosplital attention is desired. Norwich possesses just this type of a hospital in St. Teresa's Private Maternity hospital at No. 15 Boswell avenue. Conducted for a number of years past by Victoria LeBlanc, this hospital has made a name for itself that has reached far beyond the borders of Norwich.

Hundreds of happy mothers would be only too glad to tell you of the pleasant time they spent there and of how kind and courteous was their treatment. Although St. Teresa's hospital is a private institution the management allows expectant mothers the privilege of securing their own physician. This, coupled with the fact that experienced nursing is given, insures a mother and her child against harm.

In these cold months, when many houses are unfit for the trials of motherhood, St. Teresa's hospital stands as a haven of refuge. Proper ventilation, good food, expert medical attention day and night, and a homelike atmosphere, insures every patient a happy stay there.

Rooms are private and this again insures every patient that homelike atmosphere and a place where loved ones can gather unseen by those without. The hospital also cares for chronic cases and aged people and provides excellent care.

All these things have made St. Teresa's private hospital a popular institution with the mothers of Norwich and vicinity and you too will find it so. Let us talk over your problems with you and thus make your task the lighter and more pleasant.

CALL UP TAFTVILLE WET WASH FOR WASHINGS

Call up the New System Taftville Wet Wash, Phone 3228-2, this morning and tell them you want your washing done by them this week. That will be the end of your worries in that direction, and after one trial you will never go back to Blue Monday. The New System has eliminated Blue Monday from the calendar.

The New System Wet Wash has reduced laundry work to a simplicity. And, doing so, it has placed the price of washings at such a low level, and the work at such a high level, that the wash lady has vanished, and the housewife who has been in the habit of doing her own washing, is joining the ranks of the minority every week.

The New System Wet Wash has a motto of courtesy to its customers and perfection in its work. That's the whole story.

The telephone call with which you place your order to get your laundry is all you have to do. That's what makes it so simple.

Try the New System this week, and make a little side bet with yourself, as to whether you ever do your own washing again after one trial.

WHY NOT ALLOW THUMM'S TO SUPPLY YOUR PARTY NEEDS

As the time grows rapidly short before the special day when guests are to be entertained something must be figured on lest the housewife desires that terrible shock of running short of something to eat, just at the time when it is needed the most.

Careful planning for wants for parties and special events has always been the policy of Thumm's Delicatessen Store, 40 Franklin street, and our store today abounds in hundreds of things, which, greeting the table on those occasions will make the hearts of all housewives sing with joy.

Our cooked and prepared meats are known everywhere as a delicious treat and no less popular is our home-made mayonnaise. Utmost care is taken in preparing all foods in this store and every patron may rest assured that their purchase has provided them with the best money can buy.

(Special to The Bulletin)

MLSTIC, Feb. 13—Word was received in the village this morning of the death of Horace Clift, 88, Civil war veteran at the Soldiers' home in Noroton, Tuesday, February 12. Mr. Clift disposed of his property on Pequot, Mystic, a short time ago and went to Noroton to spend the winter, on account of failing health. He was a member of the 26th Connecticut regiment, Company K, and president of the 26th Connecticut Regimental association. There are only three veterans now left in Mystic.

THE LATE BENJ. L. HOLMES OF A PROMINENT FAMILY

Benjamin Latham Holmes, 76, who died at his home on Clift street, Tuesday morning, after being confined to his home by failing health for a long time, was born in Stonington, July 16, 1852. He was the son of Isaac C. and Ellen Kemp Holmes, the youngest of several children. He lived in Mystic practically all his life. October 28, 1880 he married Thankful Aletta Clift. He was in the coal business with his father for many years and after the death of the latter, he took full control, in 1899. In 1920 Mr. Holmes sold out his business and retired but the concern still uses the name of the Holmes company. The Holmes family has been prominent in this section for many years. Conn. Mother Knew the Way

Every mother knows what it means when her child begins to get underweight, pale, listless, bilious, feverish and fretful, with bad breath, coated tongue and no appetite. What every one of them doesn't know is that it's dangerous to use harsh methods to start the little stomach and bowels.

There's no use experimenting in such cases. Millions of mothers have proved the merit and reliability of pleasant-tasting, purely vegetable California Fig Syrup. It gently clears up the most stubborn cases of constipation; stimulates the appetite; gives tone and strength to weak stomach and bowels so they continue to act normally, of their own record; and makes pale, lifeless children, bright, rosy-cheeked and full of energy.

A Connecticut mother, Mrs. J. C. Fantone, 72 Capitol Ave., Hartford, says: "My little son, Joseph, developed constipation. He became bilious, pale and fretful; had no appetite and couldn't digest right. He was losing weight. I had used California Fig Syrup as a child, so I gave it to him. It regulated him quick. He began eating heartily and digesting everything. Soon he was his robust, happy self again."

Ask for California Fig Syrup by the full name so you'll get the genuine, endorsed by physicians for over 50 years.

Who else wants new clothes?

"I have used Sunset Soap Dyes since 1919; have never had a failure. Three daughters and myself to clothe make a big problem, but thanks to your Dye Pot our clothing budget is cut in half. I have just completed a redyed crepe silk dress, originally gray. Everybody thinks it is new. I redyed and made over from ladies' coats, five coats for girls. One made a lovely wine color from a faded brown, one a darker green from a faded green, one a warm brown from a faded tan and the other two their original color of light brown redyed to freshen them up.

"Garments practically useless, with a little dye and remodeling make wonderful new garments at very little expense. My girls have three times more than if I had to buy every garment brand new. I have redyed curtains, couch covers, faded cretonnes, washable rag rugs just as satisfactorily as coats and dresses.

"I like your dye because it does not soil the hands or utensils. It is not necessary to rip garments apart, which saves time and patience. I told a friend about Sunset two years ago, she has used it ever since with wonderful results. People here in town will not believe we have redyed the winter coats our girls wear. I am glad to pass my knowledge of Sunset Soap Dyes on."

Mothers Warned Of Colds That Follow the Flu

BEST TREATED EXTERNALLY

Physicians advise that the chief danger in this epidemic is after influenza. Then, more than ever, cold attacking the weakened system may lead to bronchitis, pneumonia, or a second and more severe case of flu. This is especialily true of children.

Flu nearly always leaves the stomach upset. Internal medication should, therefore, be avoided, as it so often further disturbs the digestion and thus retards recovery.

But if a fresh cold comes, don't let the child keep it overnight. Just rub Vicks on throat and chest at bedtime. As it is applied externally, Vicks can be used freely even on the youngest child, with no fear of upsetting a delicate stomach.

Vicks acts 2 ways at once (both absorbed and inhaled) to check the cold and helps avoid serious complications. And, of course, it is just as good for adults.

JEWETT CITY

A WHALE OF A SUCKER IN AN OLD-TIME YARN

Some of the old-time hearts in the borough were quickened up to trip-hammer speed Wednesday afternoon at the appearance of a diminutive Polish boy going proudly up Main street, with the first sucker of the season. The fish was certainly handsome (even suckers are handsome in the early spring), and weighed a few ounces over a pound. The boy had captured his prize through a hole in the ice, by means of a skilfully manipulated wire snare, with a simple running loop. The late Edwin W. Whiting, Orson Campbell and Patrick B. Driscoll used to hook up suckers and dace, literally by the bushel, through holes cut through the ice at the Bend in Lisbon, where the small stream that at one time flowed around Read's Island, makes in from the Quinebaug. Once at the Bend, the fish were running good, several dozens of fine suckers were "flopping" about on the ice, when a charcoal peddler's team stopped in the road above the creek and down came the once well-known Marcus Colegrove, sometimes called the charcoal orator. Many alive here and in Norwich today can testify to the oratorical ability of Marcus Colegrove of Voluntown, who has long since passed on. The visitor inspected the catch, complimented its numbers, but spoke quite disparagingly of the size of the fish.

Mr. Colegrove used to live at Eggemoggin, near Bath, Me., and told the following interesting story of how the suckers used to run down east in the spring time: "I was settin' on the rocks one day, back of Mr. Watson's barn, with a good copper wire snare, watchin' a lot of suckers that was layin' low in there. Pretty soon along came a fish that scart me. I thought at first he was a sturgeon, but soon see that he was a sucker, and that there was so much of him he must have commenced growin' when the creek did. I thinks to myself, I'd like to make a small bet that a piece of that feller'll be takin' the smell of salt pork out of my fryin' pan tonight. He came a-wigglin' himself over to the edge of the rocks right under where I was. He looked like a water-soaked log, and when he stuck his round snoot out to forage along the bottom it put me in mind of a dinner horn. There was no spare time, but I was durn skittish about my snare being big enough to go over his head. I flopped on my stomach and let the snare down into the water. I slipped it over his snout, and on down to where his ears would have been, if he'd had any, and there it touched him. Any ordinary sucker would have backed out of that loop double quick, but he give a big lunge ahead, like a buttin' goat, and the snare tightened around his throat. That old feller showed me a few things I didn't know about suckers—First I knew I went off the rocks and was a-sousin' around in the brook. 'Twixt the fuss he made and the fuss I made you couldn't a-told whether I had caught him or he'd caught me. I held tight and started wadin' for shore. But the fryin' of that sucker never smoked up my kitchen. He knowed what was up, so he gave a ripping plunge, the wire tightened and cut his head clean off.

"Then I seed the sucker, without a head, a-swimmin' down the stream as if the old boy was after him. I lugged his head home. There ain't usually much fodder on a sucker's head. We boiled this one and it made a good family dinner, and what was left made a good meal for a tramp that went along.

"A few days afterward, someone living lower down on the creek came up and complained that there was a dead hog layin' in the brook by the old saw mill. I was constable of the township and went down to have it removed. Say, boys, it wasn't a dead hog. It was the body of that sucker!"

Pins awarded at the Baptist Sunday school Sunday for perfect attendance were given to Emma Dearnley for 12 years, William Dearnley 9 years, William Brewster 4 years, Arthur Tripp, Jr., 4 years, Arthur Gray 1 year, Rollin Tripp 1 year, Hermon Tripp 2 years and R. W. Dearnley 3 years. Not a single Sunday have these persons been absent from Sunday school during the above period of time.

Mission Circle Hears Reports

The Woman's Mission circle of the Baptist church held the February meeting at the home of Mrs. A. M. Brown Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Brown spoke of the recent gifts by Mr. Rockefeller of a million dollars each to the Home and Foreign Mission societies, and the donation of $90,000 from the churches of the denomination for the rehabilitation of Porto Rico, and voiced the general feeling of thanksgiving by reading Psalm 103. Prayer was offered by Mrs. S. F. Brown. The secretary read the report of the previous meeting and a letter of thanks for gifts to Hartshorn Memorial college at Richmond, Va., where they are just recovering from an epidemic of influenza. Mrs. E. E. Scates and Mrs. R. A. Wilbur were appointed a committee on nomination of officers which will include an Americanization chairman. The secretary was instructed to write a letter of farewell and appreciation to Mrs. J. Nelson Thomson, of Stonington who has been a faithful chairman of White Cross work in Stonington Union association for several years past, and is leaving soon for a new home in New York state.

Mrs. Scates had charge of a program on home mission work among Spanish-speaking people on this continent. Beginning with work among Latin-Americans in New York city, letters were read from workers in charge of missions in Denver, Los Angeles, Puebla, Mexico; Chaguas, P. R.; Santa Anna, San Salvador, and Managua, Nicaragua, telling interesting affairs of every-day life in schools and hospitals. A letter from Rio Piedras, P. R., was read telling of the joy the gifts from northern friends brought to that devastated country at Christmas time and a personal letter from Rev. V. D. and Mary Roberts, former friends and parishioners of Rev. E. E. Scates, and written to him. They are now stationed at a mission in Bolivia, South America. Those who took part were Miss Belle Guy, Mrs. B. M. Gray, Mrs. R. A. Wilbur, Mrs. Scates, Mrs. G. H. Prior, Mrs. A. M. Brown, Mrs. S. F. Brown and Mrs. B. R. Gardner. Mrs. Brown served refreshments. Nine women were present.

Each club is to furnish some number for the program. There have been a series of three meetings, this being the final one, as a good fellowship get-together of the men of different churches.

A valentine social is to be held by the Congregational Sunday school Friday evening.

Mrs. Wilbur in Charge

The World Wide Guild Girls met at Miss Winifred Scates' home Tuesday evening, with ten present. The subject was Here a Quack and There a Quack, referring to obstacles that confront medical missionaries in Africa, the program being in charge of Mrs. R. A. Wilbur. One of the inspiring features was the drilling in song and cheers, for which Margaret Jordan played. The hostess served marshmallow coffee whip, fancy cookies and fruit punch.

The holiday turkey, of whatever variety, traces its ancestry back to some of the four species that once grew wild in America.

Burgess Bedtime Story

Danny's Feelings Are Hurt.

With those you love be not too curt,
Lest tender feelings you may hurt.
—Danny Meadow Mouse.

It was a very happy home that Danny and Nanny Meadow Mouse had under the big haystack, because day after day passed without a single fight. It was like another little world by itself under that big haystack. It was fun to burrow around underneath the hay. It was fun to make little passages in the hay itself. Danny was as fat as ever, for living was good. Nanny was fat, too. It mattered nothing how Roustí Brother North Wind might howl and blow. It mattered nothing how Jack Frost pinched. For under there neither Rough Brother North Wind nor Jack Frost could get.

Nanny had made a very snug, cosy little home. It was nicely hidden, too. If you had peeked under the haystack you wouldn't have discovered it right away. Only she and Danny knew of it. Nanny spent considerable time there—much more than Danny did. But when Danny set down a short distance away to think it over.

Danny chose to come home he was always welcome, if Nanny happened to be there, and usually she was there. And then there came the day when Danny's feelings were hurt.

It came about in this way. Danny had been away from home a little longer than usual. When he had left home Nanny had not seemed quite herself. She had been a little bit crumpy. Anyway, this is the way it had seemed to Danny. At first, Danny had thought it was because Nanny didn't want him to leave her. Then he decided that it wasn't this at all. In fact, Nanny acted as if she would be glad to see the last of him. So Danny was himself a little out of sorts when they parted.

But by the time he returned he had forgotten all about it. He had had a good time and he was in fine spirits. "All I want now is a good nap," said Danny. "I'm tired. I've got such a nice home to go to."

He reached the snug little home and poked his nose in at the doorway. Then he pulled it out again in a hurry. Nanny was in a terrible temper. Anyway she had ordered him out. Not only that, but she had ordered him to stay out. And at the same time she had shown her teeth in a way that Danny didn't like at all. They were sharp teeth. They were the kind of teeth that could cut. Danny had no desire to have Nanny try them on him.

Danny sat down a short distance away to think it over. His feelings were hurt; he didn't understand it at all. "I don't see what is the matter with Nanny," said he. "No, sir, I don't see what is the matter with Nanny. Why should she treat me like this. It's my home just as much as hers. Wasn't I the one to think of the old haystack? Didn't I show her the way to get here? She hasn't any right at all to treat me like this. Perhaps she thought it was some one else. I'll try again."

So Danny ventured to timidly approach the doorway again. He stopped just outside. "Nanny," he called softly, in that squeaky little voice of his. "It is me, Danny. Don't you know your Danny?"

"Go away!" said a sharp voice. "Go away and stay away. There is no place for you here now. And for goodness sake, do stop bothering me! I have troubles enough without having you around."

Danny went off and once more sat down. "Trouble enough," he said, over and over to himself. "Troubles enough. Now what does she mean by troubles? She didn't have any troubles when I left her. I should say that I was the one with troubles. Well, I've got to have a nap, so I'll go somewhere else."

Cold Means Nothing to Race Enthusiast!

Driving in the open, in all kinds of weather, even those who are used to it will contract colds. They needn't worry anyone who knows a certain compound that comes in plain, white tablets. It kills a cold so quickly you can hardly believe it's the tablet that did it. Just one heads-off a cold that's coming-on; a bad cold you've had for several days may take several.

SUGAR IS BOON IN DAILY DIET

The Truth About Sugar and Tooth Structure

There has been so much talk in this country about teeth that we recently asked an outstanding dental authority to discuss dental care from the standpoint of sweets.

"Sugar in the diet," he says, "has no effect on the tooth structure of either child or adult. Wherever people have poor teeth, it is not a case of sugar but due to some other cause which sufficient study would reveal."

It may be heredity or faulty diet during childhood or later. Children, in order to develop good teeth and bones, must have the vitamins and minerals of milk, cereals, fruits and vegetables. Adults must continue to include these in their diet if the teeth and bones are to remain healthy.

Note how sugar may actually be a help to good teeth. It encourages children and adults to eat the needed foods. Sugar makes milk, in milk-shakes, and also cereals, fruits and vegetables delicious. People will eat foods that bring pleasure, and sweetness develops the fine flavor of healthful foods.

No sweet or starchy food, or other food, must be permitted to stick to or lodge in the teeth. Keep the teeth clean, see a dentist regularly, and balance the diet with milk, cereals, fruits and vegetables. Sugar makes dieting for good teeth a pleasure. The best cooks are generous with sugar. PRICES IRREGULAR AS MARKET CLOSED, DUE TO DELUGE OF SELLING ORDERS

NEW YORK, Feb. 13—(AP)—The stock market was pushed about in confusing fashion by frequent shifts of speculative sentiment today. The market displayed considerable buoyancy at times, but heavy selling in the last few minutes of trading left prices highly irregular.

The failure of the directors of the New York Federal Reserve bank at their special meeting on Monday to announce any definite action to curtail the use of credit brought a heavy accumulation of buying orders over the holiday, which carried prices up sharply during the morning. Some unusually bearish commission house advices brought considerable selling into the market around mid-day but the upward movement was resumed during the afternoon, as call money returned to the 6 per cent, having opened at 7 1-2.

Traders displayed uneasiness about the regular federal reserve meeting tomorrow. Although brokers' loans are expected to show a substantial reduction, some definite action to restrict credit available for speculation is still expected. Fears are not generally felt over the rediscount rate, as an increase here would nullify the action in London last week. Time money continued firm, and dealers' buying rates for bankers' acceptances were increased 1-8 of one per cent, which was interpreted in some quarters as indicating that the reserve bank is tightening credit by lightening its holding of bills.

Trade and business news was favorable. Iron Age said production is sustained, following January records in both pig iron and steel output, and prices of rolled steel are gaining in strength. Iron Trade Review said February steel making rate indicates another monthly record and brings within reach the highest daily ingot rate in history. Underwood Elliott Fisher Fisher reported earnings of $6.45 a share last year, against $5.41 for the component companies of the present concern in 1927. After the close of the market, directors of Wesson Oil and Snowdrift declared a 100 per cent stock dividend.

Coppers were outstanding in group strength, about 10 issues reaching new high levels, but they encountered heavy profit taking at the close. Buying of this group was stimulated by talk in the trade of still higher prices for the red metal, and announcement that January shipments reached a record volume. Anaconda and Kennecott mounted about 3 and 6 points to new peaks, but lost much of their gains. Greene Cananea moved up about 3 points, then fell back 7.

American and Foreign Power and American Railway Express, mounted about 11 and 6 points to new tops, and retained most of their gains. Johns Manville moved up 8 points, and reacted 11; Radio mounted 8 points, and fell back 10; Wright Aero jumped 11 points, and closed practically unchanged.

U. S. Steel sold up to 150, and closed at 175 3-4, off about a point. Motors were mostly heavy, Chrysler losing nearly 3 points. American Tobacco B, Canadian Pacific, General Electric, Goodyear, and Pere Marquette were among issues losing 2 to 3 points.

The commodity markets were firm, with the notable exception of sugar, refined prices dropping 1-5 of a cent to 4.90 cents a pound, the lowest in nearly three years. Cotton improved on expectation of a good consumption report, due tomorrow, but encountered realizing toward the close. Wheat sold up about 3 cents in active buying for Europe, and corn was firm.

The foreign exchanges were irregular. Sterling was somewhat firmer during most of the day, the demand rate again getting above $4.85, but the Canadian dollar fell to 99.70 5-16 cents, the lowest in about five weeks.

NEW YORK, Feb. 12—(AP)—Unusually high margin requirements, which average around a 35 per cent minimum in most of the leading commission houses, are believed to have forestalled any extensive "distress selling" in the recent reaction caused by adverse credit developments. In the old days when 10 to 20 per cent margins were common, a warning such as the federal reserve board issued recently would have resulted in the closing out of thousands of weakened speculative accounts, and possibly some casualties among the smaller brokerage houses. In the break early this month, relatively few margin calls were sent out, and most of these were speedily complied with.

Steel ingot production has increased to 87 per cent of capacity. A year ago it was around 86 per cent and two weeks ago at about 85 per cent. United States Steel corporation is at 89 per cent compared with 88 per cent a week ago and above 90 per cent a year ago. Independents are at 84 per cent compared with 82 per cent two weeks ago and 89 per cent a year ago. The peak is expected to be reached in March or April.

Upwards of 75 brokerage houses with stock exchange memberships have signed a petition requesting the exchange to adopt the so-called skip delivery of securities which would permit deliveries of securities on the second day following the contract instead of the first day, as at present.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Feb. 13—(AP)—In a sudden rush to buy wheat today, the market ran up fast 3 3-8c a bushel, outdoing all of this season's previous topmost records. Export business in wheat from North America was of unusual big volume, nearly 1,500,000 bu., and increased anxiety prevailed regarding widespread unfavorable crop conditions, especially over Europe and India, as well as large sections of domestic winter wheat territory.

Closing quotations on wheat were strong at virtually the day's highest level, showing 2 5-8c to 3 3-8c net advance. Corn finished 1 1-8c up, oats 5-8c to 1c gain, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 22c.

In addition to free buying of wheat for immediate shipment to Europe, much of today's purchasing of Chicago wheat future deliveries was credited to trans-Atlantic sources. Reports at hand indicated almost unprecedented adverse weather conditions in Europe, and the stimulating effect of these reports was given added impetus by official and private advices telling of continued ground for apprehension about domestic winter wheat prospects, especially in parts of Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska. Abnormal cold in Europe, however, was the chief incentive for the stampede which ensued to the buying side of the market.

Aside from pessimistic crop reports, much notice was taken of authoritative estimates pointing to huge consumption of wheat the world over and apparently giving promise of wiping out excess supplies much sooner than in general has been expected. It was figured that so far this season Europe alone has taken more than 24,000,000 bushels above the total a year ago, and that non-European countries have absorbed more than 32,000,000 bushels beyond the corresponding amount last year. Under such circumstances, wheat offerings here today were relatively scarce from start to finish, and for the most part appeared to be confined to traders who were in a position to realize a profit. Late announcement of 2,352,000 bushels increase of the world's available supply in the last week was practically ignored, and so too was word that Kansas City had sold 400,000 bushels of wheat today to be moved to Chicago. Corn, rye and oats moved up in price with wheat. Corn shipping demand here was more active, and France was said to have become a buyer of corn. Provisions were responsive to strength shown by hog values and to reports of liberal consumption of cotton oil.

AGRICULTURAL INDUSTRY OUTLOOK IN THIS STATE

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Feb. 12—A general healthful condition for the agricultural industry of Connecticut was indicated for the coming year by agricultural experts who met Monday and today at the Connecticut Agricultural college for the purpose of formulating the agricultural outlook for 1929. Six branches of agricultural production were considered by the experts at this meeting who represented the extension service of the state college, in cooperation with the New England Research council and the New England Crop reporting service. Allen W. Manchester, extension farm management specialist, presided ove the sessions of the various meetings.

Favorable prices for milk in Connecticut during 1929 is seen by the agricultural experts. The demand for fluid milk is expected to increase due to the increases in the state's population. Feed prices are not expected to rise during the next six months as much as they did during the same period last year.

Although the cow population has remained stationary during the past year, indications are, according to the report, that cow prices are approaching a peak. Specialists maintain that dairymen may expect to purchase replacements during the next few years at somewhat lower prices.

Egg prices for Connecticut may be expected, according to the report, to be probably lower this spring than last. This period of low prices will be followed by relatively high fall prices. Indications are for relatively higher poultry meat prices throughout the season with the possible exception of early broilers.

The purpose of an outlook statement, according to the farm management specialist, Allen W. Manchester, is to enable the farmer of the state to adjust his plans and his production to the market situations that lie ahead. The following outlook statement according to Professor Manchester, endeavors to give in concise form to the agricultural industry of Connecticut the same service that is being used by all businesses to rapidly increasing extent.

Indications are that the price of milk in Connecticut for 1929 will be at least as high as in 1928. Feed prices during the first half of this year are not expected to rise as much as during the first six months of last year. Demand for fluid milk should continue to increase as a result of population.

A continued readjustment of seasonal production is necessary to meet fluid milk shortage in the months of September, October and November and to avoid the surplus that exists in April, May and June.

The cow population in Connecticut remained stationary at 109,000 between January 1, 1928 and January 1, 1929. There is now one yearling heifer for each 8.4 cows in the state which is not sufficient for our normal replacement requirements.

The general situation should not discourage the raising of healthy, high class heifers for replacement purposes.

Tuberculosis eradication and losses through contagious abortion and contagious garget may retard the anticipated fall of prices of cows in Connecticut.

The outlook for vegetables is for a continuation and perhaps an increase in the keen competition Connecticut vegetable growers are meeting from other parts of the United States. Not only is the volume of arrivals of competing products increasing but in respect to both packing and grading they are superior to much of the local product.

In view of this situation, the Connecticut vegetable grower in his production plans should emphasize the quality and should attemp to sell a product graded and packed to meet the demand of the market. If the Connecticut vegetable growers can make the needed improvements in grading and packing, the long time outlook is not discouraging.

For 1929, there seems to be some danger in this state of too great an acreage increase in certain vegetables which brought high prices last year, particularly out-door Big Boston type lettuce, cabbage and tomatoes. There is likely to be a decided increase in the production of these commodities in states which compete with Connecticut.

The indications are that prices of these vegetables will be lower in 1929 than 1928 unless weather conditions are unfavorable for the crops.

The outlook for the poultry industry has not changed materially since last year. Egg prices for the spring of 1929 will probably be lower than last season followed by relatively higher fall prices. Prices for poultry meat are likely to be higher throughout the season, with the possible exception of early broilers.

The immediate outlook for apples in Connecticut for marketing of the remainder of the 1928 crop is for continued strong competition on local markets from competing sections.

In Connecticut the long time outlook seems to be more promising than in many other sections because Connecticut producers are nearer to markets and natural conditions are well suited to the production of high quality apples.

Potato prices in Connecticut are largely controlled by the supply of potatoes in the entire country. A crop of 400 million bushels of tubers in 1929, should result in prices in Connecticut higher than in 1928 but somewhat lower than those of 1927. The 1927 Connecticutp rice was abnormally high for the volume of production occurred so far west that it had little effect on eastern prices.

MAJORITY LEADER URGES SPEED IN LEGISLATURE

Governor Trumbull's criticism of the slowness with which the general assembly is disposing of its work under the present legislative system is meeting with a difference of opinion from leaders of the senate and the house.

Judge Frederick M. Peasley of Cheshire, senate chairman of the judiciary committee and majority leader of the upper house, agrees with the governor and would favor a bill covering the situation. On the other hand, Judge Raymond A. Johnson of Manchester, house chairman of the judiciary committee and majority leader of the lower house, is skeptical and would have to be convinced of the need of a new system before he would advocate a change in procedure.

Senator Peasley said he is willing to work overtime and if necessary to meet with his committee at night if such a policy was advisable. Representative Johnson, however, feels that little is accomplished at committee meetings held at night. Neither was in a position to estimate when the present session might end. Judge Peasley declared that the judiciary committee, which Governor Trumbull specifically mentioned in his speech of criticism at the McKinley club dinner, Thursday evening, has already laid out all the work possible and the termination of the session depends upon the despatch with which this program can be completed.

"It is too early to fix a date of adjournment," Sen. Peasley remarked. "I am willing to work overtime if the occasion demands. As for the other members of the committee, they have always co-operated satisfactorily."

Judge Peasley agrees with the governor that much time is wasted in the early days of the session during which a time limit for new business is fixed. This year that limit was Feb. 1. Judge Peasley feels that the present system is responsible for this period during which there are practically no committee meetings.

"The arrangements under which we operate causes a waste of time before we get going. There is an act or two before the legislature, one of them Miss Cheney's bill seeking relief along this line. I am not familiar with these bills and cannot say whether I favor them or not. But I feel as the governor does about the general situation. If the committee feels a committee bill meeting the governor's criticism should be reported in I would be in favor of it."

Judge Johnson said he has been unable to discover any fundamental defects in the present system and was inclined to view with disfavor any attempt to shorten the term for any other reason than merely to hasten legislation.

"We are further ahead by two weeks than at the same period of the last session" the house leader said. "I suppose there are ways of speeding up the work, but I am not yet convinced of the necessity of so doing. It seems to me the state still exists and is not harmed by the present system. Of course, if the session can be brought to an end sooner, I would be just as pleased as others, but I haven't seen any way of doing it yet."

Judge Johnson explained that probably 200 bills are now assigned for hearings and if these come up as scheduled the work of the committees will be accomplished as quickly as can be expected. The major reason for delay, in his opinion, is the clamor of interested parties for a late hearing on their bills, and, since the hearings are assigned like cases in court, the committee feels it a duty to satisfy these claims for postponement just as judges co-operate with lawyers who petition for a continuance because of inability to bring witnesses on the day assigned. Judge Johnson cited as an example of this situation the hearing on the real estate bill on Friday afternoon. Because the proponents of the licensing measure wanted to bring in testimony from people outside the state who were unable to attend the early hearing, the committee adjourned the hearing until the latter part of this month. If those witnesses had been present, he said, the bill could have been disposed of in executive session sooner than is now possible.

"It is not good business to hurry through these measures simply for the sake of speed," Judge Johnson said. "It is our aim to give all the bills a fair hearing. If the work will progress as we have outlined it and if the committees are not loaded with bills towards the close of the session as they were last session and the wheels are kept turning steadily, we can close at the same time as we did at the last session."

An international engagement was announced at New Bedford. Miss Laurilla Baillargeon, New Bedford singer, will sail for Paris in May to wed P. Henri Sabourin, assistant manager of the Paris branch of the Royal Bank of Canada whom she met at one of her concerts in France.

"I light up a Lucky

whenever I am tempted to eat between meals"

Herbert Bayard Swope

Herbert Bayard Swope,
Internationally known journalist,
former Executive Editor, N. Y. Morning World

"The activities of a newspaper demand good physical condition. I find Lucky Strike an immeasurable aid in helping me keep trim and fit. Whenever I am tempted to eat between meals, I light up a Lucky. Toasting makes Lucky Strike the cigarette of joy and benefit."

HERBERT BAYARD SWOPE

THE modern common sense way—reach for a Lucky instead of a fattening sweet. Everyone is doing it—men keep healthy and fit, women retain a trim figure. Lucky Strike, the finest tobaccos, skilfully blended, then toasted to develop a flavor which is a delightful alternative for that craving for fattening sweets.

Toasting frees Lucky Strike from impurities. 20,679 physicians recognize this when they say Luckies are less irritating than other cigarettes. That's why folks say: "It's good to smoke Luckies."

Note: Authorities attribute the enormous increase in Cigarette smoking to the improvement in the process of Cigarette manufacture by the application of heat. It is true that during the year 1928, Lucky Strike Cigarettes showed a greater increase than all other Cigarettes combined. This confirms in no uncertain terms the public's confidence in the superiority of Lucky Strike.

Breed Theatre

How club men conduct themselves during strange "business" trips—and in the locker rooms of their favorite golf links, is exposed in Fox Films "Red Wine," which opens at the Breed theatre next Sunday.

Interpreting the chief male roles are Conrad Nagel, Arthur Stone and the "four friends," Ernest Hilliard, Ernest Wood, Marshall Ruth and E. Alyn Warren.

The feminine leading role is in the hands of June Collyer, the dazzling beauty of the Fox studio, who for beauty of the Fox studio, who recently was raised from the excellent work in "Me, Gangster," and Sharon Lynn, a siren of exquisite charms.

The story is an original by Raymond Cannon and the picture also was directed by him. Frank Gay assisted in the direction, while Dan Clark turned the chief camera crank.

Broadway Theatre

What will probably prove to be one of the outstanding song hits of the season was written as the theme song for "The Shopworn Angel," the Nancy Carroll-Gary Cooper picture which the Broadway theatre will show for three days, starting today. The song is "A Precious Little Thing Called Love" and was written by Lew Davis and J. Fred Coots.

Nancy Carroll is heard singing the song during one stirring sequence and this colorful introduction, combined with the catchy and appealing music and words, has induced a universal acceptance of the song. The Remick Music corporation of New York city has published the song and music dealers report a large sale of sheet music and records.

Nancy Carroll's fame as a singer in Sound films rivals the fame she has achieved as a moving picture personality and actress. In "Abie's Irish Rose," she sang two songs, both of which have become popular.

The solemn words of the minister; the reply of the groom, Gary Cooper, and the choked sob of the bride, Nancy Carroll, as she faints, abruptly ending this ceremony, are heard by the audience.

During the spectacular revue rehearsal scene, the caustic comments of Roscoe Karns to the chorus girls provide many laughs and the tinkling of the piano as the girls go through their routine gives the scene a liveliness and reality.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Connecticut College Concert.

Nikolai Sokoloff, conductor of the Cleveland orchestra is known throughout the world as a master-interpreter of Russian music. Critics of the United States and of Europe have unanimously accorded him that recognition.

Sokoloff was born near Kiev, of a family whose name has been prominent in the musical life of Russia for a century and a half. Naturally, the Cleveland orchestra, under a conductor so sensitive to the inner meanings and the deep significance of the writings of his fellow-countrymen has an advantage over others.

The Rachmaninoff Symphone No. 2 in E minor which the orchestra will play Thursday evening is considered one of the especially interesting achievements of both conductor and orchestra. It has been accorded enthusiastic praise by the composer himself, and how that came about is a little story by itself. Some seven or eight years ago Sokoloff was spending the summer in a country place near San Francisco where Rachmaninoff was also vacationing. Sokoloff had long been a student of the Russian composer-pianist's works and had given careful consideration to one of the most important of them, the E minor Symphony. He felt that it was too long-drawn for practical concert purposes, so he sought out the composer, "just to feel him out on his own sentiment regarding it."

"You know I was much younger and more voluble when I wrote that symphony," Rachmaninoff told the Cleveland conductor; "I believe we can revise it and make it shorter."

So Sokoloff brought back from the west, his own score as marked by Rachmaninoff himself. This was in the Cleveland orchestra's third season, 1920-1921.

Palace Theatre.

The new show that opens at the Palace theatre today is headed by one of Jack De Sylvia's productions Realm of Beauty, this is a gorgeous song and dance revue with beautiful girls, costumes and scenery. Elsie & Pansy in Musical Moments, Walsh & Kramer in We Better Sing, Sparling & Rose in comedy galore and opening this well balanced program is Jimmy Fletcher in his one man vaudeville show.

The picture at the Palace theatre today, Friday and Saturday entitled "Sinners' Parade" is gripping drama revealing the secrets in the dual careers of men and women who pose as saints by day and live the lives of sinners at night.

It is vividly enacted against colorful backgrounds and luxurious surroundings. There are thrills, sensational sequences, love, romance, pathos and tragedy in the action.

Under the skillful direction of John G. Adolfi, the Columbia production has become a masterpiece of human struggles in search of happiness under the crushing hand of economic pressure. The plot deals with conditions and situations familiar to every man, woman and child and forcefully presents the drama in them.

$5,000 DAMAGE SUIT WILL GO TO JURY THIS MORNING

The $5,000 damage suit brought by Etta Partelio of New London against John J. Murphy and Mellenda Frink, both of New London, will go to the jury this (Thursday) morning. Trial of the case was started Wednesday morning in the superior court in New London before the jury and Judge Christopher L. Avery and the entire day was devoted to hearing testimony. During the late afternoon the arguments were started and were completed, with the exception of one argument. This argument will be made when court convenes this (Thursday) morning after which the judge will charge the jury. It is probable that the case wil go to the jury about noon.

The plaintiff is suing for injuries alleged to have been received on the evening of Oct. 3, 1927, when she fell upon the sidewalk in front of the property belonging to Mellenda Frink at the corner of Jay and Franklin streets in New London.

Murphy is a mason contractor who was on the job with other contractors such as carpenters, etc.

The defendant, Mellenda Frink, claims that she is not responsible for the accident because the work was not let out to any one contractor but to various ones and that if there was any negligence it was not her fault.

Attorney George Curtis Morgan represents the plaintiff, and Attorneys Perry J. Hollandersky and Foster K. Sistare represent Mellenda Frink, and Attorney C. Hadlai Hull the defendant, Murphy.

The plaintiff rested at 11:45 o'clock Wednesday morning, at which time the jury was excused while Attorneys Hull and Hollandersky each made motions for non-suit in behalf of their respective clients. Both motions were denied.

MRS. JACKSON LEFT TWO NOTES, ONE TO ATT'Y KING, THE OTHER TO TRENOR RICE

Contents of the Rice Note Have Not Been Divulged—Medical Examiner Mason Said in the Other Note Mrs. Jackson Took Full Blame For Slaying Her Husband and Exonerated Trenor A. Rice, Now Under Indictment For the Crime—Miss Juanita Jackson Remains at the Jackson Home.

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 14—Two notes, instead of one, were found on the body of Mrs. William E. Jackson, widow of County Detective William E. Jackson, who committed suicide late Wednesday afternoon at her home here, it was revealed here tonight on excellent authority. The notes were enclosed in one envelope which was stamped and bore the name and address of Attorney William A. King, senior defense for Trenor A. Rice. The main note was to Attorney King. According to statements made this afternoon by Medical Examiner Louis I. Mason, the note was an attempt on the part of Mrs. Jackson to exonerate Rice. The woman assumed blame for the killing of her husband and went into some detail on the manner in which the crime was committed. While this was not substantiated by Dr. Mason's statement it is believed that Mrs. Jackson advanced some motive for the murder which she claims she is responsible for.

Also enclosed in the letter to King was a shorter note addressed to Trenor Rice. Nothing is known as to the contents of the note to Rice, or whether he will be permitted to see it or not. Coroner Bill said tonight that the messages would be held by him until after the inquest and then turned over to the state authorities. The inquest which was started by Coroner Bill on Wednesday and was halted by the unforeseen act of Mrs. Jackson will be resumed in a few days. Coroner Bill said that Mrs. Jackson's suicide was not done on the impulse of the moment but had been carefully planned.

As the envelope was stamped and addressed it is thought that Mrs. Jackson had intended to mail it but an opportunity did not present itself during the day, so she concealed the note in her stocking and it was found after she had been removed from the house to the undertaking parlors.

Statements made by the investigators indicate that they are still confident that the note purported to exonerate Rice will not in any way relieve him from the first degree murder charge which he now faces. County Detective Edward J. Hickey of Hartford said today that the note would not interfere with the plans to try Rice since Mrs. Jackson, in two conferences which she had held with Hickey, had implicated Rice in the murder.

Coroner Bill said today that he would not hold an autopsy on the body of Mrs. Jackson. The .22-calibre bullet which penetrated from the chest, through the heart, was found lodged just under the skin of her back and was easily removed without probing. The wound did not bleed externally.

Mrs. Arthur C. Wakling, a sister of Rice, and her husband of New Rochelle, N. Y., were at the county jail in Brooklyn this afternoon and talked to Rice for about ten minutes. Deputy Jailor Walter S. Tripp, who stood within sight of the trio but not within hearing distance, said that he did not know whether they had told Rice of the suicide of Mrs. Jackson. In event that they did, Jailor Tripp said that during the brief conversation Rice gave no outward emotion of hearing anything unusual. Attorney King is said to have requested Mr. and Mrs. Wakling not to inform Rice of the suicide. Sheriff Charles A. Gates said tonight that he would not tell Rice of the suicide and that the accused was not allowed to read the newspapers.

County Detective Hickey, Officer Hurley, State's Attorney Howard C. Bradford, Coroner Bill and Medical Examiner Mason arrived in a group at the undertaking parlors of Avery & VanZandt late this forenoon. While Coroner Bill and Examiner Mason retired to the morgue to view the body,

AT ODDS OVER CRUISER CONSTRUCTION PROGRAM

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14—(AP)—President Coolidge and congress found themselves at odds again today over when to start the newly authorized cruiser construction program.

Early in the day the president forwarded a budget recommendation of $12,370,000 for beginning work on five of the 15 cruisers and the airplane carrier during the next fiscal year, beginning July 1.

Within a few hours the senate appropriations sub-committee considering the navy department appropriation bill voted to make $700,000 of this fund available for an immediate start on five of the cruisers during the current fiscal year. Five more ships would be put under way, then, during the approaching fiscal year.

This program follows the provisions of the time clause voted into the cruiser bill over the protest of Mr. Coolidge. It stipulated that five cruisers should be laid down this year, ending June 30; five the next, and five the following.

The program sent to congress today by the president could have provided for only five cruisers up to June 30, 1930, whereas the course voted by the senate sub-committee sticks by the terms of the bill to start ten cruisers during that period.

They said they would be married later in the day at All Souls Unitarian church here, but inquiry at the church revealed that no record of marriages today were available because the pastor was out of the city.

LONG SESSION OF FED. RESERVE BANK DIRECTORS

NEW YORK, Feb. 14—(AP)—The New York Federal Reserve bank directors held a gruelling 5-hour session today, the longest in the history of the bank, presumably discussing means of cracking the extraordinarily hard nut of restraining the use of credit for speculation, but they made no change in the rediscount rate, and declined to discuss the protracted session in any way.

The federal reserve board, which last week issued an ultimatum to the effect that the use of credit for stock speculation must be checked, in the interests of business prosperity, was in session simultaneously at Washington, and did not adjourn until the meeting broke up in New York, at 6:50 p. m.

The experts of the various allied countries put questions to which the Germans replied with good grace.

The committee decided that the morning session was sufficient for today and gave the delegations the afternoon in which to digest the mass of information and figures presented by the Germans since the problem of revision of the Dawes plan was tackled early in the week.

SLIGHT BREAK IN THE COLD WAVE IN EUROPE

LONDON, Feb. 14—(AP)—The weight of extreme cold over Europe lightened a few degrees today but suffering increased due to depletion of fuel and food under the severe restrictions of the snow and ice embargo.

In Czechoslovakia 143 passenger trains were taken off in order that coal might be rushed to freezing communities in Austria and Hungary. In Berlin appeals were posted in the universities for volunteer helpers in the lignite fields to increase the fuel output. In Warsaw people formed in long lines to purchase fuel. The small quantity of coal in storage was rationed out ten kilos to each person.

Series Of Manhole Explosions In Boston

BOSTON, Feb. 14—(AP)—Terrific underground gas explosions, which hurled manhole covers skyward with great velocity and shattered plate glass windows, caused injuries to more than 40 persons in the downtown mercantile district late today.

More than a score were treated for their injuries, most of which were not serious, at the Haymarket relief station and the Massachusetts General hospital. Two of the injured remained at the relief station for observation. They were:

Ida Nash, 28, Brockton, severe cuts about the head.

Priscilla Conrad, 29, Boston, internal injuries and arm tendons severed.

The explosions, which followed each other at intervals, occurred in the vicinity of Summer and Chauncey streets, when evening commuter traffic to the South Station and nearby subway stations was at its peak. Thousands milled about the streets in panic, frantically trying to escape injury. Many were trampled under foot in the confusion.

Occupants of buildings shaken by the blasts fled to the streets, adding to the general disorder. Passengers in the Washington street subway station nearby became alarmed at the repercussion.

Police attributed the cause of the explosions to a short circuit of high voltage wires in electric power conduits. Snow and ice were believed to have sealed the vents in the covers which ordinarily permit gases to escape.

Many persons, unaccounted for by police in their checkup of injured, were known to have received burns and cuts. These left the scene hurriedly and did not report for treatment at hospitals.

Several policemen and firemen received minor injuries. One man, who was standing on a manhole cover, was hurled through a plate glass window but escaped with nothing more than a shaking up. A curious boy dropped into an open manhole and was bruised about the body. Most of those taken to the hospitals had bruises and cuts from falling glass. Some who were near the manholes received slight burns.

TROUBLE OVER GAMBLING RAIDS NEAR NEW ORLEANS

NEW ORLEANS, La., Feb. 14—(AP)—Following a series of raids early this morning, a day after the close of New Orleans' riotous Mardi Gras season, threats were hurled today between Governor Huey P. Long and proprietors and patrons of night clubs over the gambling campaigns of the state militia outside the city limits.

Several times in the last few weeks Governor Long has used the troops in raiding alleged gambling houses on the edge of the city but a bitter controversy has arisen over the search of patrons found in the establishments in the latest three simultaneous raids.

Today's raids marked the first time the troops had seized money found on the persons of patrons and their authority has been challenged by both operators and guests. The first to complain was Fred P. Kriss, race horse owner of Detroit, who with Mrs. Kriss, refused to submit to search when the troops descended on the Tranchina night club.

They were taken to Jackson barracks by the troops, where Kriss charges three guardsmen seized Mrs. Kriss and took her to a back room where non-commissioned officers' wives stripped her in search of money. When they were released at 10 o'clock Kriss said his wife required a physician's attention for nervousness.

He declared he will go to court as neither he nor his wife had gambled and when the troops arrived they were dining.

Mrs. A. G. Stuart, of San Francisco, reported that she was forced by the soldiers to permit a matron to remove her clothing. The sum of $500, she said she had won at the races, was confiscated, she asserted.

LIQUOR SEIZED FROM VALET OF CHRYSLER

HONOLULU, Feb. 14—(AP)—Eighty-three bottles of intoxicants, including whisky, gin and champagne, were seized by customs officers yesterday when the valet of Walter P. Chrysler, automobile magnate, attempted to carry them off the steamship Malolo upon arrival from San Francisco. Mrs. Jeannett Hyde, collector of customs, said that the usual $5 per bottle would be levied.

The contraband was discovered when a whisky bottle was broken. Suspicions of the customs officers were aroused when Chrysler's servant carried bags off the ship instead of permitting the stewards to handle them.

Lindbergh Spent Half A Day Fishing

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 14—(AP)—Emulating President-elect Hoover's example to get away from the strain of crowds and business affairs, Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh this afternoon became a fisherman for half a day.

During a 24 hour period the flier had had a strenuous time, ending a return flight from Panama with the inaugural air mail and making two flights in search of stranded fellow airmen and as a result slept late this morning.

With J. M. Baton, traffic manager of the Pan-American Air Ways, for which the colonel is technical adviser, Lindbergh took a boat and sailed out beyond the breakers for a quiet angling session. He had a dinner engagement with the president-elect who is his next door neighbor, and this made the fishing trip necessarily brief.

Today Lindbergh made a statement about his engagement to Miss Anne Morrow, daughter of the American ambassador to Mexico. Characteristically terse, it was that he believed "the announcement is sufficient acknowledgement of the engagement."

Lindbergh's future plans remained somewhat hazy although he said he expected to leave here in a few days. He has been invited by Howard Coffin to stop at Sapelo Island, Ga., for some hunting and fishing but indicated today he might not accept this invitation. He declared that all reports relative to any stops between Miami and Washington were unauthorized.

The colonel plans to go to Washington for conferences before setting out on an aerial survey of the east and west Trans-Continental air mail route.

After returning from one flight yesterday in search of the Hoyt amphibian plane, whose crew, unknown to the colonel, had been rescued by a ferryboat off Key West, Lindbergh took off again last night to seek the Sikorsky plane in which Harry Rogers and three companions were missing. After a search along the keys, Lindbergh returned, intending to resume his search today, but meanwhile the stranded plane was located on Pine Bay, of Grand Andros Island.

PLANS FOR MORE INTENSIVE "DRY" LAW ENFORCEMENT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14—(AP)—Plans for a more intensive enforcement of the national prohibition law were being prepared today by the bureaus of prohibition and customs of the treasury department following the department's request to the house appropriations committee for $2,500,000 additional funds for the services.

The request which will be transmitted in the usual manner through the budget bureau will provide $1,500,000 more for the prohibition bureau and $1,000,000 additional for the customs service. A supplemental estimate for the money had been expected to go to the committee today but was not sent by the budget bureau. Most of the funds, chiefs of each bureau said, will be used to increase personnel.

The treasury's decision to ask for the additional money for immediate use in strengthening the prohibition enforcement forces was made in answer to an inquiry from the house appropriations committee on how much money could be used at once for this purpose.

SHIPPING BOARD ACCEPTS THE CHAPMAN $16,300,000 BID

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14—(AP)—The bid of P. W. Chapman Inc., of $16,300,000 for the United States Lines and the American Merchant Line was accepted today by the shipping board.

Delayed for almost two weeks by a senate resolution asking that negotiations be held up until the senate commerce committee had examined all bids for the two lines, the board closed the deal shortly after being advised that the senate committee had voted not to obstruct the sale.

The terms of the sale provide that the Chapman interests operate the eleven vessels involved over their present routes for at least 10 years, and marks the entry for the first time in recent years of a private American firm in the North Atlantic passenger trade.

The new owners agreed to add new tonnage to the fleet of liners, including two vessels of at least 45,000 tons each, construction of which will be started within two years.

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14—The bill to refund the state of Connecticut the sum of $559,373 to the state of Connecticut for money advanced the government or expended by the state during the War of 1812 was favorably reported by the house judiciary committee today. The bill was sponsored by the Connecticut delegation, but none are members of the judiciary committee so Representative Stobbs of Massachusetts, an influential member of the committee assumed the burden of steering the bill through. The bill has a good chance of passing at this session.

SUMMARY OF ACTION IN LEGISLATURE

(Special to The Bulletin)

HARTFORD, Feb. 14—Nominations sent to the senate yesterday were received in the house this morning as follows:

Allyn L. Brown of Norwich to be a judge of the supreme court for the term of eight years from Aug. 13, 1929; Newell Jennings of Bristol, to be a judge of the superior court for the term of eight years from August 30, 1929; L. P. Waldo Marvin of Hartford to be a judge of the superior court for the term of eight years from May 3, 1929. They were all tabled for the calendar and later will be referred to the judiciary committee.

Among other nominations was that of Mrs. Martha H. C. Mitchell of Norwich to be a member of the department of public welfare for a term of four years from July 1, 1929. This was a re-appointment.

The confirmation of the judges will require majority action by both houses, but that of Mrs. Mitchell needs action by the senate only. The matter of discontinuing the office of county coroner is receiving the attention of many on account of the large sum called for by that in the deficiency bill.

Representative Elwin T. Clark of Haddam, house chairman of the appropriations committee has filed a bill prepared by him that has been assigned for hearing on Wednesday, February 27, before the judiciary committee that will legislate the corongers out of office. The Clark bill repeals all the statutes dealing with coroners, their appointment, powers and duties, and rewrites, these laws to give the state police commissioner jurisdiction. Medical examiners would be appointed by the state

MOST RUTHLESS SLAYING IN CHICAGO GANG HISTORY

Seven Unarmed Members of the "Bugs" Moran Gang, With Their Faces to the Wall, Were Mowed Down by Five Members of a Rival Gang, Who Posed as Policemen—Machine Guns and Pistols Were Used in the Massacre—All the Victims Were Well Dressed and Carried Considerable Money—Gang Victims in the Past Few Years Total More Than 135.

CHICAGO, Feb. 14—(AP)—Gangsters posing as policemen invaded the North Side stronghold of the George "Bugs" Moran gang today, lined up seven helpless, unarmed victims with their faces to a white brick wall, and mowed them down with automatic pistols and machine guns.

The wholesale execution was carried out at 10:30 o'clock this morning, with all the precision of an army firing squad. It was an innovation in Chicago gang history, which brought the total gang victims to more than 135 in the past few years.

Five men drove up to Moran's headquarters in a garage at 2122 North Clark street after putting through a telephone call inquiring whether certain members of the gang were there.

They rushed into the garage with drawn pistols and machine guns, informing the seven men they were police officers. Some of them flashed stars and others wore parts of police uniforms. Without ado they herded the victims to a courtyard in the rear.

Overhead gleamed a powerful electric light to make the work of the firing squad easier. Whether the victims realized they had been trapped by a clever ruse will never be known. There was a word from the leader, the clatter of machine guns and pistols and the massacre was completed.

A few minutes after the firing squad, still carrying the pistols and machine guns, sauntered out, climbed into an automobile, stowed the weapons in the rear and drove away. Apparently few persons heard the firing. A woman told a policeman that someone had been hurt in the garage and he entered to verify this prosaic report.

Six victims he found lying where they fell, feet to the wall their faces turned to the incandescent light overhead. A seventh victim, mortally wounded was found in another room, he lived for two hours but stoically maintained the gangland code of silence.

The garage, conducted as a blind for the North Side liquor runing syndicate, resembled a shambles. Blood spattered the walls. Scores of bullet holes postmarked the bricks. The victims, killed by their merciless executioners without having a chance at escape, sprawled grotesquely on the floor. The hats of some of them still at the same cocky angle affected by gangsters and hoodlums.

The wholesale slaughter, unlike any killings ever before attempted in the gang war of annihilation, created a furore in official circles. William R. Russell, police commissioner, went to the scene as did Coroner Herman N. Bundesen, and several assistant state's attorneys.

Russell, who a few weeks ago rounded up 3,000 persons in a drive against crime declared vehemently today's killings meant a war to death between gangs and police with no quarter asked or given. The wholesale raids will be as nothing to what is to follow, he added.

John A. Swanson, the new state's attorney, elected on a platform of law and order, refused to comment until an investigation had been finished, but Frank J. Loesch, his first assistant, said "things like this can happen only in a city where there is an active alliance between crime and politics."

The only living thing in the garage when the police arrived, aside from the mortally wounded man, was a fierce police dog, chained to a wall. The dog, which probably saw his master shot down, leaped the length of the chain at the police and snarled over the bodies of the victims.

ENGINEER KILLED IN SIDESWIPING ACCIDENT

FALL RIVER, Mass., Feb. 14—(AP)—An engineer was killed and a fireman seriously scalded, when a switching engine was sideswiped by a freight train at the entrance to the New York, New Haven and Hartford freight yards on Central street, early tonight.

William H. Gilman, of Fall River, the engineer, was hurled from the cab and his skull fractured apparently against a stone wall. Joseph Mason, the fireman, was taken to a hospital where his condition was regarded as serious.

Results of an early investigation indicated that the engine, which was manned by Gilman and Mason, was struck by an empty tank car on the rear of the freight train at a switching point. The cab was torn from the engine and the engine derailed. The two rear cars of the freight train were derailed but none of the freight crew was injured.

PRESIDENT-ELECT HOOVER TO VISIT EVERGLADES

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 14—(AP)—With his Florida vacation to end probably next Monday, President-elect Hoover will spend tomorrow and part of Saturday on a trip of inspection of the Lake Okeechobee district of southern Florida where it is proposed the federal government will spend more than $10,000,000 in flood relief and improving navigation.

In preparation for his departure for the Everglades tomorrow, Mr. Hoover cleared his desk of an accumulation of work, received more than a score of visitors and still found time for several hours of fishing on the edge of the Gulf Stream off Biscayne Bay. He thus availed himself of perhaps the last opportunity he will have to fish in Florida waters before he enters the white house on March 4.

NEW PROSPECT FOR NAVAL DISARMAMENT

LONDON, Feb. 14—(AP)—A new approach to the problem of naval disarmament, which has disturbed Anglo-American relations more serious than any other issue in recent years, is believed in authoritative quarters here to be imminent. It is understood that the British government is considering some means of eliminating the stumbling block of naval parity which caused the collapse of the Geneva conference and which appears unsurmountable as long as relative strength is based on tonnage.

Mr. Maas' wife died three weeks ago after the birth of a child. He was believed by friends to have suffered severely from the shock.

Representative Maas is a World war veteran, having served with the marine corps aviation unit ten months in France. He is serving his first term in the house and is a representative-elect to the new congress.

TWO DARTMOUTH STUDENTS PREFER TRAVEL TO BOOKS

HANOVER, N. H., Feb. 14—(AP)—Two Dartmouth students, William H. Cox, of West Haven, Conn., and Wilbur H. Ferry, of Grosse Pointe, Mich., prefer travel to books and tonight they were reported by roommates to be enroute to South America. Dartmouth officials stated that they believed the parents of the boys knew of their action, but that neither Cox nor Ferry had given notice of withdrawal. Cox left a letter addressed to his mother and asked that it be mailed after his departure, two roommates said.

Ferry, considered one of the finest athletes to enter Dartmouth in years, starred at center on the freshman football team and was considered a likely prospect for the varsity. Ferry's father, Hugh J. Ferry, is treasurer of the Packard Motor company. Cox is the youth who disappeared at Christmas time and was traced to Washington, D. C.

Chairman Morin declared the meeting was neither regular nor valid because it had not been called properly and said he would oppose any effort by the group that approved the bill to get action on the measure at this session. Describing the meeting as "unprecedented" and similar to a "rump convention," Morin declared the action "did not amount to anything."

REACTION TO PRESENCE OF TROTZKY IN TURKEY

CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 14—(AP)—The presence of Leon Trotsky within the boundaries of turkey has intensified the anti-communist regulations of the Turkish republic. Passport formalities, already extremely severe, have been made more stringent so as to exclude followers of the exile and prevent the formation of a group around the banished soviet leader.

The Turkish government has been so persistent in rounding up sporadic communists in recent years that no organized group of that political faith exists anywhere in the country.

It was decided to rescind this vote. Secretary Case and Committeemen Hillhouse and Sweeney were appointed a committee to arrange for the renting of the hall under proper regulations and restrictions. In taking up the petition of Carl Shamansky asking for a continuance of the school bus service a distance of one mile to his home on the Scotland Dam road, the committee voted to stand a recent report of the transportation committee denying he petition. The report of Miss Mae Sweeney, school nurse for the Natchaug, Windham Center and North Windham schools, showed a large number of cases of colds and grip during December and January. JEWETT CITY

STATE OFFICERS GUESTS OF LOCAL D. A. R. CHAPTER

The meeting of Anne Brewster Fanning chapter, D. A. R., was held at the home of Mrs. H. E. Olson, Feb. 12. The chapter had as guests the state regent, Miss Katherine Nettleton of Derby and State Vice Regent Miss Emeline Street, of New Haven, who is also state chairman of Americanization. The hostesses, Mrs. Olsen and Mrs. Mrs. Babcock were assisted by Mrs. A. M. Brown and Mrs. C. E. Spicer in serving luncheon. Patriotic place cards, flowers and candles were the table decorations.

With the regent, Mrs. Charles E Spicer, presiding, the business meeting was called at 2.30. Following the salute to the flag and the singing of American, the company repeated the Lord's Prayer. The reports of the secretary and treasurer were accepted.

The regent, Mrs. Spicer is appointed to attend the state conference by virtue of her office. Miss Ida I. Foster was appointed delegate. The alternates are Mrs. E. F. Burleson, Miss M. A. Burdick, Miss Alice A. Brown, Miss Foster, Mrs. A. M. Brown, Mrs. Henry Olson, Mrs. J. H. Tracy, Mrs. F. L. Kanahan, Mrs. E. A. Faust and Mrs. F. C. Whiting.

It was voted that the chapter's quotas for Founders' Memorial the manual, national defense and Ellis island, be met from the treasury. A message from the president-general, Mrs. Alfred Brosseau was read by the secretary.

State Regent Speaks.

The regent, at this point, presented Miss Nettleton. She spoke as one having a thorough knowledge of the obligations of D. A. R. members, emphasizing their responsibility as citizens, citing Edmund Burke, as saying "Civilization is a great contract between the dead and unborn." We should make good our part of the contract in our daily lives. Miss Nettleton recalled that thirty-eight years ago, four prominent families were the founders of the D. A. R. They were descendants of those who 150 years ago gave their lives and fortunes for ideas and principles. We are not militarists. We believe and stand for the right and principles of liberty. Thirty-eight years ago last October there were 218 charter members. Realizing what our societies could do, and so many wishing to join it was thought wise to break up the number into separate chapters. There are now 52 chapters with 6750 members in Connecticut alone.

The state regent felt proud to represent the women of Connecticut D. A. R. and tendered thanks for the support of this chapter. Referring to Constitution hall she said we should feel proud of the fact that we helped to support it. Pledges were made at the congress with enthusiasm and she hoped the next congress would be held in the new hall. The laying of the cornerstone was very impressive. Mrs. Coolidge taking part in the exercises, using the same mallet that Washington used at the capitol. In closing Miss Nettleton enjoined all to live up to the ideals of their forefathers, as Lincoln did to save the union.

Americanization Work.

Miss Street was presented by the regent, and referred to the pleasant memories of her first visit here, a year ago at the Christmas meeting. She stated that nearly all the chapters are doing something in Americanization and gave accounts of the work of several chapters. Prizes are given to classes in night schools, and she showed an attractive gold pin which was offered this year for perfect attendance. At these schools there are over thirty nationalities represented. Our interest in Americanization is as much an interest in ourselves as those we are trying to Americanize. No amount of teaching and no amount of dwelling upon the idea of liberty and justice will accomplish the object we have in view unless we ourselves illustrate the idea of justice and liberty.

During the afternoon delightful music was furnished by Mrs. W. H. Payne and Mrs. F. S. Leonard. Mrs. Leonard played Chopin's Polanaise and a waltz by Chopin. Mrs. Payne sang Lilacs and as an encore The Little Irish Girl. Another number which she gave was Four-Leaved Clover.

ANOTHER DOG RUNS WILD THROUGH TOWN OF KILLINGLY

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 14—Further developments today in what may be termed the "dog" situation brought Chief Special Deputy Howard E. Elliott of the commissioner of domestic animals hurrying over here from Hartford to go over the field with Special Deputy Chauncey Genung, who has been working here since early in the week. The new and important development is the discovery that at least twelve dogs in addition to the dozen or more that are known to have been bitten in the Dayville, Attawaugan and Goodyear sections of the town, have been bitten by another supposedly rabid dog that roamed the East Killingly section of the town. This latter mentioned rabid dog, now dead, was the property of William Holbrook, of North Foster, R. I., just over the lige from East Killingly. It was a collie that left home on February 6. It invaded East Killingly and nipped no one knows how many other dogs. It was captured and returned to the owner the following day, when it was showing pronounced symptoms of rabies. The dog's condition gradually became more serious, a paralysis of the legs eventually developing, and the animal died last Sunday, and was buried in a box in the [illegible] the owner, who was greatly attached to the animal.

Today, at the request of Deputy Genung, the dog was dug up, the head taken off and immediately forwarded to Hartford to be tested for rabies. A report on the tests is expected here some time during Friday.

The quarantine order for the borough of Danielson, and all of the town of Killingly and the town of Brooklyn, will be ordered the first of the coming week, Mr. Elliott said today, and will become effective the latter part of the coming week. From the information obtained from Dog Warden Charles E. Ayer and Deputy Genung, Mr. Elliott feels that the situation in Killingly is quite serious. He left here this afternoon for Putnam, where the first rabid dog, killed at Goodyear last Saturday, was seen near the Grove street cemetery a few days before he began to bite people and animals in this town. The persons bitten by this dog are now taking the Pasteur treatment.

This afternoon the body of Charles E. Carroll was brought here to the funeral home of A. F. Wood from Plainville, R. I., where he died during last night. He was 54 years of age and had been engaged at farming for years. Mr. Carroll was a native of this town, born July 28, 1874. He was a son of Asa D. and Thankful Simmons Carroll. He leaves his wife, two daughters, his mother and the following brothers and sisters, Clarence of Phenix, R. I., Almond of Norwich, Winfred, Arthur, Byron and Albert Carroll and Mrs. Fred Passmore, Mrs. Arthur Turner and Mrs. Henry Smith, all of East Killingly.

A death last night at her home in Foster Center was that of Mrs. Annie W. Young, 63, another victim of influenza and pneumonia. Mrs. Young, the widow of George A. Young, was a native of Foster and had lived practically all of her life in that town. She leaves one sister and no other relatives nearer than cousins and nephews.

With the cold weather continuing, there is little change in the pressure being put upon the town for relief for outside poor. However, care of the unfortunate is now so well organized that arrangements are functioning easily though the burden upon the town is a bit execessive. Requests for relief have come from all parts of the town. Illness of wage-earning members during the prevailing influenza epidemic has been the cause of relief calls from the majority of families, and not the general lack of employment. There is little prospect that there will be any change in the present condition of things for sometime to come, probably for a month. By that time health conditions are expected to improve and, as spring opens, there will be additional work.

Henry Ford's agent for the purchase of antiques of one kind or another has been in town and, in company with Fire Chief A. Putnam Woodward, has looked over the old Minnitexit hand-pump, or "tub," and the antiquated General Putnam steamer. It appears that the canny Ford has his agents tied down to an arrangement that permits of no squandering of his hundreds of millions. They offer no fancy prices for the old-time stuff, and probably with very good reason. That reason is that there are slathers of old steamers and old "tubs" around the country, especially in New England, and that Mr. Ford's agents already have acquired a very considerable number for him. Offers made for the old apparatus held here were so small as not to amount to much of anything in a financial way, and it is not at all improbable that the motor magnate will ever own the steamer or the "tub" held here.

It is possible that as much as $20,000 in uncollected taxes, some of the amount due dating back for a number of years, will be written off the books of the town of Killingly during the current year. However, before this is done every possible means will be employed to collect as much as possible of the money that should have been paid the town long ago, some of it as far back as 1922. It is sensed by town officials that some of this money never can be collected, those who owe it having passed on to where it may be assumed there are no tax assessments or who have nothing to pay with, though once fixed on a place in the tax list as owners of taxable values.

Mrs. Helen Dowe of Mechanic street will have the members of the Roundabout club at her home for a meeting Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Alfred L. Reed is now recovering from an illness that has confined her to her home for the past ten days.

Coroner Arthur G. Bill was in Willimantic today checking the circumstances surrounding the death of Mrs. Gertrude Jackson, a suicide yesterday.

F. E. Bitgood was reported as resting comfortably today at the Boston hospital where he is a patient after undergoing a preliminary operation yesterday. He is to remain at the hospital for several weeks.

Killingly is getting good. To date in February it has made the enviable record of only one case before the town court, and that's out of the ordinary.

In the spring additional looms are to be installed in the Main street plant of Powdrell and Alexander.

The fourth annual speaking contest at Killingly high school is to be held next Wednesday evening. The public has been invited to attend this annual affair.

PUTNAM

PUTNAM DOGS ARE QUARANTINED INDEFINITELY

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Feb. 14—A serious outbreak of rabies among dogs in the villages of Attawaugan, Dayville and Goodyear has led to the imposing of an indefinite quarantine on all dogs of the town of Putnam as well as those in the town of Killingly where the disease is being experienced, Howard E. Elliott commissioner of the department of domestic animals told The Bulletin this afternoon. Under the ruling of the quarantine, which will go into effect on Saturday, all dog owners residents of Putnam will have to confine the liberty of their canines in regulation kennel enclosures or chain them up on a lease, until the officials of the department of domestic animals are fully satisfied the epidemic of rabies has abated sufficiently to warrant the lifting of the quarantine.

A copy of the quarantine, will be published in the Norwich Bulletin on the morning of Monday, Feb. 18. Commissioner Elliott said today and all regulations described therein will have to be fully observed by dog owners, under penalty of the law.

The rabid dog which bit a number of dogs in the textile villages south of Putnam, was said to have roamed about in this city on the day previous to its capture and extermination by the officials. For this reason Dog Warden E. L. Chandler has been served with a notice to quarantine all dogs since there is no way of knowing the exact number of animals it attacked in this city.

Commissioner Elliott and Investigator Chauncey Genung of Hartford were in Putnam today continuing their investigation of the case attempting to take into custody any dogs bitten by the carrier.

Commissioner Elliott through the columns of this paper has asked the cooperation of custodians of all dogs to cheerfully follow out the contents of the forthcoming quarantine bill, so as to eliminate all possibilities of an outbreak of rabies in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Peck and Walter A. Wheaton, Jr., of 28 Bradley street left today on an extended tour of the south. Their first point will be Cheshire, Conn., where they will visit with the parents of Mr. Peck.

Friday, Feb. 22, will be observed as Washington's birthday in all of the schools of the city, Supt. of Schools Farrin announced today.

Mrs. Lydia B. Patridge of Griswold died early today at the Day Kimball hospital after a long period of illness. Mrs. Patridge was 92 years of age. She had been a convalescent at the Haven home in Abington for several months and was thought to be improving in her health, when she suddenly became stricken and was removed to the hospital. The body was taken in charge of a local undertaker and escorted to her home in Griswold where funeral service and burial will take place.

Mrs. Arabella Ketchem.

A death in Winston-Salem, North Carolina, on Sunday, Feb. 10, was than of Miss Arabella Ketchum of Thompson who was in her 84th year. Miss Ketchum is a native of Thompson and is well known in Putnam where she has many friends and acquaintances who will regret to learn of her death. Miss Ketchum, until about a decade ago was a resident of Thompson. Since then she has been residing at the home of a relative in the south. R. G. Dunning of Thompson is the only near relative surviving her.

A. H. Adams of East Woodstock, well known in this section because of his work in constructing miniature models of sailing ships has recently completed a model of the four masted schooner "Benjamin F. Packard," the original in the service of a Maine shipping concern. The replica of the original is now on display in the window of one of the local banks and is attracting much attention. The ship is complete to every detail.

A four stroke alarm received at the central fire station in Union square at 10.50 a. m. this morning sent the apparatus to Livery street to extinguish a chimney and roof fire in a house owned by the Second Congregational church society. The water supply from the booster tank on the pumper was employed to extinguish the blaze. The quick work of the firemen was instrumental in preventing what would have been a dangerous situation had it not been discovered in its infancy. It was necessary for a second alarm to be sounded before a sufficient quota of regulars answered the call.

Mrs. Vitaline Benoit, widow of John B. Benoit died suddenly at her home on Bullock street Wednesday evening at the age of 77 years. Mrs. Benoit had never been suffering from any ailments in recent years and her sudden death came as a shock to the members of her family and her many friends and acquaintances in Putnam and vicinity. She had gone about her usual household duties during the day and after the evening meal retired to her chair in the kitchen taking up the evening paper to read an account of the days activities. Her daughter-in-law Mrs. Edward Benoit and her grandchild left her comfortable, arranging her bed so that she could retire at the customary hour of 7.30. When Mrs. Benoit and her daughter returned at 8.30 o'clock, they were somewhat surprised to find the elderly lady had dozed off to sleep, a rare occurrence in her life. They called several times, before learning that the aged mother had quietly passed away. A physician was summoned, who pronounced death due to heart disease.

Mrs. Benoit was born in Canada on Sept. 5, 1852. She came with her parents to the United States where she was married to John B. Benoit, who died several years ago. Mrs. Benoit then removed to Putnam where she has resided for over a half century. She was a devout member of St. Mary's church of this city and was affiliated with the Sodality of St Anne, a church society. During the number of years of her life spent in this community, Mrs. Benoit became well known and loved by all who knew her. She is survived by two sons, Wilfred Benoit of Webster and Officer Edward Benoit of Bulluck street, Putnam.

Dr. Seldom B. Overlock, surgeon at the Day Kimball hospital has been reappointed by Governor John H. Trumbull to serve another term of four years as a member of the state board of pardons. Dr. Overlock's present term expires on June 30, 1929.

The epidemic of colds, grippe and influenza which has swept through Putnam for the past month seems to be abating daily, according to records of City Health Officer Peter A. Gardner. While colds and grippe continue to prevail, the more serious affliction, influenza, seems to have passed.

The officers and personnel of the headquarters company of the 43rd division of Connecticut National guard are anticipating the annual inspection of the local military outfit by United States army officers, slated to take place on Monday evening. The local company under the command of Captain John J. McGarry, has been making preparations for the visit of the regular army officers for the past month. Capt. McGarry has extended an invitation to everyone to be present under the roof of the armory drill shed to witness the indoor maneuvres which will feature the inspection of the company.

The mercury took another flooring wallop from King Winter today that sent it into the vicinity of three above zero this morning, only to have it recover and attain its customary mark of the past month, fifty above. During the day a cold wave, with a promise of wintry weather ahead was accompanied by snow flurries that prevailed at intervals during the day.

St. Valentine's day was quietly observed today in the graded schools of the city, when the youngsters shyly exchanged their love greetings with one another. To some of the older victims of "Dan Cupid's" darts, the postman impersonated Little Dan and conveyed the tidings of a sender to the receiver, many of whom blushed with delight when the mail men made their visits, according to one of the letter carriers.

PASS THE FENN BILL.

Congress hasn't many more days in which to dispose of the raft of business before it. It is certain, of course, that some of it will not be acted upon while much will be pushed through at the last minute so rapidly that no one will really know what has been accomplished until an inventory has been taken of the situation. Then it will be realized that mistakes have been made, that things have been neglected which ought to have been done and things which appear to have been done have only been half done. 'Twas ever thus and it is probably too much to expect a radical change quickly.

But in the grist of measures which ought to be passed at the present session is the Fenn bill which provides for that reapportionment of members of the house of representatives which should have been carried out years ago. The house has acted favorably upon it. The house is directly concerned and yet there remains the action of the senate, where all kinds of obstacles may be thrown in its way.

Reapportionment is required by the Constitution. It has been neglected because members of congress in sufficient number have refused action. The Fenn bill fixes the house membership at its present number but in the readjustments there will be states which will gain members and those which will lose. That would be only what ought to be expected as the result of changes indicated by a census report.

It will be after the next census report that the readjustment will take place but a particular important feature of the Fenn bill is to be found in the provision which forces a reapportionment even though congress at that time is disposed to balk as congresses have during the present decade. This places the responsibility upon the secretary of commerce to proceed with the reapportionment under a definite plan in case congress fails to act. It is this part of the bill upon which particular stress is justly being laid, but because of the opposition from states which because of population changes can anticipate a reduced representation plenty of opposition has been and will continue to be manifested.

DR. JARDINE'S ELIMINATION.

Guesses concerning the members of the cabinet under Mr. Hoover are under constant revision. Those who have put forth several possibilities for each post are able to eliminate those who are definitely out of the running, but there is a new alignment about every week and sometimes oftener.

Secretary Jardine has not been regarded by all cabinet makers as sure of a seat in the new one. Nevertheless he has been freely referred to as one of the probable selections. Now he makes the announcement which takes him out of the group with a definiteness that is convincing. He has announced that he will leave the cabinet with the conclusion of President Coolidge's term and accept a position as counsel for a large fruit and produce concern. He has been picked for other duties because of his fitness and because of the fact that his work in the cabinet has not only made a good impression but has likewise made him an outstanding national figure. He will carry prestige to his new job.

Those who have not included him in their lists will now have an opportunity to point to their sagacity. Perhaps they sensed developments from afar or were in touch with the undercurrent of affairs to such an extent that they recognized the importance of a change in the head of this department.

The department of agriculture is of necessity to be an important one in the next administration. Farm relief will make it so. Dr. Jardine has stood for a sound policy in this respect even though it antagonized some of the farmers. Because they have given evidence that they are much divided in regard to farm relief, whatever is done is certain to displease some of the farmers and some of the farm organizations. Yet under a new department head it may be possible to eliminate some of the feeling of the past and take a different view of a common problem from a common viewpoint.

Thus new interest is whetted as to the one upon whose shoulders will fall the responsibility of guiding this important matter and of furnishing advice concerning it to the administration.

A STATE SCOTLAND YARD.

With the idea of having a force available to cope with the crime situation in the towns of a state, those outlying districts which have no police protection, the governor of New York has backed the idea of establishing a force of investigators or detectives that would aid the state police force. The idea would be to furnish greater resistance to the crime and bring to such cases as occur in the country the same trained attention that might be expected if they were in a city.

This attitude results from the expression by the national crime commission that each state might establish a small corps of highly trained investigators of the modern type, who would be available to proceed immediately to the scene at the request of the sheriff or local constable, while the trail was still clear and assist in detecting the inevitable traces which even the most astute criminal leaves behind him.

Governor Roosevelt sets forth that such a plan "is the general plan adopted in England which places at the disposal of the local police force the entire machinery of its trained investigators of Scotland Yard. Whether this idea is a practical thing or not to be applied in our state is a matter that requires study by men who are thoroughly conversant with our own police facilities and our criminal machinery generally."

He further declares that this is a matter which the crime commission of that state should study with the possible idea of its adoption and further makes the suggestion that such matters ought to be freely considered by that body.

When it comes to dealing with crime in the rural districts the problem is unquestionably worthy of attention. Much greater dependence is placed upon the state police from year to year. They have for the most part replaced the local constable in serious cases because of their greater advantages, but there are likewise handicaps which they work under which might be overcome in some such manner as suggested by the national crime commission. In the fighting of crime there's no chance of too effective measures being adopted.

A PRESIDENTIAL RETREAT.

It is to be assumed that in asking for an appropriation of $48,000 with which to make alterations in the government buildings at Mt. Weather President Coolidge voices the sentiments of Mr. Hoover regarding the desirability of that as a location for a president's retreat. Mr. Coolidge is not going to have an opportunity to take advantage of that place. He has recognized the need of it and presented his views concerning it in a recent public letter. Naturally in going ahead with the idea he acts with the knowledge that it meets the approval of his successor.

In the selection of Mt. Weather government owned property in Virginia 50 miles from the capital, is selected. Reference is made to such as a summer retreat. There is no doubt but what it can be made fine use of in the summer time in getting away from the heat of Washington but it is to be a retreat to which the president can go at any time. Locating it at such a short motoring distance from the capital was done for that purpose. It will give the chief executive a chance to drop the routine for a night's rest or a week end whenever the spirit moves, and there is no question but what one who has stuck to his job with the faithfulness which Calvin Coolidge has knows full well the need of such a temporary home.

From all reports the locality selected is decidedly attractive and should afford a refreshing change from the national capital during hot weather and a restful change at any season of the year. Certainly a president is entitled to that much even though when vacation time rolls around he decided to spend it fishing, hunting or other recreation elsewhere.

GENERAL HIGGINS.

After proceeding in accordance with court requirements the council of the Salvation Army has settled the question which has long been bothering it, and in accord with previously indicated action.

The choice of Edward J. Higgins as general to succeed Bramwell Booth means that he has been selected because of his qualifications. The vote of the council plainly indicates that He must assume large responsibilities but he knows them thoroughly and it is of widespread interest when he declares that his choice does not mean that it becomes a family matter. From all indications that idea passes with the change in leadership. It doesn't necessarily mean that no Higgins will succeed the present general or that there will be no more Booths at the helm of the great organization. Rather does it serve notice that fitness must govern in the future when the question of leadership is at stake and it will be generally conceded that such a view is the correct one.

It is impossible to belittle the great and good work that has been done by the Booth family during the days in which the Salvation Army has been growing to its present prominence and value. There are still members of it who will continue to keep that name prominent in its affairs for it is bred in their bones, but they recognize that the organization must take precedent over the individual, the cause must not be allowed to suffer and only by such an attitude can there be the accomplishments and successful development that are desired.

The time had come for a change. It was recognized by the leaders and it has been put into operation in a manner which should be productive of desired results.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The man on the corner says: Did you draw a comic or one of the old fashioned lacey kind?

There will be no objection if Sandino left Nicaragua but the marines will insist upon double proof.

The joys and discomforts of the comic valentines are only known by those who used to send and receive them.

If every possible selection for the cabinet is mentioned, Mr. Hoover will have nothing left to do but to pick some of them.

As Governor General Stimson is going to take up new duties it will be quite important that the right man is selected as his successor.

As we read the reports from across the Atlantic, it appears that Europe is paying for the fine February we are having in New England.

THE WORLD AT 14

"I feel lots tireder than when I went away and with absolutely no pep at all. Mother says no wonder, with all that candy and stuff. I've explained to her that when you are merely looking out of a car window you simply must have some amusement, and I didn't realize how much of it I was eating. And I was thinking seriously how I was going to treat Bud when school began again. I feel that I have outgrown him since my visit at my aunt's. Wh, he seems absolutely boyish to me know.

"You see, my Aunt Helen is a perfect beauty and terribly popular, although she is quite old—she was 26 while I was there—and grandmother says she wishes to goodness she'd put one man into lifelong misery and let the rest go. There are quite a number who are always coming to take her out, and she let me have all the silver ribbons from her corsage bouquets while I was there.

"It is just marvelous that she has any attention at all, for she breaks engagements or acts bored if she is bored or sends them home just as casually. I told her I intended to try and act just like her when I got back home and she said, 'Oh, my goodness, now I've got something else to be responsible for,' and tried to tell me the usual stuff, about how a lovely young girl always was considerate and sweet and thoughtful and nobody liked her if she was rude and selfish.

"It's the queerest thing that people think that sort of fluff makes any impression when you can see the opposite with your own eyes! I heard my Aunt Helen herself say to Charley Graham that, yes, she was utterly selfish, she'd admit—and then she just smiled at him and he grabbed her hand and kissed it!

"No matter what she said or did to them they kept right on following her around abjectly. I think it would be perfectly thrilling to know you had a trail of good-looking young men hanging on your every word and bringing you things and taking you places! So I shall pay no attention to her lecture and I've already begun yawning when I feel like yawning.

"I can just see Bud's face when he gets back and tries to tell me about his vacation and I sort of pat my lips with my fingertips and yawn a little as I say 'oh, really!' in an absent-minded way.

"The ones who came to Aunt Helen's most were this Charley Graham and a Henry Linton and Bob Cramer and Dr. Prosett. And when Aunt Helen decided to come on home with me to visit mother they looked perfectly stricken. You would have thought she was traveling to Asia for ten years from the way they acted. Charley Graham was terribly worried for fear she would meet somebody up here she would like better than him, and what do you think she said? 'No doubt!' Instead of being kind, as she had urged me to be, and telling him it wasn't possible, so he wouldn't worry all the time she was gone!

"Well, our train left at 11 in the morning and at 7 Aunt Helen got a telegram from somebody to join them at what she said was the most gorgeous week-end house party, and so she took the 10 o'clock train for that from the same station and put me in charge of a redcap. Right after he had got me settled in the right car who should appear but Charley Graham, all out of breath and with a five-pound box of candy.

"'Where's Helen?' he asked and I said, 'Why, she isn't here'—and he looked flat and said to tell her that here was some candy. And in a minute a messenger boy came in paging Miss Helen Adams and, of course, I said 'Here'—and he had a five-pound box of candy with Dr. Prosett's card in it. And just as the train pulled out, Bob Cramer yelled at me from the platform and motioned toward the door—and in came the porter with three pounds of chocolates and a corsage for Helen Adams.

"You do feel nice with a corsage pinned on your shoulder, don't you? I wore it into the diner for lunch and everybody looked at it. And I guess during the afternoon I did eat quite a lot of candy. It was fun having three boxes at once. You'd have thought mother would have been so glad to see me that she wouldn't have bothered over a lot of silly candy, but she said I had been very thoughtless and selfish and that the boxes should have been kept until Aunt Helen got here.

"Wait till I tell Bud that I'm selfish and thoughtless and then smile at him in Aunt Helen's way! Only I'm worried because right now I don't seem able to take the slightest interest in what's left in those three candy boxes!"—Chicago News.

YOUR HEALTH

Modern Dancing Anti-Neurotic In Influence.

We have found at the Burke foundation's country recuperative institution that dancing is a prime recreation for the convalescent, functioning throughout all seasons both in and out of doors. Modern dancing proves (on analysis) to be a much less vigorous exercise than is commonly thought. The movements are gliding, do not involve much lifting of body weight nor bending, are automatically graduated to the strength of the various persons, and the strong help the weak. Patients who cannot as yet walk well will, under the inspiration of music and dance, arise and successfully take minor part, and then go on to more and varied other exercising. And this diversion ranks easily first in its up-tending socializing and anti-neurotic influences. It is commonly remarked that those gathering for the dances are scarcely recognizable, because of their animation, improved color and poise, and grooming in general. These effects carry over for hours and help to brace these personalities against the inevitable wave-like diminishing depressions.

For this class all dances are shortened, and the meeting limited to about one hour. Trained overseers are present, all are instructed to desist upon feeling over-exertion, others begin with only two or three measures per evening.

Entertainment numbers between the dances not only enhance the attractiveness of the evening but serve to modify favorably the degree of exercise. Social group dances are encouraged, and all holidays and important dates are celebrated with masquerades and the more formal costume and other featurings.

Four or five set dances in the central assembly are held weekly, besides the occasional special cottage parties and the frequently improvised dancing by the women in their quarters and the jigging of men.

The elderly and those seriously crippled attend quite faithfully, and get definite curative value through stirs of memory and the impress of music. Those with fears and complaints throughout the day are early found in foremost places at the parties, and thereafter are somewhat ashamed to continue along the pseudo-neuropathic courses.

The number of middle-aged and old persons who are gradually led to renew certain measures of youth by modified dance participation is most gratifying. With the total of over 70,000 patients cared for, there is no record of injury or wounds and other defects from these mild and somewhat typical dance exercises. There have been occasional instances of apparent weakness, fainting upon the dance floor or in the audience, but in every case these have proved to be of nervous character—mild hysteria, emotional and nerve "spells."

Stories That Recall Others

String Bean Trees

Norma until she reached the age of seven was content with fairy tales, dolls and playhouses. At that age, however, she began making observations.

While playing one day she happened to notice the fruit of a catalpa tree.

Only a Penny Asked

Willie's mother gave him five cents every Sunday morning for Sunday school. On his way there he would stop at the drug store and buy four cents worth of candy. At Sunday school he would give as his offering one cent.

One day the druggist's wife asked the mother whether she knew what Willie was doing. On returning home she reprimanded Willie.

Sobbing, he said: "Well, they only ask for a penny at Sunday school, so can't a fellow do what he wants to with the other four cents?"

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14—None of the several senators who are lameducking their way to political eclipse March 3 next, through kindness of their constituents last election day or by voluntary action, is more prolific of swan songs than Bruce of Maryland.

He figures in almost every senate debate at some time; but no matter what that subject may be, he usually sings the same tune.

It centers on his pet abomination, the prohibition amendment and its results, seen from the Bruce point of view. He lets no opportunity slip to shoot in a few cutting remarks on that subject.

Naturally the prolonged prohibition debate over the treasury appropriation bill, which finances enforcement activities, gave Bruce wide opportunity to ride his hobby ad lib. It was a Bruce field day and he made the most of it.

Inasmuch as he is about as scholarly a senator as that body has known in several years, his mind stored with classical lore and a wide knowledge of literature, the result as it appears in the Congressional Record was well worth reading for that reason alone.

Take It As It Flows

Bruce is not one of those senators who scrutinize the stenographic notes on their speeches and edit them into pleasing shape before publication. Bruce just leaves it to the stenographers as a rule. It is striking how smoothly and well his extemporaneous remarks read in print.

In the course of his prohibition tilting, Bruce elected to constitute himself a defender of the fair fame of the city of New York. He was aroused by a remark of Simmons of North Carolina, picturing New York as "that great center of crime in this country."

"I deny that it is any such center of crime," Bruce challenged.

"It is," insisted Simmons.

"It is the habit of many to picture New York as a painted Jezebel, the scarlet woman of the United States and all that, a den of vice and so on," Bruce answered. "It is simply not true. It is the most civilized place in the country."

Sober New York

"And the soberest?" asked George of Georgia.

"And the soberest," insisted Bruce. "They have more civilization and consequently more self-restraint. Senators will be surprised to hear, also, that in the matter of the ratio of divorce to marriage the state of New York has a better record than most other parts of the country."

"By whom were those statistics compiled?" demanded Smith of South Carolina.

"By the department of commerce," Bruce snapped, and that was that.

DAILY LENTON DEVOTION

"LENT AND MYSELF"

Memory Verse for Friday, Interdenominational Day of Prayer for Missions:—"For whatsoever is born of God overcometh the world (I John 5:4) (Read: I John 2:12-17.)

MEDITATION: It is a time for me to be asking myself whether or not the world has been too much with me, laying waste my powers and alienating me from the life of the spirit. Do I find myself more at home in the world than in the fellowship of Christ? Are secular affairs more interesting to me than the things of the spirit? I must be on my guard. For I know full well that the world may afford only temporary satisfactions. Its very successes may corrupt the heart. Its rewards may be only Dead Sea fruit turning to ashes on the lips. I must master it or it will destroy my life.

PRAYER: O Lord my God who are from everlasting to everlasting and hast made me in the image of thine own eternity, deliver me from the bondage of things, let them not have dominion over me. Give me an understanding heart that I may choose for myself those things which make life sweet and which shall not pass away. Amen.

The farmer may deduct all amounts paid in the production, harvesting, and marketing of crops, including labor, cost of seed and fertilizer used, cost of minor repairs to farm buildings (other than his dwelling), and small tools used up in the course of a year or two.

IN THE DAYS NEWS

MINORCA: SPAIN'S MOST ENGLISH ISLAND POSSESSION.

"Minorca, off the coast of which the steamship Malakof recently was wrecked, is the most English of Spanish possessions," says a buletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"It is the easternmost and second largest of the Balearic islands, which dot the Mediterranean off Barcelona Spain. No one visiting Majorca or Iviza, sister islands, would doubt their Spanish ownership once he mingles with the inhabitants or studies the architecture of their buildings.

"But Minorca, although ruled by the Spanish king and but 27 miles east of Majorca, differs from its neighbor islands. Except in a few spots, its people and its buildings would fit an English village outside of London. Owing to early British occupation, Miss Minorca stays at home, while her Spanish sisters work side by side in the fields with their husbands; and instead of the soft oxhide Spanish sandal the Minorca maid wears shoes. And proudly she tells how Lord Nelson, during the war with France, came to Mahon, Minorca's capital, seized and lived in a mansion house overlooking Mahon's fine harbor.

"In the protected inlets around the island are small fishing villages, whitened by frequent coats of whitewash. Back of these villages, the natives raise sufficient wheat for home consumption; wine, olive oil, potatoes, hemp and flax are produced in moderate quantities; melons, pomegranates, figs and almonds are abundant; some cattle, sheep and goats are reared; and were it not for the scarcity of fuel, the lead, copper and iron deposits could be profitably worked. Near Mercadal, there are fine marble, limestone slate quarries. Incidentally Mercadal is the ancestral home of Admiral Farragut.

"In the eighteenth century the British built a road from Ciudadela on the northwest coast to Mahon on the southeast coast. Travelers enjoy beautiful panoramas where some energetic Minorcan has taken pride in his estate, but unkempt spots are numerous. Stone monuments, caves, and historic relics have been discovered, but one has to penetrate deep into the fields and byways to find them. Ancient, windowless stone structures are found in the interior. Pottery and other antiquities are frequently unearthed by the natives. Scientists could, perhaps, trace their origin to prehistoric times or to the time when the Phoenicians, Greeks, Romans or Arabs occupied the island. Many of the stone monuments are falling to pieces and some of the pottery and historic implements now adorn stone walls where they were carelessly thrown by their finders.

"Minorca could be expanded four times its natural size and then not match the area of Rhode Island. Its population could be housed in a small American city. More than half of the Minorcans live in Mahon, the capital, the most English spot on the island. From the steamship, the city has a Spanish aspect, with church belfries dominating the panorama. But in the streets, which rise terrace after terrace up the cliff side, English influence prevails. There is little Spanish color except green doors. Shining brass fixtures, square-paned windows with white frames, and unshuttered windows during the day time are decidedly un-Spanish.

"At the other end of the British-made road, Ciudadela, while not as Spanish as Palma, Maporca, is not as English as Mahon. Like Mahon, it occupies the side of a cliff overlooking a fine harbor. Many of its buildings are whitewashed and even thte nearby rocks are frequently given white coats along with the houses, but here and there a daub of color—pink, blue, green or yellow—and an occasional iron grill balcony lend a Spanish touch. The easy going life of the Latin prevails in Ciudadela more than in Mahon. One of the most exciting events at Ciudadela is the arrival of boats from the other Balearic islands or from Barcelona.

"Minorca's authentic history begins with the arrival of Mago, brother of Hannibal, in 210 B .C. He founded Mahon. The island was the cause of frequent conflicts between European soverigns and the scene of pirate raids for centuries. Under British rule, Minorca prospered from the early part of the eighteenth century until the Seven Years' war. The ownership of the little island also was involved in the American Revolution when the French and Spanish captured it while England was busy overseas. Sixteen years later, at the beginning of the long struggle with Napoleon, the British again captured Minorca and it remained British until 1802 when, under the Peace of Amiens, it passed to Spain. The British occupied Minorca for 71 years and left an imprint upon the land and its people that is noticeable to travelers."

Of interest to a number of personal friends among French residents in Norwich, Taftville and Baltic is the following news dispatch from Providence this week: Eleven of the 59 men cut off from the Catholic church last April because of their participation in the Dalgnault movement against the bishop of Providence diocese have signed the regulation form of repentance which will allow them to be taken back into the church. The others are expected to follow promptly. This became known following a meeting in Woonsocket, where Elphege J. Diagnault and two unidentified French priests urged the excommunicated men to agree to the form laid down by Bishop William A. Hickey.

SUPERIOR COURT JURY RETURNS VERDICT OF $300 FOR WOMAN

A verdict for $300 was returned on Thursday noon by a jury in the superior court at New London in favor of Etta Partello of New London in her $5,000 damage suit against Mellenda Frink, also of New London. The jury rendered judgment for $300 against Mellenda Frink but gave judgment for a second defendant in the case, John J. Murphy, New London contractor.

The woman brought suit against the two defendants to recover for injuries she received when she slipped on some building materials in front of the Frink property in New London.

It was claimed by the plaintiff that she was seriously hurt October 3, 1927, when she fell because of brick, stone and other building materials carelessly strewn about the sidewalks in front of the property. Mr. Murphy was doing the masonry work there, but the defendant, in her answer to the complaint, set forth that she did not engage a general contractor to make the repairs but let the work out to various contractors in their own lines.

After the verdict had been rendered Judge Christopher L. Avery excused the jury until next Tuesday. A short calendar session is to be held this (Friday) morning.

NEWARK PASTOR GIVES LAST OF SERMON SERIES

A stirring sermon on the topic, On the Way Back Home, was delivered by Rev. M. Joseph Twomey, D. D., of Newark, N. J., at the Central Baptist church Thursday evening. It was the final one of a series of gospel sermons given by Rev. Dr. Twomey since last Sunday. There was a large congregation. The service was led by Rev. David A. Pitt, D. D., pastor.

"I want to thank you publicly for the way you have attended these meetings, and for the way my friends have welcomed me at the close of them said Dr. Twomey. You have been tremendously good to me. I also want to thank Dr. Pitt for what he has done for me. I have never met a man like him before. You are blessed in having him for your pastor," he continued.

"I would like to speak upon the topic, 'On the Way Back Home,'" said Dr. Twomey. "Here is the place where you are loved. As soon as you are not loved there, it is no longer home. As soon as you cease to love it, it is only a house. Here is a place where they are thinking of you and expect you."

"Many a man makes a wrong estimate of home," declared Rev. Dr. Twomey. "He builds a house, secures a marriage license and takes to himself a wife. He thinks that he has all the requirements. If love does not exist it is not home. One person can never make a home. No matter how good he is! Home is where you love. Home is a place where you will be welcomed when the rest of the world has no love for you. No man ever turned with longing and hunger to a boarding house."

Rev. Mr. Twomey told of boys and girls, who had left home and gone to the city with the expectation of bettering themselves. He told the story of the boy who left his home and wanted to make a fortune. He had no friends in the city and little by little he began to do things that he had not done before. The old Sunday school and teacher were missing.

"This boy, like thousands of others I have met," said Rev. Dr. Twomey "lived in a boarding house, where there was not light enough to read and it was not properly heated. Loneliness drove him to do things that he had never done before. He became haunted by remembrances of better things and a better life."

"It takes a lot to go back home when you have failed," said the speaker. "I went back and I wasn't a failure. When you are a success, you hurry back home. You are anxious for them to be proud of you. When you fail you trudge home. You try to find an excuse to go back home."

In concluding his sermon Rev. Dr. Twomey spoke of those who have returned home and found the welcome in the eyes of their mother and father, the welcome of their arms, the welcome of their hearts and the welcome of their kisses."

Previous to the evening meeting, Rev. Dr. Twomey addressed the boys and girls of the church in the assembly room at 4 o'clock.

CIVIL WAR VETS PLAN FOR ANNUAL STATE ENCAMPMENT

Announcement has been made that plans are under way for the annual encampment of the Connecticut department of the Grand Army of the Republic to be held in New London, May 2 and 3 together with the annual meeting and encampment of the state Relief corps.

The Civil war veterans will have their headquarters at the Mohican hotel, and the auxiliaries will meet at the First Baptist church.

It is believed that about 50 veterans will attend the encampment and about 100 Relief corps members. The annual campfire of both the Relief corps and the Grand Army will be held at the First Baptist church in that city.

W. W. Perkins post of New London has now only 13 living members and there are generally not more than five active enough to attend the meetings. Naturally, the post has no funds for helping to entertain the out-of-town posts, and Commander L. L. Baker said that the city council would be asked to appropriate a sum of money for this purpose.

SUICIDES IN STATE ARE ON THE INCREASE

According to the provisional summary of the general death rate which has been issued for 1928 by the state department of health, there were 397 suicidal deaths in the state during the past year, in a death analysis that extends over a period of four years, the death rate for suicides has grown from 155 to 230.

The summary shows that there were 17,902 deaths during the year. This death rate is the second lowest that has ever been recorded in the state, as far as the vital statistics records of the department of health can show. The lowest number of deaths in the history of the department was in 1927, when there were 16,755 deaths, giving the state a death rate of 10.6 for each 1,000 people.

The infant mortality for 1928 shows that there were 1,654 deaths giving the mortality record a rate of 59.2 deaths for every 1,000 living births. This is the second lowest death rate in record, the lowest being for 1927 when there were 1,700 infant deaths, with a rate of 58.8.

The accidental death rate was higher for 1928 than for 1927. There were 1,102 deaths in 1928, with a rate of 68.2 compared with 1927 figures which list 1,059 deaths with a rate of 66.8.

The typhoid fever deaths which were lowest ever on record in 1927, decreased again, from 17 in 1927 to 10 deaths from this disease in 1928.

According to Dr. Stanley H. Osborn, state health commissioner, the state department of health feels that the death rate from diphtheria is going into a continuous decline. Health officials and physicians know how to immunize children against this disease so that none need have it.

"It is difficult to realize," said Dr. Osborn, "that in 1900 the death rate was more than 30 deaths for every 100,000 persons in Connecticut from diphtheria alone, while the death rate is as low as 5.3. If the rate of 30 deaths prevailed today, it would mean more than 450 deaths from this dreaded disease instead of the 86 that actually occurred in 1928. Parents have much to thank for preventive medicine for the advance made in coping with diphtheria."

The influenza figures are of interest at this time and the statistics show that there were 361 deaths from influenza in 1928, with a death rate of 22.4, compared with 299 deaths in 1927, with a rate of 18.8. The department points out that the effect of the present influenza epidemic would not affect the 1928 figures to any marked extent.

The death rate from tuberculosis has increased during the past year with 976 deaths from pulmonary tuberculosis, as compared to 926 deaths in 1927 or rates of 60.4 and 57.6 respectively.

The diseases of the summer months, diarrhea and enteritis, such as in children under two years of age, which have been responsible for 1,000 deaths in Connecticut in years past, are slowly being eliminated from the vital statistics records. This is the result of child and infant hygiene that is being practiced by the health officials and physicians, throughout the state. The figures show that the record for 1927 with its death at a rate of 11.5, had decreased in 1928 to 106 with a death rate of 6.6, the lowest on record in the history of the state.

BAD CHIMNEY FIRE ON GARDEN STREET

A telephone call at 7:50 o'clock Thursday evening summoned the fire department to the one story frame dwelling on Garden street, Fox Hill, for a bad chimney fire. Several gallons of chemical were used to put out the blaze. The building is owned by Mrs. Addie David and occupied by Oliver O. Young. Engine 1, Squad A, Acting Chief H. R. Ten of these are on the staffs of colleges and universities. Higher degrees have been won by 42 while 29 are now doing graduate work. There are 31 social workers, 46 secretaries, 12 doing literary or editorial work, 8 artists, 17 in laboratories. Other professions reported are personnel work, dramatics, psychology, advertising, medicine, dentistry, osteopathy, nursing and architectural drawing.

In point of compensation the salaries range from $1,000 a year, the lowest reported, to $4,000 a year, the highest. The average compensation received the first year is between $1,200 and $1,300. The top salary of $4,000 is earned by an actress, who, during her college years, was active in all the campus theatricals. One personnel employe is paid $3,600; one school physician received $3,500; one editor gets $2,600. This scale compares favorably with that shown by other women's colleges, but is somewhat lower than that shown by colleges for men. Yale, for instance, reports the average first year salary as between $1,300 and $1,800. In five years, these men are apt to be making between $2,800 and $4,000.

HOWARD COOK'S PICTURES WIN PRAISE IN NEW YORK

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Cook, who have ben residing in Greenfield, Mass., are spending some time in New York. Mrs Cook was Barbara Latham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Latham, of Norwich Town.

This month, until the 23rd, inclusive, Mr. Cook is having an exhibit of his prints and drawings at the Weyhe gallery, New York. In the collection are twenty-six woodcuts, twelve etchings, and fifteen drawings. Just how meritorious and interesting these are is indicated by the following criticism by Arnold Ronnebeck:

A little over a year ago, when I first saw some ten or fifteen prints by Howard Cook in his first one man show at the Denver Art Museum, I was impressed with their obvious promise of future development.

In this show he proves that he not only kept his promise, but that he has found his stride in an amazingly short time.

His outlook has wideneded, his eyes and mind have sharpened, and to his perception of form has been added a somewhat grave, yet lofty acuteness.

This knife-sharp observation is already present in his early etchings and woodcuts of south western pueblos and New England sailing ships, but New York seems to have developed it into something more generous and more independent. The unreality of its ever-changing veracities has added imagination to his feeling of organization, rythm and solidity of design.

Cook understands New York as few artists do—and he shows that it takes imagination to understand it.

His wide awake interest in everything that is alive—from skyscrapers to apples, landscapes, people, and dogs—his excellent craftsmanship in many different media, his emotional and intellectual flexibility and other subtler qualities in this most delightful show, are a fulfilment and—another promise.

BLAZING RUG IN WEST MAIN ST. HOUSE

A blazing rug in the hallway of the story and a half store and tenement building at No. 209 West Main street, owned by Mrs. Jennie Fox was responsible for a telephone call for help received by the fire department at 1.50 o'clock this (Friday) morning. Acting Chief Henry R. Taft, Deputy Chief Dennis J. Brennan, and Engines No. 5 and No. 6 responded to the call. The burning rug was thrown into the street by the firemen. The only damage was to the rug. The house was filled with smoke. There had been a social at the house during the evening and it is thought that someone dropped a cigarette in the hall way.

TWO WORLD'S MARKS SET FOR THREE AND TWO-MILE ICE EVENTS

LAKE PLACID CLUB, N. Y., Feb. 14—(AP)—Two world's skating records were tumbled here today, one by Jack Shea, of Lake Placid, sensational 19 year old youth who recently captured the North American amateur outdoor speed skating championship. Shea beat the three mile record by 9 3-5 seconds. Valentine Bialis, of Utica, broke the two mile record by 7 1-5 seconds.

Shea won the diamond trophy championship and the special Frankie Frisch trophy today. He also took second place in the two mile race, finishing only a foot behind Bialis of Utica. The Lake Placid youth is skating his first year as a senior. A third world's record was tied by Allan Potts of New York in the 200 yards when he finished in 18 2-5 seconds. The previous record was that of Charles Gorman, established here in 1927.

The two mile event opened with Lloyd Gunther, of Detroit, and Rosse Robinson, of Toronto, standing a chance of tying Shea for the diamond trophy. Races had been skated in two days previously for this. Eddie Searle today set a terrific pace for the lap prize, finishing the first mile in two minutes and 48 seconds. Then Ray Barnstadt, New York took the lead which he held for two laps. Bialis and Shea then went ahead alternately. Bialis finished first in five minutes 35 1-5 seconds, Shea second, Robinson third. The previous record for the event was five minutes 43 3-5 seconds, set by Olaf Rudd at Red Bank, N. J., in 1926.

In the 220, Potts got a good start at the gun and held the lead all the way, closely pressed by Gunther and Melvin Johnson, St. Paul, who finished second and third, respectively. Shea, getting a poor start, was fourth.

In the three mile special, Searle again captured the lap prize skating the first mile in two minutes fifty seconds. Darnstadt, Bialis, Shea and Searle alternately led in the first mile, stated in two minutes 57 seconds. With three laps to go Shea took the lead and did the distance in a sprint finishing in eight minutes 33 4-5 seconds. Bialis was second, Alex Hurd, Toronto, third. The previous record was eight minutes 43 seconds, established by Richard Donovan, of Johnson City, N. Y., in 1923.

Gunther and Wallace Mitchell, of Chicago skated off a one half mile pursuit race to settle the southwestern championship in this event for which they were tied. Gunther won in one minute 17 2-5 seconds. Mitchell's time was 1:18.

Final point score for the three day diamond trophy events: Shea 100; Robinson 60; Gunther 59; Bialis 50; Potts 40; Willie Logan, St. John, N. B. 30; Hud 20; Johnson 10. Shea becomes possessor of the Frisch cup for the year only.

FIELDS-GANS BOUT AT GARDEN TONIGHT

NEW YORK, Feb. 14—(AP)—The official welterweight championship of Los Angeles will be on the block in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night, a nation's breadth away from the homes of the combatants.

The two battlers, clever Jackie Fields and Baby Joe Gans, Negro stylist, have traveled far to settle a rivalry that began on the coast sometime ago, when the youngsters met and Fields eked out a decision. Since then each has traveled fast on a separate course.

Fields is now considered the outstanding contender for Joe Dundee's welterweight crown, while Gans, following a lighter route, has waded through lightweights and junior welterweights. Fields scales around 145 pounds while Gans can make the lightweight limit of 135. He probably will scale 139 for the ten round joust tomorrow night.

Indirectly Fields already has established his supremacy over the titleholder. He trounced Young Jack Thompson, Negro star, shortly after Thompson knocked out Dundee in a non-title bout. Jackie put the final touch of authenticity on his title bid by knocking out Sammy Baker in two rounds in Los Angeles. Fields has never been beaten by a Negro boxer. He failed to create an impression in his first and only appearance here as a lightweight years ago.

Gans, a deadly counter puncher, hopes to pass Fields and win the welterweight title before stepping back to engage Sammy Mandell for the lightweight crown. The winner will join the welterweights chase of Dundee for a title shot. Both finished training today in splendid condition.

ZELINSKY KNOCKS OUT KONCHINA IN THIRD ROUND

HARTFORD, Feb. 14—(AP)—Joe Zelinsky, of Syracuse, knocked out Frankie Konchina, of New York in the third round of the scheduled ten-round feature bout at Foot Guard hall tonight. Zelinsky weighed 162 3-4, and Konchina 158 3-4. In the eight-round semi-final bout, Nick Christy, Bristol, 127 1-2, knocked out Jimmy Garcia, Worcester, 129, in the sixth round. Jimmy Rossiter, Westerly, 128 1-2, won a six-round decision over Eddie Cavanaugh, New York, 127 1-4, who substituted for Eddie Epie, Springfield. In the other four-round bouts, Mike Cavalier, Bristol, 118, won the decision over Buster Wright, Hartford, 123, who substituted for Max Marovanich, Meriden. Eddie Reed, Hartford, 116, won the decision over Kewple Ledoux, Holyoke, 114. The Brownie, Tucker-Rosiland Roche bout was called off because Tucker was not in condition and a suitable substitute could not be secured.

Miss Hicks Near Title

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 14—(AP)—Miss Helen Hicks, 18-year-old Salisbury, L. I., golf star, stood within the shadow of another championship tonight by virtue of her 7 and 4 defeat of Mrs. J. Bydolek, Buffalo, in the semi-finals of the annual Miami Women's golf tournament today.

Mrs. John Arends, Chicago, runner-up in the recent Miami Beach championship, won her semi-final match with a 3 and 2 victory over Mrs. Jo Roberts, Philadelphia.

Play in the final round is scheduled for tomorrow.

SHARKEY WORKS HARD WHILE STRIBLING IDLES

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 14—(AP)—While Jack Sharkey stepped through a stiff workout today and Young Stribling, his opponent, took it easy, Jack Dempsey, the promoter, checked up on his ticket sales for the fight on February 27 and announced that receipts to date totaled $250,000.

The Boston sailor stepped through three fast rounds with sparring partners, skipped the rope and punched the heavy bag before a crowd. Dempsey spent most of the day in the ticket office but found time to duck into the Miami Beach Senator club arena to watch Sharkey.

Stribling left the city for the day, accompanying his younger brother, Herbert (Baby) Stribling to Melbourne where he fights tonight. The Georgian, however, will be back tomorrow and announced he would get back into the ring for a workout and after a day off Saturday, would be back at work Sunday.

Both Sharkey and Stribling say they are in good condition and need only enough work to keep themselves on edge and each has expressed fear that strenuous workouts daily might result in overtraining.

Johnny Buckley, Sharkey's manager, "Pa" Stribling, the Georgian's business agent, and members of the Miami Beach American Legion post's athletic committee will go into conference tomorrow over the question of a referee. Dempsey will be present but only as a witness and to keep peace between the managers of the fighters.

Dempsey has announced that if an agreement concerning a referee is not reached tomorrow he will name the third man Saturday, to be in the ring at Flamingo Park when the opening gong sounds.

VAN RYN TO ENTER SOUTHERN TENNIS PLAY

NEW YORK, Feb. 14—(AP)—Johnny Van Ryn, youthful conqueror of Bill Tilden and Frank Hunter, will start south next week in quest of new tennis laurels. He and Hunter will pair together in doubles in the leading southern tournaments, he said today, in addition to competing in singles.

In defending his championship of south Florida at Miami, February 25, and the All-Florida title, at Palm Beach, March 4, the veteran Hunter will have plenty of opportunity and incentive to reverse the verdict obtained by the former Princeton captain on Monday at the Heights Casino indoor courts.

RANGERS BUY CARSON FOR CUP PLAY-OFF

NEW YORK, Feb. 14—(AP)—In a last minute effort to bolster the defense for a final drive to the Stanley cup play-offs, the New York Rangers, world champions in the National Hockey league, purchased Gerald Carson today from the Montreal Canadians.

The deal was made possible when Canadians, waiting until the last day allowed by league rules for trades and recalls during a playing season, summoned Herb Gardiner from the Chicago Black Hawks to resume his old defense position. Gardiner was loaned to the Hawks as manager at the start of the season with the proviso that he direct the team only from the bench.

WEISS APPOINTED OFFICER OF BALTIMORE CLUB

BALTIMORE, Md., Feb. 14—(AP)—Announcement was made today of the appointment of George M. Weiss, president of the New Haven club of the Eastern league as vice president and general manager of the Baltimore International league club.

Weiss signed the contract today after a two days conference with Charles H. Knapp, Orioles president. He will assume full charge of the team, Mr. Knapp said, explaining that his own time was too limited to devote to baseball. Should plans for the sale of the Orioles to a syndicate materialize, it was said that the new owners would take over the contracts of Weiss and Fritz Maisel, recently named manager.

TICKETS FOR WIMBLEDON TOURNEY FOR OVERSUBSCRIBED

LONDON, Feb. 14—(AP)—With 90,000 applicants for 14,000 seats in the Wimbledon tennis stadium, tennis fans have about as much chance of drawing a season ticket as they have of winning a Wimbledon title.

Last year nearly 200,000 was returned to unsuccessful applicants for Wimbledon seats and this year the amount will be larger, as letters have poured into the offices of the All England Lawn Tennis club for weeks from all parts of the world. Many came from the United States and Japan.

A few Wimbledon tickets get to speculators, and single seats for particular days can be bought outside the grounds, while the tournament is on, at scalpers' prices of from $10 to $25.

RYDER CUP TEAM TO PLAY IN GERMAN TOURNEY

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 14—(AP)—The Evening Express today says that Mickey Walker, world's middleweight champion, has been signed by Tom Kennedy, Los Angeles promoter, to defend his title at Las Vegas, Nev., July 4, against Ace Hudkins, Nebraska Wildcat. Hudkins, according to Kennedy, has been signed for some time.

BASEBALL CHATTER

By ALAN J. GOULD

(Associated Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Feb. 14—(AP)—The crop of baseball holdouts has been unusually small this spring, but also somewhat select.

Comparatively little talk or argument about salaries has intruded itself upon the otherwise serene major league landscape, where it has been due to more rigid censorship by the clubs over such affairs or to the smoother dispatch of such business.

Here and there, however, where some discordant notes have been heard, appear the names of such stars as Great Dazzler, Arthur Vance of Brooklyn; the equally as great Waner brothers of Pittsburgh; Mickey Cochrane of the Athletics, the American league's most valuable player; and Earle Combs, fleet Yankee outfielder. There have been a few others, but, as is usually the case, the insistent demands of December and the ultimatum of January have faded into the acquiesce of February.

Likewise may the more experienced holdouts, if they are such, be expected to fall in line. Vance, except when he has had a holdover contract, can be counted on for some debate over salary matters with the Robins. As the highest salaried boxman in the National league, he may regard that as his prerogative.

The Waners, so the story goes, have pooled their demands to the tune of asking $35,000 or about double what the combined brother act received from the Pirate club last year. Since this is only half what Babe Ruth receives for his solo work, the Waners may feel their demands are no more than fair for a duet.

Cochrane's demands for a bigger salary, after his recognition as the league's most valuable performer, may be one reason why the American league magnates have had some discussion about applishing the prize award.

Whatever holding out there is among the world's champion Yankees seems confined to the outfield, the name of Combs being linked with those of Bob Meusel and Ben Paschal, as the only players not yet having signed contracts. But no alarm has been manifested in the Ruppert-Barrow sanctum over the situation.

Rogers Hornsby had no trouble coming to terms with his new employers in Chicago, while Eddie Roush's holdover contract prevents this veteran from having his usual debate over salary. Few springs have been complete without a demonstration of dissatisfaction by the Indiana farmer and centerfielder now on the Giants' roster.

The twin Thors of the Yankee attack, Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig, have one and two seasons more to go on their present contracts, respectively. The Babe's $70,000 contract, signed with a great deal of flourish in the spring of 1927, has covered already two of his greatest years and may be increased when it runs out. Gehrig's salary, under a clause understood to call for an automatic annual increase, is $25,000 this year and will be $30,000 in 1930.

The story is told about how Frank Frisch, now one of the highest salaried players in the game, signed his first big league contract with the Giants.

The Fordham flash, just finishing his college career, was prompted to ask for $1,000 for his signature, when, as is customary, he was asked what he wanted. But when McGraw put the question, Frisch replied: "$900," and said it with the hesitation of a man willing to take less. And he made no inquiry whatever about the terms of his contract.

That was ten years ago. Nowadays probably most college stars negotiating with a big league club would have their lawyer handy.

TORRINGTON HAS THREE GAMES IN EASTERN CONN.

Torrington high opens a three-game engagement in Eastern Connecticut with its game with the Academy tonight at the Y gym. The visitors will play Chapman Tech Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at New London and Windham Saturday night at Willimantic.

In meeting three teams of the Eastern Connecticut conference, Torrington will be giving this circuit quite an acid test. To have the visitors win all three games would not speak well for the strength of the teams in the league.

The Academy will have the toughest time, meeting Torrington when that team is rested. By the time Torrington gets around to the Windham game, however, she may not be so strong, or even may not be as good Saturday afternoon.

KOZIOL PREPARING TO DEFEND R. I. TITLE

Al Koziol, local lightweight and champion of Rhode Island, is working out in preparation for the state championships of that state, Friday, March 8. Koziol is laying off until his appearance at Providence, when he will be given some tough opposition to retain his crown.

Thursday night Koziol went through a brisk session with Tommy Hartz, a lightweight from Westfield, Mass. Hartz is well known, having appeared on Holyoke and Hartford cards. Recently he beat Johnny O'Keefe at a Hartford show.

MISS NORELIUS CUTS DOWN HER RECORD

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Feb. 14—(AP)—Martha Norelius, national and Olympic swim champion, clipped more than three seconds from her own 500 yard dash record in an exhibition event here tonight. Her time was 6 minutes 29 seconds flat against her previous best mark of 6:32 2-5.

Gaston and Simmons Sign

BOSTON, Feb. 14—(AP)—President Bob Quinn of the Boston Red Sox, today announced that he had received the signed contracts of Milton Gaston and Paddy Simmons, two right handed pitchers. Gaston, who came to the Red Sox from Washington in the Buddy Myers' deal, is a brother of Alex Gaston, a member of Bill Carrigan's catching staff. Simmons was a member of the club last season.

WHALERS ELIMINATE LOCAL Y IN STATE BASKETBALL TITLE RACE

Norwich Y. M. C. A. Seniors dropped from the State Y. M. C. A. basketball picture last night at the local court when the New London Y. M. C. A., using 14 men, defeated the locals 36 to 31 in an overtime game. However, the loss meant little to the local Y for a win for the locals by less than 22 points meant the game as a loss. In order to remain in the running Norwich had to win by a 22-point margin, which was an almost Herculean task.

The game was nip and tuck from start to finish with the local boys holding a two-point margin at half time, 15 to 13. At the opening of the second half the Whalers sent in an entirely fresh team and still the locals held on even terms right up to the end when the score became knotted at the final whistle. In the overtime period the fresher New London team forged to the front for a victory. Brown was high scorer for the evening.

In the preliminary game the Y Emps won from the Peerless Finishers by a 22 to 16 count. The summary:

B BE RUTH BETTER BALL PLAYER THAN GOLFER

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 14—(AP)—A putting slump today checked Babe Ruth's bid for golf championship honors in the annual jungle amateur tournament.

The baseball slugger breezed through the first round after taking medal honors and was a favorite to enter the finals, but he fell before H. C. Peck of Richmond, Va., in the second round today 6 and 5.

Peck will meet Warren Cassing of St. Petersburg in the semi-finals tomorrow, while Walter Daw of Atlantic City plays James Howell of Rochester, N. Y., in the other bracket.

O'KELLY MIXES WITH SCHAAF THIS EVENING

BOSTON, Feb. 14—(AP)—Con O'Kelly, Irish heavyweight, has been promised a match with the victor of the Tom Heeney-Jimmy Maloney clash if he disposes of Ernie Schaaf, the ex-sailor, here tomorrow night in the Boston Garden's elimination tourney.

Eddie Mack, the Garden's boxing promoter, has Heeney and Maloney signed for a match early in March and has assured Tom O'Rourke, O'Kelly's manager, that he will match the winners of both bouts.

SPENCER SOLD BY PIRATES TO INDIANAPOLIS

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 14—(AP)—Roy Spencer, catcher for the Pittsburgh Pirates, today was sold outright to the Indianapolis club of the American association ending a week after he had failed to agree with the club management on terms of his Pirate contract. His sale came after long negotiations. He notified Pittsburgh officials six weeks ago that he would not sign.

Spencer, with the Pirates for several years, was sold to Indianapolis early last season but was bought back this winter.

Maroons Overwhelm Senators

MONTREAL, Feb. 14—(AP)—The Montreal Maroons overwhelmed the Ottawa Senators in a National Hockey league game here tonight by a 4 to 0 count, the victory evened the season's series for the Maroons after Ottawa had gone ahead with a 5-1 victory Tuesday.

Jimmy Ward, right wingman, and Hooley Smith of the defense line, led the Maroon attack which netted two goals, while Ward got three assists. Stewart and Robinson accounted for the other Montreal counters. It was Robinson's first goal in major league hockey.

KAPLAN BEATS McGRAW IN DECISIVE MANNER

WATERBURY, Feb. 14—(AP)—Louis (Kid) Kaplan, Meriden lightweight, handed Phil McGraw, Detroit Greek, a decisive beating here tonight in an uninteresting ten-round bout at the state armory before a crowd of more than 4,000. There were no knockdowns during the contest and both boxers failed to measure up to expectations.

Kaplan used his famous "buzz saw" attack, throwing lefts to the chin and rights to the body continually, but he relented after several rallies and took things easy with his opponent. McGraw at no time threatened and was outclassed in every round. Kaplan weighed 134 3-4; McGraw 135.

Hughey Devlin, of New London, won an eight-round decision over Pete Lucci, Clinton, Mass., in the best bout of the night. Devlin weighed 120 1-4; Lucci 119 1-2.

Barney Zablocki, New York heavyweight, received a six-round decision over Rocky Knight, of Detroit, in a game contest. Zablocki weighed 196; Knight 190.

Frankie Marino, of New Haven, won the opening bout of four rounds, outpointing Joey Duggan, of New London, in a slugging duel. Marino weighed 128; Duggan 126 1-2.

While cleaning the bird, however, he found a .30-calibre rifle bullet in its neck and nine more in the duck's craw. Subtracting the weight of the lead, the actual weight of the duck was below normal. Either the bird possessed the appetite of a goat, Thomas reasoned, or it mistook the bullets for shrimps.

The tax collecting system of Italy is to be tightened by the introduction of heavy penalties on those who make false returns or no returns at all of their income tax. These penalties will amount to one-third of the amount of the tax due for a year and a fine ranging from 100 to 2,000 lire. Until the introduction of the recent measure, persons who failed to make a return of their income tax to the taxing authorities were not liable to any punishment. If their non-compliance with the law was discovered they were held to pay arrears of tax, but no penalty was added.

MILLVILLE AT DANIELSON TONIGHT

The Danielson Town team tonight at the Danielson Town hall meets with stiff opposition in the Millville Five of Massachusetts. Millville has always been a thorn in the side of the Towners as in the three games that Millville has played on the local floor Danielson has had the hobor of winning but one of them. The Towners, far stronger this season than last, are in hopes of making it two-all tonight.

Millville comes to Danielson tonight with plenty of strength and Manager Jack Powers of the visitors claims that he will take the Danielson boys with ease, which remains to be seen. It must be admitted, however, that Millville has a real formidable club with such stars as Pelequin, former Holy Cross star, Kettridge and Curran, two others of renown. Other players on the squad are equally as strong.

Danielson will use its regular lineup of Godreau, Keach, Armington, Williams, Gallup, Poirier and Burke. The Danielson attack centers around Pop Williams who is proving to be the mainspring of the Danielson club. With the team functioning as it has for the past few weeks the Danielson supporters are not having any doubts as to the outcome of tonight's encounter.

The Academy faces one of the best teams in Connecticut tonight at the Y gym in Torrington High at 8:30. This team is making a two-day excursion into Eastern Connecticut with the Academy as the first opponent.

A large crowd is expected as Torrington is one of the best attractions in state high school basketball this year. This team is fairly sure of getting into the Yale tourney, as its record has been very good. Earlier in the season Torrington decisively beat the Academy and has also numbered among its victims Naugatuck, Rogers High of Newport and Gilbert High of Winsted. A large crowd of rooters is coming with Torrington.

The Academy has lost nine straight and again tonight will attempt to shake the jinx. The locals gave Windsor High a stern tussle Tuesday evening and tonight may be able to do things with Torrington. Tomorrow night, the Wildcats play Stonington High here in a Conference game. There will be a fast preliminary for tonight's game.

VALENTINE PARTY GIVEN AT THE JOHNSON HOME

At the Johnson Home Wednesday evening, the staff and members of the home family were delightfully entertained by Euphemian Circle of the King's Daughters, Mrs. Fred Fox, leader, from Greeneville Congregational church. The affair was a Valentine party and included a musical program, refreshments and distribution of Valentines, each member of the home being presented one from the circle. Mrs. Harry Stebbins was in charge of the vocal and instrumental numbers. She was assisted by Mrs. Charles G. Schwenk and Mrs. Raymond C. Britlin as vocal soloists and Mrs. Frank Watters. Old fashioned songs were sung by the entire company. Mrs. Schwenk's solos included, A Dream, by Bartlett; Fiddle and I, by A. Goodeve, and When You and I Were Young Maggie, by J. A. Butterfield. Mrs. Britlin sang, "Why My Caravan Has Rested," by Lohr. There were present 16 members of Euphemian Circle, several of whom assisted the leader, Mrs. Fox in serving ice-cream, wafers, fruit and candy.

The entertaining program opened with a piano duet beautifully rendered by Mrs. Stebbins and Mrs. Watters, who besides their several numbers accompanied for the soloists, as well as playing for the old-time songs. These were chosen by the various members of the home family, each one having the favor of the song she desired. The program concluded with America. The entertainment proved so enjoyable under the arrangement of Mrs. Fox and Mrs. Stebbins, that it was suggested to the Johnson Home matron, Mrs. May Rollins, that a repetition be given at an early date.

The president, Mrs. William Weaver was hostess to the February meeting of Dorcas Home Missionary society of the Methodist church at her home on Huntington Greene, Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Weaver read the 54th Psalm and Mrs. George Warren Potter offered prayer, also played for the hymns sung, Nearer, Still Nearer, and Where He Leads, I'll Follow. Sewing on patch work was done during the afternoon, and matters concerning the society's interests were discussed. In the absence of the secretary, Mrs. Stanton W. Brown, her report was read by Mrs. George Manning, who also submitted her report as treasurer. Pledges for the conference year which ends in April, have nearly all been met. The president requested that the mite boxes be brought in at the meeting in March.

Mrs. Manning read a pleasing letter from a member, Mrs. Annie Randall, who has been passing the winter in Lebanon, acknowledging a card of sympathy, also the choice flowers sent at the time of Mr. Randall' sdeath, the latter part of 1928.

A card of sympathy signed by the members at the meeting Thursday afternoon, is to be forwarded to another members, Mrs. Albert G. Miner, who since the funeral of her husband last week, has been at the home of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Miner of New Haven. Mrs. Miner is expected to return to her home on Huntington avenue, Saturday. The meeting closed with the Mizpah Benediction.

Following a play'et on Abraham Lincoln Tuesday in observance of the great statesman's birthday, by the grades at Samuel Huntington school, Principal William G. Tarbox showed several stereopticon slides to the pupils in the various rooms in the building. All pupils were in attendance except the boys in the 7th grade, who attended the manual training lesson in the school building conducted by Walter Forschler. The playlet characterized Lincoln from a small boy through his illustrious career.

Nanny Has Troubles Enough

In all this world there is no other
That knows the troubles of a mother.
—Nanny Meadow Mouse.

Danny Meadow Mouse awoke from his nap. He yawned and stretched and wondered how it was that he wasnit sleeping in his own home. Then he remembered that Nanny had refused to allow him to enter that home and had sent him away, saying that she had troubles enough without being bothered by him. What those troubles were he couldn't imagine.

"I wonder if she is feeling any better natured now," thought Danny. "I'll run over and see."

So Danny scampered over to his home and stopped just outside. He remembered the reception he had received before and he felt a litti timid about venturing in now. While he was trying to make up his min dwhether he would or not, Nanny Meadow Mouse peeped out. "Oh, it's you!" said she. "Well keep away. As I told you before, I have troubles enough."

Nanny allowed him just one look

"But I don't understand what those troubles are," protested Danny.

Nanny looked at him very hard. She saw that he really meant what he said. "So you don't know what they are!" she exclaimed. "Well, it's time for you to learn. You can come in for just a minute."

So Danny came in for just a minute. To his great surprise he found that there really wasn't room for him. Quite filling the comfortable bed was a squirming mass of naked little Mouse babies. They didn't even have their eyes open. They had no little fur coats. Nanny allowed him just one look. Then she pushed him out and went back to her family.

"How many are there?" squeaked Danny, from the doorway.

"Eight," replied Nanny.

Danny would have whistled if a Mouse could whistle. "You are quite right, my dear, you are quite right," he squeaked.

"Quite right about what?" asked Nanny.

"Having troubles enough," replied Danny. "I shall keep out of your way, my dear."

"Do," squeaked Nanny.

"I will," said Danny. And, suiting the action to the word, he scampered off to get something to eat.

Now you must admit that sight babies is a real family. It was the largest family that Nanny Meadow Mouse had ever had. Once she had had six babies and had thought that she had all that any mother could do in looking after those. But now she had two more than that. Such a load of responsibility! All those babies must be fed. She must make sure that each one had its full share. And now that they had no little fur coats, she must make very, very sure that they did not get chilled. She couldn't leave them uncovered. That wouldn't do at all.

"Trouble, trouble, trouble!" she muttered to herself. "I wonder if any other mother ever had so many troubles." But all the time Nanny was very, very proud of that big family. Not for the world would she have had anything happen to even one of them. All her muttering and scolding didn't mean a thing. It was just her way. You know, mothers are that way sometimes.

As for Danny Meadow Mouse, he was very well satisfied to leave the care of that big family entirely to Nanny. While they were so little there was nothing he could do to help, so he was quite satisfied to simply look in once in a while and leave it at that.

Preliminary reports of the work state that not only is the possibility of increasing the supply indicated, but also of developing a product better suited to button making.

Huge Trust Rumored

NEW YORK (AP)—The merger rumor fields are now flowering with glittering tales regarding the investment trusts, since the crop of motor merger stories seems to have been harvested for the time being. One particularly impressive specimen is to the effect that leading English, Scottish and American investment trust heads are planning the largest international investment trust ever, with capital of about $1,000,000,000.

BUSINESS PROFITS BY WATCHING WEATHER

CHICAGO—(AP)—To the general public the weather man is someone to blame for blizzards and frosts, but to business he is a dollar-saver.

Millions of dollars have been saved industrial concerns, according to C. A. Donnel, junior meteorologist in the Chicago district, by advance tips on cold snaps or hot spells.

He cites one government forecast of a West Indian hurricane as evidence that the weather man is a friend of business. More than $30,000,000 worth of merchandise was sent safely in harbors, while other shippers, ignoring warnings, lost carzoes at sea.

One Chicago department store for years has relied on Friday's forecast to plan its Monday advertising.

Tin Consumption Gains

NEW YORK (AP)—Preliminary figures on the world production and consumption of tin during the past year show substantial increases, but with the production running higher than consumption, which the trade regards as augguring lower prices. Total supplies of tin coming into the world markets in 1928 approximated 136,000 tons, an increase of 15 per cent over 1927. Total deliveries, however, gained but about 8 per cent.

Test Ore Deposits

TORONTO (AP)—Canadian iron interests are exploring the heavy ore deposits of western Ontario to learn their commercial possibilities. It is hoped these deposits may be used as a source of supply for Canadian furnaces. A carload of the ore has been shipped from Kaministiqua, where deposits amount to several million tons, to Ottawa for analysis.

STOCK TICKER SERVICE MAY BE GIVEN HAVANA

NEW YORK—(AP)—Tentative plans are under consideration for the extension of complete stock ticker service, with movie equipment, to Havana. This will make the second foreign country to receive the service, as tickers have already been installed in some o fthe leading cities of Canada.

At present quotations are sent to Cuba periodically over private brokerage wires which are also used for transmission to orders to New York. Interest in the New York stock market there has grown by leaps and bounds with the increasing popularity of the Cuban capital among American tourists.

Europe is supplied with New York stock quotations at certain periods of the day by news services and banking houses with foreign offices.

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO FLU

Coughs from Flu May Weaken Your System and Lead to Serious Trouble

You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion may help you avoid flu, but is not sold as a flu remedy. If you have fever, or think you may have the flu, see your doctor immediately. (adv.)

LOCAL SEIZURE LEADS TO BIG BOOTLEGGING PLANT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Feb. 14—The seizure in Westerly by federal officers of contraband liquor has resulted in the arrest of twenty-four men in Brooklyn, N. Y., a illegal liquor business which federal authorities claim has been carried on in five warehouses of the Glickstein, Terner, Inc., bottle dealers, North 10th street, Brooklyn, N. Y., has been uncovered, as the result of a sweeping investigation conducted by Capt. George E. Golding, chief of the special prohibition investigators in Providence.

The investigation followed the seizure Feb. 6, last, in Westerly, of an automobile load of alleged liquor by agents from Capt. Golding's office. Two occupants of the seized automobile were arrested and gave their names as Anthony Mello, 6 Emmett street, Peabody, Mass., and Sam Fsude, 68 Marlboro street, Chelsea, Mass. The seizure occurred at 2 a. m. as the alleged liquor-laden automobile passed over the Connecticut line into Rhode Island. Four alleged officials of the Glickstein, Terner Co. furnished $7500 bail each when arraigned on a charge of conspiring to sell articles designed for use in violating the national prohibition laws. The other charge of conspiracy and furnished investigation were arraigned on 20 men arrested as the result of the $2500 surety each. According to Capt. Golding he and other agents found several barrels of alleged rye whiskey chips, which bootleggers use for flavoring, several empty whiskey barrels fake stamps and thousands of fake labels. The agents wished to keep the investigation secret to prevent anything going wrong with the carefully laid plans of Capt. Golding. It is understood that the seizure a few months ago of a liquor cutting plant also was responsible for the investigation. It is understood from New York dispatches that the Glickstein Terner Inc., deposited $100,000 in New York banks during January. The company is supposed to deal in empty bottles.

The investigation is the most sweeping and important made by agents from the Rhode Island District since the establishment of prohibition. Federal authorities are highly praising Capt. Golding for the work.

It's Growing!

The shoulder-length bob is taking a real place among fashions of the hour for the younger set. In many high schools and colleges, more than half the girls are letting their hair grow to the new length. This style as worn by New York city girls is shown in the above photograph of Miss Edna Rabbe, 1925 Avenue G, Brooklyn.

Miss Rabbe says: "I am certainly delighted that I let my hair grow to the new length now that I have found a way to keep it easily manageable and attractive. My hair is ever so much fluffier and more vigorous than it has been for a long time. And it is free from all traces of dandruff, now. I attribute its improvement to the method I am using to care for it. It's so popular among the girls in my set. All we do is put a little Danderine on our brushes whenever we use them. This makes my hair so easy to dress any way I want it and holds it in place as I arrange it. Danderine soothes my scalp and keeps it and my hair so clean, I don't need to shampoo more than twice a month, now. And all my friends admire the way it makes my hair so bright and sparkling."

Danderine does more to bring out the natural color, the gleam and lustre of your hair, than shampoos or brilliantine. It removes that oily film from it, gives it new life and lustre. It cleanses and invigorates the scalp; helps overcome dandruff. Danderine is delightfully fragranced; isn't oily, doesn't show. All drug stores have the generous 35c bottles.

Some of the members of Troop No. 32, Boy Scouts, of Mystic Oral School for the Deaf, started to play hockey games on the ice. After a while Patrol Leader William Skeper was injured, getting a broken bone in his right leg. The Scouts took him to a doctor. Skeper's parents in New Haven have visited their son in the school. These Scouts do a good turn daily and know about first aid. They are sorry that their patrol leader has had this accident.

NEW LONDON PASTOR SPEAKS TO PARENT-TEACHER ASS'N.

The Parent-Teacher association of West Mystic grammar school held its February meeting Thursday evening, in the school house. Following the business session the children of Mrs. Baton's and Miss McQuillan's grades entertained their parents and friends with a very interesting program of music, drills and a minuet. The work of the children was well done and won hearty applause. Rev. Chester H. Howe of New London was the speaker of the evening. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

Bad Spots In The Roads.

Due to the changeableness of the weather, the roads are in bad condition in some places and by spring will require a great deal of repairing. The dirt roads are either deep from ruts or deep slippery mud. The macadam roads have broken up in some places and these when worn into will be deep holes. However, the Mystic-Old Mystic road has not as yet broken up as badly as it did about six years ago, when cars became stuck in the mud by the ledges near the Babcock place, and in some instances had to be pulled out.

Exchanged Valentines.

Many of the grades in the schools had Valentine boxes Thursday. Each pupil drew a name and brought a valentine for that child, and to as many more as he or she wished.

E. William Holmes of the steamer Lemuel Burrows spent Tuesday with his family.

Mrs George Griswold has returned to her home here after being dismissed from Home Memorial hospital, Wednesday.

Firemen Attend Class.

A good number from the Mystic Fire department attended the fourth of the training classes, held Thursday evening under the instruction of Chief J. F. Murray of New Haven. The men are all taking a great interest in the lessons and wishing for more as Chief Murray makes his instructions very interesting. By permission from Chief F. A. Mabbett of the local department, Chief Harry H. Clark of the Noank company, attended the meeting and hopes to be able to pass on to his men some of the valuable pointers.

The Sewing society of Charity chapter, Eastern Star, had a supper in Masonic Temple, Tuesday. After the supper all went upstairs, where a class of candidates was initiated. There were about 150 members and visitors present, the visitors being from New Jersey, Norwich, Quincy, Mass., and Westerly. Thursday afternoon the Sewing society of the chapter met with Mrs. Minnie Palmer in Noank.

C. C. Dodd and R. C. Burrows were in New London Thursday.

VIGOROUS BODIES NEED VEGETABLES

Sugar Works Wonders in Flavoring Them

"What do these canned tomatoes need to make them taste better?" Sugar added to the tomatoes while they are being heated will work wonders in making them enjoyable. Sometimes as much sugar as two tablespoonfuls to a quart is needed.

"What's wrong with these peas? They taste flat." Add a teaspoonful of sugar to a can of peas while you are warming them and notice the difference.

"What's the matter with these carrots? They don't taste like carrots." Add a teaspoonful of sugar to the carrots while they are cooking and notice the difference.

"This corn is almost tasteless." Add a teaspoonful of sugar to a can of stewed corn when warming it and notice the improvement. Everyone improves the flavor of canned corn by adding butter, salt and pepper. Up to a teaspoonful of sugar per can will give an even greater improvement.

It isn't strange that sugar improves all these vegetables. Nature developed sweetness as the perfect flavor and the result is the proper amount of sugar changes flat, unpalatable foods into dishes that can be enjoyed.

One famous cook puts it this way: "Fine flavors revolve around sugar." A bit of sweet makes the meal complete. The Sugar Institute.

Monday evening, Feb. 11, Donald C Gaylord, county club agent, accompanied by Edward Walford, assistant poultry specialist at C. A. C., held a meeting in the Rock Meadow school house. The meeting was called to formulate plans of the Rock Meadow district. A good number of parents and firends accompanied their children to the meeting. Much interest was shown in the project and the slides that were used for illustration were greatly enjoyed. Mrs. Jerry Skopek whose son is hoping to be a member of the prospective club, added to the sociability of the meeting by serving cake, cookies and cocoa.

IN LAST HALF HOUR OF STOCK MARKET LOSSES WERE CUT BY SHORTS COVERING

NEW YORK, Feb. 14—(AP)—The stock market was inclined to retreat today before the threat of restrictive credit measures by the directors of the New York federal reserve bank, meeting after the close of the market. Many important stocks sold off 2 to 11 points, but active short covering in the last hour cut several of the losses in half.

The certainty of a substantial decrease in federal reserve brokers loans was no encouragement toward constructive activity, under present conditions. The decrease, announced after the close, amounted to $101,000,000, which failed to offset last weeks increase of $110,000,000. The major part of the reduction was for the account of out of town banks.

Trading was in moderate volume, total sales again falling 3,726,050 shares. Activity slackened on the declines, but all bulges caused prompt profit taking. Stocks generally showed stubborn resistance at the low points touched in the reaction of last week, but a few new lows for the movement were recorded. Call money held at 6 1-2 per cent. All day, but time money was firm at its persistently high levels. Commission houses urged extreme caution, pointing out that government investigation of the brokerage loan situation would undoubtedly unsettle public confidence.

The days business news was meagre, but largely favorable. The American International Corp. placed its new stock on a $2 annual basis, equal to $4 on the old stock, or double the old rate. It also declared a 2 per cent. stock dividend. It was learned that the U. S. Steel Corp., has purchased several blocks of its 50 year 5 per cent. gold bonds, which was interpreted as foreshadowing recapitalization. Two copper companies, Utah and Nevada Consolidated, reported earnings for 1928 about double those of 1927. Rubber consumption for January was reported at a new high record.

Johns Manville, General Electric and Packard each fell about 6 points, touching new lows for the movement, then practically cancelled their losses. Radio sagged about 4 points, recovering most of its loss. General Motors held steady, and Chrysler more than made up a 2 point loss.

Utilities followed an upward course, contrary to the general trend. American and Foreign Power mounted 5 points to a new high, and North American stepped up more than 2 points. American Express shot up nearly 12 points to a new top, and Case Threshing surged up 20 points in a small turnover.

International Combustion Engineering again crossed the 100-mark. Motor Products mounted more than 4 points, and International Mercantile Marine preferred moved up 3 points to a new high for the year.

Rails turned markedly heavy, Atchison, New York Central, Norfolk and Western and Union Pacific selling off about 3 to 4 points. American Telephone, A. M. Byers, Commercial Investment Trust, Commonwealth Power, DuPont, and National Bellas Hess were among issues losing 3 to 7 points.

The commodity markets were generally steady, wheat touching new highs for the movement on commission house buying, and corn rising in sympathy. Cotton failed to take more than casual notice of the rather bullish January consumption report, and closed barely steady.

In the foreign exchanges, the Canadian dollar dropped to a new low for the year, the discount reaching nearly 1-3 of a cent. This revived hope of further gold imports from Canada. The sterling demand rate again dropped below $4.85, and European currencies were generally heavy, the guilder and the lira falling to around the year's lows.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 14—(AP)—Activity in the bond market today was on the selling side, and the Associated Press combined averages sank to a new low for the year.

Not a section of the list escaped the wave of liquidation, and in many cases, especially in the rails, new lows for the year were established. A few issues, however, rallied in the closing hour and finished the day with gains. Trading was on a small scale and seemed to reflect the nervousness of stock traders over the New York Federal Reserve bank's directors meeting. Sales totaled 9,642,000, compared to $10,396,000 yesterday. Time money was firm.

Anaconda Copper 7s were the outstanding strong spot in the industrial group, closing at 297 1-2 for a net gain of 1 1-4 points on the day, after sagging to 202 1-4. Wall street heard rumors of a stock split up and an exchange of Anaconda shares on an even basis for Andes Copper. International Mercantile Marine 5s were another strong issue, rising a point. International Cement 5s sold down 1 5-8 points. Alleghany Corporation 5s were unsteady all day, but American International 5 1-2s rallied in the afternoon to close fractionally higher. Sugars continued to decline on price declines for that commodity, Cuba Cane Sugar 7s slumping 1 3-4 points.

More than a half a dozen rails declined to new lows for 1929. Katy 5 1-2s and Hudson & Manhattan Adjustment 5s led the decline, both touching new lows.

International Telephone convertible 4 1-2s after an early display of weakness finished fractionally higher, contrary to the general trend of the list. The foreign list moved irregular lower. Pirelli 7s declined 2 1-2 points.

Curb bonds were irregular. Associated Gas & Electric issues fell back 1-2 to 2 points on profit-taking.

U. S. government obligations were lower.

he remainder of the group were besieged by newspapermen seeking to determine the nature of the suicide note, known to have come into the possession of the coroner today from the hands of Medical Examiner Mason. The barrage of questions brought no results, however.

The time and day of the funeral of Mrs. Jackson is being held in the utmost secrecy in the hope of avoiding all the publicity and curiosity seekers possible. The funeral, when it is held, will be very private and but a very small group of very close relatives and friends have been invited. Burial is expected to be in the Jackson plot in the Willimantic cemetery, beside the bodies of her husband and son.

Early this morning Mrs. Trenor A. Rice was interviewed at her home in Canterbury. Questioned as to her opinion of the suicide of Mrs. Jackson, she said: "The suicide of Mrs. Jackson only confirms my impression of my husband's innocence which I gained in my one brief interview with him at the jail." Mrs. Rice, who has withdrawn divorce proceedings against her husband, expressed confidence that all would now come out all right.

Juanita Jackson, now the only surviving member of the family, remains at the Jackson home in company with Mrs. Merton A. Andrews, who has been her constant companion since her father was murdered. Juanita is seeing no one and is said to be in a highly nervous state, being completely unstrung by the suicide of her mother.

A police officer remains on day and night duty at the Jackson home in the same capacity as before the suicide of Mrs. Jackson, guarding against intrusion by the curious.

WHAT CORONER BILL SAYS ABOUT THE NOTE

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 14—Coroner Arthur G. Bill was a harassed man tonight. While press despatches were being filed from Willimantic setting forth that Mrs. Gertrude Jackson had in a note found after her suicide yesterday afternoon assumed responsibility for the murder of her husband, County Investigator W. E. Jackson, and exonerating Deputy Sheriff Trenor A. Rice from complicity in the crime, the coroner was insisting to newspapermen pressing him for a copy of the text that the note had not been given out for publication and that no one but himself and a few others in official circles had seen it, these including a small group of investigators who have been working on the Jackson case since the night that Mr. Jackson was killed.

Coroner Bill would neither affirm nor deny the authenticity of the late afternoon's press despatches fixing the responsibility for the killing on Mrs. Jackson. He would not even state for publication whether the note details just what led up to the Jackson murder and the incidents immediately preceding it. The coroner is not usually so reticent, though traditionally cautious. To the direct question "Why is the text of the note being withheld from the public?" Mr. Bill replied, "I feel that the ends of justice will be better served by not giving it out at this time."

Truscon Steel company, Youngstown, in carrying out an improvement program calling for expenditure of at least $1,000,000 annually, plans to build four new fabricating plants in the next few years at Chicago, Birmingham, Boston and Baltimore.

LITTLE GIRL DROWNED ON WAY HOME FROM SCHOOL

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 14—(AP)—Thin ice on Pond Lilly today claimed the life of Rose Luciano, 8, as she was taking a short-cut to return home from school. She drowned before firemen arrived. The body was recovered by grappling hooks. Two hours work to resuscitate her failed.

ABANDONED SHIP IS POUNDING ON ROCKS

SEATTLE, Wash., Feb. 14—(AP)—Leaving the steamer Meiyo Maru to the mercy of a dying Arctic gale the 25 members of the crew of the ill fated Japanese freighter were enroute to Japan today on board the rescue vessel, the Nankoh Maru.

Radio reports last night indicated that both the Nankoh Maru and the steamer Illinois had participated in the removal of the Meiyo Maru's crew but it was learned definitely today that the Nankoh alone had taken the sailors.

Pounded by the rocks of Unimak Pass, battered by the heavy swell the Meiyo Maru was believed to be going to pieces. Her deck load of logs and lumber had already slipped into the ocean, Mason said, and the lumber strewn waves were regarded by mariners as a menace to navigation.

AMMUNITION AND GUNS SEIZED IN VIENNA

VIENNA, Feb. 14—(AP)—The police today seized 30,000 cartridges, 300 modern rifles, machine guns, revolvers and army telephones found in a raid of the headquarters of the socialist organization for the defense of the republic and the Republican Workmen's union. The police broke into underground chambers, which held the arsenal. Their search required three hours.

No arrests were made pending an investigation to determine whether the arms were intended for use in a coup d'etat against the present Christian socialist regime headed by Chancellor Seipel. At social democrat headquarters it was asserted that the police had authorized the possession of the firearms for purposes of self-defense. The police, however, declared that the license did not provide for any such amount as was found today.

If a man is attentive to his wife it is either because he loves her or because he is afraid of her.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Say Dyspeptics Should Avoid Drugs and Diet

Magnesia Best for Bad Stomach

Drugs are dangerous and Diets usually unnecessary in so-called Acid Dyspepsia, and thousands of people daily dose themselves to their stomach's damage and, without cause, deny themselves the hearty, strengthening food their system requires. Neither drugs nor diet possess the power to destroy the excessive acid in the stomach, which is the underlying cause of nearly all stomach distress.

Good food was made to eat. Stomachs were made to digest this food, and Bisurated Magnesia was made to neutralize the acids that prevent proper digestion. Follow a good meal with a teaspoonful or two tablets of pure Bisurated Magnesia and know the solid comfort of perfect, healthy digestion. The stomach keeps sweet. There is no sourness, fermentation, burning, gas or pain. Thousands of former stomach sufferers do this daily and druggists the world over recommend Bisurated Magnesia. So many people say, "I've tried everything." But before you give up hope, try a little Bisurated Magnesia. See if you don't feel like a new person

Palace Theatre

The new vaudeville program which opened at the Palace yesterday scored with a bang and is one that the management of the tehatre can well recommend to everyone in the city. The feature act produced by Jack De Sylvia is called Realm of Beauty, a gorgeous singing and dancing revue with beautiful wardrobe and stage settings with an Adagio team that is very pleasing. Bert Marks & Co. certainly had their patrons holding on to their seats with their funny comedy. Bertrand & Raymond in nothing but nonsense, Elsie & Pansie, two chic little misses in a few musical moments, and opening this program is Jimmy Fletcher in a one-man vaudeville show by himself.

A page of life that is full of thrills, love, romance and strange complications is being shown at the Palace theatre in a photodrama entitled Sinners' Parade. Columbia Pictures, the producers, may well feel proud of its accomplishment in delivering so intriguing an entertainment.

The story is simple, presented in a straightforward manner and chuck full of action. There is no padding in the production, although Director John G. Adolfi has introduced a number of appealing situations and bits of business for atmosphere.

Dorothy Revier has the leading feminine role, that of a school teacher who adds to her income by posing a in nude on a silver platter at a popular night club. Victor Varconi is the manager of the club. He is at loss to understand the teacher's attitude in refusing the gifts of his patrons; but secretly admires her clean living. The girl is the sole support of a married sister with a baby. The role is ably handled by Marjorie Boner. While the teacher is at work the sister has a wild time; but when she is home the girl plays upon her sympathies, posing as an invalid.

One of the pupils in the school where the heroine teaches is the daughter of a reformer. When the mother learns of the teacher's double life she pulls a raid which not only results in the teacher losing both her positions but also brings about the downfall of the woman's own son.

Broadway Theatre

Stepping along on her own two dainty little feet is Nancy Carroll, the latest bit of piquant personality to grace the screen. Her latest picture, in which she is co-featured with Gary Cooper, "The Shopworn Angel," at its opening last night at the Broadway theatre, where it will play for three days, was a new triumph for Nancy Carroll, Paramount and the Broadway theatre management.

Nancy Carroll has everything. She is a delight to watch. The life and action in her portrayal, the absorbing personality and the charm of her presence provides all the entertainment one needs for one evening. But then there's Gary Cooper. Cooper has "that," which for men actors is the same thing as "it" for women actors. He has proved it in many strong parts, but in no one of his pictures has he excelled so completely as in The Shopworn Angel.

The Shopworn Angel is a tender love story of a boy, shy, bashful, lonest, and a girl, gay, giddy, charming and true. It is a pathetic story played against the bright background of Broadway. It is a glittering piece of romanticism, a thrilling tangle of circumstances in which a clean-minded young man and a re-awakened girl are swirled helplessly.

The Shopworn Angel has many things to recommend it. It has Nancy Carroll, Gary Cooper, Paul Lukas, that captivating and mysterious person, and an unusual, moving love story in a brilliant setting. It is good entertainment throughout and it is good for thinking people. The Shopworn Angel is a picture to see and to talk about.

Violent or mysterious deaths would be reported to the medical examiners as now and when it appears that a crime has been committed he would report it to the state police commissioner and his report would be filed with the state's attorney of the county in which the suspected crime was committed. All of the provisions and powers of the statutes now given to coroners is transferred to the state police commissioner in the bill.

The fish and game committee had a number of bills before them concerning the administration of the board and appointment and duties of wardens. Soon after the hearing was opened, Lafayette F. Main obtained the floor and the members were regaled with a history of his experiences and troubles with the state board of fisheries and game and with wardens that have often visited his farm. He would have every law that restricts hunting, fishing and trapping repealed. His recital of his troubles was the cause of much laughter amonx the committee and others present. According to his story he has been much abused by fish and game officials. Senator Woodard, chairman of the committee tried in vain to curtail his long story of injustice done him, real or fancied.

Today was the longest business session yet held.

The house was called to order at 11.17 by the speaker. The nomination of Sheridon T. Whittaker and Stanley Dunn as judges of the court of common pleas was received and was referred to the committee on the judiciary.

She was 29 years of age, and since the death of her husband several months ago had been making her home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Yargeau, of South Second avenue, who survives her with several brothers and sisters. The body was taken to Whitinsville, Mass., the former home of the family, and burial is to be there Saturday. Undertaker George G. Grant was in charge.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE TO LAUNCH MEMBERSHIP DRIVE MARCH 4TH

An annual budget of $20,000 will be necessary to carry through the new programme of the Norwich chamber of commerce, according to an announcement made Thursday evening by the chamber president, Joseph C. Worth. The annual membership drive of the chamber will launched March 4th, President Worth said. On that day representatives of the chamber will call upon local business men to renew their memberships and increase their investment in the chamber. Individual memberships will be continued but the old plural membership plan will be discontinued.

The chamber directors are now perfecting the plans for the annual campaign. Regarding the coming campaign President Worth issued the following statement to the membership Thursday evening:

Growth is the evidence of life. When growth slows up or stops, common interest dictates that there be a community of effort in the direction of correction. Many American cities, faced by problems as acute as ours, have met and solved them by such a proceedure.

Your chamber of comerce feels that now is the time for a radical forward movement, and it is proposing a carefully planned Expansion Programme.

Some of the salient items in this programme are a definite drive for industrial development; a persistent effort to secure convention and tourist business; a modest but comprehensive publicity programme for the city; a constructive plan for better merchandising conditions; a community chest survey, looking to the establishment of such an organization here; and the encouragement of a movement to provide an adequate airport.

We have devised a new method for financing this work. Individual memberships will be continued and their number increased, but the old plural membership plan will be discontinued. The routine work of the chamber will be carried by income from dues, but the expansion programme will be financed by an activities fund which will be created from subscriptions, independent of membership, from the larger business interests of the city. This idea is being successfully applied by many of the leading chambers of commerce of the country, and we believe it to be a distinct forward step for us.

A budget of $20,000 per year will be necessary to carry through the new programme.

Beginning on March 4th, it is proposed to call upon the business interests and people at large to re-subscribe and increase their investment in the Norwich chamber of commerce, thus increasing its power for community conversation, advancement and service.

To the end that all this may be done promptly and efficiently, the board of directors asks the cooperation of the press, business leaders, institutions, associations, and the people of the city.

We all believe in the future and the possibilities of Norwich and our section. Let's translate our faith into a community of action."

BILL GIVES MORE POWER TO TOWNS

The proposed bill giving the towns of the state the option of replacing boards of assessors by an appointive tax assessor, in behalf of which Tax Commissioner William H. Blodgett appeared before the finance committee of the legislature, gives additional powers to the towns rather than added authority to the state government, Commissioner Blodgett pointed out in a statement.

The bill, which was submitted by Representative Hiram W. Schriver of Groton, proposes that a tax assessor may be appointed by the common council, selectmen or the proper executives of the towns, if it is so voted at a regular town meeting.

Commissioner Blodgett said that the passage of the bill would permit the appointment by the towns of a tax expert, if it should be desired following a revaluation. Revaluation of town property assessments would be futile if further provision was not made for the continuance of the scientific system of evaluating property, he asserted.

Commissioner Blodgett reiterated his statement concerning the taxation system in Hartford and emphasized the need for a revaluation in that city. This should not be done, however, he maintained, until the city had taken steps to provide for the continued operation of the scientific method of determining values.

Commissioner Blodgett cited the Bridgeport system, as a model for other Connecticut cities to follow and gave high praise to Tax Assessor William F. Connelly for the installation of the system.

"The method proposed by Mr. Connelly is not new or revolutionary," he said. "Very similar methods have been employed successfully for some years in many cities of this country. In Connecticut a half dozen towns prior to 1925, installed systems to some extent similar to the one employed in Bridgeport, and in the year 1925 a half dozen other towns made revaluations based on unit values and employing arithmetical computation as a basis for arriving at values.

"The installation of such a method involves the complete overhauling of methods previously employed in tax offices. By the method proposed values for purposes of taxation are not arrived at by guessing or by rule of thumb."

"Where such methods are employed the results are as inevitable as they are absurd," he charged, and cited Hartford as one Connecticut city where this situation exists.

NOLLE ENTERED IN LISBON DRIVER'S CASE

An absolute nolle was entered in the continued case of Joseph Lobe, 19, of Lisbon, alleged hit-and-run driver, when he was presented in the city court Thursday morning. Acting City Attorney Josiah Greenstein recommended the nolle. Lobe was arrested on Feb. 6, after he was alleged to have abandoned his machine on Thames street, after it had collided with a parked machine owned by Earl Bashaw of No. 68 Thames street. August Giey, 32, of this city, was struck by the parked machine as he was walking on the sidewalk and received a fractured nose and other bruises.

Lady Anne served two years in the field hospital units in the Imperial Russian Red Cross and in the army of the Caucasus. She spent ten months of danger and starvation in Russia during the revolution. As a national speaker on Near East Relief Lady Anne gives a thrilling message and appeal in behalf of her people.

YEAR'S PROGRAMME FOR BIBLE CLASSES

At a recent meeting of the state officers of the Federation of Men's Bible classes of Connecticut at New Haven a programme for the ensuing year was adopted. At Meriden Sunday, April 7th there will be a meeting of the state officers with the presidents of the organized Bible classes of the state, at which time plans and methods for the organization and the development of the individual classes will be discussed under the leadership of successful Bible class workers.

In the state there are more than 150 organized Bible classes and every men's Bible class in this state will be invited to have its president or an alternate present at this gathering. State President William O Florian of Bridgeport, State Secretary C. K. Calhoun, also of Bridgeport, and Charles C. Jones, president of the Meriden Federation, are arranging for this conference.

The officers have set as the goal "500 delegates from the Bible classes of Connecticut at the sixth national convention of men's Bible classes in Baltimore on May 4 and 5." Special arrangements are being made with the railroad authorities for reduced rates and special accommodations are being made with the hotels of Baltimore to entertain the delegates on the days of the convention. Last year the convention was held in Newark, New Jersey and Connecticut was represented by more than 500 Bible class men.

This year the convention will be larger than last year's and the meetings will be held in the Fifth Regiment armory. In addition to the large delegation of men, the committee of arrangements is inviting the delegates to bring their wives along and the city of Baltimore will entertain the ladies while the men are at the convention.

Hon. Thomas F. Boening, mayor of Baltimore will welcome the delegates and several outstanding Bible class leaders from different sections of this country will address the convention.

One member of this group is Dr. Russ Stover of Philadelphia, who recently spoke at the second annual banquet of the Hartford Federation and his address on "Aspiration, Inspiration, Perspiration and Cooperation" was a wonderful inspiration to the Bible class men of Hartford.

The committee in charge of promoting the convention in this state consists of William O. Florian, president; C. K. Calhoun, secretary; and the presidents of the local city federations of which there are six already organized. The Bridgeport federation, which is the first city federation of men's Bible classes in this country, is under the leadership of Charles C. Dennis; the New Haven federation under the leadership of Charles F. Van Vliet; the Meriden federation under the leadership of C. C. Jones; the New London federation under the leadership of C. D. Wicks; the Stamford federation under the leadership of Major J. W. Smith. Others are being organized—one in New Britain under the direction of Elmer H. Nodine; one in Waterbury under the direction of Dr. E. J. Erbe; also one in Rockville and Middletown.

There is an increasing interest in the Bible class movement and Connecticut has more city federations and is better organized than any other state. It was in New Britain, 1923 that the National federation was organized and the first city and state federations in this country were organized in Bridgeport. Connecticut is also the first state to arrange for a state conference of Bible class presidents.

PLAIN CLOTHES OFFICERS TO WATCH AUTO DRIVERS

As one means of increasing respect for traffic lights and rules Robbins B. Stoeckel, commissioner of motor vehicles has suggested the substitution of "plain clothes" policemen for uniformed men in the watch now maintained for city traffic law violations.

With a policeman in civilian attire on watch, the commissioner is of the opinion that "within a very short time all traffic devices would be heeded by everyone, for in the mind of the operator each person standing around would be a potential detective."

"It will be argued," he says "that it is unfair to a motorist to have a plain clothes man watching him. It is sort of a sneaky idea anyway, and no one likes to feel that a detective may be watching him expecting him to commit an inadvertence. But how can the principle of government through moral suasion be better served in connection with traffic signals than to leave them unguarded by uniformed policemen and have, for a time at least, a plain clothes person watch and discipline offenders.

"The acme of performance which must be attained before traffic runs safely and well includes the carrying out of well known rules and regulations by the persons involved whether or not there is a policeman watching. And yet, with all of our emergencies and all of our advanced ideas and understanding, and we rate ourselves the most intelligent nation in the world, it is still necessary to have a policeman watch almost every corner, even though automatic traffic direction is supplied.

"It is a fair conclusion that fundamentally we are a people so independent and so free in our ordinary activities from police supervision that we have learned to rely upon ourselves to serve our own convenience first though the convenience of others may be disregarded. If such is really the case, then we are so neglectful of direction that if the policeman is not there to see that we do not do it, the average man will steal by the traffic light intended for his own safety as well as the safety of others. It is high time that we began to realize this condition and that our courts and judges make the penalties for such offenses larger and larger until we arrive at the stopping point."

Schuler Leading in Tourney

At the conclusion of play Wednesday evening at the West Side Pinochle club, Conrad Schuler still held a substantial lead over his competitors, although he came in fourth for the evening. Dr. Lewis is in second place, closely followed by Peckham. The high score for the evening, 7,805, was made by Peckham.

The scores made Wednesday night were:

Standing to date:

Schuler 37,165, Dr. Lewis 35,460, Peckham 35,025, Boynton 34,710, Ellsworth 34,675, Pettis, 34,220, Underwood 33,795, J. Jordan 33,540, McNaught 33,455, Parker 32,510, A. Jordan 32,310, Bailey 31,765.

Special City Meeting This Month

The final report of the fact finding committee, Albret Boardman, chairman, which is expected to be completed within a short time, will be submited to a special city meeting to be called possibly the latter part of the month. Chairman Boardman has announced that the work of the committee wil be finished sometime next week, but the final report will not be completed until after the committee again confers with the gas and electric commissioners. The committee was appointed as a special city meeting several weeks ago to confer with the board of G. and E. commissioners in an effort to arrive at an equitable gas and electric rate.

CONTRACTORS DECLINE TO GRANT WAGE INCREASE

The wage question was the principal business discussed at the regular meeting of Laborers' Local union, No. 524, Tuesday evening at their headquarters. The meeting was informed by the committee on the wage scale, effective April 1, that they had met with the contractors, who refused to meet an increase at the present time. The laborers are asking for an increase of 10 cents per hour and by a vote of the meeting the committee is to continue its demands for a settlement.

The local union announces that it had been stated that the laborers had received a 5-cent increase per hour last year, but this was incorrect, as they have not received an increase since 1917 with the exception of 1927 when a 2 1-2 cent increase per hour was given. The present scale is 62 1-2 cents per hour for the laborer and 72 1-2 cents per hour for the hod carrier and with the increase asked for the rate per hour would be 72 1-2 and 82 1-2 cents per hour, respectively.

Organizer Vincent DeFalco of the International H. C. B. and C. Laborers of Boston, who was present at the meeting, gave an interesting address on the aims of the international union and its relation to its locals. He also spoke of the general conditions of the labor movement in New England and congratulated the officers of the Local No. 524 on the efficient way the business of the local is being conducted.

LOCAL LIONS TO ATTEND WOMEN VOTERS' LUNCHEON

Several matters of civic interest were brought before the attention of the Norwich Lions club at its regular noon luncheon metting at the Wauregan hotel Thursday with President Kopland K. Markoff presiding. One verse of America was sung and the blessing was asked by C. E. Carpenter. Earl Taggart acted as song leader.

Mrs. E. W. Higgins, chairman for New London county of the Connecticut Child Welfare association, was introduced and spoke of the luncheon to be held at the Wauregan hotel, Monday noon, Feb. 18, under the auspices of the Norwich League of Women Voters. She announced as the speaker of the day, Bird S. Coler, of New York city, who will speak on "Philanthropy and Child Welfare." Other speakers are Judge Sheridan T. Whittaker of New Haven, topic, Successful Juvenile Court Methods, Kenneth L. Messinger, head of the bureau of Child Welfare, topic, Legislation Affecting Children and Miss Mary Bulkley, president of the Connecticut League of Women Voters, on the subject, Legislation in which the League is Interested. The Lions voted to atentd the luncheon.

Max Hanover then gave a short talk on the Norwich Boy Scouts financial campaign and explained what the scouts organization is doing for the boys of the city. After speaking of the excellent manner in which the Boy Scouts took charge of the 1800 children at the Lions' New Year's party Mr. Hanover concluded his remarks by informing the Lions that an organization of this kind deserves the support of every citizen of Norwich. The club voted a contribution to the scouts campaign on motion of Lion Louis Fontaine.

President Markoff made the announcement that at the next Thursday luncheon, Frank E. Jaynes, who is coming to Norwich for an educational campaign under the auspices of the Norwich chamber of comerce will be the speaker of the day.

C. E. Carpenter was the five minute speaker. Mr. Carpenter told a very interesting story about his recent hunting and duck shooting trip to Virginia and North Carolina, especially his experience at the Knutts Island, North Carolina.

The weekly attendance prize was won by Frederick Bielefield. Before adjourning the meeting, the president called upon the members and each expressed his opinion of what the Lions club can do for the betterment of Norwich.

DICKENS' LAST LETTER TO GO AT AUCTION

LONDON— (AP) —Charles Dickens, last letter, written a few hours before his death and containing a confession of faith, will be sold at Sothebys auction rooms, Feb. 14. It is a letter to John M. Makeham, penned Wednesday, June 8, 1870, in which are several references to Edwin Drood.

"I have always striven in my writings," wrote Dickens, "to express veneration for the life and lessons of our Saviour, because I feel it—not because I rewrote that history for my children, all of whom knew it, from having it repeated to them, long before they could read, and almost as soon as they could speak. But II never made proclamation of this from the housetops."

That night Dickens was late for dinner; there was an expression of pain on his face when he arrived, and at 6 o'clock the following morning he was dead.

Briton To Lecture

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Sir Henry Japp, famous British engineer, who built the Pennsylvania railroad tube under the East river in New York, will deliver a series of lectures on Christian Science throughout the United States. His visit to this country is under the auspices of the Christian Science Parent Church board of lectureship, ofwhich he is a member. Sir Henry became affiliated with the Christian Science Parent Church last year. He lived in the United States for 16 years.

Advise Holding Corn

AMES, Ia.—(AP)—The chances are about 11 to 1, says G. S. Shepard, agricultural economist at Iowa State college, that the farmer who holds his corn now and sells next summer will get the most money for it. Shepard bases his prediction on studies dating back to 1899.

Urge Better Hay In South

MONTGOMERY, Ala.—(AP)—Producers of Johnson hay in the Black Prairie Belt of Alabama and Mississippi, the only extensive southeastern hay surplus area have been warned by agriculturists that they must keep low-grade hay off the market if sales are to be strenghtened and production maintained on a profitable basis.

TOUT MISSOURI DRAWL FOR "WORLD LANGUAGE"

COLUMBIA, Mo.—(AP)—Dean Walter Wialliams of the University of Missouri school of journalism advances the dialect of Missouri as a world language.

"You all" in the state dialect is defended by the dean, who emphasized the fact that the Missouirian heard the expression at the church meeting in the apostolic benediction, "The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all."

"To a Missourian, his state is Miszou-rah, or Miz-zou-ry, never Mis-sou-ri, a 'creek' is 'branch,'" in winter its ice is 'slick,' and no 'gyurl' preferred a 'finckly' man," he said.

"The letter 'r' has small place in the alphabet of the original Missouri dialect," continued Dean Williams, "though a wicked and perverse generatino has drilled it into our children's speech along with the omission of "sir' and 'ma'am.' "

Just as the traffic officer had given the signal for the cars to move, a pretty girl made a dash across the street. She would have been knocked down by a swiftly moving car had not the driver jammed on the brakes.

"Women and donkeys are always in the way," he exclaimed furiously.

Hens that show great difficulty in breathing and loss of appetite at this season of the year probably have infectious bronchitis, which usually is fatal. The best thing to do is immediately to isolate all sick birds and destroy them if they are found to have the disease.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

The month of January saw a falling off in the number of building permits granted at the office of Acting Fire Marshal Henry R. Taft, as compared to the previous month but the average for January was upheld. The estimated outlay of expense for the work described in the permits is $20,551.

With the exception of a few days of extreme cold weather and snow the winter has been very favorable to the contractors who have been rushing work along at summer speed. Little work is being done in the center of the city with the exception of the remodeling of the store in the Wauregan hotel block at the corner of Broadway and Main street and the remodeling of the building on Bath street owned by Fred Tongren. The work at the Broadway store is well along and the contractors are engaged in finishing the interior. At the Tongren building the new brick front on the building is well along and is a decided improvement over the old frame front.

In the Thayer building the Atlantic and Pacific Tea company is remodeling one of the stores into a meat market. The work is practically completed with the exception of the interior shelving.

To Fred R. Tongren to alter the present brick building at 11 Bath street, owned by himself. The building will have a new foundation on which a new brick wall for the front will be erected. A new plate glass front will be put in and the lower floor devoted to store purposes. The estimated cost is $2,600.

To the Great A. and P. Tea Co. to remodel the store at 14 Franklin street in the Thayer building. The present store front will be removed and placed back to the former store front line. New doors will be installed, and new glass put in the front windows. The estimated cost is $1,000.

To George B. Nelbert to add two dormer windows to his present house on Prospect street. The estimated cost is $300.

To John Senetzke to erect a frame garage for himself on Geer avenue. The garage will be 12x20 feet and the estimated cost is $100.

To Theodore Kendall to erect a 5-car garage at the rear of 107 McKinley avenue, for Thomas and Bridget McCune. The garage will be of frame construction and will be 22x50 feet. The estimated cost is $675.

To the Peck-McWilliams Co. to alter the present building at the corner of North Main and Second streets for the Atlantic Carton corporation. The alterations will include the changing of the present storehouse into an office. Brick and stone will be used for the exterior. The estimated cost will be $8,500.

New frame garages	3
New frame sheds	1
New brick buildings	1
Alterations to brick buildings	5
Alterations to frame buildings	2
	12

The cost of the work as given by the applicants is $20,551.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

In Norwich during the past week there were seven sales of real estate as compared to ten sales for the corresponding week in 1928. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $46,196 and $89,150.

There were nine sales of real estate in New London during the past week, two less than for the same week year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $45,878 and $40,750.

NEW LONDON.

Work is going forward at Eastern Point, both preliminary to new construction and the completion of jobs which have been under way for some time.

One of the biggest development jobs at the Point will be the construction of 13 cabanas, a type of elaborate bathhouses, which will change the appearance of the approach to the Shenecossett bathing beach.

Preliminary work has already been started. The bathing pavilion at the beach has been torn down, to make room for the new structures. Each of the cabanas will accommodate two families. The buildings will occupy the entire space fronting the beach from the office of the Shenecossett Beach Co., Inc., for which they are to be built, easterly to the line of the Plant estate. Walks, two feet wide, will separate the buildings.

The cabanas are to be constructed especially for the use of persons who occupy cottages at Eastern Point. Each will be 18 by 18 feet in size and will be divided by a center partition. For each of the two families to occupy one of the buildings there will be a shower room, two dressing rooms, and a sitting room. The sitting room will be furnished with wicker furniture. There will be a veranda in front of each building, facing on the waterfront. These will be shaded with awnings of gold and blue color combination.

Work on the new mill being built for the Onondaga Tattle company, Inc., in Trumbull street has been completed creating the laying of a concrete floor and the finishing of the roof coping. This work has been delayed temporarily on purpose pending the installation of machinery which is now taking place. The new building is a two-story structure of steel, concrete and brick construction equipped with steel window sash.

The exterior appearance of the Gould cottage in Shore avenue, Eastern Point, has been completely changed. A large veranda has been constructed to run the whole length of the west and south sides. Two large gables and several dormer windows have been added to the third floor. The entire interior is being remodeled. A two-car garage with chauffeur's quarters has also been built. The wor is in charge of Contractor Louis Ortman of Norwich.

Building Permits.

Helen F. Redman, residence and garage, Glenwood avenue, $10,100.

Texas Co., service station, corner Jay and Franklin streets, $8,000.

O. W. Pavey, dormer windows, 18 Lewis street, $200.

Jacob Lazerow, alterations, Prest street, $500.

Number of permits for the week, 6; estimated cost of buildings, $23,700.

MYSTIC.

Work has been completed on the construction of a new house for Harold S. Fo at Ocean View Heights, Matic. The new dwelling is a six-room bungalow of Colonial design.

Across the front, which is 36 feet, are the living room and dining room, connected by a raised opening, with a sun room opening off the dining room with French doors. In the living room is a rustic fireplace built of field stone. At the back of the house are two bedrooms and a bat accessible through a hall containing a linen closet and clothes chute. The kitchen has all modern conveniences, including combination sink and laundry tub, built in kitchen case, broom closet and a dinette.

The main floors are of oak and the hardware is of solid bronze with glass knobs. The bath room is equipped with built in tub and pedestal lavatory. The heating plant is an oversized pipeless heater.

The side walls are painted white, with touches of Colonial green trim, and the roof has multichrome shingles. A three acre garage of harmonious design has been built in the rear of the property.

WESTERLY.

Westerly Building Inspector Thomas Wills and Zoning Inspector Louis J. Rossi have issued the following building zoning permits:

Speech

Talk happiness. The world is sad enough
Without your woe. No path is wholly rough,
Look for the places that are smooth and clear,
And speak of them to rest the weary ear
Of earth, so hurt by one continuous strain
Of mortal discontent and grief and pain.

Talk faith. The world is better off without
Your uttered ignorance and morbid doubt.
If you have faith in God, or man, or self,
Say so; if not, push back upon the shelf
Of silence all your thoughts till faith shall come;
No one will grieve because your lips are dumb.

Talk health. The dreary, never-ending tale
Of mortal maladies is worn and stale;
You cannot charm or interest or please
By harping on that minor chord, disease.
Say you are well, or all is well with you,
And God shall hear your words and make them true.

BELGIAN QUEEN LENDS AID TO AIR CONGRESS

BRUSSELS—(AP)—Elizabeth, queen of the Belgians, long a patron and devotee of flying, has consented to be joint-sponsor to the first international congress of aviation at Paris in May. The president of France is the co-sponsor.

The Belgian king and queen have traveled by air more than any other royal rulers in the world. When visiting the Congo last year they flew for almost a thousand miles over virgin forests and jungleland. They expressed great delight in the experience.

Queen Elizabeth on several occasions during the war went to England by air. Since then she has missed no chance to fly, most of her trips being in company of King Albert.

BRUSSELS, (AP)—Air transport is to be speeded up greatly in Belgium by an arrangement permitting goods addressed to any European airdrome to be accepted at any Belgian railway station.

AMERICAN AUTO PLANTS SETTLE NEAR BERLIN

BERLIN (AP)—Gradually the city of Berlin has become the center of the American automobile business in Germany and also the home of the different assembling plants.

With the Graham-Paige Motors corporation opening their plant at Johannisthal, a suburb of Berlin, eight American automobile firms have now their own assembling plants in Germany.

Graham-Paige, Durant, Ford, General Motors, Chrysler, Willys-Overland and Hudson-Essex are all in and around Berlin, and the Studebaker corporation has its German plant in Hamburg.

TEXAN BURNS GAS WELL TO GUIDE HIS PLANE

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (AP)—Orange-colored flames of burning gas from his own oil well, the deepest in the world, provide a night-time beacon to guide Carl G. Cromwell's monoplane.

Three pipes emerge from Cromwell's well, which is 3,553 feet deep, and pillars of fire shoot out from them 100 feet into the air.

As associate professor of medicine here and previously while a member of the staff of the Rockefeller institute, Dr. Amoss has made important studies bearing on various problems of bacteriology, infantile paralysis and erysipelas.

He is the second Johns Hopkins professor called to Duke university in recent months. Dr. Wilburt C. Davison, now dean of the Duke medical school, was assistant dean of the Johns Hopkins medical school and associate professor of pediatrics.

FREMONT, Mich. (AP)—Crude beside testers of modern make, but still giving efficient service, the oldest commercially manufactured Babcock milk testing outfit is doing duty 365 days in the year for E. E. Price, local dairyman.

It was purchased in 1905 by the Newaygo County Cow-Testing association, the first such organization in the United States. Price bought the tester when the association was temporarily disbandoned during the world war because of labor shortage.

TEACHERS TO ANALYZE CHICAGO'S CIVIC ILLS

CHICAGO, (AP)—A scientific analysis of Chicago's political and social ills is to be presented by a series of downtown lectures under the auspices of the University of Chicago.

Authorities on political science, led by Prof. Charles E. Merriam, will diagnose the city's governmental ailments. The 47 lectures will include discussion of election violence, crime and possibilities of the city manager plan as a remedy for Chicago's civic difficulties.

THE CRYING NEED OF THE FARMERS.

(Written Specially for The Bulletin)

I hope you all read the article in last week Wednesday's Bulletin setting forth the losses suffered by New London county farmers in the last ten years, because of the disproportion between prices paid producers and prices charged consumers.

Three hundred and twenty-four dollars and a half per farm; $918,833 for the whole county. This is bringing the "problem" right to our own door-steps and propping it up against our own back doors, where neither we nor the grocer's boy can help seeing it.

As a matter of more fact, we didn't need to have it set there by any one else. It's been under our feet and in our way for a long time, tripping us up, hindering us, discouraging us. It's no discovery by the census man.

Nevertheless, it's publication by him is of value, not only in clarifying our own ideas,—which are sometimes dreffle muddled by it,—but quite as much in putting the sorry facts before the eyes and minds of other people.

The non-farmer of the city has long been accustomed to discount complaints by farmers on the easy theory that all farmers are grumblers, anyway, and will always find fault about something. Either the neighbor's hens or the weather or the market. This seems to have satisfied his curiosity and soothed his conscience.

Publication of the facts and figures shows him that, instead of being just unreasonable grouchers, the farmers of his own county have over nine hundred and eighteen thousand separate and distinct reasons for complaint. Dollar reasons, too: the one kind the city man can most adequately appreciate.

As the writer of The Bulletin article pertinently asks: What became of this almost million dollar fortune, taken, by one means or another, from the farmers of this one county? That's an interesting question. But any discussion of it would be apt to start hair-pulling. I've barely got over a long session with the flu, during which I had all the hair-pulling I crave for at least another 150 years. Nor do I believe that hair-pulling is, in itself, a reformatory or curative process. It's apt to be more productive of feuds than of federations.

The money is gone. That's flat. Who's got it is another matter. It may have gone into Big Business's big pockets; it may have gone into speculators' bank accounts; it may have gone into some of those grandiose philanthropies by endowing which certain "malefactors of great wealth" seek to compound their semi-felonious forayings. Anyway, it's gone, and beyond return or recovery.

The asserted fact that distribution costs, reckoned at 73 cents per production unit in 1917, are now figured at 99 cents for the same unit seems to indicate that the common carriers, railroads, boats, motor lines, etc., have taken at least their full share. Of the overplus taken by these carriers, comparatively a very small part has gone to enrich the owners. A vastly greater proportion has been absorbed in the constantly rising wages paid their workmen, our fellow-laborers and, it would seem, bound to look upon our farming interests with at least a brotherly regard.

Turning away from the provently sorry record of the immediate past, on the sound theory that it wastes time to cry over spilled milk, a much more important question is: What can be done for the future?

Seems to me the nub of that is found in the words of Secretary Winder of Chicago, quoted in The Bulletin. "Our crying need is bargaining power, which will enable us to determine the price we shall receive for what we sell."

In that Mr. Winder has said what is slangily described as "a mouthful." According to another old phrase, he has "hit the nail on the head."

All old and experienced farmers know that their income isn't one-half as dependent upon what they raise as upon what they sell and the price they sell at. It has come almost to be an adage with producing farmers that, the better the crop, the poorer the price; the smaller the crop, the higher the price. There is a whole school of so-called economists who are vigorously urging on farmers a deliberate reduction of crops in order to lift the prices of the diminished residue. You and I, probably, disagree with them. But their very existence shows how general is the belief that small crops mean large prices and teeming crops mean skimpy prices. Otherwise, they would find no followers.

When the farmer wants to buy anything, from a tractor to a shoestring, he pays the price which the other fellow sets.

When he wants to sell anything, from a carload of potatoes to a pound of butter, he takes the price the other fellow offers.

Considering which two facts in connection with each other, why should there be one minute's wonder that the farmer stays poor and the other fellow gets rich?

When a manufacturer makes a lot of shoes he fixures up what the leather cost, what wages amount to, what he has to pay for power and commissions and rebates and "overhead," etc., adds what he, personally and individually, considers a "fair profit," and makes the price accordingly. If Mr. Farmer wants a pair of shoes he takes them at the price or leaves them. So far as he is concerned, there is no "business" about the transaction at all. He buys the shoes at the other fellow's price or goes without. That's the limitation of his choice.

They still tell in my bishopric the story of the very independent hired man on a neighboring farm. It was haying time and the meadows were strewn with drying grass. There was custard pie on the dinner table for dessert baked in a big square-cornered tin. Mr. Hired man was, it seems, particularly fond of pastry—pie-crust—as well as "filling." Seeing his employer about to pry out for him a middle piece, with crust along only one side, Mr. Hired Man drawled out: "A corner piece for me, William Allen, or rake yer own hay!"

Now that is an illustration of what is meant by "bargaining power." With ten acres of lush grass down and every pound of available man-power needed to barn it before nightfall, Mr. Hired Man knew that the old farmer would give him practically anything he wanted rather than risk the loss of his hay.—And he got it. The "corner-piece" was promptly laid on his outreached plate. And the hay was duly raked and loaded and mowed away in the big old barn.

Of course, the farmer could have refused to give what the hired man demanded. Or he could have offered two middle pieces, instead. He wasn't absolutely compelled to give up that corner-piece of pie. But he apparently reckoned that it was a case for bargaining, that is to say, for a compromise between two. Much as he might have wanted the corner piece himself, he wanted his hay got in over more. So he bargained away his coveted slab of pie for help in raking up the hay. He got what he wanted most; the hired man got what he wanted most. Both were fairly satisfied, even if neither one was wholly happy.

It is perfectly true that the seller of tools and goods has to sell at "the market." But that "market" is one made mainly by the implicit if not explicit agreement of the sellers as to the prices that they ought to get. We've all heard a-plenty about "gentlemen's agreements" in various big industries, as to the general trend of prices. Such understandings don't have to be put in contract form and certified before a notary public. Very similar agreements are common in all forms of selling business. In the old days, when I used to "trade in" my small gatherings of eggs at the country store in return for groceries, I was one day informed that my usual dealer couldn't pay but 12 cents a dozen. So I tried the two other country stores, three and five miles away, respectively. Each one was allowing 12 cents a dozen. The coincidence was rather striking and not a little suggestive.

In no case, of course, was I asked what I wanted for the eggs or what I thought they were worth. There was no "bargaining" possible. "That's our price, take it or leave it," was the attitude.

We've talked this matter over several times. Mr. Winder's statement is not a new one, but rather a more or less effective confirmation of what we've all felt for many years. Why should the farmer, of all sellers, be the only one to have nothing to say regarding the price of what he sells? Why shouldn't he have at least an equal voice in determining the value of his own goods?

Under present conditions and with business organized as it is, the only answer is that the farmer, each one standing alone and acting solely for himself, "playing a lone hand," as the gamblers would call it, is completely at the mercy of the more or less closely combined business interests which take his products. He is always at a disadvantage, because no single farmer's output is enough to affect the big markets for farm produce.

When the New York city market, as now, is receiving ten carloads of Florida strawberries daily, how much can the ten-crate grower at Lake Okeechobee expect to have to say about the price the New York market will pay? But, suppose those ten carloads were all shipped as one consignment, to be sold by one man to a market greedy for berries but unable to get a quarter of its wants elsewhere? Don't you see that this one seller, acting as agent for the whole thousand separate Florida growers, would have the market in his hand, quite as securely as the organized commission-merchants and wholesalers have it now?

"The crying need" of farmers just now is, by some form of co-operation to mass both their selling and buying powers into such aggregate as will compel the dealers to sit up and take notice. One farmer against "the market" is as powerless as a shingle in a tidal rip. But an organizetd combination of farmers, acting as one and controlling crop sales, need pay no more attention to the tide than the Leviathan or the Mauretania do.

Ben Franklin once remarked to the rebelling statesmen of the Continental Congress: "We must hang together, or we'll all hang separately."

That's exactly what farmers have got to do.

HICKEY BLOCKS PUBLICITY OF MRS. JACKSON'S NOTES

Coroner Bill is Willing to Give Out the Text of the Note to Attorney King, But Refrains Owing to the Objection of Detective Hickey—Last Night Newspaper Men Maintained a Vigil, Expecting Night Burial of the Body of Mrs. Jackson—Miss Juanita Jackson, Who is Said to Have Lived in Terror Since the Murder of Her Father, Says the Nervous Strain is Lessening

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 15 — That Juanita Jackson, daughter of County Detective William E. Jackson, had lived in terror of her life since the murder of her father was revealed today in a conversation with a friend in a local store. Miss Jackson intimated that her fear lay in the fact that her mother had been in a very brooding state of mind since the murder and especially just prior to her taking her own life. Miss Jackson, prior to the murder of her father, had a premonition of impending calamity, as indicated by remarks made to local people several weeks ago.

In the conversation today her friends said that while she was deeply saddened by the death of her mother she seemed relieved and under a less nervous tension. Miss Jackson has the fullest sympathy of the community and her friends are doing all possible to lighten her burden. Many offers of assistance have been made to Miss Jackson by her friends but she seems to depend wholly on her companion, Mrs. Andrews.

It was learned today that Mrs Jackson when first acquainted, some hours after the murder, of the fact that her husband's untimely death was not one of suicide but of murder, immediately exclaimed, "Oh, that is worse, much worse." When her friends, in kind argument, pointed out to her that death making her husband a victim of a revengeful assailant, was much more honorable than suicide she seemed to accept this line of reasoning. Some few hours after the murder, when friends referred to her husband's sudden death she said "that it was very peculiar that he should end this way," adding that it was regrettable that a man who had been black-jacked and given knock-out drops should "die in this manner without a chance to defend himself."

The utmost secrecy surrounded the funeral of Mrs. Jackson and led newspapermen to lay plans for an all-night vigil at the cemetery. In the new Willimantic cemetery a freshly dug grave yawned tonight under a crescent moon and starry skies. The grave has been dug at the head of the Jackson family stone and is near the graves of her husband and young son. Tonight at the Jackson home a very few relatives and intimate friends were gathered. This gathering of friends led to the belief that some time Saturday, probably during the early dawn, a little procession of mourners would proceed to the cemetery where the mortal remains of Mrs. Jackson would be laid to eternal rest just two weeks from the day when another gathering assembled to pay final tribute to her husband.

When acquainted of the fact that the notes left by Mrs. Jackson had been placed in an envelope, stamped and addressed to him, Attorney William A. King said that he had heard of the confession but had not seen it, adding that "As I knew both Dr. Mason and Mr. Bill I felt perfectly satisfied that the notes or confession was safe in their hands." He expressed regret that he was not present with the other leading officials when the note was "officially opened and read," but while under the control of Dr. Mason and Coroner Bill "as I understand it is, I am certain it is in safe hands."

The contents of the notes have not been revealed and there are no indications when they will be made public. Coroner Bill appeared willing to reveal them provided he had the permission of State's Attorney Bradford. Bradford, when asked if it was all right to make the notes public, said that it rested with County Detective Edward J. Hickey of Hartford. Mr. Hickey, however, positively refused to allow the coroner to make public the contents of the notes.

COL. LINDBERGH DIPPED WINGS FOR FALLEN COMRADE

SAPELO ISLAND, Ga., Feb. 15—(AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh interrupted a flight from Miami to Washington today long enough to dip his wings for a fallen comrade, and take lunch with a distinguished group of financiers on the Howard E. Coffin estate.

The trans-Atlantic aviator was on his way to the capital again at 1.48 p. m., after spending two hours on the island which afforded President Coolidge a week of recreation during the Christmas holidays.

After his takeoff from Miami at 7:37 a. m. Colonel Lindbergh dropped out of heavy clouds at Sea Island, Georgia, at 11:15. He skimmed the beach sands for a quarter of a mile over the spot where Paul Redfern vanished in the southern sky on an August day in 1927, in the first and fatal effort to link the two Americas by air.

On completing this simple tribute to a flier who blazed part of the trail he himself used last week in flying the Central American air mail, the colonel sped for Sapelo, 18 miles northward, and landed in a field within half a mile of the palatial Coffin home.

YOUTH SHANGHAIED HAS RETURNED HOME

BOSTON, Feb. 15—(AP)—Joseph E. Dwyer, 21 years old, who claimed he was shanghaied out of Boston last Monday on a vessel named "Raffles," returned to his Dorchester home today. The young man said he escaped from his captors at Philadelphia. Dwyer was in an exhausted condition when he reached home and suffered from a fractured rib. A physician called to attend him said he was on the verge of a nervous breakdown.

A possible motive for the kidnaping was furnished by Dwyer. Last week an automobile collided with Dwyer's machine. Occupants of the other machine, he said, warned him to make no report of the collision to the authorities. Later two men called upon Dwyer at his place of business and made threats against him if he should report the accident. On Monday night, lured there by a fictitious notification of a battery dealers' meeting Dwyer says he was kidnaped from Atlantic avenue, on Boston's waterfront.

STEAMER STILL AGROUND OFF HANDKERCHIEF SHOAL

CHATHAM, Mass., Feb. 15—(AP)—Coast guard vessels were unsuccessful today in an effort to pull the steamer Pacific off Handkerchief shoal, outside this port, where she went aground early today. Another attempt will be made tomorrow morning at high tide, about three o'clock.

The Pacific was reported to be in no danger although she was nosed deep into the sandy shoals.

The coast guard destroyer Roe and the cutter Acushnet, tried to pull the vessel off today. The Acushnet and another coast guard cutter, the Tuscarora, were standing by tonight.

The Pacific is owned by the Argonaut Steamship company, of New York, and sailed from Providence, R. I., last night for Boston with a cargo of lumber and other freight.

ACTION OF THE FEDERAL RESERVE BOARD ENDORSED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15—(AP)—Strongly endorsing the action of the federal reserve board in its effort to restrain the use of federal reserve credit in speculation, the federal advisory council at the conclusion of its two-day session today recommended that member banks be asked directly to cooperate in curbing such loans.

INVESTIGATING KILLING OF GANGSTERS IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Feb. 15—(AP)—Theories—the usual second day grist of a hundred other gang killings—were all investigators had tonight after unceasing efforts to find the gunmen who yesterday trapped and summarily executed seven members of the powerful North Side Moran gang.

One theory, so sensational that it created a furore in official circles, was that hi-jacking Chicago policemen disgruntled by refusal of the Moran gang to pay them protection money, had themselves invaded the Moran stronghold, lined up the seven men found there, and shot them to death in retaliation and to avoid exposure. This theory was advanced by Major Fred D. Silloway, assistant prohibition administrator, who made clear that it was only a theory, although he said he was in possession of facts supporting it.

Commissioner of Police Russell said "no matter who did it, I am out to get them and clean this case up." He characterized Major Silloway's theory as "all rot."

REPARATIONS COMMISSION CONCLUDES PRELIMINARIES

PARIS, Feb. 15—(AP)—The second Dawes committee, as Chairman Owen D. Young has named the present reparations commission, today completed its preliminary examination of the big problem which it faces and adjourned until Monday. The holiday was decided upon in order to give the various international experts opportunity to think over the mass of figures and arguments which have been presented this week by Dr. Hjalmar Schacht on behalf of the German viewpoint.

It was understood that some of the concrete problems are to be grappled with next week. The sessions are likely to take on a more formal aspect in this second stage. Among the vital points that are bound to come up, the chief ones probably will revolve around determination of the amount and the number of the annuities which Germany must pay.

PRESIDENT-ELECT HOOVER IN EVERGLADES OF FLORIDA

CLEWISTON, Fla., Feb. 15—(AP)—President-elect Hoover, traveling by automobile with characteristic swiftness, circled two-thirds of Lake Okeechobee today, passing through much of the Everglades district.

Riding with him were Governor Doyle E. Carlton and Fred C. Elliott, chief engineer of the state, who explained just what the state officials have in mind for reclamation of four million acres of fertilizer farming lands around the lake, which is in the shape of a circle 35 miles in diameter. It overflowed with devastating effects in the 1926 and 1928 hurricanes.

SCREEN ACTRESS VIOLA DANA GRANTED DIVORCE

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Viola Dana, screen actress, was awarded a divorce in superior court here today from Maurice "Lefty" Flynn, former Yale football star. She said her husband was "intoxicated for two and a half years, in our three years of married life."

Miss Dana and Flynn were married in June, 1925, and separated last December. The actress did not request alimony, stating that she did not know where Flynn was living.

POCKETKNIFE DRAWN IN THE TENNESSEE SENATE

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Senator John Brown used the word "lying" in the Tennessee senate today and Senator A. H. Wiggs jumped up and started toward him with a pocket knift in his hand. Other members restored peace

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

LONDON, Feb. 15.—(AP)—(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)—The mineral wealth of the Dead Sea was estimated to be $4,000,000,000 by Sir Herbert Samuel, former high commissioner of Palestine, in a lecture at the Westbourne Park Baptist church.

BERLIN, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Professor Louis Lewin, toxicologist, and Professor Paul Schuster, neurologist, both of the University of Berlin, have reported before the Berlin Medical association the discovery of a symptomatic remedy for grip.

PROCEEDINGS OF STATE LEGISLATURE

(Special to The Bulletin)

HARTFORD, Feb. 15—With only one committee, the judiciary, holding a hearing Friday's session of the general assembly was attended by only a few of the legislators. There was but one item on the calendar ready for action, the bill extending the time for the Silica Railway and Transportation Co. to complete organization. The time has been extended to the convening of the 1931 assembly. The Silica organization is a section of the old Norwich and Westerly railway running from the old silax mine at Lantern Hill to the Thames river at a point near the Norwich State hospital.

A favorable report was made to the house by the cities and boroughs committee on an act which concerns compensation for the wardens and burgesses of Jewett City. Under the act the wardens will receive $200 per annum and the burgesses $100.

The judiciary committee made a favorable report on the bill that would establish a town court in Plainfield.

House

The house was called to order at 11:15 with prayer being offered by the chaplain.

Favorable reports were received from the committee on incorporations on the bill that amends the charter of the Boy Scout organization in Westport. The same committee reported favorably eight other bills.

The judiciary committee made a favorable report on a number of bills and the city and boroughs committee brought in three favorable reports, including the report on the bill relative to the salaries of borough officials in Jewett City.

The house adjourned at 12 o'clock to reconvene on Tuesday at 11:15.

Senate

Senator Joseph H. Lawlor of Waterbury, democrat, presided when the senate was called to order at 11:16. Prayer was said by Chaplain Ayer.

Upon unfavorable report of the judiciary committee, house bill No. 392, providing for the establishment of a judicial system with jurisdiction over motor vehicle laws, was rejected by the senate. The bill was introduced by Mr. Markham of Hartford and provided for the establishment of a commission of six representatives and three senators to arrange for the creation of district or county courts to displace the justice courts in the handling of all motor vehicle violation cases. The judiciary committee's report is based on the fact that the judicial council covers this situation in its recommendations.

The nomination of Senator Robert J. Smith of Manchester as commissioner of Hartford county was approved under suspension of rules, the senate concurring in the action of the house.

Substitute for senate bill No. 40, favorable report of judiciary committee, an act eliminating governmental duty as a defense in any action brought by any person for personal injuries received while being transported to or from school in a vehicle owned, leased or hired by, or operated under contract with any town, school district or other municipality. The bill also provides it shall be no defense that the transportation was being provided by an independent carrier. The bill was tabled on motion of Senator Peasley.

The senate adjourned at 11:40 until Tuesday morning at 11:15.

Early Vote On Jones Bill Now Assured

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15—(AP)—Taking up the bill of Senator Jones, republican, Washington, to fix a higher maximum penalty for violation of the prohibition laws the senate today heard varying views expressed as to what might be accomplished by the legislation.

A final vote on the proposal at an early date was assured by a unanimous consent agreement to limit debate after 3 p. m. tomorrow. Senator Jones said that he did not necessarily desire the senate to vote on his bill by nightfall tomorrow but expressed the opinion that an early decision would be given.

Opening the argument in favor of a higher maximum, the senator declared his measure was aimed particularly at the big bootleggers.

The opinion was expressed by Senator Johnson, republican, California that some way should be devised to keep judges from using the law to pronounce unjust sentences in order "to curry favor with some particular set of people." Jones replied that he knew of no way this could be done, that the fairness of the judge would have to be relied upon.

"I know of no federal judge," he said, "who would take advantage of the bill to make an unjust sentence."

The Michigan state law which imposes a life sentence for the fourth conviction was subjected to criticism by some senators who contended that extreme penalties only made the enforcement of law all the more difficult.

"We have the case," said Senator Tydings, democrat, Maryland, "of one man in Chicago involved in a $5,000,000 conspiracy getting off with three years, while a woman in Detroit got life."

Senator Bingham, republican, Connecticut, expressed the opinion that congress should wait until the commission which he said President-elect Hoover would appoint had an opportunity to study the prohibition situation and make a report. If Hoover recommended higher penalties, he declared, he would vote for them. He argued, however, that history showed laws were habitually broken in spite of high penalties, because it was impossible to get convictions under them.

ROOT PRAISES COURT OF INTERNATIONAL JUSTICE

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Elihu Root issued a statement containing high praise of the permanent court of international justice, popularly known as the world court, before sailing at midnight to participate in the deliberations of a committee of jurists which will consider amendments to the statute creating the court. Today was the 84th birthday anniversary of the former secretary of state.

"The court has disposed of a great number of controversies and disputed questions," the statement said, "and has been the means of finally disposing of many international quarrels, the results of which threatened the most disastrous conflicts.

"It is difficult to see how the business of establishing peacefully a new order of things following the many changes of territory and boundaries provided for by the treaty of Paris could have been carried on without the opportunity to appeal to this court when states had grown too angry to agree with each other and neither side was willing to humiliate itself by giving in."

GREAT BRITAIN EAGER TO REDUCE NAVAL ARMAMENT

Announcement Made in Washington by British Ambassador, Sir Esme Howard—Said Great Britain Intends Soon to Take the Initiative in Proposing Further Naval Armament Limitations—Washington Government is Sympathetic, But Secretary Kellogg Has Received No Official Intimation of the Proposal.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15—(AP)—Great Britain's intention to take the initiative soon in proposing further naval armament limitations was announced here today by Sir Esme Howard, its ambassador to Washington.

The recent enactment of the cruiser construction bill by congress paved the way, the ambassador said today in response to questions, for the fruitful consideration of the problem of naval armaments which up to now the British government had not cared to broach for fear of appearing to interfere in the passage of the naval measure.

In Washington circles following the issuance of the ambassador's statement it was thought probable that the proposal of the British government would be for a preliminary conference in preparation for the major parley of 1931 when the 1921 Washington agreement as to capital ships will come up for review. At the preliminary conference steps might be taken to extend the principle of limitation to auxiliary ships it was believed, and the possibility of comparing fleet strength by standards other than mere tonnage and gun calibres also might be discussed.

The Washington government remains very sympathetic to any sincere move looking toward the further limitation of armament, but no official intimation has reached Secretary Kellogg on this matter from any British source. The present administration, despite its interest in the problem, is proceeding very cautiously feeling that the question is one properly for the next administration to settle. The traditional American attitude regarding disarmament, one of readiness to participate in any such movement, however, is still maintained. The Washington government also is still prepared to advance the date of the 1931 conference to revise the 1921 agreement should a majority of the powers that ratified the latter pact be in favor of such a move.

Sir Esme said that he had no information as to what form the move for further naval limitations might take, but added any new parleys would proceed on the assumption that the recently authorized 16-warships construction program would be carried out.

"There would seem to be every reason to believe that, now that the 15 cruiser bill has become law," Sir Esme declared, "a further effort before long will be made to reach an agreement between the principal naval powers of the world for the limitation of naval armaments." He added that the English election this summer may postpone any discussion of the problem for some months.

The British ambassador called attention to the disarmament clause in the league of nations covenant which he declared is imperative all members of the league "should make further efforts toward the restriction of armament." He also said that "the United States has hitherto shown itself favorable to the idea of continuing negotiations.

"It therefore would seem," the ambassador concluded, "that everything points toward an early resumption of negotiations and with a far better understanding of the needs of the respective parties than existed at Geneva in 1927 there should be a very good prospect of their being brought to a satisfactory conclusion."

TWO YOUTHS RESCUED WOMAN FROM DROWNING

THOMPSONVILLE, Conn., Feb. 15—(AP)—Two youths tonight rescued Peter Volodka, 39, from the Connecticut river unconscious and his clothes frozen, floating a quarter of a mile from the Suffield-Thompsonville bridge. Volodka was brought to a house suffering from cold and exhaustion but is expected to recover.

Upon being questioned, Volodka, a former inmate of the Norwich retreat told a story of having been pushed from the bridge. Little credence however, was placed on this statement by authorities who believed he attempted to commit suicide.

Volodka was first discovered by a pedestrian who reported seeing a man in the water. Sylvester and Andrew Fisher, who live near the bridge, set out in a rowboat and rescued the unconscious form. It was necessary for doctors to use a knife in order to take off the clothes from the frozen body.

SENTENCED FOR HELPING HER HUSBAND ROB BANK

OWENSBORO, Ky., Feb. 15—(AP)—A jury of Kentucky men today imposed the heaviest penalty allowed by law on a rettyp 23 year old woman who was accused of helping her husband rob a bank.

The woman, Grace Browder, smiled faintly as the verdict fixing her punishment at twenty years imprisonment was read. Three days ago another jury had failed to reach a verdict in the case of her husband, Carl Browder, because one of the veniremen thought three years would be enough while the other eleven favored a heavier penalty.

The couple were accused of robbing the bank at WesteLouisville, a village near here, January 2. Two men were shot by the robbers as they left the bank.

FIVE ALLEGED GUNMEN HELD IN INDIANAPOLIS

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 15—(AP)—Five alleged Chicago gunmen were questioned here tonight by police in an effort to determine whether they were connected with the killing in Chicago yesterday of seven men.

All denied participation in the Indianapolis holdup, although several victims identified four of them.

After persistent questioning the men gave the following names and addresses: Edward A. Andrews, Fred Meyles, Ed Sullivan, Arnold Greenbush, all of Chicago; and C. E. Mason, Indianapolis.

Detectives said Andrews described himself as "one of Capone's men" and explained that he and his companions had come to Indianapolis to arrange for opening up new liquor markets.

WILLIMANTIC'S ICE SUPPLY AMOUNTS TO 23,000 TONS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 15—It is estimated that some 23,000 tons of ice, sufficient to meet the demands of wholesale and retail business next summer, will be harvested in this vicinity. At the municipal pond in Mansfield 6,000 tons of fine quality ice ranging from ten to 12 inches in thickness have been harvested and stored in the houses. Louis W. Ives directed the harvesting. The tonnage is about 1,000 tons more than last year's crop. It was necessary to remove the ceilings from the ice houses in order to make room for the surplus stock. Some 12,000 tons will be harvested at Frank Brown's plant at the old Eaton pond in Mansfield. The work on this pond will continue for a few days. The ice here averages from ten to 13 inches in thickness.

Alderman Eugene B. Lewis, at present the only active member of the police committee of the common council will make a report on the suspension of Captain Frank P. McLean of the police department at the adjourned council meeting to be held next Monday night. Alderman Lewis has met with Corporation Council William A. King, Attorney John B. Harvey and the latter's client, Captain McLean. The matter of the suspension was discussed at this conference and it is expected that definite action will take place Monday night. A police committee report was to have made at the regular February meeting last Monday night but the death of Alderman William E. Jackson, coupled with other reasons, prevented such a report. The murder of Alderman Jackson, who was chairman of the police committee and the fact that Alderman Arthur J. Dubreuil, the third member, is on a southern trip, has left Alderman Lewis the lone active member of the committee.

Four definite problems of the Y. M. C. A. were presented by General Secretary Albert B. Smith at a meeting of 45 directors and trustees of the local institution Thursday night. It was reported that the association has a present bonafide membership of 769 and that all activities are in full swing with all the building equipment in capacity use. The house committee reported the completion of the new public bath room which was built to accommodate visitors who are not members of the association. Vice-President Charles W. Hill was in charge of the meeting and Harry Hedley Smith of New Haven, state secretary of the Y. M. C. A., was a guest. Supper was served by the Ladies' auxiliary with Mrs. J. H. He was prominent in the Elks, the Knights of Pythias and the Moose. He had traveled considerably, having lived in the northwest territory of Canada as well as in Seattle, Wash., and Honolulu. He was a big and jolly man, 360 in his best days and 300 when he died. At the time of his last illness, an attack of the grip complicated by heart trouble, he was planning a trip to Rhode Island to see some of the places the heavyweights of his day liked to visit. The GREATER HUDSON acclaimed by the smartest buyers the outstanding value above $1,000

The Greater Hudson was first shown to groups of motor dealers who were asked to examine it from the standpoint of general attractiveness in lines, appearance, comfort, fittings, performance and value, and then to cast a secret ballot on which they checked their individual appraisement of every detail.

The vote by these many dealers gave a true indication of public acceptance with the result that twice as many dealers have contracted for Hudson this year as had signed at this time one year ago.

Now by tens and tens of thousands automobile buyers are likewise casting their secret and unanimous vote for the Greater Hudson. You will see the score in 5,000 salesrooms. It is conclusive proof that the Greater Hudson is the public favorite of all cars selling above $1,000.

Won't you, too, go to the nearest Hudson dealer and make your appraisement as so many thousands have already done.

DANIELSON

KILLINGLY STANDS TO LOSE $20,000 IN BACK TAXES

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 15—Opinion was expressed in official circles today that little if any of the $20,000 in back taxes owed the town of Killingly on lists dating back to 1914 is collectible, and it likely will be recommended that they be charged off, as was done with several thousands of uncollectible personal taxes. Relative to these personal taxes the recently filed report of certified public accountants points out that in the records shown that no balance was due on July 31, 1928. And further, that "in 1923 the former personal tax collector, G. A. Williams was credited with $5,656, and his successor, Attorney L. A. Woisard, was charged with a similar amount to be collected. In 1926, Attorney Woisard resigned. His final accounting shows that he collected an even $1,200 of these original unpaid personal taxes, leaving a balance due amounting to $4,456. May 5, 1926, the selectmen's records, over the signature of John A. Gilbert state that the remaining open accounts on the personal tax rate book for the years 1918, 1919, 1920, 1921 and 1922, are hereby considered uncollectible and are officially erased. No mention of any amount is made. It is assumed that the balance amounting to $4,456 was referred to."

In fairness to Attorney Woisard the public should know that during his incumbency of the special personal tax collector's office, not only did he comb out $1,200 from the tangle of back taxes which were handed to him, but in addition collected $19,856 in three current years of his regular warrants. This work involved running down information in regard to errors in enrollment, numbers of repeated names, deceased persons, moved-aways, poor persons due for abatement of their taxes, and through his earnest activities set up a respect for the functioning of his office even though it was necessary in some cases to be so drastic as to bring tax cases before the town court.

It was the accumulating dead wood on personal tax rate books throughout the state, due to the long time elapsing between the date of enrollment in October to various collection dates from four to six months later which brought forth the law making Nov. 15th, the first due date for such tax collection in the smaller towns of Connecticut.

As to charging off all personal taxes that could not be collected, a town auditors' report, recorded in the selectmen's records reads: "In checking over the years 1918 to 1922 inclusive we are of the opinion that all of the accounts remaining and listed as unpaid should be considered as uncollectible. It appears that all reasonable effort has been made to collect each and every account on these years, and that those remaining do not show a reasonable basis for further or legal action to be taken for their collection."

The full text of the selectmen's record relative to the erasing of personal tax accounts for the years 1918 to 1922 inclusive reads. Voted—That following the recommendation of Killingly official auditors, as recorded in Killingly selectmen's records, Volume 2, page 182, the remaining 'open' accounts on the personal tax rate books for the years 1918, 1919, 1920, 1921 and 1922, are hereby considered uncollectible and are officially erased."

The considerable number of personal tax accounts which were charged off at that time, it will be noted when the full text of the selectmen's record is read, in place of a clause seperated from its context, were disposed of as recommended by the town auditors, quite as it is now recommended some $20,000 of property taxes be charged off.

The hand book of Quinebaug Pomona Grange for 1929 has been issued. This year the front page shows a picture of Cargill falls at Putnam. The book is filled with information of interest and value to grangers. It lists plans of the organization for the year, list of officers and committees, record of membership, reports of the secretary and treasurer, by-laws, subordinate grange directory, grange information and many other worth-while features. The book shows that the membership of Quinebaug Pomona grange on Jan. 1, of this year, was 685. Quinebaug Pomona has 17 subordinate granges in its jurisdiction, Little River, Senexit, Brooklyn, Wolf Den Mansfield, Quinnatisset, Natchaug, Shetucket, Canterbury, Ekonk, Ashford, Putnam, Mashapaug Lake, Killingly, Highland, Plainfield and Echo. A new method, at least to Danielson, of risking serious injury or death is being tried out by some of the borough's youngsters. They have taken to roller skating nights on some of the residential streets. Last night one driver missed by inches running squarely into two little girls who were skating in Broad street opposite Killingly high school.

John Montiero of Providence appeared before Judge W. Fenner Woodward in the town court this afternoon to face a charge of evading responsibility when his car sideswiped a Lewis taxi on Dyer street, near the Cold Spring, last Sunday evening. He pleaded guilty and was fined $50 and costs, a total of $60.57, which he paid. It is understood that Montiero also will pay for the damage his machine did to the Lewis car, which had a rear fender jammed. The driver of the taxi turned his car about and chased the fleeing Providence car until he obtained the number.

At 3:40 this afternoon a "33" call brought out the fire department to extinguish a grass fire that was getting under good headway near the Connecticut mills. It was extinguished without damage to anything to value, the firemen returning to quarters in about 25 minutes.

Dog Warden Charles E. Ayer has received a report confirming the suspicion that the dog owned by William Holbrook of North Foster and that bit at least a dozen dogs in and about East Killingly was suffering from rabies, the report being an official one to Mr. Ayer from the state laboratory where the test was made.

It was indicated today that the dog quarantine to be officially announced the first of the coming week will embrace all of the towns of Killingly and Brooklyn and Putnam.

PUTNAM

FINDS NO PUTNAM DOGS WERE BITTEN BY MAD DOG

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Feb. 15—City Health Officer Peter A. Gardner said this morning that an investigation conducted among dogs in this city has revealed that no canine has been bitten by the rabid dog, killed this week in the town of Killingly by Deputy Sheriff Charles E. Ayer. The check up by Officers Howard E. Elliott and Chauncey Genung of the state department of domestic animals has disclosed that the diseased animal roamed about the villages of East Thompson and the Woodstocks before it wandered into Putnam and later into the villages of Goodyear, Attawaugan and Dayville where it viciously attacked other dogs. The quarantine, to be published on Monday in this paper is expected to be extended so as to apply to the villages north of Putnam as well as those south of this city, Health Officer Gardner stated today.

Fire Chief Ralph E. Thurston has issued an order in the fire department encouraging the use of the Pumper No. 1 stationed at the central fire station in Union square, for extinguishing chimney fires and other minor blazes that are daily being called to the attention of the members of the hook and ladder company. The pumper is now equipped with one of the latest types of booster tanks, possessing a storage capacity of 60 gallons of water, which may be directed on a flame with a high amount of pressure. The booster tank exhausted its contents upon the roof fire in the rear of the Second Congregational church on Thursday morning and proved its efficiency. The hook and ladder fire wagon is equipped with a chemical tank requiring much difficulty to reload after it has been used. In the event that a sufficient number of call-men answer the four stroke alarms the pumper will be pressed into service, as it was previous to the city's purchase of the hook and ladder truck.

Local sportsmen, members of the Northeastern Fish and Game association are anxiously awaiting the arrival of April 15th when the law will legally open the now heavily stocked brooks and streams in this section of the county to the trout anglers. President F. A. Maryott of the local fish and game association said today that reports of the committee in charge of distributing the trout and game birds have reported thousands of fish have been poured into the brooks. This work was completed several months ago. The fish directed to Putnam by the state board of fisheries and game were of considerable size at that time, and should prove enticing to fishermen at the opening of the season. The trout season of 1928 did not prove to be successful during the early stages of the season, due to the absence of warm weather, necessary to cause the much coveted fish to run the streams.

Of interest to many in this city was the reappointment of Judge Newell Jennings of Bristol to the superior court bench of the state for a term of eight years. The re-appointment will be confirmed by the senate it was thought in legislative circles today, since the bill along with others was introduced into the house Thursday morning. Judge Jennings officiated at the session of superior court held in Putnam and occupied the bench at the indictment of Trenor A. Rice of Willimantic, charged with the slaying of County Detective William E. Jackson, at the grand jury hearing, held in this city last Monday.

The Kaceys again topped their indoor sports opponents, the Odd Fellows at the weekly session held in Odd Fellows hall last evening by a score of 5-0. The Knights are now in slang expression "miles ahead" and the win of last night tends to make them more so and also subtracts considerable interest in the weekly card tournament between the two lodges. The Odd Fellows have managed to scarcely snatch a few wins but not a sufficient number to rival the huge score already piled up by the onrushing knights. The summary of last night's events are as follows: Names of the Kaceys appearing first: Irving and Joe defeated E. Andrews and Ferns; Martin and A. Giraca defeated Wilson and Shippee; S Giraca and Rice defeated K. Andrews and Arnold; Hannifan and J. Gifford. The next contest will be played at the Knights of Columbus rooms on Union street on next Thursday evening, Feb. 21.

Radio reception that has been affected during the past fortnight by some persistent amateur was reported today to be considerably improved. The irritating buzz reported responsible for the marred and distorted reception has ceased. Whether or not the youth with his spark coil and key was unable to communicate with Commander Byrd in the Antarctic and because of his failure decided to dismantle his crude station, is not known and the fans do not care to investigate since the disturbance has abated.

For the past forty eight hours crowds have thronged around the local newsstands waiting in hopes that the last editions will bring news of the contents of the letters written by Mrs. William E. Jackson found on her body after she took her life by shooting.

Louis Benoit of Killingly a recent graduate of the machine department of the state trade school has entered the employ of a Hartford typewriting company.

J. E. Ledoux of this city was in Boston on a business trip Thursday.

Superintendent of Streets Frederick Dumas of Providence street has recovered sufficiently to warrant pregence on construction work now being carried out by the city highway department. Supt. Dumas was injured a week ago when he fell between the horses harnessed to one of the city teams.

Herbert J. Smith, a member of the firm of Smith and Walker, with his wife, sailed today from New York on the United Fruit steamer "Tivives" on a Carribean cruise visiting Cuba, Jamaica and Central America. Mr. and Mrs. Smith will be gone about a month. Among other places they will visit is Santiago de Cuba where they were married when Mr. Smith was then in charge of the federal engineering project in Santiago harbor, during the second intervention of the island by the United States government.

Mrs. Annie S. Rafferty of Grove street will leave for Atlantic City, N. J. Sunday, where she will be the guest of relatives for a period of two weeks.

BOZRAH

At the Congregational church Sunday morning Rev. Fred R. Bunker of Wilton, Conn., gave an address on life in South Africa. Mr. Bunker has been connected with this work for over twenty-five years going to the field in 1895 but returning to America for lack of funds. In 1903, he and his family returned and have labored there ever singe. During his lecture over 100 beautiful colored slides were shown. Although these pictures were shown in the daytime they were as clear and bright as any seen in the evening.

The Bible Study class met Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Francis Herrick of Bliss Place, Norwich, with an attendance of 25. The ninth chapter of Acts was the lesson of the evening, the pastor, Rev. G. H. Strouse giving his usual interesting and excellent exposition. During the social hour which followed Mrs. Herrick served sandwiches, cake and cocoa.

Miss Ruth Russell of the Farm Bureau met the women of the Bozrah group Tuesday at the Town hall. She demonstrated the use of fruits in the daily menu. Dinner consisted of baked apples with sausage, escalloped potatos, fig-apple cobbler, rhubarb tutti frutti shortcake, Parisian sweets, mixed dried fruit and sandwiches.

Mrs. Warren Kelley of Fitchville is substituting at the Center school for Miss Wright, who is ill.

Rev. G. H. Strouse was in Norwich during the week attending the ministers' meeting at which Rev. M. Joseph Twomey of Newark, N. J., was the speaker.

At the last meeting of Bozrah grange the officers were installed by F. N. Taylor of Lebanon, assisted by Mrs. Alfred Abel of Bozrah. At the meeting Feb. 20th the lecturer, Mrs. Nathan Gilman, plans to put on a patriotic program.

HOPEVILLE CHURCH MEMBERS HAVE NOW ALL DIED

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Feb. 15—The death this week of Mrs. Sanford Partridge, late of Hopeville, marks the passing of the very last member of the one-time Hopeville Methodist church. When Mrs. Joseph Roode died some years ago, it left Mrs. Partridge not only the oldest, but the sole survivor of the membership of that once thriving church. Many of the older residents here recall the Hopeville Methodist church, and remember the time when the late Sanford Amidon was its pastor. As the membership decreased, and cessation of business activities caused its inevitable parish depression, the official conference designated the Jewett City pastor to minister also to the Hopeville members.

All church documents and legal rights were later vested in the local Methodist church.

Sets Out Gladioli

Things are looking toward a big flower summer at the Pilgrim gardens, when it is known that Rev. W. J. Reynolds has set out this week in his hothouse 5,000 gladioli bublets.

With a mad dog scare in Danielson and general quarantine orders in Putnam coupled with numerous complaints of roving dogs in Griswold, it is believed that Dog Warden William R. Palmer may deem it necessary to advise local dog restrictions. Several female dogs were taken in last week, wearing neither collar or tag, and were dealt with according to law.

At 10 p. m. Thursday snow was falling with the temperature at 32. At 1 p. m. Friday, most of the light blanket had disappeared, the mercury showing 46.

Grackles Forecast Spring

William Briggs takes the personal distinction prize, more or less locally coveted, for spying the first flock of south-bound wild geese in the fall, or the more welcome sight of the first north-bound flock in spring. Last week he counted 60 in a flock headed on a straight course for Labrador.

A local bird observer, who has kept records steadily for over a half century, and made official reports of bird movements to the government, reported Friday the arrival of a noisy flock of grackles at their summer quarters in Daniel L. Phillips' pines, on East Main street. Not once in 20 years does the crow black bird (grackle) arrive in February.

Friday afternoon, people riding by Tadpole pond, detected that peculiar damp woody odor, that means but one thing, Spring is in the offing.

ELECTRIC LOOMS ARRIVE FOR ASHLAND COTTON CO.

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Feb. 15—Much interest was manifested along the street today in the arrival of the first shipment of new looms for the Ashland Cotton Co. At the big 2-story addition, at the corner of Ashland and Hill streets there is now much activity. Contractor E. E. Gilbert is hustling work on the new part, so that the arriving machinery may be set up ready for operation at the earliest date possible. The present shipment is to be followed clogely by others, until all requisitions on the large equipment contracts are completed. The new looms coming in today, are making some of the retired weavers sit up and take notice. They are the last word in manufacture and will be of the individually electric driven type. Besides the outstanding item of economy in operation, the motor-driven loom eliminates the long lines of belts that were necessary to operate shaft-driven looms.

In the one time weave room, which is now fast passing, the temperature on hot summer days was made appreciably higher by the continued friction of thousands of feet of belt leather necessary for the operation of the hundreds of looms, each depending on its individual belt system for power

LISBON

DIVERSIFIED PROGRAM AT COMMUNITY HALL

The theme of the pastor's sermon Sunday was The Uses of Great Men, with special reference to the life of Abraham Lincoln.

Wednesday afternoon and evening in the Community hall there was unusual activity. During the afternoon several reels of motion pictures were shown by School Supervisor Edwin B. Floyd for the school pupils. Beginning at six o'clock the Ladies' Aid society served a supper of baked beans, cold meat, potato salad, cabbage salad, pickles, brown bread, rolls, a variety of pie and coffee. The committee in charge of the supper was Mrs. Jesse Phillips, Mrs. Harry Hull and Mrs. George Helmboldt. The waitresses were in charge of Mrs. Alber Rist. The net proceeds of the supper amounted to $35.56. The tables were cleared and removed in time for the meeting of the Community club at eight o'clock. The meeting opened with community singing. During a brief business session a motion was made and carried in favor of the proposed bill concerning a trunk line highway over the Newent-Canterbury road and pledging the support of the club to the town's representative in Hartford, George A. Ross.

The program arranged by E. B. Floyd, Miss Ruth Greenstein and Miss Ruth Allen and announced by Mr. Floyd follows: A motion picture, Trapping Tuna; piano solo, Miss Mary Goldberg of Norwich; part songs, seventh and eighth grade pupils of Newent school; vocal solo by six year old Eugene Solomon, accompanied on the violin by John Chyck, a boy of the same age, who followed with two violin solos. IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Large quantities of ice and debris were borne down the Shetucket and Yantic rivers in the breaking up the river ice fifty years ago this week, when the people of the city anxiously awaited the inundation of the city. The tumbling waters of the Shetucket as they rushed foaming and boiling over the steep and rocky bed between the city and the Laurel Hill bridge, presented a magnificent sight, which was watched by groups of people from morning to night. No great amount of damage was caused in the city as the result of the flood waters, but a number of streets and cellars in stores were flooded.

Monday, Feb. 10, 1879—The boys of the Delanoy Steam Fire company, No. 5, gave a delightful entertainment in their engine house on the West Side on Friday evening. Between 80 and 90 persons were present, when the company's fine band, composed of four pieces, opened the exercises.

The great and progressive order of the Red Men have instituted a wigwam in this city. Wampum, war clubs and other paraphernalia adorn the walls of the wigwam.

The directors of the Norwich and Worcester and New York and New England railroads held a conference meeting at the Bay State house, Worcester, Friday evening in regard to the latter's lease of the former road.

It was noted in today's issue that the month of February, 1877, passed with scarcely a cold day.

Tuesday, Feb. 11, 1879—The reception by the Rt. Rev. Bishop Williams at the house of Dr. Giesy last evening was a delightful occasion and numerously attended.

At a meeting of the New London County Agricultural society the report of a special committee on the enlargement and improvement of the grounds was heard, but after a lengthy discussion no definite action was taken.

The "Red Men" assembled at the foot of a fish horn, blown three successive times from the crown of Postoffice hill last evening. These warriors are believed to be a branch of the Shy-ends.

A flock of robins and blue birds were singing in the neighborhood of Cliff street yesterday morning.

Wednesday, Feb. 12, 1879—The Norwich Morning Bulletin did not publish on Lincoln's birthday.

Thursday, Feb. 13, 1879—The breaking up of the river ice and the anticipated inundation of the city that had been anxiously awaited for the past few days came suddenly, yesterday forenoon, and before the people had fairly learned of the approaching flood the danger had passed and the turbulent rivers were rolling their burden of ice, broken timbers and uptorn trees towards New London. The ice fields, that have solidly spanned the rivers for the past two months, gave way at a little past ten o'clock this morning and at 12 o'clock both the Yantic and Shetucket rivers were cleared. The breaking of the ice in the Yantic, Shetucket and Quinebaug created a magnificent scene along the banks of the Thames. Streets and cellars of stores were flooded but no material damage was caused.

George C. Lippitt of this city, brother of the Rev. N. G. Lippitt of the Norwich National bank, was united in marriage with Miss Olive Backus of Ashford on Feb. 11. The ceremony was performed at the house of the bride by the Rev. C. P. Grosvenor.

The German Lutheran society expects to hold a fair and festival next Monday and Tuesday evenings at their church on Franklin street.

Friday, Feb. 14, 1879—The Easton, Md., Star notices at length the opening of a fine brick hotel in that city by E. C. Green, formerly of this city.

The country roads are said to be in such a dangerous condition on account of the foot holes and wash outs that travel is greatly impeded.

The Powers Jubilee Singers give a concert in Temperance hall Saturday evening for the benefit of the Reform club.

The beautiful pair of horses belonging to Myron Sears of Norwich attracted the attention of all admirers of horseflesh, as they appeared in Colchester streets a few days since.

Saturday, Feb. 15, 1879—The funeral ceremonies over the remains of the late Capt. William W. Coit were performed in the Broadway church at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Rev. William S. Palmer and Rev. Mr. Chamberlain conducted the services and the choir sang. The bearers were Mayor H. H. Osgood, Amos W. Prentice, A. P. Willoughby and N. S. Gilbert. The pall bearers were Capt. J. W. Williams, Capt. Edmund Roath, Henry B. Norton and Ebenezer F. Parker.

John Newman, who was killed at Stonington on Friday of last week, was to have been married within a few days.

John H. Allyn of Mystic bagged a fine web-footed loon while hunting on last Tuesday. Its weight was about 12 pounds and it was covered with a coat of feathers sufficient to withstand any degree of cold.

CONSOLIDATING ALMSHOUSES

We have no doubt that there will be considerable interest manifested in the bill which has been presented in the legislature under which it would be possible for towns and cities to cities to consolidate for the purpose of giving care to the poor.

Almshouses have been disappearing. Towns have found that either they were not needed or else it was more satisfactory and less expensive to obtain care for the poor by boarding them in private families. This doesn't mean that it isn't possible to find an almshouse or a town farm but they are less numerous than in the past.

Under the proposed bill, which is sponsored by the state department of public welfare, any town or city may be united with any other towns or cities within the county for the purpose of caring for such individuals as are now inmates of almshouses or those who might become such, or the county with the consent of the towns might undertake this work in an institution that would serve the whole county, but in any case such an institution would be under a board of managers made up of representatives from each town involved.

It will be noticed that there is nothing compulsory about such a matter. The privilege of such action would be extended by the legislature and should it result in a county institution it is indicated that it would be carried on along practically the same line as the existing county homes for children.

In advocacy of such a law it is pointed out that there would be an opportunity to cut down the overhead cost, there would be state supervision and there would be provision for the chronic sick as well as for the aged dependents.

Without a doubt such a plan has been given though by those who have been obliged to face the many problems connected with the care of the poor. The hearing should bring forth the objections as well as the advantages. It should cause the selectmen to get busy and figure out what it might mean both from the standpoint of care and finances. We are being constantly reminded these days that we are living in an age of consolidation.

A FINE SETTLEMENT.

Now that it has been stated that a basis for settlement has been reached between Chile and Peru concerning the Tacna-Arica question, there is cause for much satisfaction not only in those countries but in all countries where efforts have been put forth in behalf of international peace.

The dispute over these two provinces has been a long and bitter one. Previous efforts to bring about an adjustment have failed and the nations were without diplomatic relations with each other when efforts were undertaken with the United States acting as mediator to end the situation.

Such recommendations as were made as the result of the investigations set on foot by President Coolidge failed to accomplish the desired result, yet it marked the beginning of what has led to the countries coming to an understanding between themselves. They were brought to see the fallacy of maintaining a hostile attitude and diplomatic relations were resumed. Thus having broken the ice they have since been dealing directly with each other and apparently recognized the folly of not coming to some agreement.

Definite terms will be forthcoming but the general idea of having each country take a province and later provide for a corridor across the territory for an outlet to the sea for Bolivia is in accord with what it has been hoped might be the outcome of this dispute ever since the ending of the war of the Pacific back in 1882.

This is calculated to create a better neighborhood spirit in that part of South America. There has been no explainable reason why such an adjustment should not have been accomplished years ago barring stubbornness. Neither country has been willing to submerge its own insistence and give consideration to the actual facts in the case. Time and the efforts of others have helped to change their attitude. The ill will of the past has been modified and under new conditions and with new individuals at the helm friendly cooperation between those Pacific coast countries should prevail instead of the hostility and strife which have been conspicuous in the past.

DEALING WITH CHINA.

China has been experiencing many changes but the republic under the nationalists is now taking another important step forward. This has been developing for some time. After the demonstration of their strength in the long struggle for supremacy there came the time when it was necessary to carry out the principles for which they were fighting and they involved relations with other countries.

In these negotiations the United States was one of the leaders. China sought to terminate the burdensome conditions of the past, to end its "unequal" treaties and to gain control of its customs and tariffs and as the result of the study of the situation by the representatives of the two republics a new treaty was arranged whereby this new order of things was recognized.

With the idea of dealing justly with China this country took the lead in giving its aproval to such a treaty and it proved to be of inestimable benefit to China in carrying on similar negotiations with other countries. Such negotiations as were entered into by the United States with China had to be submitted to the United States senate for ratification. The fact that that has been done this week means the shedding of the old and the donning of the new and cannot fail to be of much significance to the republic in the far east.

China is facing plenty of problems in connection with its political and financial future but it has proceeded to raise its duties fourfold as an evidence of its release from old restrictions and it bids fair to mean a decided change for the better.

There have always been the best of wishes for China and the United States has repeatedly manifested its friendship in that direction. China has suffered from its size and the fact that it has been obliged to place dependence upon others. In its helplessness it has experienced all kinds of difficulties and handicaps. Advantage has been taken of its dependence but if this new era means what is indicated those days are gone and are to be replaced by something more beneficial to China.

CHICAGO MURDERS.

Recognition is given by a judge in Chicago to the fact that that city is facing the problem of curbing the "man with a gun". There are times when it has impressed those outside of the city that such efforts as were put forth for the solution of the problem have been weak and ineffective. Instances are numerous where all the advantage has rested with the criminal until the impression is gained that the gangsters do about as they please.

For the correction of the situation one judge advocates the revival of the whipping post. He urges this before the board of pardons and parole and points to the results that have been obtained in England, Delaware and Canada. He insists that a severe beating is a thing never to be forgotten.

It will be insisted in return, however, that cold lead is something which those receiving it seldom forget. Most of them never have a chance to remember it and it is significant that the declaration in behalf of the whipping post should precede by only a day or two the standing up of a group of seven gangsters before a wall and shooting them down en masse quite as if they were before an execution squad. Who did it is not as yet known, but it seems highly improbable that they would have been deterred in their action by the fear of such punishment as they might receive at a whipping post. Those men, and they carried and used guns, wiped out gangsters, but their disregard for law was complete and apparently whetted by the manner in which others have been using the gun in Chicago and escaping punishment entirely. Chicago faces the need of stopping this gang warfare instead of leaving the task of inflicting punishment to the gangsters themselves.

NUMBERING PLAYERS.

Because such satisfactory results have been obtained from the plan of putting numbers on the backs of football players, the same idea is advocated for those who play baseball.

The games are not the same and it is almost always possible to distinguish the ball player and tell what he is doing. There isn't the scrimmage that is to be seen on the gridiron, and yet there is a large number of spectators who have little or no knowledge of the physical characteristics of the various players.

They may know the home team and some of the high lights among the visitors, but they are not so closely in touch with the game that they can pick out the various players, and yet it is a pleasant thing to know that it is actually Johnson pitching, Gehrig at the bat or Jones who has been put in to run for Ruth.

Being able to identify the players adds much to the pleasure of the game. The dyed in the wool fans laugh at such a thought but the game caters to large numbers who are interested, who are familiar with the names of players but have none too good opportunities for knowing how they look. Numbered players would be advantageous in getting closer to the game and the participants and it would also be regarded as helpful by the possessor of the scorecard privilege.

Baseball wouldn't be played if it wasn't for the crowd that can be attracted. What contributes to the information for the crowd, even though all the fans might not need it, helps the game.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

Will there ever be anything like universal agreement among the nations as long as human nature is what it is? But a moment's reflection will show us that there is a wide divergence between them when we use "self-interest" in the right way. It really means interest in one's self, without which we shall live careless and indifferent lives. We owe much to ourselves along such lines as improvement, protection, expansion, such as tenderness, sympathy, thoughtfulness of ourselves against needless exposure to disease; doing everything we can to make all our powers efficient. These are among the many things that people owe themselves which would probably be neglected were it not for the interest we have in ourselves. Of course if the motive back of this self-interest is mere vanity, the love of popular applause, or any other phase of life's cheap comedies, then the end does not justify the means.

Can anything more deeply impress us of the geographical magnitude of this country than its great variety of climatic conditions? To emphasize this great fact compare for a moment Connecticut with Montana. I do not mean as to size but to differences of temperature. Thus far in our state the weather has been comparatively mild and uniform. The mercury has not thus far dropped very low nor risen unseasonably high. This is attested by the fact that ice anywhere from eight to twelve inches has been harvested. Snow has not yet blocked our highways. But look at Montana! In some of its mountain passes snow is found—caused by slides—to the depth of eighty feet. Railroading of all sorts is brought to a standstill. The entire southwestern part of the state is devoting itself to digging out of this terrific mantle of snow. Does not this emphasize our great extent of territory?

Is it not likewise true that geographical conditions find expression in character? There was a time—and to a far less extent now—when the culture and polish of eastern Massachusetts as shown in Congress quite overawed the breezy and uncultured farmers of the raw west. It was the time when men like Charles Sumner and Edward Everett cut a wide swath in the Senate. The rank and file of senators felt quite unequal to measure swords with such literary antagonists. But that day has surely gone. Henry Cabot Lodge was the last of the old school type. Today nobody fears any eastern representative in either branch of congress. Senator Borah from far-away Montana is the peer of any of them. Senator Hiram Johnson of California does not quail before any oratory that has its roots in Harvard, Yale, or Columbia because his state has universities of its own. There never was a time when congress had so many educated men as now.

The above paragraphs would seem to indicate that among our prominent men in national life today, there is a higher general level of ability than ever before. There may be fewer isolated peaks of orators than formerly, but there is a vastly greater number of men who are capable of doing the work of government than at any previous time. And this is as it ought to be because it is clear evidence that our schools, from the lower grades to the college and university, have been doing their work thoroughly. The manner in which our diplomatic work is handled today is shorn of much of the old time crudity. It is no longer a contest between two wily politicians, each trying to outwit the other, but it is rather two statesmen trying to find some common ground of agreement. The days of Metternich and Talleyrand are gone forever.

If political matters today are put on a higher plane, so also are questions of religious controversy. In all the parliaments and congresses of the world, when human passions are aroused some rather tough remarks are made about one another, but they are not a shade worse than the epitheta that were hurled against one another in the heat of theological strife. Our Congress has some tough records of vituperation during debates of the question of slavery. But they are not a whit worse than the sayings hurled against one another in the days of religious controversy. I have recently been reading Dr. Saunderson's great book on Charles Eliot, Puritan liberal, in which he recounts some of the things said during the strife between the ultra-Calvinists and the Armenians. Just one case and that in relation to the debate between Whitefield and John Wesley. Whitefield belonged to the bluest of the Calvinists. At the end of one of their clashes, Wesley said to Whitefield, "The main difference between us is that your God is my devil!"

To us living so far from the religious controversies of the past, it is hard to realize what bitterness nothing about, and waited patiently are some still in the pulpit who can distinctly remember when those of opposing faith were hardly on speaking terms so far did they carry their religious prejudices. There was a time when the Calvinists thought that Judas Iscariot would have less to answer for than the Methodists. And thus the different parties rolled themselves up in the immaculate robes of their speculative philosophy, which in fact they knew nothingabout, and waited patiently for the thunderbolts of divine wrath to smite the liberals or the conservatives. It is a matter of thankfulness that today we are not quite so sure of the inscrutable as in the early 13th century.

In our thinking are we not inclined to identify self interest with selfishness? Of course the two may be combined and often are, but there is and ought to be a radical difference between them. Every person has the political as well as moral right to protect himself and his interests, but of course he must do it without invading the rights of others. No man is called upon to take deliberate insults from another man without resentment. Whatever be his position in life as a human being he has certain inalienable rights that others are morally bound to respect, however far above him they may be in the financial, social, or educational scale. This world is so constituted that some people will browbeat and otherwise lord it over others if these others will stand for it. Nature has given to most of the lower animals some means of protection, and surely man, the peak of the creative energy, is no less fully protected.

The Lenten season is here and our churches in increasing numbers will give it special attention. This I know is frowned upon by fundamentalists and all non-liturgicals who are sticklers for the greatest simplicity in spiritual matters, their claim being that it is without scriptural warrant. But there are others who feel we carry this simplicity so far as to make our religious service and living altogether too barren. But when we remember that it puts emphasis on the profoundest event in all human history, it would seem that the end justified the means. It is impossible to overemphasize the far-reaching influence of the events that close the Lenten season. It is poor logic to say that we are not taught in Scripture to observe this season. Neither are we taught to hold Christian Endeavor meetings, nor ministers' associations. For that reason shall we turn them down?

Sunday Morning Talk

Life

The days of our years are three score and ten. Psalm 90:10.

Moses himself lived longer than this, but his was the exception not the rule. In his day life had come to be very much the same in duration as with us. This is brevity itself compared with the men of the early times. It is nothing when compared with eternity. Yet is life long enough for virtue and piety, and all too long for vice and blasphemy. If the life has been lived for Christ old age is in life, what the sunset is at the end of the busy day, which should be a symbol of the life to be. A promise of the next life. How little we seem to realize the uncertainty of life. We act as though our life on this earth was without end and are so indifferent to the things of the next life. What a failure the average person makes in character building. Instead of crowding into our lives all the noble, the true, our lives have so little that will stand the test of eternity. So little that is really worth while. So much that will fill our heart with regret when we come to the end of life's journey. So much that we would give our all to blot out forever.

Let us put into our lives all the very best. Let us try to make each day the very best in every way. Looking to our Saviour for strength, guidance and the true vision of life and all it should mean. May we feel that each day is a sacred trust. As a result our years will be blessed, each year being an added gem to shine through all eternity for the glory of our Master who has done so much for us. May each one hear our Saviour, "Well done." As we leave the changing scenes of this life and face eternity, may it be an eternity of joy and happiness. May we put first things first.

THE WORLD'S UNDERGROUND RAILWAYS.

The newest and one of the most ambitious of the world's subway stations has just been opened under Piccadilly Circus, the center of London's activity and the place of her greatest traffic congestion. The placing of the new station in service recalls the brief period during which the present extensive underground railway systems in great cities have developed, a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society points out.

"It seems strange," says the bulletin, "that man, who deserted his caves scores of thousands of years ago and who has been busy since subduing the earth's surface and even invading its air, should turn back and begin burrowing beneath ground. It seems strangest of all that he should delve below the surface for rapid, mass travel, a thing that he probably never dreamed of in his most imaginative moments until perhaps a century ago.

"Underground rapid transit is the result of the tremendous growth of certain cities. It was only where population increased to such an extent that surface streets became choked with myriads of people seeking to move about that the idea of travel beneath the surface could ever seem desirable. And it was only after the invention of the railway that the idea became feasible.

"Just as the cross-country railway developed from the stagecoach, so the highly organized and heavy capitalized subway systems of today grew from the omnibus, the stagecoach of the city. In New York, a city stage line was started in 1830 to operate north on Broadway from Bowling Green; and within two years the world's first street railway—its cars drawn by horses—was born in the same city. It was a line along Fourth avenue from near the present site of City Hall to near the present location of Grand Central station. The idea spread in the United States but Europe was slow to follow. Paris established a horse-car line in 1856; but it was not until 1861 that London had its first 'passenger tram.'

"Londoners did not take kindly to street railways; they objected to the rails which interfered with other traffic. It was because of this feeling that railways in cities should be out of the way that the first steps were taken in London toward underground rapid transit. The earliest line, constructed before 1870, was not all underground. Much of it was in open cut, and only part in tunnels. The trains were operated by steam engines, and the tunnels were so smoky and ill ventilated that the system was not a success.

"In the meantime New York, faced with a growing congestion of street traffic, and a lengthening city, was experimenting with a new solution, the elevated railroad. The first was built in 1868 and by 1878 there were four elevated structures on which steam trains were operated. Placing fast moving city trains above the street level proved the best solution while steam was the only motive power, and the system was adopted in Chicago, Berlin and Liverpool.

"London, then the world's greatest city, continued to look underground for rthe solution of the rapid transit problem. After cable cars first came into use in San Francisco in 1873 and spread to other cities, the idea was conceived of operating cable cars in tunnels in London. In 1886 the world's first all-tunnel subway was started in London; by the time it was completed in 1890 the electric locomotive had been perfected and the new underground railway was put into operation with this newest draft agency.

"Glasgow, Scotland, and Berlin, Germany, opened subway railroads about the same time. Budapest, Hungary, was next to join the ranks of subway cities. Boston was the first American city to begin work on a subway. It was opened in 1898. In 1900 the Paris 'Metro' began its underground career, and in the same year New York started work on its first underground railway. The first train rolled through the New York subway in 1904, and the work of extending the system has been under way almost continually since. Philadelphia first joined the cities having underground rapid transit systems in 1908. Since then the roster has been added to only by Madrid, Buecos Aires and Tokyo. The subways in Madrid and Buenos Aires are only a few miles in length, but the Tokyo system is fairly extensive.

"The fact that heavy population is essential to the success of subways is demonstrated by a glance at the roster of subway cities. Of the world's ten greatest cities, all but Chicago, Osaka and Moscow, have subways, and in the missing three the construction of underground railways is being given serious consideration. Of the four smaller cities having subways, Budapest, Glasgow, Madrid and Boston, the two first named have more than a million population; while the recorded population of Boston, applying to a restricted area, does not indicate the magnitude of the crowds daily dependent on the city's rapid transit facilities. The Madrid underground system is of limited extent.

"Of the sub-surface city railway systems, those of New York and London, the two cities which vie for the title of world metropolis, far surpass all others in extent. Yet in plan and operation these two great metropolitan systems are in some ways strikingly different. London was the pioneer and some of her early construction was found later to lead to marked inconvenience and expense. Thus her earliest 'tube' tunnels were constructed at great depths, making it necessary to supply batteries of elevators and escalators at the station. New York took up subway construction late, but profited by the experiments of those earlier in the field. She adopted the Budapest plan of placing the tunnels as close as possible to the surface so that elevators would be unnecessary.

"Another radical departure from the older methods, adopted in New York, was characteristically American. This was the virtual building of two subways in one, by the provision of four tracks, two devoted to express and two to local service.

"In London the sub-surface railway system is known as 'the underground'—'subway' is applied only to pipe tunnels, footpaths under street crossings, and the like. Some details making for the convenience and comfort of passengers stand out in the operation of the underground. Stations are more ornamental and less starkly utilitarian than most of those in New York; and in some, as in the newest Piccadilly Station striking mural paintings adorn the walls. The Piccadilly Station is virtually an underground square, brilliantly lighted, surrounding which are well appointed shops.

"The best feature of the Underground to a stranger in London, however, is the remarkably sensible method of keeping him informed of his whereabouts. It is not necessary to peer out at stations seeking to make out dim numbers or names on posts and walls. Suspended from the ceiling in the middle of each car is a large-scale map of the system with a tiny electric bulb at each station. When the train approaches a station the bulb for that station flashes on and remains lighted until the train starts again. Light more conspicuous than the ordinary ones flash on at the transfer points calling the passengers' attention to those important centers.

"New York has more than 300 miles of subway track and this will be materially increased when the new independent subway system is placed in commission. In both London and Paris the underground trackage is close to 200 miles. In Chicago the construction of a passenger subway has been discussed for many years but at present only surface and elevated lines are in use. Chicago has a possible nucleus for a subway system in its almost unique freight tunnel system. Under the streets of the business section of the city exists a gridiron of 50 miles of tunnel, six feet wide and seven and a half feet deep. On two-foot tracks in these small tunnels a busy railway traffic is carried on every day while few Chicagoans are aware of its existence. By the system freight is delivered to the basements of stores, and thousands of tons of ashes and refuse are removed annually.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A Correction

Mr. Editor: In reading over the account of Mrs. H. Russell's will of New London I see you have Ethel Miner Cooke as the daughter of Mrs. Russell's sister, which is wrong. She is the daughter of Mrs. Russell's brother, Bartlett Barry Miner, lately deceased, of Hartford. By correcting same you will greatly oblige.

Through the Berkshires

Mr. Editor: Many tourists who have traveled this way will recall many of these places that I mention in these letters. I do not know whether or not I can add anything to the story relative to the Mohawk trail, but in going over it one can fancy that we can see back into the dim and distant past and see in one's mind's eye the Indians as they must have appeared to the early settlers as they climbed over the trail to meet their foes in their tribal wars.

Leaving North Adams by way of Ashland street we pass on the right the state normal school, which according to the date was opened and in use in 1897. Now begins the climb of the great Mohawk trail. And as we rise to a greater altitude we look down and across the valley. I notice some of the bridges that cross the smaller creeks are very narrow and if two cars should meet in the center one must back off to allow the other to continue along. As we move on going up all the time we pass Charlemont, the birthplace of Charles Dudley Warner. Close by in front of the house is a button wood tree said to be over 300 years old. As we near the top of the trail which is 2,800 ft. above sea level we can see, if the day is clear, from the tower that is erected here, parts of seven states. On the top of the tower is a bronze tablet to indicate the direction of each state. Just below the summit is a fine bronze statute of a magnificent elk. This is located at a point where a young man was blown over the side of the cliff to the rocks below and killed, 150 feet below. This beautiful piece of statuary was erected by the B. P. O. E. of Boston, and faces toward the Deerfield Valley several hundred feet below. The view from this point is perhaps not equalled anywhere in the east for beauty and grandeur, and so far as I am able to judge, nowhere else. Looking toward the east we see the Deerfield river, which at this time is nothing but a deep ravine, and with but a little water flowing through it. At its junction with Cold river however it takes on more of the appearance of a real stream. And right here I want to ask you who have seen it, don't you think it looks like the Shetucket between the Preston bridge and then toward Twoomey town? As we move down the other side of the trail we come to Shelbourne which at one time was called Salmon Falls. Here is located a fine electrical plant that furnishes heat and power for a good part of western Massachusetts. We continue on until we reach Greenfield and here we stop for luncheon at the Hotel Weston, a terminal point for the sightseeing buses going east and west.

On our return to North Adams we change from a bus to a trolley and go out through Blackinton and one to Williamstown, the seat of Williams college. At a point just beyond the site of Old Fort Mass. we get a fine view of Mt. Williams, which is the most northerly point of the Greylock range. This was named after Col. Ephraim Williams, the founder of the college bearing his name. The first town we come to after we cross the Vermont line is Pownal. This town was the birthplace of Jim Fisk who will be remembered as a great speculator right after the Civil war. He was shot and killed by a rival for the affections of an early gold digger. Say, old timers, remember her name, Josie Mansfield? Not far from Pownal is the famous sands springs which are a specific help for skin troubles. These springs were noted among the Indians, and now tourists stop and test their wonderful medicinal qualities.

And now I want to tell you something that is very interesting. In North Pownal is a small school house that is noted as having had among its teachers two men who were destined to become presidents of this U. S. A., later in life. They were the successful candidates for president and vice vice president in 1880—James A. Garfield and Chester A. Arthur, Garfield being a student at Williams college, while Arthur was from Union college of Schenectady.

Both of these men no doubt took up the position to help defray their college expenses. After we pass North Pownal, which is 986 feet above sea level we soon reach Bennington, and moved on to view the historic battle monument, a memorial to the Battle of Bennington that was fought Aug. 16, 1777, when General Stark with his "Green Mountain Boys" defeated part of General Burgoyne's army. This monument is 308 feet high, and is built of stones taken from the near by hills. It is the highest battle monument in the world. The lookout is 200 feet from the ground and you can see a wonderful view of New York state and northern Vermont. Directly in front of this is a memorial to General Warner, one of the heroes of that battle. As we climb the hill we pass the famous Catamount inn, which has before it a bronze statue of a catamount, that stands with its starling face looks west toward New York state. This is life size.

Just before we reach this we pass the Walloomsac inn that is the oldest inn in the state and is still catering to tourists. Now we move down the side of the hill to the Country club, and so to the Old Soldiers' home. Here we see many of the Boys in Blue and here and there I can see some of the Spanish-American war veterans. Close by is a little cemetery where sleep some of the boys who have been mustered out.

On these same grounds may be seen a fountain that throws a stream 200 feet high by gravity pressure.

This whole section like eastern Connecticut has plenty of interesting places. Dame Nature has placed them along lifes highway for our pleasure and profit.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 — The future of Ford's theatre, where Lincoln was shot, seemed greatly in doubt as congress drew toward adjournment.

Objection by Representative Underhill of Massachusetts to any move that would restore the old playhouse to anything like its appearance in '65 blocked an effort in the house in that direction by the late Henry Rathbone of Illinois.

"I am going to do everything I can to prevent the preservation of this gruesome, morbid, disgraceful monument to the memory of a murderer, rather than a monument to the life and accomplishments of Abraham Lincoln," Underhill told the house.

A Texan's Support

Representative Yates of Illinois took over Rathbone's task and was urging the bill. He was vigorously supported by a democratic colleague, Blanton of Texas, who declared Texas yielded nothing to Illinois or Massachusetts in revering Lincoln's memory.

The Texan also urged that out of respect to Rathbone's memory, and the fact that he had worked night and day for the bill, it should be passed, but Underhill was unmoved.

The project was amended by Yates to include immediate restoration of the theatre in order to give veterans of the Washington G. A. R., soon to be ousted by government improvements from their dingy red-brick hall on Pennsylvania avenue, a meeting place. Even that did not impress Underhill and half a dozen others bitterly opposed to retaining Ford's theatre.

U. S. Grant III Backs It

Col. U. S. Grant, III, director of public buildings in Washington, took a different view. In a letter to Yates he expressed sympathy with Underhill's "abhorrence" of the crime and desire not to over-impress it upon the public mind, but added that the place of the playhouse in history seemed to justify part restoration as a Lincoln museum.

What he proposed was removal of the floors to restore the original theatre auditorium as it was in '65, with a replica of the box where Lincoln was shot. There is ample data to make the restoration and many of the actual relics of that tragic night can be obtained to place within it, Colonel Grant said.

Underhill insisted that a suitable project for a new structure on the site, but unassociated with the tragedy, was taking shape.

"My objection (to the Yates bill) comes from a feeling of horror that instead of being a memorial to the mercy and kindness of Lincoln, this would become a monument to his murderer, John Wilkes Booth," he said.

And, with that, the Yates bill died for this session of congress.

DAILY LENTON DEVOTION

"LENT AND MYSELF"

Memory Verse for Saturday

"But thou, when thou prayest, enter into thy closet." (Matthew 6:6). (Read: Matthew 6:5-15).

MEDITATION: Private prayer should be the great joy and comfort of the Christian. And yet very often it is but a hurried task, a part of the day's routine, perfunctory and feeble. "My words fly up, my thoughts remain below." So my spiritual life is left unnourished. The trouble is that I do not take prayer seriously enough; my thoughts are not at attention because I am not properly sensible of my need. I should take more time for my devotions. It will help me, too, to go back to ancient and tested custom and light my candle at the altar of the great devotional utterances in the Bible and elsewhere. Somehow I must realize God's presence and my own need.

PRAYER: Lord, teach me to pray. Give me the contrite heart which Thou dost not despise. Let my meditation of Thee be sweet. Quicken me with Thy spirit that I fall not of the strength and comfort of prayer. Amen.

YOUR HEALTH

Directions for Food Economy Without Health Injury

It costs in the average family to feed six people—mother, father and four children, varying in age from a nursing baby to the school-age child on an average of $1.65 a day, or from 25 to 30 cents a person.

This is, of course, a daily food allowance reduced to a minimum. There must be more than four in the family to obtain the prices listed, which are for the larger quantities.

A real estate company in Syracuse, New York, made the statement that fifty per cent of the men of Syracuse earn $25.00 per week or less. Now $1.65 a day means $11.55 a week. In other words, 46.2 per cent of the total income of $25.00 must be spent for food alone.

Taking such a limited food budget and showing how to distribute the food purchases, in order to insure this average family an adequate diet, will be just as helpful for the housewife who has much more money to spend for food, since it gives the general rules for planning the family diet. There are also suggestions for those who are anxious to cut down expenses.

Food has three main functions: It serves as fuel to meet the energy needs of the individual; it furnishes materials necessary for building bodily tissues; and it regulates the body processes so they may function healthfully. You must have a proper selection of bread, meat, milk, vegetable and fruit if the food is to perform these three main functions. The $1.65 must cover the following items:

CCereals and breads	$ .20
Milk, 4 quarts	.60
Fruits and vegetables	.30
Fats and oils	.10
Sugar	.05
Meats, eggs, fish	.35

Milk is the food for which we have no substitute. It fulfills all three functions of food. For a family of six, with four growing children, four quarts a day should be the minimum allowance.

Vegetables and fruits do not supply any appreciable amount of fuel, but they are a most valuable source of building materials, especially minerals and regulatory elements. Vegetables and fruits are best when they are in season because then they are gathered when ripe and are cheaper. When tomatoes are cheap, no one with a small amount of money to spend for food should buy oranges.

We know now that vegetables grown in the summer sunshine and canned by proper methods are very nearly as good for food as the fresh produce grown in the sunshine. Wisely selected canned vegetables and fruits have a place in the family diet. We should not forget the value of dried fruits such as peaches, apricots and prunes. They are cheaper than the same foods canned or fresh.

Whole-grained breads and cereals should be preferred because they supply food to meet energy needs and also supply some of the building and regulating materials, while white or highly-milled cereals supply only fuel to meet energy needs.

When sufficient amounts of milk are being provided for a family, economy would suggest that substitutes for butter, such as oleomargarine, could be used. Of meat, eggs, and fish, the emphasis should be placed on eggs. They give the greatest return of the three in food value, and can be served to young children earlier than meat.

YOUR INCOME TAX

Salaries paid employes constitutes one of the largest items of business expenses which are deductible from gross income. To be allowed, such claims must conform closely to the words of the revenue act of 1928, which provides for the deduction of "a reasonable allowance for personal services actually rendered." The test of deductibility is whether the amounts paid are reasonable and whether they are reasonable and personal services. Money paid an officer of a corporation for which no services, or services inadequate to the compensation are rendered, is not deductible as salary. Reasonable compensation is held to be an amount that ordinarily is paid by like enterprises in like circumstances for like services. For example, an officer of a corporation received in 1928 compensation in excess of the amount ordinarily paid for services such as he rendered, and which bore a relationship to the amount of his stock holdings. The excess would not be treated as salary, but as a distribution of earnings of the corporation and the amount of such excess would not be considered a deductible item.

BE WAKE UP DIET WITHOUT BULK

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Will Protect You

People are more careful than ever before about diet. They diet to clear complexions. They avoid certain foods to stay thin. They eat others to get fat. But many are running a serious danger because they are missing the "roughage" or "bulk" foods that every person must have to keep well.

As a result, constipation gets in its deadly work. Headaches, listlessness, circled eyes are only the first symptoms. In the end, constipation ruins health, wrecks beauty and may cause serious disease.

Don't neglect your daily roughage. That is nature's rule. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN will supply it. A healthful cereal to eat each day. To use in cooked dishes or to serve with milk or cream. To mix with other cereals.

ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation—to prevent it. Two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal. It is 100% bran. Doctors recommend it. Your grocer sells it. Served by hotels, restaurants, dining cars. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

WOMEN VOTERS TO HOLD RECEPTION FOR SPEAKERS

Bird S. Coler, who is to be the principal speaker at the child welfare luncheon to be held Monday noon at 12.15 o'clock at the Wauregan hotel has organized a bureau of consulation for those wishing to endow large charities. Charities is a favorite subject with Mr. Coler who was for years engaged in this line of work in New York city. With regard to charitable contributions Mr. Coler recently said:

"Exposure without an attempt at correction gives us no relief. We would request everyone throughout the country to give no money whatever on the streets or on personal appeals, through the mail or even over the air, without first inquiring of people who know, like the great religious organizations of every faith, from their own charity or welfare commissioners, as to whether or not the appeal is legitimate. The best non-sectarian work done in the country is that of sectarian organizations who respect the faith of those whom they help; by the great newspapers of the country who have funds at various times of the year and by the social service committees connected with the various hospitals and institutions throughout the United States who are under direct and authoritative supervision. Personally, I favor and advocate every one dispensing their charities first through institutions of their own faith and then those who have the time, the means and the inclination to do their non-sectarian work through the great public institutions of our country and their social service committees."

Mr. Coler will speak Monday on Philanthropy and Child Welfare. Other speakers will be Judge Whitaker of New Haven, topic, Probation Methods. Kenneth Messinger, head of the state bureau of child welfare, and Miss Mary Buckley, state president of the League of Women Voters. The Norwich league, of which Miss Alif Stevens is president, has made arrangements for an informal reception for the speakers, prior to the luncheon.

We are apt to condemn in others what we practice ourselves.

LUTHERAN CHURCH PASTOR GIVES LENTEN MESSAGE

A very inspiring Lenten message, one of a series, was delivered in English Friday evening at the First Lutheran church by the pastor, Rev. C. Storck. Rev. Mr. Storck spoke from the text, Exodus, 3-5, "Put off thy shoes from off thy feet, for the place where-on thou standest is holy ground." There was a large congregation present for the service. In part Rev. Mr. Storck spoke as follows:

"The people of old showed their respect and reverence to certain persons or places by taking off their shoes before entering. This is an oriental custom even today. Indeed the Occident may learn a good deal from the Orient when it comes to devotion and reverence. The people in Biblelands seemed to live closer to God. No wonder that God revealed Himself to them so frequently and so directly.

"There are times and places even in our ordinary life when we take off our shoes, when we speak only in whispers, for the presence of God seems to be so real, the sickroom and the chamber of the dying are so holy. Blessed are the pure in heart for they shall see God also in the sick-room. When I enter the halls of our hospitals or sanitoriums it seems to me I am approaching the Mountain of God and I have a feeling as if I must take off my shoes. When I approach my Sunday school room or catechism room as well as the large halls of learning of our public schools I feel as if I should take off my shoes, for the ground whereon I stand then is holy ground.

"I want you, young people, that might be restless for the great city or far country to know; your home is not only the dearest spot, but also the holiest ground. Little Nazareth was holy ground for Christ, where He stayed at home with His parents until His time came to come forth. Oh, may your home, may your store or shop, may your town and especially may your church become holy ground, and a haven of rest!"

MARGARET FULLER'S BOOK IS SIGNALLY HONORED

A dispatch from Philadelphia says: "What Else is There?" a novel by Inez Speckling, just published is the February selection of The Catholic Book-A-Month club. Howden Smith, and "Founders of the Midle Ages," by Edward Kennard Rand.

Rev. Will W. Whalen, noted novelist and member of the editorial board, was chosen to prepare the review of this month's selection. "Searching among each month's output for those books which are in accord with Catholic morals, philosophy and thought and which in addition are of general interest and high merit is, to the average reader, like looking for a postage stamp in a subway rush," he said. "We aim to aid him in his search and at the same time leave scope for his own intelligence and taste."

I am glad that Dr. Danforth is my friend, and let me remind you that a friend is more than an acquaintance. My high regard for him has led me to place his portrait in my den along side of "Bobbie Burns."

CHICAGO MAN ADDRESSES FREE ACADEMY STUDENTS

Frank J. Jaynes of Chicago, who is to deliver a number of talks for the next two weeks on the proposed expanded programme of the Norwich chamber of commerce, gave an instructive talk to the students of Norwich Free Academy Friday morning. Mr. Jaynes, who was introduced Principal Henry A. Tirrell, said that one of the most interesting studies in our contemporary life is the American city. Its growth has been tremendous. In many instances, and possibilities of substantial growth and opportunity are forever with it. Continuing Mr. Jaynes said in part as follows:

"Some cities expand almost miraculously, while others barely hold their own. There are reasons for this aside from happy geographical location, richness in natural resources or peculiar industrial advantage.

"Many cities are seriously thinking on the question of what makes towns grow, and many are finding the answer. They have discovered that a city undergoes an almost complete change of population every twenty-five years, that, therefore, population movements are fluid and can be influenced in determined directions. They have found that community stagnation is, in many instances, the products of a state of mind, and that changing the civic mind can change the civic outlook.

"More vital still, they are discovering that a community is capable of promotion by methods that are common knowledge in business and industrial affairs. An industry without organization, plans and direction cannot succeed. A city is just as responsive to promotion as any other business, for it is a business enterprise.

"Lacking any other, American communities have created a promotional and planning organization in the modern chamber of commerce, which is a non-political, non-sectional, city-wide body, composed of energetic and forward looking citizens. Its one and only business is the advancement of the common interests of the people of the community it serves."

TRAPPER PERISHED IN BLIZZARD IN COLORADO

CRAIG, Colo., Feb. 15—(AP)—Caught in a blizzard in the remote Douglas mountain section, Michael Malone, hunter and trapper, perished within thirty feet of a cabin which he was unable to locate.

Malone's frozen body was found by Ralph Maddox, a rancher, when Maddox and his wife returned to their home from Craig.

There is a light which shines on Bethlehem which makes it to our hearts, visible from here. We find it a privilege to go there, but we do not need to wait to go in order to see. The light is three-fold. The light of a star, and of a mother's face, and of a child that came here for us men and our redemption. The star we see when we look up. The mother's face we catch reflected in every other mother's face. And the Christ we see in every upward effort of a human life.

We came back by way of the Mount of Olives. From that height we looked over Jerusalem. Not Jerusalem only out all the world and all the centuries are spread before you. It is even more true of the soul than of the body, that the higher you get the more you can see. Illusion? No; it is revelation.

MERCHANTS BUREAU HEARS OF EXPANSION PROGRAMME

Two talks on the expansion programme, now in the process of formation by the Norwich chamber of commerce, and the annual budget of $20,000, which is needed to carry out the chambers programme, were heard Friday evening at the Wauregan hotel at a special meeting of the Merchants bureau. The meeting, which was preceded by a supper at 6:15 o'clock, was presided over by President Cyril B. Fitch of the bureau. Secretary Walter H. Pilcher of the chamber introduced the speakers, who were Frank B. Jaynes of Chicago, and Carlton Young, who is in charge of the campaign.

In his talk Mr. Young said the plan as agreed upon by the executive committee of the chamber was to consolidate the budgets of the Merchants bureau and the Norwich chamber of commerce, so that during the campaign the men will solicit for only membership to the chamber.

The campaigners will solicit for membership to the chamber, the minimum membership fee to be $25, and for a subscription to the activities fund. The board of directors of the ch

ACADEMY LOSES TO TORRINGTON 35 TO 18; PLAY STONINGTON TONIGHT

The Academy lost its tenth straight basketball game to Torrington High Friday night at the Y gym, 35 to 18. Torrington's second team played over half the game. The visiting coach started his reserves, using them all through the first half and it was a close go, Torrington leading by one point, 14 to 13 at intermission.

However, in the third quarter the varsity took the floor and proceeded to toss in enough points, for victory. They were relieved in the closing moments of the game.

The Academy played fairly good basketball but Torrington was too strong. In Torrington about a month ago the Wildcats lost by 52 to 11, the score Friday being somewhat of an improvement.

The visitors no doubt were taking few chances because of their two games today with Chapman Tech and Windham. They were content to win by a small margin, although the Academy's game fight must be given recognition.

This was the local quintet's eleventh setback in thirteen games.

Palikovic, brilliant forward, was Torrington's best bet with 12 points while Henschel led the locals with 8 points.

In the preliminary the Gamma club took a 19 to 17 victory over the Baltic Methodist team. By winning, the Gammas went into a first-place tie with the Brothers of Joseph. Summaries:

Conference Game Tonight at Y Gym

The Academy and Stonington clash in the first of their two game series tonight with tenancy of last place in the Eastern Connecticut Conference staring the loser in the face. Neither team has won a game so far. The outcome of the contest is somewhat of a toss-up. The locals will have the advantage of the home floor and should win, although only after a hard tussle. Stonington has only won one game and the Academy two, so this promises for an evenly matched contest. The Acaueny rules in basketball and Stonington in football but in basketball, it seems neither team can make much of an impress.

A Church league game between Phi Delta Nu and the Goat club will serve as a preliminary. This will start at 7:30.

Tonight's game is the second and last Saturday home date for the locals. They have only a few more games to play and a large crowd is expected.

HURD TAKES LEAD IN CANADIAN SKATING RACES

MONTREAL, Feb. 15—(AP)—Alex Hurd of Hamilton, Ont., took the lead for the Canadian senior speed skating title here tonight, scoring 50 points in the first half events. Hurd scored a first and a second place. Willie Logan of St. John, N. B., was in second place with 40 points, made through a first and a third. Ross Robinson of Toronto and Valentine Bialis of Utica, N. Y., were tied for third with 30 points each.

Yale Rallies to Beat Columbia

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 15—(AP)—Rallying in the second half after being on the short end of the score, Yale's basketball team tonight defeated Columbia in an intercollegiate league contest by the score of 37 to 23. The victory kept Yale in the first division of the league standing with a record of three victories and three defeats. Columbia has now lost three games and won one.

LANDGRAF TO ABIDE BY LEAGUE MEETING MONDAY

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Ernest C. Landgraf, owner of the Allentown club in the Eastern baseball league, tonight declared he was ready to abide by whatever action the league officials take at their special meeting in Springfield, Mass., next Monday concerning charges made by John Farrell, secretary of the national board and president of the New York-Pennsylvania league. These charges were that this city cannot be reserved as Eastern league territory because Landgraf harbored ineligible players while operating an independent team here four years ago.

Landgraf said he was ready to fight the charges made by Farrell and that they had no connection whatever with his taking over the Waterbury, Conn., franchise in the Eastern league last November and transferring the ball club to Allentown.

He said he had conferred with prominent baseball men, who assured him that his operating an independent club in Allentown in 1923, 1924, 1925 and 1926 had no connection whatever with organized ball and that he was not a member of the National association at that time.

Landgraf said that he may have had some ineligible ball players on his clubs here, but that since he was not connected with organized ball at that time he did not question their eligibility so long as they played clean baseball for him. Several of these players have since been reinstated and now are playing with minor league clubs.

Since these players have been reinstated after violating their contracts with organized ball, Landgraf says he cannot understand why he, who violated no contracts, could not be reinstated in organized ball.

Landgraf formerly held the Newark and Syracuse franchises in the international league.

MASS. COMMISSION TO SELECT THE REFEREE

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 15—(AP)—The men behind the scenes agreed today on a couple of points pertinent to the Sharkey-Stribling fight here February 27—one that both fighters should train a little heavier, and another, that the Masachusetts boxing commission would select a referee.

"Pa" Stribling and Johnny Buckley reached the agreement on the referee, when the father-manager of the Georgia athlete said it was well that the Massachusetts arbiters step into the thorny problem.

After a conference with Jack Dempsey, it was decided that a referee and alternate should be selected by the boxing commissioners in Sharkey's home state, and submitted to Pa and Buckley by February 20. If they failed to agree, then Jack Dempsey, Madison Square garden's promoter will do the selecting himself.

Both Sharkey and Stribling went through short workouts with sparring mates, skipped rope and worked with the heavy bag this afternoon, and the Boston sailor earlier in the day indulged in road work.

After today's conference, Dempsey issued an edict that there will be no pop bottle shower at Flamingo park noted that ticket sales were going well although it may be necessary to call some in from branch offices to fill orders received here, and then went quail hunting in the Everglades on the last day of the season.

PURJE TO MAKE DEBUT AT GARDEN

NEW YORK, Feb. 15—(AP)—Elno Purje, coach young Finnish distance runner, has decided to make his American debut in the national A. A. U. indoor championships at Madison Square Garden, February 23, in the two mile race. His opponents may include his famous countryman Paavo Nurmi, as well as Edvin Wide of Sweden and Leo Lermond, of the Boston A. A., all three of whom already are entered. Nurmi, however, also is entered in the steeplechase.

Purje's entry was accepted by Daniel J. Ferris, secretary of the A. A. U. today subject to approval of the Finn's credentials which he neglected to bring with him.

Purje told Ferris he has done two miles in 9.05 in practice on a poor track and is confident that under favorable conditions, he could shave Nurmi's remarkable indoor world's record of 8.58 1-5.

PUTNAM ROVERS AFTER GAMES IN THIS SECTION

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Feb. 15—The B. and H. Rovers of this city, a basketball organization are seeking out of town engagements. The local organization has amassed one of the strongest quintets in Windham county and openly challenges any other team to a professional or amateur ruled match to an out of town engagement.

Those who will fill the berths on the team are Capt. Johnson of Woodstock, Mike Hannifan, Tom Cody, Izzy Weiss and Jack Cronin of Putnam. The team with the exception of Cronin and Johnson are all ex-Putnam high school stars and have established good records on the local professional courts this season. Johnson was pilot of the 1926 Woodstock academy championship hoopsters.

Jack Cronin has carved his name upon the list of immortal gridiron buccaneers for his invaluable ground gaining work with the world champion Steam Roller gridiron eleven of Providence, during the past fall.

Team managers interested in securing games with this basketball outfit are requested to answer through this paper.

INTERNATIONAL LEAGUE ADOPTS 168 GAME SCHEDULE

NEW YORK, Feb. 15—(AP)—In a stormy four-hour session which finally ended with all appearances of amicability, the assembled magnates of the International league today decided to start their season on Wednesday, April 17, the day after the big league opening date.

The curtain is to be rung up by Montreal playing at Newark, Toronto at Baltimore, Buffalo at Jersey City and Rochester at Reading. Just two weeks later, on May 1, games involving the same teams will usher in the season in the northern half. The 168-game schedule closes on Sunday, Sept. 22.

A vote of confidence in the ability of the brothers Donnelly, William and Frank, to handle the destinies of the Jersey City club was taken, and William J. Manley, who has been personal secretary to John Conway Toole, league president, was made secretary-treasurer of the circuit.

What occupied the rest of the session and what occurred to cause the burst of shouted charges and counter-charges that punctuated the meeting and were audible even through closed doors, President Toole so maintained a scrupulous silence on the point.

REENEY AND MALONEY SIGNED FOR BOSTON GARDEN

BOSTON, Feb. 15—(AP)—The signing of Tom Heeney, of New Zealand, and Jimmy Maloney, Boston heavyweight, for a ten round bout here on March 1, was announced today by Eddie Mack, the Boston Garden's boxing promoter.

Mack said he obtained the signatures of both fighters only after much dickering and was forced to promise them the largest purses he has paid since the opening of the Garden.

Maloney who was knocked out by a few punches by the "Hard Rock" back in 1927, has shown much improvement since he started his comeback campaign eight months ago. He has been fighting often, recently outpointing Johnny Risko, of Cleveland, and Con O'Kelly, the Irish heavyweight. His handlers believe he has an excellent chance to even matters with Heeney, who has done but little ring work since he was defeated by Gene Tunney in last July's championship contest.

ADVANCE GUARD OF BRAVES OFF FOR SOUTH

Bill Cronin of Newton, a catcher, and Tony Plansky, the former Georgetown all-around athlete, who will be given a tryout as a pitcher, were the only players entraining here with Secretary Ed. Cunningham. Johnny Cooney was expected to join them at New Haven and Bunny Hearn and Dr. Earl Painter, the trainer, were due to board the train at New York.

When the Braves' special reaches Washington tomorrow morning, Johnny Evers, the assistant manager, Al Spohrer, catcher, and Harry Seibold, pitcher, will join the party. Many other players have been instructed to be on hand at other stops. Several other battery candidates and Hank Gowdy, the pitching coach, will go direct to St. Petersburg.

ROOSEVELT WANTS HARVARD TO PLAY CORNELL ELEVEN

ITHACA, N. Y., Feb. 15—(AP)—Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, a Harvard alumnus, would like to see his alma mater resume football relations with Cornell he said in an address here today. Cornell and Harvard meet in other sports he declared and should meet on the gridiron.

The last Harvard-Cornell game took place in 1915 when the Cantabs defeated the big Red team by 23 to 0.

A year earlier the late Charles Barrett had led perhaps the greatest of all Cornell elevens to Cambridge to defeat the Crimson by 10 to 3, the only Cornell victory over Harvard in football history. Barrett himself was knocked out early in the game, but Ritz Shiverick picked up his captain's mantle and played the hero's role, as Eddie Mahan experienced the only off-day of his Harvard career.

RYERSON AND CAPO TO MEET IN FINALS

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Feb. 15—(AP)—Jack Ryerson, of Cooperstown, N. Y., and Joe Capo, St. Augustine, won their way into the final round of the St. Valentine golf tournament here today by eliminating C. V. Black, Cincinnati, 2 and 1, and C. C. Spades, Chicago, 5 and 3, respectively. They meet tomorrow in the 36 hole finals from the title and the W. R. Kenan, Jr., trophy.

In disposing of Spades today, Capo shot the course in 73, one stroke more than he took yesterday when he defeated Harold Weber, Toledo the medalist. Ryerson was 2 up on Black at the turn and won his match on the 17th green with a halve.

MISS HICKS WINS ANNUAL MIAMI GOLF TOURNEY

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 15—(AP)—With an early lead, Miss Helen Hicks, 18 year old golfing star today won a 6 and 5 victory over Mrs. John Arenda, of Chicago, to take the annual Miami women's championship golf tournament.

The Salisbury, Long Island girl had led her opposition throughout the play, having broken a course record at the Miami Country club to make medalist honors. Mrs. Arends was runner-up in the Miami Beach women's championship a short time ago.

PERCY WILLIAMS TO RUN IN DETROIT WEDNESDAY

DETROIT, Feb. 15—(AP)—Percy Williams, sensational Canadian school boy sprinter will run here Wednesday night in the Michigan Indoor A. A. U. meet, in which Paavo Nurmi, Finnish star, and Edvin Wide, fleet Swedish school master, already are entered, A. A. U. officials announced receipt of his entry form tonight and said he would run in a 40 yard event.

JIMMY QUINN WINS THREE BOUTS AT PROVIDENCE; TWO BY KNOCKOUTS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Feb. 15—Jimmy Quinn of Norwich, Connecticut, featherweight champion, proved himself a real champ when he polished off three boys here tonight to win in his division. Quinn's fighting was the best that he has exhibited in the Arcadia arena and won for him a warm spot in the hearts of the followers of the padded mitts.

In his first bout Quinn made short work of Johnny Sousa of Cambridge, knocking him out in the first round. Quinn cleverly maneuvered Sousa into place and then dropped him with a right to the chin.

Taking on Tony Spencer of Providence as his second opponent Quinn found the going a trifle harder as Spencer was a fast boxer and clever on the defense. This battle was a whirlwind affair which had the fans holding tight to their seats.

Quinn met Al McLaren of Boston in the finals and it was not until the third round that Quinn found an opening and crashed through for a knockout. The bout was one of intense interest with McLaren proving to be a real tough boy.

Patsy Ferra Robbed

For the second time Patsy Ferra, Norwich welterweight, was literally robbed by the judges when Johnny McCarthy of Providence was given the verdict. Ferra led practically the entire distance and had McCarthy on the defensive the greater part of the time. McCarthy withstood the punishment and fought back gamely but there is no doubt that Ferra should have been declared the winner. The decision was so unpopular that the crowd booed for nearly ten minutes after the bout was over.

JACK BUTLER WINS SOUTH FLORIDA GOLF TOURNEY

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 15—(AP)—Overcoming a six hole lead in the second 18 holes, Jack Butler of West Palm Beach, today won the annual South Florida golf tournament here by defeating Albert P. Hakes, of Redonia, N. Y., 1 up on the 37th green.

Butler, a favorite, nosed out the youthful New Yorker on the 37th green after Hakes had led 6 up at the end of the first 18 holes and the score had been tied at the end of the second 18.

DROP BASKETBALL DEFY FROM ARMY DIRIGIBLE

PRINCETON, N. J., Feb. 15—(AP)—Princeton experienced an innovation in athletic challenges, today as the Army blimp J-4, flying low, dropped a note bearing an invitation for the Tiger freshman basketball team to meet the West Point plebes.

The note, addressed to the freshman basketball manager and signed by Za J. Megan, athletic officer, was dropped in a small parachute which landed on the roof of the chemistry building after the maneuvers of the blimp had attracted the attention of most of the student body.

HARVARD GRIDERS HAVE FIRST SPRING PRACTICE

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 15—(AP)—The Harvard varsity football squad started its spring training today with Ivy Kennard, the Crimson kicking coach in charge. He worked out with the punters, dropkickers and passers.

Kennard said the football work was unofficial and voluntary but he expected that the men would report to him every day until March 18, when Coach Arnold Horween arrives here to take charge of the regular three weeks' training course.

PETTY SIGNS WITH PIRATES FOR SEASON

PITTSBURGHS, Pa., Feb. 15—(AP)—Jess Petty, southpaw pitcher obtained from Brooklyn and Joe Dawson, right handed slabman, have affixed their names to Pittsburgh Pirate contracts, bringing every regular except the Waner brothers into the fold. It was made known at Pirate offices today.

The Waners, Paul and Lloyd, are known to want a considerable advance over their 1928 salaries. They are stars of the Buccaneer outfield.

LONG ISLAND BOATS WIN AT HAVANA

HAVANA, Feb. 15—(AP)—Long Island boats captured the first three places today in the opening race of the international star class competition for the Bacardi trophy. Colleen, of the Central Long Island Sound Island fleet with F. D. Bedford at the helm, finished the ten and one-half mile course off Morro Castle, first in 49.28.15, followed by Shinnecock, of Peconic bay and Iscyra II of western Long Island sound.

WOMAN APPLIES FOR LICENSE TO MANAGE FIGHTERS IN MICH.

LANSING, Mich., Feb. 15—(AP)—A woman has applied to the state boxing commission for a license to manage fighters, the first of her sex to request the privilege in Michigan. She is Edna Greiner of Detroit.

The woman is said to have a large stable of fighters, including Frankie Mack, Detroit lightweight.

LEO LOMSKI GETS UNPOPULAR VERDICT OVER TUFFY GRIFFITH

DETROIT, Feb. 15—(AP)—Leo Lomski was awarded a 10-round decision over Tuffy Griffith here tonight amid a chorus of boos.

The battle was fought in the Olympia arena before a crowd of 12,000 to 14,000 with receipts from $40,000 to $20,000.

The referee, Elmer "Slim" McClelland, was booted out of the ring when he raised Lomski's right hand. The crowd evidently believed the victory undeserved. Some of the ringside experts had the courage to give Griffith a margin in six or seven of the ten rounds, but McClelland thought otherwise.

Lomski fought a cagey battle, pecking away with long lefts to the face and in the meantime stepping inside Griffith's right hand thrusts to the head. Griffith succeeded only in landing his feared right a half dozen times and at no time was he successful in cracking Lomski squarely on the peak of the chin.

Lomski seemed to loaf until near the close of the battle. He cut loose with his major offensive in the ninth round, driving long lefts into Griffith's face and shooting an occasional right to the body. Griffith's big round was the fifth. He piled in close, throwing left hooks to the head and body and trying to whip over a right to finish his western opponent.

Both fighters weighed in under the light-heavyweight limit of 175 pounds when they jumped on the scales at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Griffith tipped the beam at 172 1-2 pounds, with Lomski scaling 170 1-4.

SERBIAN AVIATOR SPEAKS TO LOCAL BOY SCOUTS

The regular weekly meeting of Troop No. 1, Boy Scouts of the United Congregational church, was held at the Community house Friday evening. After saluting the flag and reciting the scout oath and law, routine business was transacted. A detail of scouts was named to assist the chamber of commerce at the banquet for Gen. Malone, next Tuesday. Lieut. Nicholas Stankovich of the Serbian aviation corps was present and related his experiences during the World war. He told the boys of his early life in Servia and paid tribute to the Boy Scout movement and commended the high ideals which are held up to the boys of America. He urged all the boys to respect and honor the flag of their country and by defending the laws and with clean living they will all become good citizens. He urged all to do their best.

Rumors that questions in a civil service examination taken last month by 600 Boston policemen had been sold in advance to several members of the force received added strength when Elliot H. Goodwin, civil service commissioner, admitted that he was investigating such a charge.

FIELDS BEATS GANS IN HARD BOUT

Although some boos greeted the official verdict, Fields, rated as the leading contender for Joe Dundee's 147-pound crown clearly outpointed the Negro battler. Fields, punching every minute of every round, carried the fight to Gans throughout and on several occasions had the Negro on the verge of a knockout.

Despite his victory, Fields did not appear over-impressive. He had Gans groggy and staggering in the second and third rounds but could not measure his man for the finishing punch.

The battle attracted some 15,000 fans.

After a tame first round, devoted to what amounted to one long clinch, Fields came out fast in the second session, and staggered Gans with a savage left hok to the point of the jaw. Grogsy, the Negro held on desperately and so effective was this means of defense that Fields could not get free for a clean punch.

Still suffering from the effects of the punch, Gans was on the receiving end of a continuous barrage from Fields' busy fists in the third round but Jackie's mauling style of fighting did not permit of a clean punch that might have ended the battle then and there.

Gans rallied courageously in the fourth round and carried the fight to his white rival but his punches lacked steam and did no more than momentarily stop Fields in his unending plunges forward, always forward, with both hands flying.

After that the fight developed into a succession of clinches as both tired under the swift pace. Fields, however, won the fifth, seventh and eighth rounds with the sixth and ninth all even.

In the tenth Gans, throwing aside his caution, took the offensive, cracked Fields about the head with both hands and avoided all counters by the simple expedient of stepping aside as the white man rushed. The Negro however, could not hit hard enough to stagger Fields much less floor him and the end of the round found Jackie still well in the lead.

Burgess Bedtime Story

Danny Meadow Mouse Does His Part

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Jealousy doth move to rage
And heedless is it size and age.
—Old Mother Nature.

Though Danny Meadow Mouse seemed to be merely having a good time, leaving all the care of the big family to Nanny Meadow Mouse, he really was keeping a watchful eye on that little home all the time. He was never very far away from it. You see, he was anxious. Trouble of some sort might come, and if it did he wanted to be around.

Several times when Nanny came out to get a hasty bite to eat, Danny started to go in to look at the babies. But each time Nanny objected and each time Danny gave up. "They are mine, aren't they?" he protested. "Why shouldn't I go in and see them?"

"You may when I am in there with them, but not at any other time," replied Nanny. And with this Danny had to be content.

Now Danny had discovered that there were other Meadow Mice living under the big haystack. He had met two or three and he had found plenty of signs of others. None of them, however, appeared to be living very near to Danny's home, and so far none had tried to pay that home a visit. In fact, Danny doubted if any of the others knew just where that home was. He knew, however, that sooner or later that snug little home would be discovered. It was bound to be.

In this Danny was right. That home was discovered and by a Meadow Mouse quite as big as Danny. Danny wasn't at home at the time. He was off getting something to eat. On his return, as he drew near the home where Nanny and the babies were, he heard sharp, angry squeaks. He hurried then. What he saw when he came in sight of that little home was a strange Mouse doing his best to get in, while Nanny was doing her best to keep him out.

Great rage took possession of Danny. It was a jealous rage, and there is no rage quite so great as jealous rage. With a sharp squeak of anger he rushed at that strange Mouse. The stranger turned and in half a minute they were locked together, rolling over and over and biting with their sharp teeth and digging each other with the claws of their hindfeet.

Now the stranger was fully as big as Danny. He was younger and quite willing to fight. There was nothing cowardly about him. In fact, he seemed to be enjoying that fight. Danny soon realized that here was a Mouse who would not be easily beaten.

"I've got to win," thought Danny. "I've got to win! If he should win he would fight Nanny, and he might be too much for Nanny. Then he would go in and kill those babies. I've got to win!"

Danny was right about the matter. The stranger had every intention of doing just what Danny thought. Had he been able to into that nest where the babies were he would have been very likely to kill some of them and perhaps eat them. Strange Mice do such things.

But Danny wasn't giving him any chance. Danny was biting and kicking for all he was worth and the stranger was doing the same thing. They rolled over and over and though Nanny watched for a chance to rush in and help Danny, they moved about so fast she didn't get a single opportunity. After a while both were out of breath. They lay there locked together and just panted. Then they resumed fighting.

At last the strange Mouse began to try to get away. He was beaten and he knew it. Danny let go for just an instant. The other Mouse pulled away suddenly and then scrambled to his feet and darted off. Danny Meadow Mouse watched him go. Then he sat down and began to lick his wounds and smooth his fur. He had done his part for Nanny and the babies and he knew it.

PUTNAM BEATS PLAINFIELD, 29-24

(Special to The Bulletin)

PLAINFIELD, Feb. 15—Plainfield high gave Putnam an awful scare here tonight, losing out by the closest of margins, 29 to 24. The locals came mighty near upsetting the highly touted visitors, who were rated as big pre-game favorites.

Putnam started its second team but Coach Noyes got such a scare that he was forced to yank them and substitute the first stringers. Plainfield, however, gave the best Putnam had to offer an interesting game.

Little Tommy Lang, Plainfield right forward, was the individual star of the game, scoring 13 points and playing well on the floor. Plainfield was outweighed and met a taller foe in Putnam but in losing they scored a moral victory.

Leo was high scorer for the winners. In the preliminary Plainfield girls overwhelmed Putnam lassies, 37 to 13.

DANIELSON DOWNS MILLVILLE, 35 TO 33

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 15—Danielson took gleeful vengeance for many a past defeat they have received at the hands of the Millville team, here tonight, when they defeated the Millville quintet, 35 to 33, in a five-minute overtime period in one of the greatest games yet played. Never for a minute was there a let-up in either team's playing and it was impossible to pick the winner at any time as the game was a nip and tuck affair from start to finish.

THE SOCIAL CORNER

GENIUS IS PATIENCE

WORTH MAKES THE MAN OR WOMAN, NOT DRESS

Mr. Editor and Social Corner Sisters: In reading so much of the various ideas of the estimable sisters in regard to dress it should not be forgotten that "Worth makes the man and want of it the fellow, the rest is all but leather or prunella." One of the oldest nations in the world today (the Servians) who can justly claim to be among the earliest Christians, and who are independent, courageous people, wear short dresses and are similar in many aspects as regards dress and music, to the Scotch Highlanders whom all the ladies admire and delight to sing, "The Bazpipes They'll Play Over Me and Lay Me Doon and Die," etc. The quotation from Burns which so many of the sisters have given us, "Oh wad some power the giftie gie us," was not used in criticism of ladies' raiment short or long, but was addressed to that abominable rascal who made life almost unbearable for our soldiers in France, "the cootie." Burns, while in church noticed a cootie on a lady's dress, and if the sisters would take a little time and read the address they would endeavor to find some other quotation in favor of longer dresses. Burns wrote:

"You gizzy creeping blastit wunner
Despised alike by saint and sinner
How dare ye set yer foot upon her
Sae fine a lady,
I wouldna be surprised to see
You on some old wife's flannel-toy
But mission fine Lunardi, fie!
How daur ye do it?

Oh wad some power the giftie gie us
To see ourselves as other see us
It wud frae many a blunder free us
What airs in gait and dress would leave us
And even devotion."

Others of the sisters condemn smoking by both male and female, and ask "Why do men smoke?" and they might just as well ask, "Why do babies suck their thumbs?" It looks like the law of heredity was getting in some of its fine work. A city visitor to a farmer's home at a Thanksgiving dinner, desiring to be sociable, asked the host, "Why do turkeys have gizzards?" The host replied very courteously, "Where a fool question is asked a fool question is appropriate. Turkeys have gizzards so they can gizz."

But to revert to feminine dress, our sisters, old and young, are behind the times, for the newest fad, the "footless sock," has made its appearance in the feminine wardrobe. A few months ago these strange garments (if they may be called such, made their appearance. At first sight they looked like a pair of woolen socks such as women golfers or tennis players wear over their silk stockings, but as the lady came nearer one could not help observing that the feet of the socks were missing and that the upper portions were worn as a protection for the ankles. The device is no doubt very sound, especially on a wet and blustery day, but a ribald fellow, who also had observed the phenomena, said it reminded him of the left chafing pad which is put around the fetlock of a horse that forges. Upon being rebuked for the ungallant comment, and told that people should not notice these things, he replied, what is the use of being a roamer unless one has a roamer's eye?

HER POINT OF VIEW

Dear Social Corner: My last letter was so long I decided I would wait a while before I wrote again. When the paper came with so few letters I decided to write one of my chopped-up ones right away. Now the page is full and overflowing and mine is not needed, but I have been so interested in Jennie's letter and the point of view of others, I am writing just the same. I am sort of a dissenter. I love a good cigar. Oh, no! I don't smoke it. My father, grandfather, husband and his father never used tobacco. I used to wish my husband would. I still think if he had had a pipe, even, on his long lonely rides it would have been such a solace. I once told him so. He was surprised and said I should be thankful he did not smoke—but I wasn't! And I do think in his intercourse with other men he missed a lot when he could not smoke a cigar or pipe as the rest did. I told him if I was a man I'd smoke. He just said: "I know you would." That was my point of view.

I think the girls are right. We old folks do take up their fads. A woman who kicks out her dress in the back at every step, and it's half way to her shoe tops in front, looks like the last century. No, I don't wear my dresses above my knees. I haven't bobbed my hair, but I like it. I think the styles of today are the prettiest I ever knew.

Hoop skirts were before my time, but I knew an old Irish woman who always wore one—the large size. She walked three miles to mass every Sunday morning, but said she couldn't do it if she had her dress switching around her legs as folks wore them. I remember when it took ten yards to make a dress, and a lot of that went into sleeves. Once the papers were full of the "terrible" Mother Hubbard dress. They even talked of making it a crime to wear one. We had some of our friends to lunch. They expressed their opinion of a woman who would wear one, and what they would do if their wives did such a thing. I asked Len what he would do. He said, in the tone he used when he meant things: "I wouldn't advise you to get one." I did not tell him I had had one a year. The very pink dress he liked was a Mother Hubbard. Years after when I told him he said: "Why, you never had one. They were just like a night gown!" So that was his point of view.

Once we wrapped up in wool; an exposed neck meant consumption. Now they put you out of doors to sleep and tell us we are living ten years longer than fifty years ago, even with silk stockings and silk undies.

I so enjoyed Little Sister's letter. We will have to do just that, "let them alone." If their style appeals to us, follow we will; if not, just smile and remember our youth.

I myself had a dear Puritan mother. She would not let me have a bustle or wear a corset. She said "If God had made you deformed she would have tried in every possible way to hide it, and it was wicked not to hold yourself up." I was broken-hearted, but used to stop on my way to church and put a paper tied with a string under my skirt in the back. It bustled all right! As I sang in the choir it was not noticeable that my dress was eight inches too short in the back, so no one told mother. I took it off before going home, but I felt wronged. I remember a hat I thought lovely, about four inches of crown and wide brim, it sat on top of my pompadour and was so lovely I had my picture taken in it. I have the picture now, and to think, I couldn't have a bustle but wore that hat, and people said "what a pretty hat." After all, isn't it just our point of view? And often we change that.

Thanks to Whippoorwill for all the nice things she wrote about me and mine. She is a very nice person herself. B. Natural is south. I expect she will write us a long letter about her trip and will get the yellow slip.

I want to send a recipe for a cake that's unusual

Surprise Cake: Eggless and without milk but will keep fresh and moist a long time. Please try it and tell me if you like it. One cup sugar, one tablespoon lard, one tablespoon butter, one can tomato soup, in which dissolve one teaspoon soda, two cups flour, one level teaspoon baking powder, one teaspoon cinnamon, one teaspoon nutmeg, 1-2 teaspoon cloves, salt, one teaspoon vanilla, one cup raisins. Mix as above given.

SOCIAL CORNER EVENTS

Feb. 19—Club No. 6 meets in Community house, Stonington.

SHOULD APPRECIATE "HAND-ME-DOWNS"

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: It looks as though Club No. 6 should take their pens in hand. Two weeks and hardly a letter from this neck of the woods. There has been so much sickness I don't suppose people feel like setting their minds on letter writing. Our family is on the mend now and I certainly hope they stay so. But I am very thankful we got by as easily as we did.

E. L. M. wrote a while ago about people feeling insulted when someone offered to give them clothing, often of better material than they could afford to buy. I think that is a very foolish view to take, and especially when there are children in the family. With a bit of study, so many things can be made over, and where youngsters grow so fast they often wear a garment only a few times for "best" when it is outgrown. I am always very thankful for anything given me and if it is something that doesn't just fit and perhaps wouldn't pay to put a lot of work into, I have some friends with youngsters who feel the same as I do and are glad to get the "handouts." I don't think it a saving to put a lot of time into something that isn't going to wear long enough to repay you, but where there are children most anything will come into use some way or other.

I was very glad to see a letter from Commuter and I hope we see her when she comes.

Cousin Claire: Milky Way says you are looking and feeling better. I had the doctor yesterday and consequently am feeling better today. I think the Tuesday night racket was just a little too much.

Cream cheese and pineapple with chopped nuts, raisins and salted peanuts ground fine; deviled ham moistened with either cream or catsup, cream cheese, jelly and nuts, sardines mashed and moistened with catsup or mayonnaise; peanut butter with jelly or cream cheese. If peanut butter is combined with something else instead of spreading on plain it will not be so chocky as is sometimes the case.

Best wishes to everyone, and may the sick be better.

SUMAC.

APPRECIATED EXPRESSIONS.

Dear Social Cornerers: Am sending the poem by Strickland Gillian just received from our pastor and mentioned last week by Primrose. It is as follows:

My train pours on through the night's black sleve
I feel her rumble and swerve and give
Yet she clings to the rails by laws divine
Applied by cannier hands than mine.
And she lulls me to sleep with her rythmic flow,
"Somebody knows something I don't know."

I raise my gaze to the stars at night
Sending through legion of leagues their light,
Amazed I murmur, and yet I see
The meagerest marge of immensity
And then I whisper with head bent low,
"Somebody knows something I don't know."

Thank you, Fan Tan, and also Daisy Dean. Those expressions of understanding sympathy mean so much. I am saving them together. Such things are very precious. I am keeping as busy as possible with two groups of Girl Scouts who grow dearer as we work together, guests and other work. Some things seem so essential and others so non-essential now.

With all best wishes to you all.

THIRTY-TWO

Sumac: Hope that you did not get any more cold the 5th. Your program was fine, everybody enjoyed it. That is your calling.

Sunday Mr. B. and I left home at 12 m. for a ride, stopping at Norwich Town for Mrs. Mae Rollins and daughter Claire. At South Windham we turned right, going through Scotland and Canterbury. At Plainfield we turned right again for Jewett City and Norwich. After leaving Scotland we stopped and picked pussy willows. The road between Jewett City and Norwich was being repaired. They are in very poor condition. We arrived home at 5.30 p. m.

WHAT GOES UP MUST COME DOWN

Dear Corner Sisters: Legs are at loggerheads with logic, which is working nights to revive long frocks. Textile mills need the extra yardage. War lifted skirts to knee height and peace can't tug them down again.

It was a necessary and wise measure, temporarily, to conserve the wool, cotton and silk, amplify attire and enforce thrift all at one stroke. But style has since refused to resume former habit ruts. Women the world over are united against the surrender of limb freedom. Consequently looms must limp along at catch-as-catch-can capacity. Petticoats and linings, once grandbys of fabric consumption, are abandoned exiles. Underwear has shrunk to upper-wear. And tanners' dividends would weep with joy if high shoes could stage a revival.

The millions that emergency saved by skimping wardrobes dwindle to small change when compared to the losses industry has subsequently suffered. A generation emancipated from stupid fashion discomforts flatly declines to yield present liberties to accommodate mere profit and economics.

We must muddle through until other occupations are found for jobless weavers. Calves have won their day and come to stay, and bobbed tresses are as obdurate as short dresses, callously unrepentant for the havoc they've spread through commerce. Plain, simple shapes have just about wrecked the millinery works. Hairpins, hatpins, combs, flowers and ribbons are barely visible nowadays.

South Africa has a monument in waiting for the man with a plan to revive the use of ostrich plumes. And the firms which furnished the button-eyed parrots and those pretty bunches of glass grapes that distinguished mother's niftiest toques have turned to Christmas tree ornaments or toward the lane to the poorhouse.

Here's one situation that the author did not foresee when he pontifically declared "What goes up must come down."

FLAT ROCK.

A MOTHER'S RESPONSIBILITY

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: I wish to express my appreciation to all those who have contributed an opinion on the subject regarding girls and women cigarette smoking, also would like to hear from many more. It need not be but a few words added to each and every letter, to show how we stand. For instance, say "Yes, I approve of girls and women smoking," or "I am opposed to it." It is true there are many of the young people of today who disregard the advice of a good sensible mother or grandmother (who still is not very aged). They call their elders "old fashioned, out of date, a back number," and other expressions, because they have indulged in habits of self will and have ignored refinement and modesty, which cannot grow old with time, in the meaning of woman's virtue.

There is a class of middle aged mothers of today who sit with their young daughters and both smoke. It seems surprising that any mother who calls herself respectable will allow herself to share in something which frequently leads to the daughter's downfall. I noticed an adv. in the local papers recently of a moving picture that was to be given at one of the large theatres on a certain date.

The illustrated adv. was of a young girl dressed similar to Mother Eve (if it could be called dress) lazily sprawled out in a big arm chair, and holding a cigarette between her forefingers, while a cloud of smoke was coming from her mouth. The title of this picture, announced over her head, was "On the Road to Ruin." I thought as I looked at this adv., here's where the cigarette is a leading feature on the downhill side to disgrace.

Personally, I have no daughters to worry about their present or future, but a dear little granddaughter who is 7 years old, and whom I am glad has a splendid mother who will guard and protect her youthful training. I am grateful to have a daughter-in-law in whom I have all confidence, as the example of a good mother, with proper teaching to her little girl and two little boys.

We all realize that a mother's influence has great power with youthful minds, but sad are those cases where outside influences get control and scatter tares among the wheat. This subject of cigarette smoking is worthy of much consideration and should not be disregarded, to vanish in the atmosphere as the poisonous smoke from the lips of girls and women. I thank the editor for my yellow slip on this subject.

Best wishes for the good of the Corner.

UNABLE TO ATTEND MEETING

Dear Corner Friends: I was sorry not to be with you at the February meeting but hubby came home sick and tried to cover his feelings, so I stayed at home to receive the doctor and find out his trouble. I unpacked my basket and remained to my first duty—home and family.

Was sorry to learn Wurdy Bell was on the sick list. I had missed her letters of late. Another of our old writers and one who loved our Corner has just passed away, Deliah Deal.

Aries: Aren't you ever coming to Club No. 2 any more, now, you are so interested in the club up your way? We miss you down to Club 2.

Will the writer who I asked for the making of corn custard please print again? My paper got lost and I want to make one.

Gold n Glow: Hope you are better. Don't give up; the spring is ahead and we will all feel beter.

Onondague 1902: Your letter No. 2 received. Will use as you suggest. Was told I was hostess for March anniversary meeting, as I have been for past years, with the regular duties, and trust the family will be well so as to be there.

Mawb: Hear your programme was fine. Sorry I couldn't hear it. How is he coal?

Snowflake: Accept my sympathy in the loss of your dear husband.

Red Rose: I just laughed out loud at your letter on dress. One has to know you as long as I have to know how to take that letter and, as the young folks say, "get a kick out of it," and I surely did. Guess Mr. Red Rose is getting so he knows the S. C. flowers when they call on phone.

Greetings to all.

CARE OF HENS

Dear Editor and Friends: What fine weather we are having! Fine time for the hens; they must be laying fine, but there are so few that let them out and exercise, which is one of the best things for them. Keep only a few in a coop by themselves and you get more eggs than having a whole lot together. They do a lot better. I know that for a fact, for I have been in the hen business for 15 years. I have small coops and I board off a corner and put wood ashes into it for them to dust in, and let them out every day to exercise. It is not natural for them to be cooped up with no fresh out-of-door air. Sun and air is not all they need to keep them healthy, as they get egg food outside they cannot get inside.

Keep wood ashes for them to dust in; it keeps off the lice. Put the ashes in the grooves and on the roosting poles; it keeps out mites that bother the poor hens so bad. I did not give my hens all kinds of the stuff they are giving to the hens now. I had tough rugged flocks as could be found in cold weather. Gave them warm whole corn at night; boiled potatoes, turnips and meal mashed together in the morning. Don't give a hen any soft feed at night; it is liable to freeze in their crops. Give it mornings. Sunday mornings I chopped onions and suet and put in cayenne pepper. Mixed equal parts of meal and fine feed with hot water. After they had it how they would sing I get lots of eggs all winter. I am telling you this from experience, not from book learning, and if I had hens today I would do the same.

Nalla: Where are you? You don't write.

L. T. H.: Well, spring will be here some time. There is rhubarb starting. I sure will be glad when it does get here.

Well, I hope all the sick ones are on the gain. Just the same

NONESOPRETTY.

A CHATTY LETTER

Dear Social Corner Editor and Members: I was glad to see so many letters from Club 4 last Saturday and I think it is about time I answered the roll call.

Once again I received a beautiful calendar, and many thanks to the Social Corner Member for remembering me.

Peggy Alder requested me some time ago to thank for her all the sisters that sent her letters or cards when she was in the hospital. I think it would be nice to see a letter from her again, as she wrote such interesting ones. I am sure we all miss Kitty Lou's letters. She had so many helpful hints.

Kentucky Wonder: I am glad to see you are home from the hospital. Glad you are gaining.

Nelly Grey told me about this helpful hint and I am sure someone else would like to hear about it: When those white flakes gather on your wash tubs, if you will rub it with steel wool it will all disappear and your tubs will be like new.

Jany and Twice Twenty: Hope you are well.

Lee: I don't think you had anyone guessing, and I wonder if you didn't take part of your name for your Social Corner one.

Aries: I think you must be a very successful hostess, as everyone reported a good time. Sorry I am not able to attend the meetings of the Corner.

Lonesome: I know you must miss Amelia. She was a lovely woman and we are sorry for her family. Axile and Amelia were friends since they were girls.

Gingham Girl: I hope the poppies will be good, and here's hoping I shall be there.

Greetings to all the sick and shutins.

Yours for the Corner.

LILAC LADY.

LIKES MANY LETTERS

Dear Social Corner Sisters: What a lot of nice letters we had in Saturday's paper. I must keep up the good work and do my part. I am trying to write once a month. I hope I can.

Lonefeather: My, what a nice letter you had in Saturday's paper. If you keep up I don't know but what I will have to stop writing. I can't begin to do as well as you did. What a lovely room you must have. Sometime when I am downtown I will stop in and see you. But in the meantime tell us about your colorful kitchen. Would love to hear about it.

Oralee: Well! well! Get busy with your pen. I am still looking for you. Every nice day I think you and mother will come. So hurry up.

Early Blue Bell: I am coming down some afternoon to call on you. Got you guessing? Hope so. Guess again. The next time I write I will let myself known.

Prairie Chicken: How I laughed when I read your letter, for you do exactly as I do. Every night at bedtime I have two cats I shoo out with a broom, and when the cats start to run the dog joins in the chase, and such a racket as they make! The dog tries to get there first and he slides clear across the room. I can just picture you.

One of the sisters thought it would be nice to tell how we took our pen names. When my sister was little she could not say my name and Palla was as near as she could get. Would say what my right name was but am afraid I will be recognized. Best wishes to you all.

PALLA.

TO SHARPEN SCISSORS.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members: Alone with my thoughts this beautiful afternoon, so will write a few words for somebody, somewhere to read.

To all who are cutting rags for rugs I want to tell you how to keep your scissors and shears sharp. Open them wide, and clasp them around the neck of a glass bottle and pull them back and forth a few times and you will be surprised. Now do not forget to try this simple way. As long as I have lived I never heard of it until last week.

I wish every one could have heard the reception last night given to Captain Fried by his friends in his old home town in Worcester. It was dandy. I was alone and heard every word of it.

A NEW KINK FOR AN IRON SINK

Dear Editor and Corner Members: Many have written, at different times, about caring for iron sinks, so I will tell my latest experience:

A few years ago I had a new iron sink. It was rather rough and always hard to keep clean and free from rust. No method I tried ever seemed to bring good, lasting results.

Quite recently I have discovered that a regular scrubbing brush does the trick. I use a large size, about six inches long, and after dish washing scrub the sink with the brush, which leaves it smooth and clean, and have no trouble with rust any more. This is a great improvement on the brushes which are designed for cleaning sinks, as they do not thoroughly clean.

As I learned this by accident, I thought I would pass it on.

SAFETY DON'TS FOR MOTHERS

Dear Editor and Sisters: Don't after twilight has fallen send the children to play on the street.

Don't for a moment forget them; there are dangers that may meet.

Don't let them ride with strange people; it's a risk that is needless to-day.

Don't fail to teach them obedience, that more readily they may obey.

Don't forget that the dangers of traffic are many and varied and real, and don't fail to heed these suggestions; then the kiddies will get a square deal.

I thank the editor for my yellow slip

WEEPING WILLOW.

NEW MEMBER'S FIRST LETTER

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: I have read and enjoyed the Social Corner for years, but have never written before because, like so many others, it seemed I had nothing interesting of which to write. However one can try.

Those of you who are interested in children and those who have taken high school courses must have given at some time thought as to the value of the courses given. Thinking back, what subject has helped you most given you the most pleasure? Was it due to the subject matter itself or to the personality of an instructor? What courses would you introduce if you could have your say?

I will mention one that I would choose if I could go to school again. I know something similar is approached in the grade schools, but there is time for only an introduction.

First, an appreciation of music; familiarity with the themes that never die; what a joy it is to encounter a familiar old melody over the radio instead of wondering what Russian or German mouthful the announcer is getting off, or listening to the twenty-ninth rendition of "I few down and go boom." Those Russian and German names would sound better to us if we had been taught to recognize some of their grand old themes.

Second, I would like to be able to distinguish the sounds of various instruments, to pick them out as I listen, the different horns, the various stringed pieces, etc.

Third, an opportunity to learn to play some instrument. Why couldn't this be included in the curriculum as well as Latin or algebra?

If, as we read everywhere, more and more people are going to have more leisure time, why not provide means for utilizing that leisure?

ENJOYED CLUB MEETING

Dear Members: I must try and write a few lines to help a little. I was glad to see so many letters last week. That's right, sisters, keep up the good work. I attended Club No. 4 meeting and surely enjoyed it very much. Owing to so much sickness there were not quite so many out, but there were quite a few of us. Such a dinner! Fit for a king. There is one thing about Club No. 4, we never lack for food, which is more than some of the other clubs can say.

We had a program after dinner of readings and recitations which with music helped pass the time very pleasantly. The Corner is rightly named, and I think that you could add jolly besides. Well, the winter is wearing away, soon it will be spring once more. I do enjoy it and to think good old summer time is coming soon makes anyone take courage.

Nonesopretty: Yes, I am in the patchwork business. Have made a rug and am now on the second bedquilt. A good many will say "I never could sit and piece blocks," but I just enjoy it. That seems to be my hobby. Everyone has something, they say, so cheer up, sisters, and don't forget to wear a smiling face and look for the good in everyone you meet and forget the bad and the days will seem brighter and time goes on. Give to the world the best you have and the best will come back to you. My sympathy to all in trouble or distress.

RURAL AUNTY.

WHY POVERTY?

Dear Editor and Members: Just a few lines on so much poverty:

"Poverty is a weary curse,
'Tis full of grief and pain;
It bindeth down the heart of man
As with an iron chain.
It maketh even a little child
With heavy heart complain."

Why are so many people poor? Living from hand to mouth is one reason. Another reason is taking the weekly money and spending it as soon as they can. "Yes," they will say, "I need more than this." No thought of self denial or economy. The autos have been a detriment, and one can see many autos today waiting till the owner can earn money to get them licensed.

Jesus said "The poor you have with you always," and I say one will be always poor just as long as they part from their weekly money as soon as they get it. Why not try and get one week's pay ahead? Save a little each week. I knew a woman who started and she told me she was six months getting one month's pay ahead, but she said: "If I had not tried I should always have been poor. After that I could buy to better advantage, but I kept on saving a little against a rainy day."

Women smoking? It is most too disgusting to think of, but I guess, like every other bad habit, it is hard to break off after once it is formed. I never saw a woman smoking or chewing snuff till I came to Connecticut to live.

I thank someone for my dear little calendar. I have it where I can look at it every day.

I use Vicks Vaporub for chilblains. I like it the best of anything I ever tried.

Aries: I was disappointed not to be with you in Moosup.

Kentucky Wonder: I do hope you are improving, and everyone else who is ill. It has been a hard winter for many.

CAPRICORN (Club 4).

TWO GREAT MEN

Dear Editor and Members: It seems impossible to pass this day—Feb. 12th—without mentioning one of the most wonderful men of modern times, Abraham Lincoln, born in 1809, died in 1865. He was simple and unaffected in manner; tolerant and honorable in character. He believed in "justice to all." He once said: "When you have written a wrathful letter, put it in the stove." If every person in the world did just this one sensible action, how much less trouble and less misunderstanding there would be!

On Feb. 22nd we have the memory of another great and good man, George Washington, born at Bridge's Creek, Va., 1732, died 1799. When Washington was a boy of 11 years of age he wrote, for his own guidance, and without suggestion from anyone, a set of rules for "good behavior." Here are a few of them:

"Labor to keep in your heart that little spark of celestial fire called conscience."

"Undertake not that you cannot perform, but be careful to keep your promises."

"Speak not evil of the absent, for it is unjust. Be not hasty to believe flying reports to the injury of any, nor to relate news if you know not the truth thereof."

"Show not yourself glad at the misfortunes of another, though he were your worst enemy. Seek not to lessen the merits of others, neither give more than due praise."

"Think before you speak; pronounce not imperfectly, nor bring out your words too hastily, but orderly and distinctly and whisper not in the company of others."

"Go not thither where you know not whether you shall be welcome. Give not advice without being asked; and, when desired, do it briefly."

"Let your recreation be manful not sinful. Wherein you reprove another, be unblamable yourself; for example is better than precept."

"Gaze not on the marks and blem[illegible] [illegible] you may speak in secret de[illegible] with persons o[illegible] [illegible] your reputation; [illegible] better to be more [illegible] in the company."

"Every action ought to be with some sign of respect to those present. Speak not when others speak; sport not when you should hold your peace; sit not when others stand; walk not when others stop."

Let us honor the author of these rules by obeying them and put them into practice as much as we are able to do.

Best wishes from ARIES.

ECCENTRIC TIMOTHY DEXTER

Dear Folks: I thought you might like to hear about Timothy Dexter, born Jan. 27, 1747, in Malden, Mass. He is said to be the most eccentric man of his day. For a time he was apprentice to a hide and leather merchant, but later became the self-styled lord of Chester. Growing rich, he bought a fine house in Newburyport which he adorned with minarets topped with gilt balls and a cupola surmounted by a huge gilt eagle. On the lawn he erected 40 or 50 columns 15 feet high on each of which stood a wooden statue of some famous person or symbolic figure. His own statue occupied a conspicuous place and bore the inscription: "Lord Timothy Dexter. I am the first in the east and the first in the west, and the greatest philosopher of the western world."

He had a costly tomb built in his garden and a mahogany coffin made to order; he then sent out invitations to his funeral by a footman clad in black with sable streamers on his hat. Many people attended the obsequies, and the coffin, which had not been opened, was carried to the tomb, placed on the black-draped trustles within and the door was locked. The guests returned to the house, where an elaborate banquet awaited them. The meal was interrupted by an uproar in the kitchen and a woman's voice calling for help. The "mourners" hurried to her aid, to find the supposed dead man beating his wife because she had not wept during the services. After the "funeral" he was compelled to leave Newburyport and went to Chester, where he added the title of lord of Chester to his name and drew into a rage if not addressed as "my lord." Chester was even less tolerant of his eccentricities than Newburyport, and when he shot at a man who was looking at his house from the street he was arrested and sent to Ipswich jail and had to pay $1,000 for his freedom.

M. IRVING.

ASHAMED OF OUR SEX

Dear Corner Friends: I think Jennie stirred some of us from the lethargy in which we had sunk. It was very commendable and the replies are interesting to read. As she has asked for my opinion of girls smoking, will say I have a very strong aversion to the use of tobacco by either man or woman. As my father, brother, my uncles or cousins never used the weed in any way, you see I was not brought up in a smoky atmosphere. It's bad enough for men to smoke, if they must, but for the women—oh, horrors! It makes me ashamed of our sex. Could you imagine Frances Willard or Frances Ridley Havergal or Gene Stratton Porter or Mrs. McKinley or Mrs. Coolidge or our own 'Aunt Mary" Bishop, or any of our respected Social Corner sisters puffing away on a cigarette? There is a stage in young people's development that they want to do something out of the ordinary—something they think is smart. So to some, perhaps many, as they have started on a pace with the men in wearing short hair, no skirts, and the curls of smoke going skyward from their lips, it is just another acquirement they have added to their idea of being smart and up-to-date and boyish, not realizing it destroys their efficiency, their modesty and all the finer qualities that womanhood was meant to possess. The flapper-smokers of today would look with disgust on the creatures Rickety Ann wrote about seeing in Maryland, but they are in the same class, only a little way removed from them by the kindness of a few years, environment and the esthetic cigarette. Let us hope this is a short-lived fad that has become a popular practice by a certain class, as it is both harmful and disgusting.

Little Sister: Your letter was exceedingly good on the subject.

Hope we will hear from others.

THEODA.

THE WOMAN SMOKER AGAIN

Social Corner Members: I have been quite interested in the subject of cigarette smoking, so will add my bit while the ball is rolling.

I heard a clergyman say he was once asked if a man could be a Christian and use tobacco. He replied: "Yes, but he would be a dirty one." This might apply the same to women. I do not believe it is any worse for a woman to smoke than for a man. The majority of men began smoking in their youth, when they were not responsible, while the great majority of women began after reaching maturity and acquired the habit to make them "popular."

Women have set for themselves a higher standard of living than men, and it has always been recognized as such. When these conditions cease to exist women alone are to blame. I believe the salvation of the world depends, directly or indirectly, on the women.

"Every great grand deed of honor has a woman at its base." If we would live up to the sentiment expressed by the poet we must set our ideals high and live up to them.

I can't imagine a lady (Webster defines as one of refined manners) with cigarette-stained fingers. To me there could be nothing more disgusting and at the same time pathetic than to see a woman smoking a cigarette with a helpless babe in her arms. Statistics tell us cigarettes impair the mentality as well as the health. If this is true, what an inheritance for the future generation where both parents are cigarette fiends!

God has placed the lives of these ones into our care and keeping and if we do those things which could possibly hurt their future development we have failed in our great commission and He will hold us responsible.

Paul says "if meat makes my brother to offend I will eat no flesh while the world standeth." Our influence is far-reaching. Why not try to use it for the advancement of the better and more worth-while things of life which could not possibly harm anyone?

Rebecca, Lucille Drew and Jeremy: I often think of you, for you must be lonely but I know your trust is in One who never leaves nor forsakes.

The Friendly Voice: Will try to write again, later.

Best wishes to the Corner.

NAOMI.

APPRECIATED KINDNESS

Dear Social Corner Sisters of Club No. 5: Accept my sincere thanks for the beautiful basket of flowers which you sent me in the time of my sorrow. The kind and loving thought which prompted it will ever be with me.

SNOWFLAKE.

FAVORS YELLOW FOR DARK KITCHEN

Dear Editor and Corner Friends: Here I am to answer roll call. I also wish to thank a Corner member for the dainty calendar. It is good to be remembered; don't see how you can think of us all.

Jennie: I think as you do about girls and women smoking. We don't have the respect for them we otherwise would or will their children, as they grow older. How can a mother smoke before their little children?

I wonder how many Social Corner members live in Hartford. I am living in Hartford for a while.

Olive: Why not start a Social Corner club here? Wonder if you live near me. I live south of Trinity college, across the street from Rocky Ridge ball ground. Trolley cars stop in front of the house.

Eugenia: Was pleased to hear from you over the line.

Rose Geranium: You are right, yellow helps brightening a dark room. My kitchen here is small but very cheerful. No sun comes in on that side of the house. It has one large window and glass in door that opens onto the porch. The walls are painted a light color. I have a white sink and tub, and over them is a large closet with glass doors. Under the closet I have a row of cup hooks for my kitchen utensils with yellow handles. I have yellow curtains at the windows and door, the real Social Corner color. Also my clock, dust pan, waste basket and garbage pail are yellow. Towels have yellow borders. I have always had a large kitchen but like a small one best, it saves thousands of steps.

Dorinda: When I saw your letter in Corner, knew it was time I got busy. I am looking for a letter from you.

Neighbor: Hope you are much better. I missed you last time I was down.

Best wishes for the Corner.

AUNT SARAH (Club 3).

A FEW SUGGESTIONS

Dear Editor and Cornerites: Someone suggested a talk on canaries. I think it would be a nicer subject than the "horrible" styles. Here is one suggestion, which is to get a square box a little larger than the bottom of your cage, about two inches deep; if it is a little deeper it will do no harm. Fill it with good soil, then sow some seeds for tender greens, such as lettuce, spinach or a few beets. You can plant a row at a time, that is, let the first row get up before you plant another. When you clean the bottom of cage set the top with Mr. Birdie over the greens and let him help himself. As the greens get large, cut off the tops.

Try freshly popped corn in your soup next time you serve it. The children will like it in place of crackers. When you want something different for dessert, put a few cubes of pineapple in each muffin pan and a teaspoon of cake batter on top. Cook upside down and pile with whipped cream.

When your pie bolls over in the oven wash it up immediately with a wooden handled dish mop. This saves the odor of burning sugar spreading through the house; also the task of scraping the charred remnants later, and saves your hands from being burned as they would be with a cloth.

Make your own stencils by using embroidery patterns. Transfer on to a strong cardboard and cut out with a sharp knife; then shellac on both sides.

Now try tinting a silk handkerchief or a sampler. To prepare for coloring, stretch silk over a sheet of paper on which your design is outlined and pin or thumbtack firmly to a board. Trace outline on silk lightly with a lead pencil. Sharpen wax crayons and, following your color guide, fill in design. Use separate strokes of the crayon, letting the material show between. Do not fill in spaces solidly. The shading-in should suggest Kensington embroidery. Keep blowing away the flecks of crayon as you work. Press completed piece on wrong side. The color penetrates material and appears on both sides. This is very showy on silk or organdie.

Hambug Steak Pie: 1 1-2 pounds of round steak, 2 cups mixed vegetables, 1 1-2 cups white sauce, good biscuit dough.

Pass steak through food chopper and season with celery salt, pepper and salt to taste. Place potato balls, diced carrots and peas with a bit of onion on bottom of baking dish and cover with the sauce. Make the steak into a flat cake an inch thick and place on vegetables. Put a nice biscuit dough on top, leaving a few holes for steam to escape. Brush top with melted butter and bake in oven at 350 degrees 40 to 60 minutes.

Sister Snowflake: You certainly have our heartiest sympathy. There are a number in the Corner who know how to sympathize with you.

Wildflower: You hit the nail on the head. Come again!

Little Sister: Was glad to hear from you.

Now I wish to thank the editor for a pretty yellow slip. With best wishes to all.

ROSE GERANIUM.

JOINS THE CORNER

Social Corner Editor: I am sending a poem I thought might be all right for the Social Corner page. I read the many messages of last week and was impressed with the sentiment, also there are many things sent in which are helpful.

Do not know whether eligible or not, as I live so far away. I know some of the Cornerites, and twice attended picnics at Buckingham Memorial with friends who live in Norwich. They have fine times, and are "just folks" the sort I like. If it is all right for me to join I will take the name

JOYS (?) OF HOUSECLEANING

Dear Editor, Sisters and Friends: What fine weather! It will soon be housecleaning time again. My, but don't hubby like those days? I tell you he does. I make him beat the rugs and carpets, and don't he just love to do those things! He won't get the chance to sneak out of it this spring.

Keziah Doolittle: How are you?

Nonesopretty: Are you frozen up? Haven't seen you since the dickens knows when. Come over the hills to the little roadside inn and have a look at us or you will forget how we do look.

Hope the sick are better.

VELVIE.

ALWAYS INTERESTED IN CORNER

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: I have always loved the Social Corner and found both helps and sympathy from the friends of the Corner, cards of cheer when ill, and whenever I've been able to attend the Social Corner picnics have met such nice people, both from my club No. 6, and other ones. I want to thank all who sent me cards at Christmas time. When one gets only the view from one's window, a card or letter is much appreciated. Still I am very thankful for all my benefits.

Eben Shirley: They tell me you have been playing the part of nurse and good samaritan. Hope you don't get down and out.

Cutie: Am sorry to hear you are ill. Hope you are better when this is printed.

Interested Reader: Yes I can tat if I can keep up long enough and do enjoy it so much, thanks to you for your patience. That was the last time I was away from home since I saw you at N. S. Grange hall, when Lauretta was hostess. I thought I had more strength but found I was a "weak sister", but I'll look for spring.

The letters have been so good and contained such help and aids. The recipes are all good and how I would like to be in my pantry trying some of them. But younger hands have taken my place there and I am content to be a "has been".

Stranger in the City: I am so glad you have your porch and can enjoy it. Get good and strong in God's fresh air is the wish of your many friends "at home". They tell me your granddaughter is a fine lecturer at grange. How I would love to go again. I always enjoyed the meetings so much. Have not been since June.

B Natural: Cards received but no address. Hope you all have a fine, enjoyable winter in Florida.

NANCY PECK.

BUSY TEACHING

Dear Social Corner Folk: It has been a pleasure to read messages from various dear friends, many of whom inquired where I was, and said that my letters have been missed.

My business keeps me from attending the meetings as I am actively engaged in teaching.

I do not forget you, nor our good times, and always long to be there on meeting days.

Have had plenty of opportunity to live up to my name and scatter, scatter sunshine.

I always make it a point to get a letter in at this time, as it is the anniversary of my joining the club six years ago. So many members come to my mind, that have

VIOLENT RELAPSE IN STOCK MARKET AS CALL MONEY JUMPED TO 10 PER CENT

NEW YORK, Feb. 15—(AP)—The stock market experienced one of the most violent relapses of the year today, as call money jumped from 6 1-2 to 10 per cent., a rate that has not been surpassed since 1921, save during the recent money flurry caused by the Jan. 1 shifting of balances, when it touched 12.

The sharp tightening of money resulted from withdrawals totalling $60,000,000 by the banks. Much of this was said to have been withdrawn by interior banks, and it was generally ascribed to the influence of the reserve banks. The day saw a general tightening of credit, bankers acceptance rates rising 1-8 of one per cent for the second time this week, and time money moving up 1-4 of one per cent, to 7 3-4 per cent. for some maturities.

The reaction was the most violent since Feb. 7 The Associated Press index of 50 industrials dropped 4.6 points to a new 1929 low, in contrast to a drop of 7 points eight days ago.

The market opened with a burst of strength, which appeared to be largely short covering resulting from the failure of the New York reserve bank to raise its rediscount rate last night. The fact that the directors were in session until about 7 o'clock, some three hours longer than usual, however, was interpreted as indicating that strenuous efforts are under way to carry out the reserve board's threat choke off the supply of credit available for speculation. While the directors were very secretive as to what is taking place, rumors spread about Wall street that most of them had favored a higher rediscount rate, but met with opposition in Washington.

The federal reserve board's advisory council which consists of one member from each 12 reserve districts, meeting in Washington, issued a statement after the close of the market approving the board's action in asking the reserve banks to prevent diversion of reserve credit into the stock market, and suggesting that each reserve bank directly ask all its member banks to cooperate. "The council believes beneficial results can be obtained in this manner," the statement said. Wall street was inclined to interpret this as indicating that the council considers higher rediscount rates unnecessary for the present.

The trade and business news continued favorable. Several good earnings reports made their appearance, and Sinclair resumed dividend payments on its common stock. January exports were reported at the highest for that month in eight years. The weekly trade reviews reported satisfactory progress.

American Express dropped 12 points while Allied Chemical, Byers, Chicago Northwestern preferred, General Electric, Johns-Manville, Otis Elevator, Rossia Insurance, Standard Milling, and Union Carbide were among issues losing from 6 to 10 points. U. S. Steel, American Can, American Smelting, Consolidated Gas, International Harvester, International Nickel, Kennecott, New York Central, Packard, Simmons and Wright Aero receded about 3 to 4 points. Radio sold off 9 points but recovered much of its loss.

American and Foreign Power and American Power and Light mounted about 7 and 8 points, the former to a new top, but lost most of their gains. New York Traction issues were strong as expectations of a favorable decision in the 7-cent fare case. Union Tank Car was a strong point, rising 6 points to a new high, in buying influenced by large railway equipment orders.

The commodities markets were featured by a spurt of about 2 cents a pound in crude rubber futures, in excited buying arising from reports that American tire manufacturers had bought all of the available offerings of actual rubber, in the trade. Wheat moved higher but encountered realizing, while corn was firm. Cotton moved in a narrow range.

In the foreign exchanges, the Canadian dollar dropped to another new 1929 low at 99.62 1-2 cents, making gold shipments to New York highly probable. Sterling and other European and other European currencies ruled somewhat higher during most of the day.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Spiritualist Lecture

On Monday evening, February 18, 1929, at 8 p. m., the platform at the First Spiritual union, 29 Park street, will be occupied by Dev. William Eliott Hammond, missionary at large for the Nationa Spiritual association, who will lecture on the subject "Recent Developments in Spiritualism." Mr. Hammond is a most capable teacher in the art, science and philosophy of life, and as a lecturer he virtually embodies and animates his subject, and makes it a living, breathing thing. He devotes his time to the teaching of faith in life, its nobility and potentialities, and to the awakening of human beings to the need of an ever-abiding consciousness of the supremacy of the life spiritual over the life material. Mr. Hammond lectured from this platform in the past and thrilled his audiences by his brilliant oratory and his ready wit, and his splendid personality. Mr. Hammond will at this time be assisted by the nationally known medium and message bearer, Mrs. Nettie Holt Harding. She will give messages at the conclusion of his lecture. Doors will be opened at 7:30. Lecture at 8. Collection will be taken at the door.

Pictures At Y. M. C. A. Sunday.

At 3:30 Sunday at the local Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, the impressive eight-reel moving picture feature entitled "Old Ironsides" will be shown. This is a James Cruze production inspired by Oliver Wendell Holmes' poem by that name. It is the story of the brave New Englanders who abandoned their homes and families to answer the call to arms against the pirates of Tripoli in 1804. It is one of the first real American epics of the screen and makes one feel and realize the tremendous bravery and courage of our forefathers. Laid in Old Salem, Massachusetts and Tripoli, Africa.

Such a picture story is bound to strengthen the appreciation of the sacrifices made by those who lived before us, and should develop in those who see it a determination to live that kind of lives that will mean much to those who come after us.

The adult public is invited, and boys and girls fourteen and over will be admitted. A brief talk will be given.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Strand Theatre.

Lon Chaney in a new clown role, his first since the famous He Who Gets Slapped, is the attraction at the Strand theatre tomorrow night, i. Herbert Brenon's spectacular production of Laugh, Clown, Laugh, adapted by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer from the famous stage play. Chaney plays a comedian who, for the woman he loves, makes a grim sacrifice. It is a vivid romance of life behind the scenes in a theatre with Loretta Young, Nils Asther, Bernard Siegel, Gwen Lee, Cissy Fitz-Gerald and others.

Saddle Mates, a smashing Patho western story, will be the added feature on tomorrow night's big program, with Wally Wales essaying his famous exploits of the great open spaces. Saddle Mates is indeed one of the fastest moving western stories brought to a local screen in many weeks.

Breed Theatre.

With everything in the world that goes with happiness—wealth, a beautiful and devoted wife; a respected pillar of the community—yet Charlie Cook in Fox Films Red Wine, sought new thrills.

What he found in the way of thrills and his reaction thereto forms the basis of the most hilarious farce that has come to town recently. The picture opens tomorrow night at the Breed theatre, with Conrad Nagel in the leading role.

The beautiful wife in the picture happens to be June Collyer, one of the big bets of the Fox studio. The chief vamp is Sharon Lynn, with the eyes that won't behave. The man who led the hero, Conrad Nagel, astray, is portrayed by that excellent trouper, Arthur Stone.

The background of the story, which was written by Raymond Cannon and directed by him, is night life as it is lived in these gay days of the Eighteenth Amendment. It dazzles and scintillates.

Palace Theatre.

The vaudeville program which comes to a close today is one worth while seeing. The headline act, Realm of Beauty, one of Jack De Sylva's productions, boasts of eight beautiful girls and two men in a singing and dancing revue. Bert Marks and Co. in landslide laughs; Bertrand and Raymond in nothing but nonsense; Elsie and Pansie in a few musical moments and Jimmy Fletcher in a de luxe novelty.

An exceptionally strong cast has been assembled for Columbia's Sinners' Parade, which closes at the Palace theatre today. The list includes Victor Varconi, who will be remembered for his work in Triumph, The Volga Boatman, The King of Kings, and The Divine Lady. Dorothy Revier, who achieved screen triumph in The Warning, and Submarine. John Patrick, a screen favorite; Marjorie Horner, whose roles in The Ancient Highway, Made to Order Fero, Poor Girls, Sally, and Paying the Price, have won for her a large following, and Clarissa Selwynne.

The production has been made an elaborate scale under the direction of John G. Adolfi. The action takes place in a night club, showing among other things the sensational Chicken a la King number, in which Dorothy Revier is borne before the assembled throng reclining a la nude on a silver platter. Other highlights show a raid pulled by the clean-up squad; a sensational courtroom scene following the raid and the manner in which spicy newspaper stories are batched.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre.

The coming of Fannie Brice is always an event in the entertainment world! And now that unique persons comes in quite another medium—the motion picture — her first!

It is My Man, a Warner Bros. Special Production, being built around the vaudeville sketch which Fannie has made famous everywhere in revues and on the vaudeville stage.

If the screen story portrays a less brutal lover than the sketch, it reveals a human story of tremendous heart appeal. Fannie, homemaker for a brazen younger sister and a small brother, works in a theatrical costume factory and, on the way to work, one day, spies a husky youth demonstrating an exercising apparatus in a drug store window.

How Fannie finds him later, down and out, and reduced to the extremity of foraging for food in her kitchen; how she forgives and feeds him, and in time feels the first stirrings of love; how he promises to marry her and later falls for the schemes of the heartless younger sister; how Fannie, bereft, decides to act for the sake of her little brother, and wins fame—building it on defeat—makes a story that no one can see without emotion—a story that is unforgettable.

Fannie Brice, like all great comediennes, has not only the ability to reach the source of laughter, but of tears. She is magnificent as the heroine of the glamorous play which ranges from tenement to glittering Broadway—and—she does all those sketches which have endeared her to the world—and earned for her the title of our greatest comedienne.

The story was written by Mark Canfield and adapted for the screen by Robert Lord. The supporting cast includes Guinn William, Edna Murphy, Andre de Segurola, Richard Tucker, Billy Seay, Arthur Hoyt, Ann Brody and Clarissa Selwynne. Archie L. Mayo directed.

No lover of drama or of fun should miss seeing Fannie Brice in My Man. At the Broadway theatre for four days starting tomorrow.

In addition to the outstanding feature the Broadway will present the first all talking comedy by Mack Sennett, featuring Johnny Burke, Daphne Pollard and Billy Bevan, in The Lion's Roar.

The most of our mistakes come from being in a hurry.

BILL PROPOSES SCHOOL YEAR OF 190 DAYS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

HARTFORD, Feb. 15—A school year of 190 days is provided for in the proposed revision of the Connecticut school laws now before the general assembly. The present law requires 38 weeks of school and with omission of school days due to holidays and other causes the net school year in most towns is about 184 days. The state board of education, which is supporting the measure, feels that with the increasing sums being spent on school plants and teaching personnel and with the enriched curriculum offered, that the best interests of pupil and the public are served by a lengthening of the compulsory school year. The proposed revision would fix a minimum school year whereas the present law, providing that schools shall be open 38 weeks permits wide variation from year to year as a week might include from one to five school days.

Another interesting provision in the proposed code is that giving the state board of education authority to grant such degrees, exclusive of honorary degrees, as are usually granted in colleges of education. This proposal is intended to aid many hundreds of teachers in the state. These teachers are accumulating academic credit by taking professional courses either at summer schools or during the school year. Fully 600 Connecticut teachers take courses at Yale each year. Few colleges will give a student a degree who has not been in residence for a much longer period than is possible for most teachers.

Furthermore, there is no college in Connecticut giving the professional courses that in-service teachers desire that will grant a bachelor's degree to a woman.

And so these teachers, under the proposed plan, would earn their credits at recognized institutions and when, with their normal school credits they had met prescribed standards, the state board of education would confer the degree of bachelor of education.

A high school education and free text books are made rights rather than privileges under other sections of the bill. The present law says that a town "may" provide high school opportunity. The revision substitutes the word "shall" as it is felt that secondary school education is now really the right of any boy or girl in the state mentally equipped for it. The section requiring free text books will affect only a few towns, and the high school section fewer. And as regards text books, it is pointed out that under this revision high as well as elementary school texts would be free to the pupil.

Several sections of the revision pertain to the towns having school districts. There is one provision that district superintendents shall have the same rights as town superintendents now have in regard to nomination of all teachers, these nominations to be accepted or rejected within a month. Another section refers to the fact that previous to 1909, by voluntary action, 104 towns had consolidated their school districts. The proposed revision would take from these towns the right to return to the district system, placing them in the same status as the towns that were consolidated by legislative act in 1909.

In speaking of the proposed revision of the school laws, State Education Commissioner Albert B. Meredith said today that there has been an attempt to effect simplicity and directness so that the laws may be easily read by a lay person. The term "board of education" would be established as the name of the body having charge of local schools, "committee" being eliminated except as regards school districts. Many of the school laws enacted from time to time have provided for specific penalties for violations. Most of these have been eliminated as the general law covering violation of school statutes is considered adequate in most cases.

NORWICH TOWN

NEW LONDON SPEAKERS ADDRESS SCOUT TROOP 2

It would be hard to find a more interested group of Boy Scouts than listened Friday night to the most interesting and instructive talk given by Scout Executive Frederick E. Burdick, of the New London council. The talk was before the Scouts of Troop 2 connected with the Norwich Town Methodist Episcopal church at their weekly meeting. The Scoutmaster, Rev. George Warren Potter, in his introduction, told of his long and happy experience with Mr. Burdick in Scout work when he was the scoutmaster of Troop 1, Niantic. The things Executive Burdick could do with a rope in the line of regular and trick knots was a revelation to the Scouts and the boys gave him a most enthusiastic Scout cheer at the close of his talk. The meeting opened with the usual ceremony of Scouts. The inspection was by Assistant Scoutmaster Ralph Smith, who led the Scouts in a song period.

Scoutmaster Potter announced that all the Scouts would be given a chance Saturday afternoon to try out for their test in Scouts' pace. He also announced that the troop was to meet and go in a body to the Mason monument where they were to place a wreath.

In the efficiency contest Clayton Rose leads, with a score of 833 points, Patrol Leader Waterman is second with 785 and Arthur Bennett is third with 770. Alonzo Burgess, scoutmaster of Troop 5, New London, gave the Scouts a talk in which he said he thought any troop in New London would be glad to exchange its place of meeting with Troop 2, Norwich Town, as he considered it an ideal Scout room. Henry Douglas, also of New London, who served a number of years in Boy Scout work and Y. M. C. A. work, gave the Scouts an interesting talk. Mr. Douglas was the first scoutmaster in New London. Carlyle Burdick, a son of Executive Burdick, gave a most interesting demonstration of friction fire lighting. The party from New London came in Mr. Burdick's machine and left after 9.

Famous food scientist urges sugar in diet

"Make your foods more palatable," he suggests

WE RECENTLY went to one of the country's great universities and asked an eminent food scientist his ideas about sugar in the diet. "Sugar is the most inexpensive condimental food in the world," he said.

Then he went on to explain what he meant in detail. "Sugar makes the diet more palatable," he said. "Sugar is Nature's incomparable flavor. Sugar is one thing that makes the daily dullness of our overly refined foods endurable. Another thing, it is wholesome. Another thing, it is inexpensive."

This famous man has hit it. Sugar is perfection in sweetness. It is the ideal flavor—also a food.

Think of how good foods are made delightful to the taste by the addition of sugar. What could be better for us than grapefruit, apple sauce, cranberry sauce, baked apples or stewed dried fruits of all kinds, fresh or canned berry pies, cereals, jellies and jams? All of these are examples of excellent foods full of minerals, vitamins and other health elements made delightful to the taste by the addition of sugar.

Sugar in connection with cocoa or chocolate can make milk into a delicious beverage for thousands of children and adults, who find milk more tasteful when sweetened. The flavors of nearly all vegetables are improved in the cooking by the addition of sugar.

There is no substitute for sugar in good cookery. The sugar way is the happy way. The Sugar Institute.

Alder Buds

Why should the perfume of the alder buds
Hold more enchantment than a lilac bloom?
Why should it stir that sense of wild, sweet freedom?
Gypsy born, one with the wind and sky
I walk unbound
It tells me, and has told me many years
When Fundy's rocky shores are drawing near;
See, how the pointed spruces separate
To wider aisles for passage of sea-winds
Through pasture hummocks shorn so clean and round;
And see the small white house, snugly neat,
Its narrow gravel walk, shell rimmed
Leading up from a whalebone gate
Into a homely garden of sweet thyme
And hops and dahlias indiscriminate.

Oh, lovely is the color of the sea
Upon the clean approach of these sound hills,
Sweet with the strong sweep of salt sea winds;
The charm of little houses, and the allure
Of deep enchantment from the alder buds.

Ruth

She stood breast high among the corn,
Clasped by the golden light of morn,
Like the sweetheart of the sun,
Who many a glowing kiss had won.

On her cheek an autumn flush,
Deeply ripened;—such a blush
In the midst of brown was born,
Like red poppies grown with corn.

Round her eyes her tresses fell,
Which were blackest none could tell,
But long lashes veiled a light,
That had also been all too bright.

And her hat, with shady brim,
Made her tressy forehead dim;
Thus she stood amid the stooks,
Praising God with sweetest looks.

Sure, I said, Heaven did not mean,
Where I reap thou shouldst but glean;
Lay thy sheaf adown and come,
Share my harvest and my home.

—Thomas Hood.

There are many ways of catching fish, but one of the quaintest methods is that revealed by natives to the administrator of New Guinea (Brigadier General Wisdom) on a tour of the territory. At Hetan the natives gave an exhibition of kite fishing for gars. The kites, constructed of pandanus leaf, and shaped like huge birds, are flown from canoes, the motion of which makes the kites' tails skip along the surface of the water. A "spider's" web is attached in which the fish become entangled. Often 50 fish are caught with one kite in a day. The natives also stupefy fish with drugs.

SON OF OIL MAGNATE DOHENY SHOT TO DEATH IN HIS HOME

E. L. Doheny, Jr., 36, Was Slain in Beverly Hills, Cal., by Hugh Plunkett, Who Killed Himself Later—Plunkett Had Been Confidential Secretary For Doheny For Fifteen Years—He Had Suffered Six Weeks From Nervous Collapse and Probably Had Lost His Mind

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 17—(AP)—Edward Lawrence Doheny, Jr., son of the oil magnate, and Hugh Plunkett, his confidential secretary for the last fifteen years were found shot to death in the mansion of Doheny Jr., at Beverly Hills today. Officials said Plunkett shot the oil man and fired a bullet into his own body when a physician rapped for admittance to the room.

District Attorney Bugon Fitts, Coroner Frank Nance and Dr. E. C. Fishbaugh, Doheny family physician, agreed today that Plunkett probably lost his ming, shot Doheny and when trapped by the arrival of the physician, committee suicide.

Dr. Fishbaugh, who had attended Plunkett during the last six weeks for a nervous collapse, was summoned by Doheny shortly before midnight to come to the Doheny home, where Plunkett was in conference with the 36 year old millionaire.

Twenty minutes later, the physician told police, Mrs. Doheny admitted him to the home. She was agitated saying that Plunkett evidently had become insane. Together they went toward a bedroom where Plunkett and Doheny were talking.

Plunkett came out of the room, shouting "Stay out of here," the doctor said, and ran back closing the door. Then a shot was heard.

The doctor entered and found Doheny dead with a bullet in his temple and Plunkett sprawled lifelessly on the floor with the gun beneath him.

According to the elder Doheny, Plunkett had been a close friend of the dead man.

Doheny, Jr., is survived by his parents, his widow, and five children. He was prominent in financial circles of Southern California and in the petroleum industry of the nation. With his father, the victim of the shooting had figured in the sensational investigation of the Teapot Dome oil lease scandal. At one time he was indicted, but the charge was dismissed in order that he might appear as a government witness, but he never was called.

Dr. Fishbaugh said that Plunkett under the weight of business and a private worry which he had never disclosed, had been in a highly nervous condition for more than a year. Recently there was indication that the secretary had undergone a mental derangement and only yesterday Doheny, Jr., and Dr. Fishbaugh attempted to obtain Plunkett's consent to go to a sanitarium, the doctor added.

Mrs. Doheny said that she did not hear the shot which killed her husband. Today Mrs. Doheny and E. L. Doheny, Sr., were confined to rooms in the home of the slain man under the care of Dr. Fishbaugh, who said that both had collapsed and Doheny, Sr., was in a serious condition.

LOUISIANA OFFICIALS IN POLITICAL CONTROVERSY

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 17—(AP)—Political interest in Louisiana centered tonight on a reply expected tomorrow from Colonel Robert Ewing to the suggestion by Governor Huey P. Long that the colonel resign his position as democratic national committeeman "or else give up his efforts to shield murderers and habitues of the rogues' gallery."

The controversy between the two men, both politically powerful in Louisiana and until recently close friends, was without incident today. Friends of the colonel said he would issue a reply tomorrow to the governor's statement.

Governor Long, in his statement issued last night at Baton Rouge, assailed the attitude of the New Orleans States, published by Colonel Ewing, toward gambling raids here Wednesday night which were ordered by the governor and toward the executions of Mrs. Ada Bonner Lebouef and Dr. Thomas E. Dreher at Franklin Feb. 1.

After the gambling raids, the States carried a statement by Fred P. Kriss which criticized national guardsmen for searching him and having his wife searched when they were found in one of the places raided. A number of other persons also were searched.

Governor Long said that on the following morning the New Orleans Times Picayune carried a photograph of Mr. Kriss "taken from the Rogues' gallery of the New Orleans police department with the number assigned to the gentleman."

FOOD SHORTAGE IN COLO. SNOW-BOUND MINING TOWN

DURANGO, Colo., Feb. 17—(AP)—Relief from a food shortage that is rapidly becoming serious was in sight tonight for the isolated town of Silverton, Colo., as large forces of workers continued to cut through mountains of snow which have blockaded the once famous mining camp since Feb. 2.

Great avalanches which have buried the Denver & Rio Grande Western railroad tracks into the town under snow to a depth ranging from six to 80 feet are expected to be cleared away within three days to enable a train to pull into the town with food and commodities. A severe cold wave which followed the snow-slides in this vicinity froze the masses of snow, retarding the progress of shovelers.

Railroad officials expect to run the first train in two weeks into the snow-bound city, which has a population of 2,000, and to the mining camp of Eureka nearby, where miners and their families number over 500, before the supplies of butter, eggs and meat are completely exhausted.

The greatest obstacle in the way of the workers, the slide at Needleton, was penetrated yesterday. This slide buried the tracks under nearly 100 feet of snow over a half mile stretch.

A work train, equipped with a large rotary plow, left here early today to buck numerous smaller slides in the vicinity beyond Needleton.

IMPORTANT EVENTS EXPECTED IN SPAIN

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Feb. 17—(AP)—Events of importance in Spain are expected during the coming year. If General Primo de Rivera does not decide to leave the premiership of the civil dictatorship it is supposed that he will introduce modifications in the form of government and give more liberty to the Spanish press to comment on the situation.

His action in suspending the full sitting of the national assembly which had been arranged for the end of February and the fact that he is not giving out any semi-official communiques increases the opinion that he is prepared to retire from the office in which he has ruled Spain for more than five years.

BREAK OF COLD WEATHER IN EUROPE EXPECTED

LONDON, Feb. 17—(AP)—The indications today both in Britain and in the continent were for a slighty relding in the Arctic severity of the weather but not of an extent to alleviate greatly the suffering of populations for some time to come. In Poland a fierce snow storm had succeeded the severe cold and created a new catastrophe, railway communication continued disorganized, especially in Eastern Galicia where entire districts were cut off. The city of Tarnopol has been able to communicate with the outside world only through radio since a week ago Saturday. The government has organized a system of communication by sleighs from village to village through the district.

"Padnsay O. K.," Capt. Rind's message read, "proceeding to destination."

Officers of the line said that no further report was expected and in shipping circles it was believed that the crew of the Padnsay had been able to repair the damage to the ship's steering gear.

Shirah and his companion had put off from Miami, Fla., to go fishing. When 15 miles out, their engine balked. Without food or water they drifted for more than two days and nights up the coast. The wind and waves drove them 70 miles but never near enough to shore to attrack attention. Finally, on Wednesday, the San Benito, bound for Boston from Tela, Honduras, sighted them and picked them up.

Report Of National Crime Commission

Jails and Other Penal Institutions Are Severely Criticised — Recommendations Made.

NEW YORK, Feb. 17—(AP)—Severely criticising jails and other local penal institutions throughout the country, a committee of the National Crime commission, in a report made public today, recommended that the "individual states should take over the care of all their convicted prisoners."

The sub-committee, headed by Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois, reported that nearly nine-tenths of all commitments are made to local institutions such as county and municipal jails, workhouses, farms, chain gangs and camps, and charged that these constitute "a penal institution hoary with the age of centuries, an institution which England abandoned over 50 years ago."

The report listed the "distinguishing features" of the ordinary jail as: "Filth, the herding together of convicted criminals and persons awaiting trial, the mingling of well and foully diseased individuals, the close association of young and old offenders, the prevalence of bedbugs and lice, universal idleness, the prevailing practice of subjecting women prisoners to the oversight of male attendants, and the scheme which one finds in many states of paying the jailer a per diem sum for boarding each prisoner without specifying how much, or shall we say how little, food is given to him."

In support of its claims the committee cited the testimony of individuals and excerpts from official reports from several of the states and declared that "we have been informed by many reliable persons that they represent a fair picture of at least 85 per cent of the jails and other local institutions as they are today." It declared that as units of prison administration counties and municipalities are too small; that only under full state control can prisoners be freely shifted to the particular institution best suited to their needs, and that "the state is in a better position to make the ideas and the ideals of the few persons competent in these matters serve the entire community."

"The plan we offer for the remedying of this evil situation," the report continued, "is of a two-fold character involving, on the one hand, a strengthening of state control and on the other a building up of county and municipal machinery."

Recognizing that certain difficulties exist in the way of a realization of its program, the committee suggested that there are several ways in which to begin.

"If a state cannot afford," it said "to embark on the policy of creating a sufficient number of institutions to care for all misdemeanant prisoners, it should establish one for a selected group, making the selection not according to the crime, nor the length of sentence, but preferably on the basis of personality."

It stated that the load on local prisons could be lightened to the extent of 28 per cent through the building up of probation agencies and systems for the collection of fines; that the form of sentence should vary with the type of offender; and that the state should care for all convicted misdemeanants in need of institutional treatment.

The report was signed by the secretary of the committee, Louis N. Robinson, noted economist and criminologist. Other members of the committee are: Arnold Bennett Hall, Mrs. Jessie D Hodder, Clark Howell, Sam A. Lewisohn, Sumner T. McKnight, George L. Radcliffe and Charles S. Whitman.

H., Feb. 17—(AP)—Mrs. Eliza Jane Gould, who will celebrate her 95th birthday here tomorrow, today attributed her position as the oldest living resident of this town to a pipe a day since she was 12 years old. "My late husband never smoked," she said, "and he opposed my doing so. He used to hide my tobacco and break my pipes, but he finally gave it up when he found out he couldn't boss me, here's pleasure in a pipe."

Senator Bingham Insulted By Heflin

No More Insulting and Unwarranted Words Were Ever Uttered in the U. S. Senate.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 17—No more insulting and unwarranted words were ever uttered in the United States senate than those which Senator Heflin of Alabama flung at Senator Bingham late Saturday afternoon, during one of Heflin's harangues against the church pennant of the navy.

After continued accusations and false statements by Heflin in which he made serious charges against both church and Roman Catholic nations, Senator Bingham rose and made an eloquent concise and dignified plea that no speeches be made in the senate that tend to "stir up religious hatred." In an instant Heflin fired vicious and coarse shots at Connecticut's senator and newspapers and political writers not agreeing with him. Two examples out of the great number of similar utterances show the trend of Heflin's attacks. Referring to Senator Bingham Heflin shouted "nobody but a puny political weakling would say such things. You ought to put a bonnet and apron on him and make him queen of the festival." Then he turned his attention to newspapers and their correspondents in Washington. Referring by name to one of the ablest and most distinguished political writers here Heflin described him as a "little pudding headed mush mouthed pen pusher." He challenged Senator Bingham to meet him in debate, but the Connecticut senator ignored with calm dignity both the insulting personal attack and the "challenge" of the raging roaring Alabamian, who jumped up and down and appealed to both "Almighty God" and the crowded galleries to back up his statements. At the close of the incident Senator Bingham was surrounded by colleagues who warmly congratulated him, but Heflin was entirely left alone, not one senator approaching him as he took his seat.

JUANITA JACKSON HAS RETAINED COUNSEL TO PROTECT HER INTERESTS

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 17—(AP)—Fearing the insurance company which insured her father or mother, will refuse to pay on the policy because of the circumstances of their deaths, Miss Juanita Jackson, 24, daughter of County Detective William E. Jackson who was slain in the kitchen of his home several weeks ago, and of Mrs. Gertrude Jackson, who committed suicide last week, announced tonight she had retained a counsel to "protect my interests."

Both she and the counsel, Arthur T. Kelley, refused to discuss the matter further, though they indicated they expected a legal battle over the insurance. While admitting there was a policy, for $5,500, Miss Jackson refused to say which parent had left it. It became known tonight there was also a will left, but informants refused to say or did not know, whether it was the detective or his widow who had made it.

After making a short announcement of her retention of Kelley, Miss Jackson withdrew into her home, and Patrolman Pierre Marrotte, who has been on duty to guard it against the curious, ordered questioners away. The patrolman had another busy Sunday keeping the curious from the home. Several hundred persons came in cars bearing New York, Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Maine licenses, stopped in front of the Jackson home, went to the home of Trenor A. Rice, deputy sheriff and former constable, who is in jail charged with the detective's murder, and to the new grave into which Mrs. Jackson was laid yesterday and to the grave, nearby, of her slain husband. So great was the crowd at the cemetery that a state policeman was ordered there to keep order.

DEBATE IN SENATE TODAY WILL BE ON PROHIBITION

The Prohibition Law Was Scathingly Denounced Saturday by Senator Reed of Missouri—It is Expected Senator Borah Will Defend the Law Today—Debate Will Be on the Jones Bill Increasing the Maximum Penalties For Dry Law Violations to $10,000 Fines and Five Years' Imprisonment, or Both.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17—(AP)—In the crowded closing hours of the session, congress starts work tomorrow to wind up the Coolidge administration.

There is the navy department appropriation bill, carrying the funds for starting the new cruiser program; the bill extending the life of the radio commission for another year; the measure for reapportionment of the house and a half a dozen important nominations demanding the time of the final two weeks.

But before all this gets under way the senate tomorrow will hear a revival of the prohibition debate which gained impetus on Saturday from a scathing attack on the dry law by the retiring Senator Reed, of Missouri. Reed's attack aroused the great dry champion, Senator Borah, of Idaho, and the senate lifted the lid on debate to allow its two premier orators an opportunity to do battle tomorrow.

The bill of Senator Jones, republican, Washington, increasing the maximum penalties for dry law violations to $10,000 fines and five years imprisonment or both is the vehicle for the prohibition oratory. The senate had agreed to restrict debate after 3 p. m. Saturday but, when the veteran Missourian got into action in one of his fiery harangues, the senate did what it has rarely done before—waived the debate limitation. Senator Borah, a dry, asked it. The lid goes on again tomorrow, however, at 4 p. m., and a vote on this bill is then in order.

With the prohibition measure out of the way, the senate will turn to the resolution of Senator Edge, republican, New Jersey, authorizing a survey of a Nicaraguan canal linking the Pacific and the Atlantic oceans. Then comes a bill fixing a marketing site for the District of Columbia.

On Tuesday, the senate will have its first night meeting of the session. It will take up then the bill of Senator Watson, republican, Indiana, extending the radio commission for another year. Despite the usual legislative jam of the short session, Senator Curtis, of Kansas, the republican leader, has ironed out things so well so far that this is the first time the senate has had to resort to a night meeting.

Hanging over the senate also is the approach of a final report by the special investigating committee on the campaign expenditures of Senator-elect Vare, republican, Pennsylvania. Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, the chairman of the committee, is anxious to get a final report to the senate before he retires on March 4. On the basis of his preliminary report, the senate last year declined to administer the oath of office to Vare.

Senator Vandenberg, republican, Michigan, is pressing for a vote on the bill reapportioning the house membership on the basis of the 1930 census but threats of opposition are beginning to make its future somewhat doubtful. He lost by a two to one vote in an effort last week to have the bill taken up out of order.

Half a dozen Coolidge nominations also are still hanging fire with the prospects growing dimmer each day for their approval. Unless they are confirmed before March 4 the nominations die. Among those awaiting consideration are the nominations of Cyril M. Jansky, of Minnesota, and Arthur Batcheller, of Massachusetts, to be members of the radio commission; Irving Lenroot, former senator from Wisconsin, and Representative Finis Garrett, of Tenn., the retiring democratic leader in the house, to be members of the court of customs appeals; Henry Glassie, former democratic member of the tariff commission, to be a judge on the District of Columbia supreme court; and Pat Neff, former governor of Texas, to be reappointed a member of the railway board of mediation.

Leaders are prepared to sacrifice everything to gain final action on the appropriation bills. The house has passed all of these measures except a second deficiency bill. The senate has passed all but two. However, several are still in conference for adjustment of differences between the senate and house and facing stubborn contests.

On the basis of the new treasury department recommendation for an increase of $2,500,000 for prohibition enforcement, leaders hope to work out a compromise between the deadlocked senate and house over the proposal of Senator Harris, democrat, Georgia, for a $24,000,000 increase in prohibition funds.

The resolution of Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, to censure the interior and justice departments for the handling of the Sinclair contract for Salt Creek royalty oil, which was renewed a year ago and then cancelled after a five months' investigation by the department of justice, has been relegated to the calendar in the senate. Prospects for a final vote on it are diminishing.

DEATH OF REPRESENTATIVE EDWARD J. KING OF ILLINOIS

Representative King had been in ill health for several months but his condition had not aroused any alarm until about two weeks ago when he was forced to remain at home. His recovery, however, had been hoped for until he suffered a sudden relapse yesterday.

His widow, Mrs. Marguerite M. King, was at his bedside at the time of his death. His body was taken to his home at Galesburg, Ills., tonight. Funeral services will be held there Tuesday afternoon. His widow accompanied the body.

Representative King, a republican had served in the house since the 64th congress in 1915 and was re-elected to the 71st congress last fall. He was a member of the house banking and currency committee.

TO PRINT HISTORY OF ALBANY BASEBALL POOL

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 17—(AP)—The Albany Knickerbocker Press in the first of a series of copyrighted articles appearing in its Monday editions will begin what the paper declares to be "the inside story of the Albany baseball pool."

The article and succeeding ones will trace, the paper will say, the pool's history from its inception as a "baby idea" to its climax as "America's greatest individual gambling racket," when $35,000,000 was involved.

The pool got its start, the first article will say, as a modest venture among printers in the printing plant of the J. B. Lyon company here in 1906. There was "no great system to it." A printer chipped in his dollar, betting it against the dollars of his fellow workers that the baseball teams he would draw would score more runs in the week than the teams of any other.

All consulate servants have been barred from the wing of the vast building where he and his small entourage remain hidden. The public has thus been prevented from gaining any news of the captivity of the former soviet war lord.

LIQUOR TRAFFIC CAUSE OF SLAYINGS IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Feb. 17—(AP)—International liquor traffic, in the opinion of Chicago prosecutors, holds the secret of the St. Valentine's day massacre of seven Chicago gangsters.

This theory stood out most prominently today as officers continued a fruitless search for the killers in the belief that the massacre was the culminating act of a series of bombings and hi-jackings in a liquor war between Canadian importing syndicates that had the wholesale market of Chicago as its prize.

"We are looking to Detroit for solution of the seven George Moran gang murders," one of the prosecutors said, following a secret conference with Detroit policemen, adding that arrests were expected momentarily.

Photographs of sixteen members of the "Purple gang" of Detroit were in possession of Chicago police, but David Stansbury, assistant state's attorney, said none had been identified by witnesses who saw the slayers flee from the garage where the killings took place.

Three members of this gang, believed by police to have rented rooms opposite the garage to act as lookouts awaiting a favorable moment to order out the firing squad that shot the Moran men down, were being sought.

Moran himself, however, sent word to Chief of Detectives Egan that he did not know and could not guess the identity of the killers.

"We don't know what brought it on," Moran was quoted as saying. "We're facing an enemy in the dark."

COAL MINERS OF WALES REPORTED WITHOUT FUEL

CARDIFF, Wales, Feb. 17—(AP)—Although the intensely cold weather in Great Britain has created a keen demand for coal with more activity in the fields and stiffening of prices, South Wales has been able to take but little advantage owing to the weather conditions.

Thousands of miners families in the great South Wales coal fields are shivering before fireless hearths in homes built above some of the richest seams of coal in the world. The Arctic wave has isolated numerous mining townships in the lonely mountains. Food supplies have been held up and the poverty stricken people have been denied warmth and the bare necessities.

Miners, who have been unemployed for years, had managed to keep their home fires going with coal dug from colliery tips but now these are buried under six and eight feet of snow. The miners have torn down bill boards for fuel.

Simple Funeral Services Are Held For Mrs. Jackson in Willimantic Cemetery

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 17—The note of interest over the week-end in the melodramatic events that have transpired since the murder of County Detective William E. Jackson at his home on Quarry street the night of January 29, was the funeral today of his widow Mrs. Gertrude Tracy Jackson who committed suicide at the Quarry street home last Wednesday.

Preparations for the funeral had been held under a cloak of secrecy in the hope of dodging newspapermen and the curious. Saturday forenoon at 10:30 o'clock private services were held at the home with Rev. Walter F. Borchert of Edgewood, R. I., former rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church here and close friend of the family, officiating. Following the brief house service the small group of relatives and intimate friends formed a cortege which consisted of but three automobiles bearing the mourners and bearers. This was in marked contrast to the line of cars, over one and a half miles long that followed the body of Detective Jackson from his home to the cemetery two weeks ago Saturday.

At the cemetery a large tent had been erected over the burial plot and it was within the privacy of this canvass that Rev. Mr. Borchert read a brief committal prayer. The bearers were: Maurice S. Leonard and Merton A. Andrews, intimate friends of the family; Rowe H. Wheeler of Monson, Mass., one of the investigators into the murder of Detective Jackson; Officers Albert Montie and James Kearns of the Willimantic police department and James Osten of Norwich, a brother-in-law of the slain officer.

Occupying the other two cars were: Miss Juanita Jackson, now the lone survivor of the family; her companion Mrs. Merton Andrews; Mrs. Nellie F. Brown, mother of Mrs. Andrews and business partner of Miss Jackson; Mrs. Cora Thorne of Hartford, sister of the dead woman and Rev. Mr. Borchert. Juanita kept her face well covered with a heavy fur collar. There was but a small group of spectators at the cemetery during the funeral but Saturday afternoon and all day today hundreds of people passed by the grave. The crowds were attracted by the unusual circumstances under which the woman had been buried. She now reposes in eternal rest near the body of her husband for whose slaying she attempted to assume responsibility in a note left on her person when she took her life by firing a .32 calibre rifle bullet into her heart Wednesday afternoon. She stood beside the same burial plot just two weeks to a day prior to her own interment, then in the role of a mourner at her husband's funeral. The Jacksons had been married for 26 years and two children had been borne to them. William T. Jackson, who died in 1926 at the age of 19 years and Juanita who is now orphaned by the violent deaths of her mother and father. Following the services a number of floral tributes were arranged over the newly-filled grave. They established a sharp contract to the fading colors of scores of floral pieces banking the grave of the slain detective, and which are now almost completely withered. Soon, now, the engraver will carve on the headstone beneath the names of William E. Jackson and his wife, Gertrude Belle Jackson the simple conclusion to their epitaphs, "Died January 29, 1929" and then, "Died, February 13, 1929." But few in the next generation will know of the momentous part these two deaths played in life's tragic play.

Rice to Be Tried in April

Trenor A. Rice, who is being held under indictment at the county jail in Brooklyn and whom Mrs. Jackson attempted to set free of the murder charge in her written ante-mortem statements will be arraigned at the April term of the Windham county superior court scheduled to be held in this city. It was indicated over the week end. The April term is scheduled to convene in this city with Judge L. P. Waldo Marvin on the bench. The notes left by Mrs. Jackson continue to remain in the possession of Coroner Arthur G. Bill who has been ordered not to release their contents by County Detective Edward J. Hickey and State's Attorney Howard C. Bradford. Coroner Bill is understood to be willing to give the notes out for publication in his belief that their contents would not be harmful to the state's evidence insofar as he knew it to be. He stated that he did not intend to incorporate the notes in his findings of the cause of the murder of Detective Jackson. This is probably based on the grounds that the notes were not written under oath and in view of this would not be admissable as testimony in an inquest.

Juanita Jackson remained at her home today in company with Mrs. Andrews. An officer from the police department continues on duty. Officer Pierre Marrotte on day duty and Officer Leo Piche guarding the house at night. County Detective Edward J. Hickey with Officers Arthur Hurley and Rowe Wheeler were in this city today and visited at the Jackson home.

RHODE ISLAND DRIVER FREED OF RECKLESS DRIVING CHARGE

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 17—The incidents relative to the death of Congetta, nine year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rompullo of 20 Mansfield avenue as a result of being struck by a truck on Main street, Sunday, October 14, were recalled here Saturday when Leander H. Sherman of Bridgeton, R. I., driver of the truck, was arraigned in police court. Sherman was presented on a charge of reckless driving to which he pleaded not guilty after waiving reading of the complaint. The testimony of several witnesses was heard after which Judge Frank H. Foss found the accused not guilty and ordered the case discharged. Sherman was represented by Attorney Irving H. Miron and Judge M. H. Geissler of Putnam while Prosecuting Attorney Harry S. Gaucher appeared for the state.

An inquest conducted into the death of the little girl by Coroner Arthur G. Bill failed to show Sherman as having been criminally responsible for the accident. The accident occurred about 8:30 o'clock on the morning of October 14. Sherman was driving a truck in which were three race horses which he was transferring from the fair at Stafford Springs to Rhode Island. Stephen Cannon of Waltham, Mass., was riding with Sherman at the time. The child died in St. Joseph's hospital a few hours after the accident and Sherman was placed under bonds on a technical charge of manslaughter.

The testimony of the majority of the witnesses tended to show that Sherman had done everything possible to avoid striking the child. The girl had left a group of other children and started across Main street, practically running into the right front wheel of the truck. Harry H. Dumas of 165 Mansfield avenue testified to taking the child to the hospital. He believed that Sherman had made every effort to avoid an accident. Paul Fontaine of 36 Pleasant street corroborated Dumas' testimony. Daniel Pompie of 19 High street, another eyewitness, said that the truck was traveling at better than 25 miles an hour as it came down the street. Mary Sagal of 14 Mansfield avenue said that she was one of the three children accompanying the Rompullo girl. Witness said that upon stepping from the curb she saw the approaching truck and grasped the hand of the other two and succeeded in detaining them but the Rompullo girl continued across the street in a diagonal direction. Police Officer Roderick Lariviere testified as to the investigation which he made of the accident.

A group of six college students were evicted from the Capitol theater during Friday evening's vaudeville performance as the result of one of the most uncouth attempts at humor ever seen here. The youths occupied front row seats and were apparently determined to give the show a good "razz." The usher had occasion to caution them during the second act of vaudeville. During the fourth act, while the performers stood in the spotlight, a dead rat was thrown on the stage, the animal striking one of the actors. It was only through the intercession of Manager George A. Bartlett, who is ever solicitous of the good will of his patrons that the students were not arrested as well as evicted from the theatre, by Officer F. Rudolph Laramee.

Two Chimney Fires

The Westerly fire department was called out for two chimney fires Saturday night, the flames being extinguished without loss. The first alarm was about 6:30, No. 33 for outside the Westerly fire district, a fire in the chimney of the farm house in District No. 6, owned and occupied by Charles Henry Crandall. A telephone call was sent to Fire Chief George E. Egger and he had telephone central ring in the alarm. Chief Egger, Engineer George McKenzie and members of Engine company, No. 1, with Seagraves pumper, were soon on their way to District No. 6 by way of Oak street. At the Crandall farm house they found a fire well under way in the chimney. The contents of the 80-gallon booster tank were used on the chimney and shingle roof to prevent the starting of a fire from sparks. At new fire station headquarters the recall for the first time from the fire station annunciator box was sounded at 7:23 by Chief Egger putting in the brass disc. At present Disc No. 33 (for a call out of the fire district) has not been received and alarms are best answered by calling telephone central.

The second call for a chimney fire came about a half hour after the firemen had returned from the Crandall farm and the same firemen went with their pumper to the house of Andrew S. Low, 3 Benefit street, off Cross street. It was not necessary for the firemen to use any of the apparatus and the flames were soon put out without damage resulting.

The station has housed Pawcatuck's fire fighters for half a century. Last December it was abandoned for the new station, located a few rods away on Liberty street. How many people you know end their colds with Bayer Aspirin? And how often you've heard of its prompt relief of sore throat or tonsilitis. No wonder millions take it for colds, neuralgia, rheumatism; and the aches and pains that go with them. The wonder is that anyone still worries through a winter without these tablets! REV. J. W. HASKELL RESIGNS AS KILLINGLY PASTOR

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 17—J. Wayne Haskell, associate to the pastor of the Westfield Congregational church, has tendered his resignation, effective March 1. Impending dissolution of such close relations as have existed for a number of years between the Westfield Congregational church of Danielson and the South Killingly Congregational church, both of which Mr. Haskell has served, is the reason for the resignation.

In his resignation Mr. Haskell says in part: To the Westfield and South Killingly Churches—Because of the desire of the Westfield church to sever relations with the South Killingly church, I present my resignation as director of religious education and superintendent of the church schools, to take effect March 1.

My annual report as superintendent of the Westfield church school, which was presented at the annual meeting last month, detailed the excellent condition of the Westfield church school at the present time. These details need not be repeated.

I have attempted to act as publicity director not only for the church, but for all the organizations connected with it. The preparation of the weekly calendar has received my best efforts, news has been supplied the newspapers, the members of the Men's club and Church Social council have been informed of the monthly meeting by postals, and the bulletin board in front of the church has carried its timely news.

The great increase in the use of the church plant has brought forth the monthly calendar of events, which shows at a glance the program for any given month.

The Week-day school of religious education is one of the important tasks of the Danielson federation. Since October, 1927, I have had charge of the Junior class. A more recent activity and one that promises to be very exciting as the weeks go on, is the newly formed basketball league. The results of the league have already been seen in church and church school attendance among the older boys.

In his resignation, Mr. Haskell reviews in detail the work done at South Killingly, and the activities there have been varied, including improvements to the church property and additions in equipment.

In closing Mr. Haskell says: If I may not seem too presuming, I should like to offer two words:

To those in South Killingly, a word of encouragement. The best days are ahead, and co-operation and work will build a fine community.

To the Westfield folks, a word of counsel. The many activities and church school are more than one man can handle. If these activities are to be continued, and they should be, your pastor will need your help. I urge upon you increased co-operation."

Tully, N. Y.—"It hurt me to walk or sit down without help and I felt sick and weak. My mother-in-law took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and she induced me to take it. I am now on the fourth bottle and have also used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. The medicines that will do for me what the Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash have done are certainly worth their weight in gold. I think I have given them a fair trial and I expect to take two more bottles of the Vegetable Compound."—MRS. CHARLES MORGAN, R. F. D. 1, Tully, N. Y.

ON TO WASHINGTON.

The departure today from his southern vacation grounds for Washington by Mr. Hoover indicates the approach of the change in administrations. Two weeks from today President Coolidge will complete his work at the white house and will depart from Washington for his home in Massachusetts. At the same time Herbert C. Hoover will be inaugurated president of the United States in keeping with the verdict of the people last November and will direct national affairs for the next four years.

His return to Washington will be the signal for new speculations both as to his policies in regard to various important questions and in regard to his cabinet members. Already there are reviews of what he has said and done concerning various matters being put forth as a speculative basis as to what his attitude may be expected to be after he is inaugurated.

What he has said during his campaign addresses, what he told to the people at various points in South America, what he has persistently advocated during his years in the cabinet can be expected to display his sentiments concerning such questions as are not altered by time and conditions. Mr. Hoover, like any other president, is bound to be governed by the character of legislation and the conditions which prevail at the time. Different conditions demand different treatment. If the situation a few years ago, which caused the establishment of a certain policy, has been so changed as to remove the objections that prevailed then, it is quite natural that it will be considered in its new and present aspect.

We have good reason to believe that Mr. Hoover will act only after careful consideration of all questions, that his cabinet selections will be for fitness and that even though there will be many important questions confronted during his term, questions of foreign as well as domestic importance, he can be relied upon to avoid snap judgment and accord them the deliberations of a master mind. In due time his views upon such matters will be fully set forth. Trying to guess what he is going to do gets us nowhere.

CLEANING UP CHICAGO.

In the wholesale gang murder Chicago sees sufficient cause for action. In other words it has waited until such a case forced it to action although more than 100 cases of a similar nature have plainly indicated what a deplorable situation existed.

A force of 5500 policemen, who have been fighting crime, vice and gambling, is now ordered to clean up the city and put an end to the gang warfare that has defied the police and to place a check upon the toleration that has been given to the violators of the dry law. At this 11th hour the authorities seem to be united in the belief that much if not all of the trouble has been the outcome of the lack of cooperation between the local and federal authorities. Chicago has maintained that it was the duty of the federal agents to enforce prohibition. It must have been obvious what that view was resulting in, and yet no effective change was made.

It is difficult to believe that conditions of that kind can exist and flourish without the sanction of those who are supposed to prevent it, and the general order which has been given to the police of that city to put an end to crime conditions and places where they breed, amounts to an admission of the fact that they exist and that inadequate measures have been attempted in the past.

Chicago has talked about being painted much blacker than it deserved concerning criminal conditions, it has occasionally served notice that all of the criminal class must get out of the city and it has indulged in threats which were intended to pacify the public but not endanger the underworld. It has gotten to the point where there must be a change. How seriously it sets about the house cleaning can be best determined by the results that are obtained.

With the city, state and federal authorities joining hands there is action which ought to have been undertaken a long time ago. When the police commissioner tells his men to clamp on the lid or go to jail he apparently knows the need of what he says and it will be interesting to note how he carries out his part of it. Cleaning up Chicago would not be such a hard job if it hadn't been neglected so long.

LIMITING CRUISERS.

In England as well as in this country there has been much talk in regard to cruiser construction. Efforts have been made to restrict it but without result. And yet there continues to be set forth the claim that Great Britain has it in mind to urge efforts in behalf of an understanding in regard to cruisers.

This would seem to indicate a recognition of the responsibility for the failure of the last conference with such an object in view, or it might be interpreted as an expression intended to give comfort to those in this country who were endeavoring to defeat the cruiser bill.

There is no doubt but what there is quite as much need for such an agreement among the leading nations today as there ever was. Japan is reported to be in favor of a restriction if the other nations are. It takes the position that the limitation of battleships has been beneficial and there is good reason for applying similar treatment to the cruisers.

The differences which prevailed between the attitude displayed by the representatives of this country and Great Britain at Geneva would have to be overcome. Should another attempt be made it seems probable that the British would send different representatives for unless they did or unless they showed a different disposition it would be entirely useless to think of another conference.

Under the claim that a communication may be sent to this country in April dealing with this matter, interest not only centers about the proposition that is made but the effect which it may be expected to have upon the general election which is due for England later in the spring. The question of naval armament has received much airing over there since the failure at Geneva and more especially since the much discussed and unsuccessful Anglo-French accord last year.

As has previously been declared, an agreement upon cruiser limitation among the nations is a desirable thing, but it doesn't appear that what action has been taken either here or in England concerning new cruisers has put any obstacles in the way of it. Rather, perhaps, has it emphasized the need of such an agreement.

RHODE ISLAND'S EXPERIENCE

Rhode Island is one of the states which is pointed to when reference is made to abolition of capital punishment. It was back in 1852 that capital punishment was abandoned there, but the substitution of life imprisonment has not met the situation as it should if we are to judge by the statement of Attorney General Sisson of Rhode Island when he appeared before the judiciary committee of the Massachusetts legislature, which is considering a bill for abolishing capital punishment in that state.

According to the Providence Bulletin he told that committee that if life imprisonment is to be substituted for the hangman's noose that it be life imprisonment in fact and not merely in theory, for the Bulletin declares that the abuse of the pardoning power can make futile any prison penalty for murder as that state's experience has clearly demonstrated. It then proceeds to show that of the 77 who had been sentenced to life imprisonment in Rhode Island up to two years ago 38 had been pardoned and only 19 of the 77 had actually remained in prison for life. Furthermore the records of that state show that the average term of the "lifer" was only 12 years.

Thus while Rhode Island's attorney general was appearing as an advocate of life imprisonment instead of capital punishment he was declaring against the conditions which really exist in his own state for what is regarded as life imprisonment isn't anything of the kind except in a few instances. The average term of 12 years for murder cannot be looked upon as offering very much in the way of a deterrent. That is where the joker lies in life imprisonment.

MELVILLE E. STONE.

An outstanding figure in journalism was Melville E. Stone. Not only was this because of the many years he was identified with it but because of his accomplishments. He began, like so many others, in a small way, encountered plenty of discouragements, became associated with those who also became leaders and displayed an alertness, understanding and ability that carried them to the front.

Not only did he vision the possibilities in the publishing field but he saw the benefits of the linotype long before it had been brought to perfection. Unfortunately he disposed of his interest, obtained when he secured considerable backing for Mergenthaler while he was working out his ideas, before he had the opportunity to profit as much as he would have later, but he was instrumental in giving it needed financial aid.

In view of his record and accomplishments it was a logical choice when he was selected as general manager of the Associated Press. It was at the time when it faced a struggle but that did not bother Mel Stone. Through successive steps, by the policies adopted and the methods employed the present great, cooperative news-gathering organization was placed on a solid foundation due in a great degree to his leadership and personality. It wasn't without competition but in spite of competition that he made it a success as a world wide news organization.

For 26 years he labored to this end with that same ceaseless effort as if it had been his personal business. It was a service in which he took sincere delight and interest, which did not cease when he retired eight years ago. Few know what the Associated Press owes to Melville E. Stone.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

That fellow who understands the Einstein theories must be sore to think he didn't discover them.

Can you imagine a fellow being happy at his salary because it is so small that he isn't obliged to pay an income tax?

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Potato chowder is a good hearty dish for lunch or supper.

Radishes and olives may be included with Mors d'oeuvres.

A boullion cube added to macaroni will give it a different taste.

Colored linens, china and glassware are used on modern tables.

The teeth of the comb for the hair should be fine, strong and rounded.

Artists' smocks make good work dresses for kitchen wear.

Allow a quarter of an hour to the pound when roasting or frying meat.

Simple cup custards may frequently be used for desser's if the flavor is varied.

Finely ground raisins and nuts, made into balls and rolled in sugar, are a delicious confection.

Scrubbing with dry mustard will remove the odor and taste from utensils in which strongly flavored foods have been cooked.

Mirror panels in the door make a great difference to a room, brightening and appearing to enlarge it.

To get rid of the disagreeable odor after peeling onions, rub the fingers with dry salt before washing the hands.

To make pink icing for cakes, scald the amount of cream needed to mix the icing and then add a small beet thinly sliced and bring to a boil.

Breadcrumbs are better for frying than crackercrumbs as they do not absorb as much fat and will brown more readily.

Shrimp timbales on buttered toast with Hollandaise sauce make a delightfully different change for the bridge club luncheon.

HANGING RACKS FOR KITCHENETTE

For the kitchenette, nothing could be more convenient than a square block, which hangs upon the wall and holds a dozen or more knives, forks, strainers, etc., in an orderly way.

BREAKFAST NOOK

If the breakfast nook or any other room in the house isn't sunny, what about making the spring curtains out of either yellow or apricot? Yellow glazed chintz piped in orange, or yellow or orange rayon for a living room or bedroom, will give an effect of cheer and sunshine, even when the sun is not present.

FOR THE BRIDE'S KITCHEN

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

To avoid the disagreeableness of having traces of cream and powder in the hair after a facial clean-up, it is well to bind over the hair a becoming wide band of flesh-colored rubber.

For treating wrinkles around the mouth, purse the lips and blowing hard, as though blowing out a candle flame. This is advisable only for early lines around the mouth. When the face is so old that a series of fine wrinkles are visible on the upper lip, running from the lip up to the nose and cheek, then this exercise is not advisable.

That there is a connection between the kind of food we eat and the condition of our teeth is a well known fact. Those foods that are richest in calcium or lime are necessary in the diet of growing children if enough of this element is to be provided to build strong teeth and bones. Milk, most of the green leafy vegetables, fruit juices, nuts and some of the other vegetables are the foods that should be used liberally. In order, however, for the body to make use of the lime provided, phosphorus must also be present, as these two minerals depend on one another for the proper functioning of each in the body. Oatmeal, whole grain cereals, nuts, cheese and lean meat are the best sources of phosphorus. This simply emphasizes again the need of a mixed and varied every day diet.

WASHING HAIRBRUSH.

After washing hairbrushes in hot soap lather it is a good plan to rinse the bristles in a basin of cold water to which has been added a sufficient quantity of bluing to color it. Rinse the brush in cold water, shake it well and dry quickly in the open air. This method keeps the bristles white and stiff.

THE ANTIMACASSAR COMES BACK

The antimacassar that adorned the 19th century green plush parlor set has reappeared in the sophisticated living room of today. After all, there is wisdom in the use of these dainty pieces of linen or lace that adorn the backs and arms of our upholstered chairs.

Without them, greasy, worn patches are likely to be left by the imprint of heads and arms. The antimacassar solves the problem of protecting the furniture and is a good looking accessory if it is kept dainty and clean. It takes but a few moments to remove the pieces, press them through warm soapsuds and iron them while they are still damp.

PEPPER FOR MICE

She could have avoided this if she had covers on the glass, but being ordinary tumblers, she had no covers so she sprinkled red pepper over the wax and repeated this every two months with the gratifying result that her paraffin covering remained intact.

She experimented with black pepper and found this quite as effectual as the red variety.

ANTS.

Oil of pennyroyal sprinkled in places infected by ants will soon frighten them away.

DICTATES OF FASHION.

Just the thing for the southern costume are envelope bags made of crocheted straw or raffia in interesting colors and designs.

The popularity of white pique is not confined to the adults this season, but fashions some of the smartest frocks for the very young girl.

Adorable coats and bonnets for the baby en route for southern skies are made of dotted Swiss. Particularly nice are the white ones dotted in blue.

Odd, and delightful trimming—remember the belt that fastened with a double row of large wedding-like looking gold rings—threaded through with leather thongs?

White flowers are the favorite decorations of black evening gowns. One black point d'esprit model has its white gardenias sparkling with diamants as if entirely covered with frost.

Fancy lacy straws are used in conjunction with felt to make stunning dressy spring hats. A green felt has its brim of lacy sunburned straw and a bow knot of the straw worked into the hat's crown.

Large bags for the south are made of hand-woven material and mounted on amber tops. Through the material are woven silver threads, which give a delightful glint and sheen to the bags.

A red moire taffeta short coat, with a bow at the back of the neck and its flaring lower edge longer in the back, complements a chiffon frock printed in red and black on a grey background. The frock's deep, uneven hem is faced with the red.

The woman with a weakness for footwear will be delighted with shoes of white kid, which have colored heels, red, blue, green, etc. Narrow stripes of the colored leather arranged in modernistic patterns form an unusual trimming.

The dainty colored shoe so popular for evening promises to become successful for street and sports wear as well. Shoes are a prominent component of the costume complete.

Many of the latest necklaces are sixty inches in length. These are shown in pearls in the natural and Oriental colors. Three strands of pearls on sterling chains are fastened with silver filigree clasps.

NEW SPORTS FROCK.

A most delightful new model for sports wear is a dress, sleeveless, with a surplice fastening, and a circular skirt, which is made of a new washable material. The texture strongly resembles velveteen, with a soft sued finish. The frock is of white, piped with a color, and is embroidered over the heart.

JERSEY COAT AND SILK FROCK.

One of the pleasant combinations for southern wear, consists of a frock of silk in a pastel shade, which looks well with sunburn, and a short coat of jersey, which has a cravat fastening. The frock is sleeveless, of course.

FOR WINTER SPORTS.

The very young girl is not forgotten by the designers, and so it is possible to purchase a skiing costume, which has long trousers of dark blue, and cap, scarf, socks and mittens all of the most colorful wool in modern designs.

SEWING SUGGESTIONS.

Make a short apron, double the lower part and divide it into four pockets. An apron like this is very convenient to hold thread, scissors, etc., when sewing.

Ravel an old silk stocking and use the silk to darn with. This can be done if when buying stockings you buy two pairs of the same color.

To prevent buttons from tearing away from a knitted coat, place a linen button at the back and sew right through both buttons with the same stitch.

A satisfactory kind of personal laundry bag to be made out of a used flour sack has the usual draw string top, but with a 12-inch strip across the bottom of any side. Stitched down the middle, this makes two extra pockets, one for stockings and one for handkerchiefs. This saves a lot of sorting when wash day comes around.

TESTS FOR LINEN.

It is easy and sensible to be your own linen expert in shopping for table damasks, and a few suggestions will help to make you a discriminating buyer.

Do not try to pick your linens while wearing gloves—cotton cloth will feel almost as smooth, under these conditions, as a linen cloth.

In order to be certain of your cloth, remove a thread from the fabric, hold one end upright, wet it and tuaten with the finger. A linen thread as it dries will revolve anti-clockwise. If the thread is not linen it will revolve clockwise.

A drop of water on a linen cloth will be immediately absorbed. No other material has such a dramatic way of drinking.

Linen has an unmistakable look of liveness, which is impossible to introduce artificially into a substitue material offered as linen.

A linen thread pulled apart has a soft fluffy appearance. The strands pull from one another and do not break off sharply.

The fineness of linen is arithmetically determined by the number of threads to the square inch, and the accompanying heightened luster.

Your finest linen cloths, imported from Ireland and Scotland actually smell of the earth, the rain and the sun.

ABSORBS THE GREASE

That last bit of fat can be removed from the top of the soup, by throwing a lettuce leaf into the pot. This will absorb all the grease and may be removed as soon as it has served its purpose.

HANDY PAPERS.

Keep a pile of newspapers in the kitchen, cut in half. Sheets will save much work in cleaning the stove, catching vegetable peelings, wiping burn from the bottom of the kettle or spilled food from the stove or sink.

CEREAL VARIETY.

Change the sweetening of the morning cereal and you add a pleasing variety. Grated maple sugar or brown sugar give a change. Better still, cook dates, figs, raisins or prunes right in the cereal. Children appreciate the different flavors.

CONCERNING WOMEN.

Members of the Community Service league, an organization of 1,000 women in the Eastern Parkway section of Brooklyn, N. Y., have decided against cigaret smoking by women.

There will be 145 women members of legislatures in 28 states in the union this year. Connecticut leads with the largest number of women, having 20. Fifteen women are serving as state senators.

A total of 51,280 alien women were made citizens of the United States from June 30, 1927, to July 1, 1928. Those who applied for citizenship in 1928 came in largest numbers from Italy, the British Empire, Poland, Russia, Czecho-Slovakia and Germany.

In Paris, France, there are 243 women doctors, 145 of them married, and only 37 of the latter practicing their profession.

LONG SHEETS.

It saves blankets and comfortables if you use your long sheets on top and turn them back eight or ten inches over the other covers.

DISCOLORED PEWTER.

Clean discolored pewter with sweet oil and whiting. Wash the article with hot water and fine silver sand. Dry and polish with a leather.

RECIPES.

Salmon Hollandaise:—Use one-pound can of salmon or a one-and-one-half-pound slice of the fresh fish. If the fresh fish is used, cook it in stock to which a little carrot, onion, lemon, salt and bay leaf have been added. To make the sauce, beat the yolks of two eggs, add the juice of a lemon, half a cup of chicken broth or consomme, and cook together until thick like mustard. Beat in one-fourth cup of butter and add salt and cayenne to taste. Serve over the hot salmon.

Egg Noodles:—Sift a pint of flour into a mixing bowl and make a well in the middle as you would if making soda biscuits. Beat two eggs well and add to them half a teaspoon of salt. Drop into the well in the flour, and mix the flour in until it is as stiff as you can mix it. Flour the bread board and remove the noodle dough to the board. Roll into a very thin sheet, adding flour as needed to prevent sticking. Allow to dry for one hour, if possible. If you have not time for drying, they must be floured very thickly before oiling. Roll the sheet into a cylinder, and cut across. To cook, drop into boiling meat broth or chicken soup. They are delicious with stewed chicken and good with any stewed fowl or meat. Boil for three minutes after they begin to boil. A good-sized dish of noodles may be made with one egg by adding to the egg as much water as may be held in one-half of the eggshell.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

An Appreciation of Mrs. W. S. C. Perkins.

Mr. Editor: In the death of Mrs. Perkins on Friday night, the community has lost a distinguished citizen. Mrs. Perkins stood for all that was constructive in woman's work.

In both church and social life, she was very active, and she founded several organizations which accomplished much for the city and for state. Mrs. Perkins was one of the earliest members of the State Federation of Woman's clubs, taking an active part and using her influence on many occasions, thus becoming, during her active life, one of the women of Connecticut to whom the federation looked for leadership. Also much interested in the national federation, Mrs. Perkins visited California, Colorado, and Minnesota as a national delegate, as well as Washington and Philadelphia, Mrs. Willis Austin, then Miss Annie Brewer, accompanying Mrs. Perkins to California.

Mrs. Perkins was past regent of Faith Trumbull chapter, Inc., D. A. R., and a past president of Park church parish house, giving active assistance in furnishing the parish house which was given in memory of Hugh Henry Osgood. Also, Mrs. Perkins founded a successful whist club, called "The Fortnightly," which held many brilliant functions, and the Wednesday Afternoon club of Norwich, a literary and social club of which she was president 33 years and to which she gave loyal support even up to her last illness. This last named club, became under her leadership, the first to be associated with the State Federation of Woman's clubs in Norwich, in 1897 though founded in 1892.

By all her friends and by all those with whom she came in contact throughout a long and useful life, this fine woman and able citizen will be remembered as standing for culture and progress in this city.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17 — When a man has made his name known in his own country and to the world as thoroughly as has Andrew Mellon of Pittsburgh and Washington, it must shock him to discover it's not his exclusive property. Yet that is what the said Andrew found out in France last year. It proved to be a sort of triple-barreled name coincidence.

Mr. Mellon has a young son named Paul. When Papa Mellon reached Paris he was astonished to receive from Bordeaux a letter signed by Paul Mellon. More than that, this French Paul Mellon disclosed that he was the son of a French Andrew Mellon. On the strength of that curious similarity of names through two generations, he invited the American Andrew Mellon to look him up in Bordeaux if he found time.

And On Mellon Street

Secretary Mellon was amused and interested by the coincidence. When time afforded, he motored to Bordeaux and had a chat with the French Paul Mellon. And he found him to be a prosperous wine merchant of that city, residing in Rue Andre Mellon, which is French for Andrew Mellon street.

There was, so far as known, no connection whatever between the French and American families. It is to be noted, however, that the Bordeaux Andrew Mellons are so much a part of the commercial life of that thriving French city as to have a street named for them. Can Andy of Pittsburgh match that?

Likes His Barber

And, since we are talking of our own Mellon, here's another odd twist. He is, as everybody knows, among the world's richest men. He lives in a super deluxe Washington apartment with goodness knows how many rooms. He is surrounded by a famous collection of old masters of fabulous price. He recently has considered spending as much as $800,000 for a single new addition to the collection. Yet he has a barber shop complex.

It's true. He scorns deft handed valets and get his daily shave at a barber shop he has patronized during his eight years in Washington. More than that, he cheerfully takes his turn in the chair of his favorite barber, refusing all special privileges.

Despite his millions, his enormous responsibilities as treasury head and all the rest of it, he has been known to trudge afoot from his office to the shop as many as five times in a day to find that favorite barber disengaged.

YOUR INCOME TAX

Bonuses to employees may be deducted by employers from gross income when such payments are made in good faith as additional compensation for services actually rendered, provided that when added to the stipulated salary the total does not exceed "a reasonable compensation for services rendered."

When the amount of the salary of an officer or employee is paid for a limited time to his widow or heirs in recognition of services rendered by the deceased, such payment may be deducted. Salaries paid an employee absent in military, naval or other service of the government, but who intends to return, are allowable deductions.

When Dr. Caldwell started to practice medicine, back in 1875, the needs for a laxative were not as great as they are today. People lived normal quiet lives, ate plain, wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air and sunshine. But even that early there were drastic physics and purges for the relief of constipation which Dr. Caldwell did not believe were good for human beings to put into their system. So he wrote a prescription for a laxative to be used by his patients.

The prescription for constipation that he used early in his practice, and which he put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid vegetable remedy, intended for women, children and elderly people, and they need just such a mild, safe, gentle bowel stimulant as Syrup Pepsin.

Under successful management this prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. The fact that millions of bottles are used a year proves that it has won the confidence of people who needed it to get relief from headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, colds and fevers.

Millions of families are now never without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and if you will once start using it you will also always have a bottle handy for emergencies.

W. B. Caldwell M.D.
AT AGE 83

It is particularly pleasing to know that the most of it is bought by mothers for themselves and the children, though Syrup Pepsin is just as valuable for elderly people. All drug stores have the generous bottles. A trial is sure to convince any household of the merits of this famous prescription.

YOUR HEALTH

New Electric Needle Surgery

By Howard A. Kelly, M. D., Baltimore.

Our forefathers thought and proclaimed in each successive generation that surgery had at last, in their day, reached its goal of perfection. Nothing occurred to disturb this complacence until in our own day and generation anesthesia arrived to make operations incomparably easier and so to multiply them. Then, quickly on the heels of this great discovery, followed surgical pathology and, speedily and greatest of all, asepsis and bacteriology, making operations safe and seemingly giving the surgeon all he could possibly ask for or dream of.

But what added boons on the medical horizon have ever arrived so utterly unexpectedly as the diagnostic X-ray and curative radium! And now yet again we are called upon to celebrate still another addendum, destined to transform our surgery over a wide field. I refer to electrosurgery, admonishing the surgeon frequently to don his scalpel, the proud ancestral badge of his profession, and to make his incisions and do many operations with nothing but a fine needle energized by a high potency electric current!

With this novel agent he attacks, destroys, and removes malignancy in an entirely new fashion. The current concentrated in the tissues at the point of the needle destroys all cancerous growth and at the same time seals the blood vessels and desensitizes the nerves in parts. It is used also rapidly to dissect and remove the diseased mass from its bed with notably little bleeding. There is perfect annihilation of the malignancy without any handling of the structures, so avoiding the risk of disseminating the microscopic elements. The quick healing is often painless and the procedure yields a far better scar.

In a few years, when we shall have accustomed ourselves to this not too easily acquired new technic, it will be observed that a genuine transforming element has entered to regenerate a considerable part of the surgical field, and current textbooks will be rewritten with constant reference to this and to radium.

Before long, also, all our medical schools and leading hospitals will realize the necessity of giving these new agents the fullest recognition and scope in their surgical clinics.

"LENT AND MY WORK"

Memory Verse for Monday

"Six days shalt thou labor, and do all thy work." (Exodus 20:9). (Read: Romans 12:9 to 18).

MEDITATION: Today I must be about my work. I may return to it eagerly because I love it but whether I love it or not, I must work. We are all agreed that work is a blessing as well as a duty. The blessing of work is inherent in the quality of life. It is what we are here for. And its rewards whatever form they may take are the witness of achievement, the assurance that we have attained to some of life's values. So I will go cheerfully to my work, expecting that there I shall find the service for which I was made and so the way to happiness and enduring rewards.

PRAYER: Creator and Governor of the world, whose unfinished work goes on forever, give me to see in my humble tasks a service rendered to Thee. Exalt and rejoice me with the sense that in diligence and faithfulness I am become a co-worker with Thee. Amen.

Burgess Bedtime Story

Danny Meets His Family

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Babies are an endless care.
But there's never one to spare.
—Nanny Meadow Mouse.

Danny Meadow Mouse had not been allowed more than a peep at his children. Nanny had seen to that. She protested that there was no room in the house for Danny and she always blocked his way. Danny didn't like it a bit. No, sir. Danny didn't like it a bit. But there was nothing he could do about it. He had learned that by experience.

His babies were eight or nine days old before he had a real look at them. By that time they had their eyes open and had begun to use their little ears, and all possessed little fur coats. In fact, they looked like real Mice. It was then that Danny was allowed to pay them a visit. Danny had given up all thoughts of visiting them, so he was more than a little surprised when he met Nanny Meadow Mouse some distance from the little home. Nanny was hurrying along and almost ran into Danny before she saw him.

Danny did his best to comfort them

"Goodness!" she exclaimed. "How is it that you are always right in the way?"

Danny looked a little foolish. "I'm sorry, my dear," said he. "I'll get right out of the way. But first, tell me what you are doing here."

"Looking for something to eat," replied Nanny.

"You do look rather thin," said Danny.

"Why shouldn't I?" squeaked Nanny. "If you had eight hungry little mouths to feed you would be thin."

"Are the babies doing nicely?" inquired Danny.

"If they were doing any better they would eat me out of house and home," squeaked Nanny. "Why don't you come and see them?"

"But—but you never would let me in before," squeaked Danny.

"Before isn't now," retorted Nanny.

Danny looked at Nanny very hard. She seemed to be concerned with nothing but getting something to eat. Danny turned and started in the direction of their home. He kept looking over his shoulder to see if Nanny was following. But Nanny wasn't. And so he reached the snug little home out of which he had been turned on the arrival of the babies. He paused outside for just a second. Then he went in. It was a lively CUT HERE family he found in there. Yes sir, it was a lively family. They thought he was Nanny when he first came in and, being hungry, as all babies are most of the time, they all demanded something to eat. When they found that Danny had nothing for them, they became fretful.

"Hush, hush!" cried Danny, for he feared that those squeaky little cries might be heard by other ears than his.

But the babies didn't hush. They merely cried the more. Danny did his best to comfort them, but they refused to be comforted. So you can guess how glad he was when Nanny Meadow Mouse pushed her way in and sent him out. He was only too glad to get out. He was proud of those children, as a father Meadow Mouse should be, but he was quite satisfied to let their mother take care of them.

"They're a great family," said Dany to himself, swelling himself up and trying to look important. "They are a great family, but, my goodness what a lot of them! And how under the sun does Nanny expect to feed all those? It will be a lively place here under the old haystack when those youngsters get to running about. I suppose I shall have to teach them then. I wonder if they all look like me."

Conn. Mother Praises Doctor

There isn't a mother living who won't agree that no half-sick child should be the subject for an experiment with medicines of uncertain merit. When your child is bilious, headachy, half-sick, feverish, restless, with coated tongue, bad breath, no appetite or energy, you know that nine times out of ten it's a sign her little stomach and bowels need purging. And when you know that for over fifty years leading physicians have endorsed one preparation for this condition, there doesn't seem to be any reason for "trying" things.

Rich, fruity California Fig Syrup clears the little stomach and bowels gently, harmlessly and in a hurry. It regulates the bowels, gives tone and strength to them and to the stomach, and helps to give your child new strength, energy and vitality. Thousands of Connecticut mothers praise it. Mrs. J. McCarter, 39 Buckingham St., Hartford, says: "I'll never forget the doctor who got me to give my little girl, Doris, California Fig Syrup. Nothing else helped her bowels, which seemed to be weak. She was very nervous, run-down and bilious before I gave her Fig Syrup, but it stopped her trouble quick. I have used it with her for colds and little upset spells ever since. I consider her a Fig Syrup baby."

Insist on the genuine article. See that the carton bears the word "California." Over four million bottles used a year.

WALLACE ROGERS, 18, COMMITTED SUICIDE

NEW YORK, Feb. 17—(AP)—Wallace Rogers, 18-year-old son of Bruce Rogers, economist and contributing editor of "The Nation," was found dead today in a Greenwich Village apartment he shared with his father. Gas was flowing from three burners of a range and from a light jet. Police said he had committed suicide.

Unable to gain entrance to the apartment this morning, the father told Shippey the door was locked. Shippey climbed the fire escape, from which he saw the boy's body in the bed. The two men then forced the door and an ambulance surgeon said the youth had been dead for several hours.

Young Rogers left no notes and the father told police his son never had spoken of suicide. He told police his son was "high strung and neurasthenic," but could give no other reason for the suicide.

No person shall operate any commercial motor vehicle, nor shall the owner of any commercial motor vehicle allow such motor vehicle to be operated, on any public highway or any public highway or bridge, when the combined weight of vehicle and load exceeds the light weight and carrying capacity as shown on the certificate of registration, without a written permit from the highway commissioner which shall prescribe the conditions under which the same shall be operated. Any person who shall violate the provision of this section shall be fined not more than one hundred dollars.

Each holder of a certificate of registration of a motor vehicle who shall substantially change the appearance or mechanical equipment of such motor vehicle, unless the intention to make such change shall have been specified in the original registration, so that such motor vehicle shall no longer conform to the description contained in the application for or certificate of registration shall, within forty-eight hours of such change, notify the commissioner of motor vehicles of such change; provided no such notice shall be necessary in the case of a public service motor vehicle registered as a jitney which has a seating capacity in excess of sixteen passengers, or in the case of a commercial motor vehicle which has a carrying capacity of two thousand pounds or more, and where the change is solely in regard to the motor, and in case of the substitution of a motor, the motor so substituted has been registered with the commissioner of motor vehicles. The commissioner of motor vehicles may register such motor upon the written application by the owner thereof setting forth such information as the commissioner of motor vehicles may require. The fee for such registration shall be ten dollars.

Amending an act concerning the use of vehicles upon public highways—Section 12 of chapter 234 of the public acts of 1921 as amended by section 2 of chapter 246 of the public acts of 1923 as amended by chapter 102 of the public acts of 1927 is amended to read as follows:

ADAM'S SIN RESPONSIBLE FOR WORLD'S SUFFERING

Sunday vesper services, which are to continue throughout the Lenten season, were opened at 7:30 o'clock Sunday evening at St. Patrick's church, with a large congregation present. Rev. Adrian Lynch, C. P., of the Passionist monastery, West Springfield, Mass., admonished the congregation against sin. Rev. Fr. Lynch spoke from the text, St. John, 1:29: "On the morrow he seeth Jesus coming unto him, and saith, behold, the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world."

The most conspicuous figure in the devotion of men, declared Rev. Fr. Lynch, in opening his sermon, is the figure of the crucifix.

The question may arise as to why our Lord died on the cross and what were the reasons for such an outpouring of blood. It would be my purpose during the Lenten season to bring you the cause of our Lord's death.

This evening let us reflect upon the remote causes of our Lord's death. God made the Heavens and the earth in the beginning and on the sixth day of creation He made man. He made him according to His own image. He made a helpmate for Adam. Here are the first pair made in the image and likeness of God.

Adam went out of Paradise, a cursed person. By his sin came into the world all forms of suffering.

There are tremendous mysteries in the cross, Rev. Fr. Lynch said in conclusion.

The choir gave an inspiring rendition of the familiar Rosewig vespers in G. Following are the soloists and their numbers:

Dixit Dominus, Mr. Corning; Beatus Vid, Miss Blanche LaPre, John Kelly, Walter LaFontaine and Miss Eulalie Allaire; Laudate Dominum, Mrs. Bernard Coyle; Veni Creator, Henry J. LaFontaine. The Gregorian Benediction was used, and traditional Laudate, Holy God, We Praise Thy Name, was the recessional hymn.

ANGELO CHIODA HELD FOR LIQUOR VIOLATION

Four cases of home brew were seized by the state police Saturday in a raid at the place conducted by Angelo Chioda on North Main street of D. and Mrs. Calvin H. Main, and Paul Locke Steere, of Springfield, Mass.

STATE POLICE RAIDED WAUWECUS HILL HOUSE

The residence of Battiney Lebjko, 61, R. F. D., No. 9, Wauwecus Hill, was raided about noon Saturday by Officers Whitmarsh and Smith of the Groton state police barracks. Lebjko was arrested on a charge of violation of the liquor laws, actual sale and keeping with intent to sell. He was placed under bonds of $1,000. Lebjko secured a bondsman Saturday evening and was released. He will appear in city court this (Monday) morning.

ACADEMY WINS FIRST CONFERENCE GAME BEATING STONINGTON HIGH

The Academy snapped its losing streak at ten games Saturday night at the Y gym when Stonington high was a 27 to 19 victim. This was an Eastern Connecticut conference game, the Academy's first victory in the league and the result also sent Stonington into indisputed last place. It was a slow yet keenly contested game. There was a small crowd present. The individual scoring efforts of Chet Berghinzo, Wildcat center, featured, Berghinzo accounting for 13 points. Capt. "Buck" LaCroix also played a nice game for the Academy. His floor work was very good, Goyette was Stonington's leading scorer and he, with Brown, played the best games for the visitors.

The Academy took the lead on a pair of foul baskets by Berghinzo in the first few minutes and was never headed. Stonington put up a stiff battle, especially in the first three quarters and at times threatened seriously. The Academy led 10 to 6 at the first quarter, 18 to 11 at the half and 26 to 16 in the third quarter. Soon after the final period opened the visitors made it 20-18 but then faded right away while the Academy popped in their last seven points. A foul shot late in the game was Stonington's last gesture.

By winning from Stonington, this year's team has done something that the 1928 club could not accomplish. This was only the Academy's third victory in 14 starts.

In the preliminary the Phi Delta Nu team beat the Goal club in a Church league game.

CHRISTNER-UZCUDUN BOUT HEADLINER FOR THIS WEEK

NEW YORK, Feb. 17—(AP)—Meyer (KO) Christner, of Akron, O., will get a chance this week to test his right hand on the toughest heavyweight chin in captivity.

The chin belongs to Paulino Uzcudun, the prominent wood-chopper from the Basque country. Paulino will expose it to Christner's right hand in a ten round bout in Madison Square Garden on Friday night.

Most of the current crop of heavyweights have taken a punch or two at least, at Paulino's chin but without embarrassment to the wood-chopper. He takes all the boys offer and seems to enjoy it. That is a bit discouraging to any slugger who likes to see them drop.

If the Basque fights in his usual manner, he will start rushing Christner in the first round, head down, arms wrapped around his head like a mantle until he gets in close and then propelled in the general direction of his rivals anatomy. Unless Christner hits harder than any other of Paulino's foes, the Spaniard will be doing the same thing when the bell ends the fight in the tenth round. Paulino always has been hard to hit cleanly and even when slugged the Spaniard comes in, both hands flailing, just the same. In time he wears down his man and his own punches land frequently enough to earn him the decision. The Spaniard is not a heavy puncher as heavyweights go but he gets results just the same.

The program for the week calls for the re-appearance in action of Rene De Vos, Belgium middleweight. De Vos, who had been on the side-lines since his losing battle with Ace Hudkins two months ago, tackles Lowell Bobby Brown, tough New Englander, in a ten rounder at the St. Nicholas arena tomorrow night.

SCHAAF GAINS IN BASKETBALL SCORING

NEW YORK, Feb. 17—(AP)—The 22 points Joey Schaaf scored against Columbia last Tuesday night have put the Penn Five's captain far in the lead in the race for individual scoring honors in the Eastern intercollegiate basketball league.

In five games, Schaaf has accounted for 26 field goals and 10 fouls for a total of 62 points. Twenty one points behind is Nassau, of Yale, who has scored 41 points in six games. Cheney of Dartmouth is third with 37; Layton of Cornell fourth with 36; Carey of Princeton fifth with 35; and Gregory, Columbia's center, sixth with 33.

Schaaf's 26 field goals give him a wide lead in this department. In fouls Nassau and Carey are tied with 17 each.

Church League Games

Games in the Church league this week are all to be staged on Friday, Washington's birthday, according to the schedule. The games are: Trinity Methodist vs. Central Baptist; Phi Delta Nu vs. Brothers of Joseph; Gamma club vs. Kappa club.

BARBUTI RUNS AGAINST SELECT FIELD TONIGHT

The big sprinter, developed by Tom Keane at Syracuse university, is entered in the Buermeyer 500 yards, classic feature of the games.

runner of the day, Barbuti will need runner on the day. Barbuti will need to be in something approaching his best form to outrun a field that is to include Joe Tierney, of the New York A. C., twice returned a winner in the Buermeyer 500; Jimmy Ball, of Canada, runner-up to Barbuti in the thrilling 400 meter final at Amsterdam; Frank Cuhel, of Iowa, runner-up to David Lord Burghly in the Olympic 400 meter hurdles; and Bernie McCafferty, Holy Cross freshman, who is unbeaten at any distance under 600 yards this season.

Advance calculations seem to indicate that the battle will be between Barbuti, Tierney and McCafferty. Tierney has the most at stake. Victor in the 1924 and 1928 renewals of the race, he can win permanent possession of the trophy by leading home the field tomorrow night. Incidentally, Tierney set the present world's record of 55 seconds when he won the trophy the first time.

Ball, unaccustomed to indoor running, will be under a serious handicap, against a field of experienced indoor runners like Barbuti, Tierney and McCafferty.

Fresh from a world's record breaking performance at the Metropolitan A. A. U. championships last night, Percy Williams, the Olympic double sprint winner from Vancouver, B. C., will run in a sprint special at 60 yards against such stars as Karl Wildermoth of Georgetown; Jimmy Quinn, of the New York A. C., who won the event last year; Frank Hussey, Jimmy Daley, Jimmy Pappas and Jack Elder of Notre Dame.

Williams clipped one fifth of a second off the world's record for 60 meters at the Metropolitan championships, covering the distance in 6 4-5 seconds.

The third feature of the New York A. C. will be the baxter mile in which Leo Lermond, of the Boston A. A., and Willie Goodwin of the New York A. C., among others, are to start.

Paavo Nurmi, the finnis star, will run in a special two mile handicap.

TAKES UP BOXING TO GET COLLEGE EDUCATION

BOSTON, Feb. 17—(AP)—The desire for a college education has forced young Johnny Daley, of Waltham, a member of the American Olympic boxing team at Amsterdam last summer, to enter the professional ring. Daley will make his first cash bow against Freddie Moore, a Boston featherweight, here tomorrow night in one of the preliminaries to the Flynn-Forglone bout at the Arena.

Ever since Daley, who is 19, quit school, he has been clerking in a Waltham drug store, a position from which he resigned last night and boxing for watches in amateur tournaments. He won the New England bantamweight title a year ago and a few weeks later was able to defeat a large field for the national title. This pair of victories placed him on the Olympic boxing team and in the Amsterdam bouts, he was the runner-up in his division.

The youth had planned to enter Boston university last September, but his trip to Amsterdam interfered with his earnings and made that impossible.

Since then he has devoted much study to collegiate financial problems and has decided that professional boxing would get him a college degree much sooner than drug clerking.

PENN WELL ALONG ROAD TO THE TITLE

NEW YORK, Feb. 17—(AP)—Short of dynamiting, there appears to be no way to blast Pennsylvania's cage crew out of the lead in the Eastern intercollegiate basketball league.

With the season half over, no league rival has been able to stop the Red and Blue machine as it sails serenely on its way to another championship.

So far Penn has played one game against each of its five league rivals and not one of them has been able to halt Joey Schaaf and his co-workers of the court. The Red and Blue downed Yale and Dartmouth at Philadelphia and then gained verdicts over Princeton at Princeton; Cornell at Ithaca and Columbia at New York.

The standing:

Team	W.	L.	Pts. For	Pts Against
Penn	5	0	157	120
Dartmouth	3	3	182	180
Yale	3	3	159	171
Cornell	2	2	109	94
Columbia	1	3	122	142
Princeton	1	4	122	144

REDS HOLD LEAD BY ONE POINT IN CAN.-AM.

BOSTON, Feb. 17—(AP)—The Providence Reds were still leading the Canadian-American Hockey league today, but their margin over the Boston Tigers, who finished another week as runners-up, was reduced to a single point.

The Tigers defeated the Philadelphia Arrows last week, when Providence was held to a 1-1 tie by Springfield, which ended another week in third place, three points behind the Tigers. Philadelphia and New Haven continued tied in the league standing and the Newark club remained in sixth and last place, where it has been most of the season. The official standing, including games of February 16, follows:

	G.	W.	L.	T.	Pts.
Providence	29	14	9	6	34
Boston	28	13	8	7	33
Springfield	29	10	9	10	30

New Haven	29	10	12	7	27
Newark	28	8	15	5	21

ACADEMY HAS TWO GAMES THIS WEEK

Their losing streak finally snapped, the Academy basketball team goes into this week with a little more spirit. Two games are listed, with Putnam here Tuesday evening and at Winsted Friday night with Gilbert high.

The Putnam game is a conference tilt. Putnam beat the locals in easy fashion in the first game, played at Putnam. This game was the Red and White's first and they are expected to make a better showing tomorrow night. In order to make sure of keeping but of last place, it would help the Academy greatly by winning tomorrow and would also knock Putnam out of any slight possibility of copping the title. The Putnam game is the last home scholastic clash this year.

HIGH SCHOOL SPORTS

Basketball is now at the three-quarter mark in state high school basketball and it is now pretty definitely known which teams will compete at Yale and Storrs. Eastern Connecticut will probably have a representative in either Chapman Tech or Windham, unless each team slips badly. Among other teams in the state Warren Harding, Central of Bridgeport, Hillhouse, Torrington, Naugatuck, Weaver and Wilby appear the best. There isn't an undefeated major quintet in the state.

Warren Harding of Bridgeport lost to Wilby Saturday, 28 to 19.

Central of Bridgeport is coming strong, now after only a fair start. The Park City lads gave Hillhouse of New Haven its second defeat of the season last week.

Hartford high won its first game Friday, beating Bulkeley, also of Hartford, but then lost to Hillhouse Friday.

The Academy basketball series with the Y Seniors for the city title starts next week.

WINDHAM BEATS FAST TORRINGTON TEAM, 26 TO 21

(Special to The Bulletin).

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 17—Windham saved this section from complete rout by defeating Torrington high in the third and final game of its trip, 26 to 21, here Saturday night. This was a fast game with Torrington leading 14 to 11 at the half but the locals, displaying fine teamwork, rallied to gain the verdict. No doubt Torrington was a bit tired after its two previous games but this should not detract from the big Windham victory. The scoring on Windham's side was evenly divided while Pavlokovic was the high scorer of the game.

BACON WINS CLOSE GAME FROM KILLINGLY

The Bacon academy basketball team defeated the fast Killingly high school quintet of Danielson in a well played game at Colchester Grange hall on Friday evening by a score of 14 to 9.

Hurin and Deitch were the star players for the Bacon team while Young was the feature player for the opposition. The two teams were well-matched and the entire game was a very close and exciting contest. The Bacon academy boys feel quite jubilant about their victory over the strong and fast Killingly quintet. When the Bacon team played Killingly in Danielson several weeks ago, the Bacon boys were defeated by a score of 43 to 21. The summary of Friday evening's game is.

NEW LONDON, Feb. 17—Torrington rallied in the last half to overcome a 12 to 7 handicap and beat Chapman Tech here Saturday afternoon. It was a nip and tuck battle, especially in the closing moments. This was Tech's third defeat of the season in 20 games.

STECHER ARRIVES FOR MATCH AT BOSTON

BOSTON, Feb. 17—(AP)—Joe Stecher, former wrestling champion, arrived here today to complete his training for his belated match with Joe Malcewicz, scheduled for next Thursday night at the Boston Arena.

Several years ago when the scissors hold expert held the title, he jumped out of a Boston ring and fled from the building when he recognized Malcewicz as the "unknown" he had agreed to wrestle. At that time Stecher claimed he had been promised an ordinary opponent and was not in physical shape to defend his title against the skilled Malcewicz. These tactics displeased a large crowd, which became so threatening that a police guard was given the Stecher party.

Both Stecher and Malcewicz according to Paul Bowser, promoter, have been promised a title match with Gus Sonnenberg next month in the Boston Garden in the event of victory.

DEMPSEY WORRIES AS SHARKEY HURTS THUMB IN WORKOUT WITH PARTNER

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 17—(AP)—One of the best dressed men in the south, the center of every gathering, hero of the "kids" and play-fellow of the wealthy, brooded fitfully today about the dog track and casino where Jack Sharkey and Young Stribling went through the daily process of preparing for their heavyweight embroglio ten days from tonight.

The big fellow with the bronzed face, keen black eyes and restless mien, is Jack Dempsey standing on the outside as a promoter and looking in on the workings of two fighters with ill-concealed nervousness. The old Manassa Mauler, not content with having promoted a battle that seemed destined for failure into a certain success financially, socially and fistically, would love to jump into both of those rings himself and get the men ready for the fray.

Now with the reins Tex Rickard dropped in death firmly in his hands, Dempsey is worrying about everything that can worry a promoter. He is afraid of injury to both fighters. He looks daily at the arena now completed and ready to seat 35,000 in Flamingo park, to be sure it's still there, and he haunts the afternoon workouts of the battlers with constant fear of accidents.

Today he had his first cause for worry over Sharkey, who injured his left thumb eking out a narrow victory over K. O. Christner of Akron in a rugged fracas in Madison Square Garden last month. The Boston tar twisted the same thumb yesterday, landing a punch on the heavy skull of Paul Hoffman, one of his sparring partners. Bright and early today Dempsey visited the Sharkey training quarters to find out the extent of the injury and then went into a protracted worrying session with himself on the beach.

After Dempsey advised the Boston sailor to refrain from boxing this afternoon, Sharkey went out and pummeled his sparring partners for five rounds. Dempsey prowled about the ringside every moment of the action, his rakish Panama pulled down over his eyes, worrying as thoroughly as Tex Rickard ever did.

He showed no sign of the injury but decided to do no work tomorrow. Sharkey was slow and listless in his drill and appeared to be saving energy for final polishing workouts.

A few minutes after Sharkey ended his work for the day with five rounds of bag punching, rope skipping and shadow boxing, Dempsey appeared at the casino where Stribling toils and found something more to worry about there. The Macon youngster, in razor-edge condition, was fast and hard but had difficulty controlling the left hook he hopes will beat Sharkey.

Time and again Stribling whipped over those southpaw pokes only to find them shading the foul line and sometimes dropping below. Dempsey went away from there worrying about the possibilities of a foul ending his first promotorial venture.

Stribling at 185 1-2 pounds seemed in perfect condition. He was faster than ever before and found a real opponent in his newest sparring mate, Paul Cavalier, a heavyweight imported from Paterson, N. J. Stribling cut his work to seven rounds, boxing two sessions with Tony Fuente and another with Blondie Davis of Memphis, Tenn. Like Sharkey, the Georgian will rest tomorrow and may do work Tuesday.

Although Sunday was the quietest day of the ticket sale, William F. Carey, acting head of the Garden corporation, said the receipts now total more than $200,000 in cash with reservations of almost $100,000 more. The arena in Flamingo park will be enlarged to seat a total of 42,000 with total receipts approximating $350,000. Expenses of the fight, including a guarantee of $100,000 to Sharkey, will not exceed $260,000.

WOODSTOCK PLAYS AT PLAINFIELD THIS EVENING

This evening should be an interesting one for Plainfield high when they meet Woodstock. The game at Woodstock resulted in a close victory for Plainfield, the score being 12-11.

Last Friday evening, Putnam won a close and fast game from Plainfield. It was a hard fought contest and everybody went home well satisfied, and with their pockets full at that.

Plainfield has not won a game in their last five starts but they surely must have a win in their system, if they display the brand of basketball they showed Friday. Reports from the team show that they feel sure they will win.

The girls' game also promises to be a fast one. At Woodstock the Plainfield girls won a hard fought game, but Woodstock is out to even matters. Captain Barger, of Plainfield, may not play as she has a broken bone in her foot.

The starting lineups will be the same as Friday: Tommy Long, small, but mighty forward, will be at left forward. Burby, who recently played at guard will be at the other forward position. Capt. Bakanowsky and Polywascik will be in the back court. Polywascik has gone to Burby's place at guard. Ed Bakanan, rangy center, will play his third scholastic game of his career. In his last two games he has showed himself a worthy center.

The girls' game will begin at 8.00 and the game will be played at the Plainfield Community house. Dissinger will officiate.

ACADEMY BATTERY CANDIDATES HAVE PRACTICE SESSION TODAY

Batterymen of the Academy baseball team will this afternoon begin their second week of work in preparation for the coming season. A squad of about 20 is working out daily at the state armory on McKinley avenue.

Work last week was of but a routine nature. This work will go on for some time and probably next week the infielders will be called out. Then, as soon as weather permits, the squad will take to the outdoors. At present, however, the campus is a sea of mud.

Want Games.

The Plainfield Buddies, leading junior basketball team of eastern Connecticut would like to arrange out of town games or some at home. The Plainfield team boast a record of 17 victories on their home floor, beating the best teams in this section. The Buddies have been playing together for about four years and have developed a combination which is pretty hard to beat. Only teams wishing game write to the Plainfield Community house or telephone Moosup, 42-3.

Church League Meeting Tonight

There will be a meeting of Church league managers at 9 o'clock this evening at the Y gym. A full attendance is requested as important matters are to be brought up.

PLAINFIELD LOSES TO WESTERLY SOCCER CLUB

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PLAINFIELD, Feb. 17.—The home team lost to Westerly at Plainfield today, the final count being 6-3 in favor of Westerly. The crowd that turned out was small in comparison with the other games played here. It was a great game and the newly arranged forward line tried out by Manager Maricott of the local's came through with a fine game. The best was outside right, Hayes, and center, Wilkenson, the Plainfield goalie who made some very remarkable stops time and time again.

The scoring was done in the first half by Plainfield, with Westerly holding their own, the score being three all. In the second half the Westerly team rushed the Plainfield boys off their feet scoring three goals in rapid order and keeping the ball in Plainfield territory. E. Matthews was the shining light for the Westerly team, scoring three goals, half of the visitors' points. T. Long played in the second half for A. Baldwin and played a very nice game, considering the size of the player. B. Walker also was a menace to the Plainfield team. The game was handled by Buckley of Westerly, who did not do such a fine job as was expected.

Next Sunday the Plainfield team plays Westerly in Westerly, using the same lineup as today. The summary:

Cottrel A. C.	Plainfield

PUTNAM CONFIDENT OF BEATING ACADEMY FIVE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Feb. 17—The Noyesmen of Putnam high school have twice added the black and orange quintet of Plainfield high to their growing list of victims and will spend Monday afternoon preparing for the second season clash with the Norwich Free Academy five, whom they downed in a fray played at Putnam earlier in the season.

The Academy-Putnam tilt will be a league encounter and is classed as one of the biggest games of the season for both schools. Coach Noyes appeared to be well pleased with the showing his boys made against the Plainfield aggregation Friday evening and is confident they will do equally as well against the Wildcats who received their first taming at the hands of Capt Walt Cody and his array of hoopsters about a month ago.

Leo and Shann are favorites to start Tuesday evening. These two Blue and White netters when coupled with the services of Cody have in recent games proved to be one of the greatest scoring assets Coach Noyes has been able to produce.

The locals recovered from their defeats at the hands of Tourtellotte Memorial and Chapman Tech and since have established a record of winning four straight games and are hopeful of administering defeat upon both of these schools in return games to be played in Putnam within the next month.

JEWETT CITY

TWO-HEADED CALF DIES BECAUSE UNABLE TO EAT

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Feb. 17—Half the town and many from other places were visitors at the Walenty Scawz farm Saturday and today, to see the calf with two heads.

If some method could have been devised to give the animal nourishment life might have been prolonged. It died Sunday and visions vanished of realizing from its unusual condition. Late Friday evening one of Mr. Scawz's big Jerseys gave birth to what was doubtless the nearest perfect two-headed calf ever heard about in this region. Normal and fully developed, the new arrival had not only two heads which separated at the inside set of ears, of which there were four, also four normal eyes, two perfect mouths with tongues to match. Saturday night what seemed the rincipal difficulty connected with the problem of its taking food was a lack of sufficient strength in the muscles of the neck to allow the common method of gaining sustenance to function naturally. The farm where Mr. Scawz lives at Tadpole is the John Clark place, known to many as the Little Red house under the hill. Its painted brick and picturesque setting suggested to Mrs. John A. Brownell (Amanda Benjamin Hall) of Norwich, the title for a very entertaining story.

BOLKA MINTA RESCUES BOY, MRS. ED COLE AIDING

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Feb. 17—Paul Manzik, 9, a pupil in the White district, in the Stone Hill section of Griswold, was rescued from drowning by Bolka Minta, 10, after the former had disappeared through a hole in the ice. The pond is near the school house, and Saturday morning before school opened several of the children went to the ice to play. In the center of the pond ice had been cut two days before. Previous to the light fall of snow which came Friday night, the ice in the cut out area had skimmed. The dusting of snow on all the pond left no hint as to where the new ice began. The Hanzik boy went through and sank in 7 feet of water. Young Bolka made his way to the hole never hesitating a minute. Lying on his stomach he groped down in the water as far as he could reach. The finest good fortune rewarded his efforts for the boy caught his little chum's coat and pulled him out. The rescue would have then been too late only for Mrs. Ed Cole. Coming early to the R. F. D. mail boxes not far away to get The Bulletin, she heard the children's cries. Running to the pond, Mrs. Cole caught up the little dripping bundle, and hurried to her home. So effectual were her first aid efforts to resuscitate the lad and get him to breathe again, that this evening the small chap was sitting up to the table getting away with a big bowl of bread and milk.

FUNERAL. Arthur G. Young.

The funeral of Arthur Grayson Young, son of Mrs. Ellen Campbell Young and the late Leon Young was held Sunday afternoon at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Campbell, Rev. Harold Arnold, pastor of Pachaug church conducted the services. Burial was in Pachaug cemetery. The bearers were four uncles, Augustus, Elmer, Charles and Raymond Campbell. There were exceptionally beautiful flowers. Relatives and friends were present from Stonington, North Stonington, Wequetequock, Ashaway, Hartford, Rockville, Coventry, Canterbury, Glasgo, Hope Valley, Lisbon, Danielson, Hopeville, Jewett City, Pachaug and Norwich. Undertaker E. E. Gilbert was in charge of the arrangements.

The American Legion auxiliary is to meet this (Monday) evening in the Red Cross room.

Valentine Social.

A delightful valentine social was held by the Congregational Sunday school in the vestry Friday evening. The room had been artistically decorated with fluted streamers of red and white and large numbers of hearts. Each person received either a red or white sole patterned from someone's foot and the ones which matched secured partners for the grand march which opened the program. In the hunt for hearts Eva Shorey received first prize and Ruth M. Benjamin the booby prize. In the game of "Five Hearts That Beat as One," David Goodenough won the prize. Two other games The Flower Garden and Lonely Hearts were great fun. A valentine box held a valentine for everybody. Going to Jerusalem proved a very lively and exciting trip. Ice cream and cake were served. Mrs. Belle Ellis arranged the affair and was assisted by Mrs. Edith Soule and members of their classes, Dr. G. H. Jennings and Rev. G. F. Goodenough's classes furnished the refreshments.

Important business at K. of C. meeting 8 p. m. tonight.—adv.

GOOD PROGRESS IN TRADE LAST WEEK, PARTICULARLY IN HEAVY INDUSTRIES

NEW YORK Feb. 17—(AP)—Business and trade made good progress during the past week, apparently unaffected by the unsettlement in the securities markets. The pre-spring expansion of operations made marked headway, particularly in the heavy industries.

There were notable developments in the commodity markets, with metals and automotive materials showing further strength. Crude rubber futures, which were selling under 20 cents a few weeks ago, rose to 26 cents a pound on reports that tire manufacturers had taken all of the actual rubber in the market. Copper held firm at 18 cents, and 20 cent prices were talked of. Steel strips and sheets and lead moved up about $2 a ton. Wheat reached the highest levels of the year on good export demand, and cotton was firm on a good January consumption report.

The depression in cattle and hides continued, the latter selling at the lowest levels in recent years. This tended to retard the manufacture of men's shoes, but production of women's and children's shoes continued at a high. Raw sugar also sank to the lowest levels in recent years.

Steel mills were unusually busy, with production ranging from 83 per cent. of capacity at Pittsburgh to 92 per cent. at Chicago. Automotive, machinery and electrical goods manufacturers were operated at near capacity. The textile industry encountered better buying, particularly of fine goods and automotive fabrics. A. H. Whiteside, president of the Wool Institute, predicted in the organization's annual report that future price changes would be upward.

Production of crude oil continued to gain, but a meeting of producers in St. Louis determined upon a program of seeking elimination of wasteful control through state legislation. A few oil companies published good earnings statements for 1928, and Sinclair resumed dividends on its common stock for the first time in about five years.

Freight car loadings for the latest week, ending February 2, showed a gain of about 20,000 cars over the previous week and the little week of last year. The number of commercial failures for the five day week, as reported by R. G. Dun and company, fell off to 476 from 570 a year ago.

The trend of money rates was markedly upward, bankers' acceptance rates were raised 1-8 of one per cent. twice during the week. The efforts of the federal reserve board in demanding curtailment of the use of credit for speculation appeared to be having some effect. Heavy withdrawals of call loans late in the week sent call money to 10 per cent. The federal reserve council, which consists of one member from each of the 12 districts, announced its unqualified approval of the progressive banking stand. The New York federal reserve bank made no change in its rediscount rate, although the directors were in session five hours at their weekly meeting, and were said to have been in almost constant telephone communication with the reserve board, which was meeting simultaneously in Washington.

RULES AND REGULATIONS CONCERNING DOGS IN THE CITY AND TOWN OF PUTNAM; TOWNS OF BROOKLYN AND KILLINGLY AND THE BOROUGH OF DANIELSON.

Whereas, a rabid dog has recently run at large in the city and town of Putnam, towns of Brooklyn and Killingly and the borough of Danielson, thereby exposing persons, dogs and other domestic animals to the infectious disease known as Rabies, now,

Therefore, the Commissioner on Domestic Animals, deeming it reasonable and necessary for the security of the inhabitants and their property and to prevent the spread of said disease and at the request of the Health Officers of these various towns, in pursuance of the authority given under Chapter 269, Public Acts of 1925, hereby makes and promulgates the following rules and regulations for confining, controlling, vaccinating and destroying dogs and other animals in the city and town of Putnam, towns of Brooklyn and Killingly and the borough of Danielson.

Sec. 1. All dogs or other animals in said towns and said city and borough known to have been bitten by a rabid dog or other animal shall forthwith be mercifully killed by the dog warden of the town unless the dog so bitten has received, 21 days prior to the time of the biting or inoculation by a rabid animal, a vaccination treatment known as the anti-rabies vaccination, which treatment must have been applied by a registered veterinarian who shall furnish the Commissioner on Domestic Animals and the dog warden of the town a certificate to the effect, giving date of application of treatment, the method used, and the name of the manufacturer of the biological product so used; or unless a dog which has been bitten by a rabid dog shall have received within three days from the time of biting or inoculation, the first injection of the treatment known as the anti-rabies treatment or Pasteur treatment for animals, such animal being held in quarantine while under this treatment and until released in writing by the Commissioner on Domestic Animals or his agent.

Sec. 2. All dogs in said towns and said city and borough known to have been in contact with a rabid dog but not positively known to have been bitten by said rabid dog, and all dogs showing symptoms of rabies shall be quarantined in close confinement to the acceptance of the dog warden and the special deputy until released by the Commissioner on Domestic Animals or his special deputy.

Sec. 3. All dogs in said towns and said city and borough shall be quarantined in close confinement or securely chained on the premises of the owner or keeper and no dog shall be allowed to go at large from and after the date these rules shall go into effect until the same are rescinded EXCEPT:

(a) Dogs being led or held on leashes of not more than five feet in length in the hand of the owner, keeper or attendant provided such owner, keeper or attendant is a responsible age.

(c) Sheep and cattle dogs while actually engaged in driving and tending sheep or cattle and accompanied by and in control of the owner, keeper or herdsman.

(d) Any dog, twenty-one days after anti-rabies vaccination has been applied by a licensed veterinarian, provided a special metal tag inscribed "vaccinated" and serially numbered as provided by said veterinarian has been attached to collar, and certificate stating name and address of owner and date of vaccination has been issued to the Commissioner on Domestic Animals and the dog warden of the town. Veterinarians shall keep a record of all vaccinations subject at all times to inspection of the Commissioner's agent, deputies or dog warden of the town.

Sec. 4. No dog shall be shipped, taken or removed out of said towns and said city and borough except as provided by Paragraph D of Section 3.

Sec. 5. The dog warden or any constable or police officer having jurisdiction in said towns or said city or borough shall humanely kill all stray dogs which they may find at large without collar and license tag attached. Said dog warden shall capture and take into his custody every dog in said towns and said city and borough found with collar and license tag attached NOT confined and controlled agreeable to the foregoing, except as provided by Section 1 and 3 of this quarantine, and shall impound and hold such dog seventy-two hours and kill the same if unclaimed as is provided by law.

Sec. 6. These rules and regulations shall take effect at 7 o'clock, Eastern Standard Time, in the forenoon, the 25th day of February, 1929.

NEW LONDON TANGLEFOOT GETS TWO NIANTIC MEN INTO MIX-UP

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 17—William Treat and James Coroley, Niantic young men were in the police court Saturday charged with driving while under the influence of liquor. The charge against Treat was amended to that of intoxication, as there was no evidence to show that he had driven while drunk and he was fined $25 and costs. The charge against Coroley was nolled. Treat and Coroley entered an automobile at Niantic without permission of the owner, driving to this city. Upon their arrival here both proceeded to become drunk and so that when they were ready to return home their minds were not as clear as they ordinarily would be. They succeeded in finding the car, for they entered the automobile of Earl Daniels, of Hamburg, which Treat attempted to start. He could not get the engine to run, so he summoned a garage worker and the automobile was towed away that repairs, if any were necessary, could be made. In the meantime Daniels discovered that his car was missing and at police headquarters reported it stolen. After the police had requested departments throughout the state to be on the lookout for the supposed stolen car it was found at a garage on Jay street where Treat and Coroley were awaiting its being put in running condition. They were arrested by Acting Sergeant Augustus Ray and Patrolmen Frank Philopena and Edward Riordan.

The automobile found parked on Bank street Friday night by Patrolman George Cockell and which had been there for four days, was taken from storage by the owner, a man named Poulas Saturday, after towing charges and storage had been paid.

ANDREWS' SLOOP FOUND FLOATING OFF MONTAUK

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 17—Frank Andrews, 116 Howard street, has been drowned in Block Island or Fishers Island sound, for Saturday his fishing sloop, J-6517, was picked up by the crew of one of the U. S. Coast Guard patrol boats, in charge of Lieut. Morrow. There was no evidence of life aboard the sloop and everything points to Andrews having fallen overboard while attempting a trip from Block Island to New London with a load of fish.

The sloop cleared from Block Island last Tuesday afternoon, between 2 and 3 o'clock and should have reached port that night between 7 and 8 for weather conditions favored a quick trip. When the sloop did not appear in the harbor Wednesday, the U. S. Coast Guard station was requested to make a search for the boat. Saturday forenoon, about 11 o'clock, while the patrol boat was searching for the sloop, a craft answering the description of the missing boat was sighted about 20 miles south of Montauk Point. The patrol boat was headed for the sloop and on being overtaken it was determined that the boat was drifting with the sea. A member of the crew of the patrol boat boarded the sloop and it was discovered that Andrews was not in the cabin and no trace of him could be found. The sloop was taken in tow and was brought to the state pier, arriving here at 3 o'clock.

CLAIMS BOYS PLAY TRUANTS TO HAUNT POOLROOMS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 17—Homer K. Underwood, principal of Bulkeley school, has lodged a complaint with city authorities that school boys are frequenting poolrooms. As a result, a police drive to enforce the law prohibiting minors from going into such places is looming. Names of the proprietors of the pool halls permitting youths to play have been handed to Captain Charles A. Pinney. Prof. Underwood states that he has evidence showing that many boys have a habit of leaving home early, ostensibly to attend school. However, they play truant instead, and spend most of the day in pocket billiard rooms. The police promise prosecution of any place found violating the law, also a revocation of its license.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre.

Fannie Brice is one of those persons that utterly defy description. One may resort to a debauch of adjectives in the attempt yet the elusive lady is still but faintly imagined. Fannie Brice must be seen to be appreciated—and that is precisely what the record crowd at the Broadway Theatre last night did. They saw, and, to judge by their unroarious applause, appreciated. Last night Fannie Brice herself was thousands of miles from the Broadway theatre—yet she was present in the flesh.

The screen seemed even to add to the magnetism of her personality, to the devastating quality of her mirth, to the appeal of her moments of pathos, and to the half-mournful cadences of her spirit. In her ludicrous travesties and clowning antics she seemed the very incarnation of the muse of merriment. And more than a hint of the tragic genius of Bernhardt shone through her poignant acting of "My Man".

It was all there! It was the same old Fannie that the world has laughed and cried over—but with a new enchantment!

Fannie is cast as the oldest of three orphans and the supporter of the family. Her wages come from the theatrical costume factory where she sews, and love comes to her unexpectedly when she sees a muscular youth demonstrating an exerciser in a drug store window. By what odd means she meets, helps and wins a proposal of marriage from him, how her sister, insolent and a follower of a middle-aged roue—steals from Fannie the love of her man—how her old gift for entertaining the fellow workers in the shop with dance oddities, wins her a chance to go on the stage—and how she finally attains the heights, through suffering—make a story of moving seeing Fannie Brice in her first movie, "My Man".

An added attraction was the first showing of a Mack Sennett All Talking Comedy entitled "The Lion's Roar," and it is no exaggeration to say that the audience also roared.

Palace Theatre

A variety of entertainment will be provided by Exie Butler, Don Santo and their entertainers, who open a three-day engagement at the Palace theatre today consisting of songs, dances, and music. Exie Butler is known as the "Silver Moon Girl" and also plays the saxophone. Don Santo is billed under the title of "World's Flash Black Bottom Dancer." He is a veritable dancing volcano. These two are accompanied by a company of seven entertainers de luxe. The individual talent is blended into one big revue, with beautiful scenery and alluring costumes. This is a jazz band with plenty of pep and versatility direct from the Texas Guinan club in New York. Supporting this attraction is Meehan & Shannon in a comedy travesty on domestic life; Fenwick Sisters in harmony supreme; Jack Gregory Trio in a whooping good time and Lester & Earle in fun on the door step.

Nurse to the helpless man she loves and maid to his wife, and watching the latter openly carry on an intrigue, the little French girl whose nickname, "Lingerie," provides the title of the new Tiffany-Stahl production featuring Malcolm McGregor and Alice White which will be seen from today to Wednesday at the Palace theatre, is involved in one of the most dramatic situations imaginable.

An hour after his wedding ceremony, Leroy Boyd involuntarily heard his wife's confession that she is in love with another man and has married him only for his money. Bitterly disillusioned, Boyd enlists in the American army as a private and on his first furlough in Paris saves a little French model from the unwelcome attentions of a drunken soldier.

Their romance is cut short by the abrupt termination of his furlough, and her next sight of him is as a helpless invalid, paralyzed as the result of his wounds. Government regulations send him home to his wife. "Lingerie" follows him only to be confronted by the intolerable misery of caring for his helplessness and watching with him the affair between his wife and her lover.

George Melford directed, and the cast includes, besides the principals, Mildred Harris as the wife, Armand Kaliz as her lover, and Kit Guard, Victor Potel, Cornelia Kellogg and Marcella Corday.

Breed Theatre

Red Wine, which opened at the Breed theatre yesterday, while primarily a whimsical yarn of life and heart interest, is relieved of its solemnity by a golden thread of farcical humor running through the story.

Th story action consists of a character study of Charlie Cook (Conrad Nagel), a man of middle age—a pillar of the community—yet sad because he has forgotten how to play.

Irritated by the jibes of his cronies, Charlie decides to throw off the poke of conventionality and become "one of the boys," enjoying life to the fullest. His first step is to rig himself out like a fashion plate, then find the "wine, women and song."

He finds all three, in spite of the fact that he has an incomparably charming wife (June Collyer) at home. But the tinselled life soon loses its appeal. Remorse comes to the rescue just in time to save the hero for his wife and avert a tragedy.

Sharon Lynn, as Charlie's secretary, and Arthur Stone, as the man who contributed most to the husband's delinquencies, both have conspicuous roles. Others in supporting part are A. Allyn Warren, Ernest Hilliard, Ernest Wood and Marshall (Babe) Ruth.

Raymond Cannon directs the story for Fox Films. The continuity was prepared by Charles R. Condon and the screen story by Andrew Bennison.

H. T. CLARK'S STOLEN CAR RECOVERED IN NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Feb. 17—The Dodge coupe of The Westerly Sun was stolen Sunday night about 6:45 o'clock while parked in front of the home on Grove avenue of Herbert T. Clark clerk of the Third District court of Westerly. Mr. Clark had finished his supper and placed the key in the car while he turned back into the house to fix the furnace. When he returned the car was gone. Reporting the loss to Lieutenant of Police George H. Champlin on duty in Dixon square, state police at the Hope Valley barracks in Rhode Island, Groton and Saybrook barracks in Connecticut, New London and Norwich police were notified. At 8 p. m. a call was received from New London police, notifying the Westerly police that the former had located the machine. The police officer was seen by the two young men occupants of the car who turned up a side street and abandoned the auto, leaving the motor running. The car rolled back a short distance, striking a car in the rear, but doing no damage. Mr. Clark went to New London and returned with the auto.

CAR RUNS OFF THE ROAD—MISS GLADYS MONGEAU CUT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Feb. 17—Henry Semey, 336 Hillside avenue, Holyoke, was operator of a Buick brougham owned by Arthur Mongeau, 22, of Wilford court, Pawcatuck, which struck the soft dirt, ran off the road and overturned, Sunday night. The accident occurred on the Nooseneck hill road, near the junction of the old Potter Hill road, just beyond the top of Vincent Cart hill. All the glass in the auto was smashed, yet the occupants escaped serious injury as the car turned over on the soft side of the highway. In the car were the owner's wife and daughter Gladys, aged 21, and Mrs. Semey's four-year old daughter, Eleanor. They were taken to the office of Dr. William A. Hillard, where it was found that Miss Gladys Mongeau had a bruised knee and cut on her wrist. The auto was towed to Pawcatuck. Lieutenant George H. Champlin who investigated found the car was proceeding from Pawcatuck to Westerly at a rate of 35 miles. He released the operator.

This old-fashioned pure and wholesome food medicine contains strength-building, health-giving elements which are easily taken up by the weakened system and quickly made into new strength and health. SPEAKERS TELL OF LAMENTABLE CONDITIONS IN NEAR EAST AREAS

About 150 prominent men and women of Norwich, including Mayor Lee Roy Robbins, gathered at a luncheon at the Wauregan hotel, Saturday evening, to listen to a first hand report from prominent representatives of the Near East Relief association who gave a concise account of the work performed by the Near East Relief in Egypt, Persia, Armenia, Greece, Bulgaria, Syria, and Jaleatne. The luncheon was held under the auspices of Norwich Near East Relief committee of which Rev. Alexander H. Abbott is honorary chairman and Miss Elizabeth B. Huntington, chairman.

Rev. Mr. Abbott presided and Rev. Charles H. Ricketts delivered the invocation. The honored guests were Harold C. Jaquith, associate general secretary of Near East Relief and managing directors of Athens area; Lady Anne Azgapetian, of the Imperial Russian Red Cross in the army of the Caucasus.

Rev. Mr. Abbott in opening the meeting first thanked Joseph C. Adams, his orchestra for volunteering their services. Rev. Mr. Abbott then announced that in order that the gathering would have a vivid impression of the Near East relief work, moving pictures would be shown giving some glimpses of the service which the organization is rendering. The pictures were both educational and thrilling.

Some scenes depicted human misery which was almost inconceivable, while others portrayed what the unselfishness and sacrifices made by charitable American men and women has done towards alleviating the suffering of unfortunate refugees, war victims and orphans in the poverty and war stricken countries of the Near East. Some of the human rehabilitations and transformations pictured on the screen were almost miraculous in nature. Particularly the pictures showing the orphans as they were brought into the Near East Relief camps in Greece and their transformation into happy and hopeful children by the application of American health methods and the Boy Scout system of camp discipline.

When the showing of the pictures was finished Rev. Mr. Abbott, in a few appropriate and well chosen words, introduced Harold C. Jaquith as the first speaker. Among the interesting revelations made to the gathering by Mr. Jaquith was a humorous description of the fact that people from the various parts of the United State, each have a different point of view about the Near East. This being know to the Egyptian guides, they have a trick of asking American tourists whether they come from the United States or from California.

Mr. Jaquith began his address by paying a high tribute to Christian C. Thurber, his associate in the Near East Relief work for a period of eight years. Mr. Thurber was born in Norwich and is rendering noble service in Athens, Greece, in behalf of the Near East sufferers. The people of the afflicted area, said the speaker, put great stress upon the fact that the real work of the Near East is being accomplished and is due mainly to the faith of the American people in humanity and to their exemplary charity, and who without knowing any of the unfortunates or seeing their misery, are contributing the means of support to a vast number of afflicted human derelicts who are being remade into respectable human beings. The speaker added that it is absolutely impossible to convey to the mind of these kind contributors the terrible misery of those who are being assisted, and the immensity of the reclamation of lives and the alleviation of human wretchedness made possible by their generous donations.

Mr. Jaquith gave a lucid account how the Near East Relief organization originated. He said that it came into being about thirteen years ago in answer to a cable from Mr. Morgenthau, United States ambassador to Turkey, who urgently pleaded with the American people to send immediate assistance to Christian men, women, and children who were terribly afflicted. The American Near East Relief was then organized under a charter of the United States congress, and it has since received cooperation from European countries, Japan, Australia and Canada. The speaker said that since the birth of the Near East Relief organization more than 1,500,000 lives had been saved, among which were 132,552 orphans.

Mr. Jaquith told a story about a Jewish young man representing a New York newspaper who thought that he could write in one hour at account of the conditions prevailing in the refugee camps in Greece. But when actually confronted with the misery and suffering under which the unfortunates were received in camp, he devoted a great deal of his time in order to bring back to New York a somewhat comprehensible picture of what was really taking place. In his zeal to be of service to the unfortunates, and at great danger to himself, he visited the disease infected camps, contracting typhus, which confined him to the hospital for several weeks. He nevertheless brought back to New York a tale of woe and suffering which met with a very generous and material response for the help of the Near East afflicted humanity.

The speaker's description of the disaster of the burning of Smyrna in 1923 was a story of terrible and almost unbelievable suffering. Picturing the city as a bit of paradise, Mr. Jaquith said, that it was turned into a shamble, putting upon the Near East Relief the gigantic task of caring for 140,000 Christian refugees.

Another point greatly stressed by Mr. Jaquith was the tremendous task of caring for 132,552 orphans and their training to become self-supporting. These orphans were given an American education and were imbued with American ideals, which made a very wholesome effect upon their character. One of the greatest difficulties in the reclamation work experienced by the Near East Relief was the endeavor to find parents, if living, or some relatives of the orphans who might be able to assist them in some manner.

The children were taught homemaking, agricultural work, and various trades, and their work as they grew older greatly contributed towards continuing the relief activities and the saving of thousands of lives. Mr. Jaquith thrilled his listeners by telling them that whenever American visitors come to these orphanages they invariably shed tears of joy by listening to the orphans sing the Star Spangled Banner with a fervor born out of gratitude. Here the speaker told that upon one time Ambassador Morgenthou was questioning whether the Near East can be changed by the work being done by the relief organization, but that finally it was proven to Mr. Morgenthau's satisfaction that the American training and education given to those orphans was one of the greatest contribution towards civilizing the Near East countries, and that the children, some of them growing to maturity, are actually demanding from the governments under which they live civilized educational, religious and political institutions shaped in accordance with the American teaching which they had received.

Mr. Jaquith also said that there are still about 32,000 orphans of an average age of 10 years under the care of the Near East Relief, and that in order to complete the task for which the organization is striving the entire need was budgeted and it was found to amount to a minimum of $6,000,000.

To raise this sum an 18 months appeal is now being conducted which will terminate in June of this year. However, the speaker added, that out of this sum the organization had raised $2,000,000 up to January 1929. Mr. Jaquith expressed implicit confidence and faith in the generosity of the American people that they will not abandon the reclamation work at this time, and that they will bring to a successful culmination the greatest piece of constructive human rehabilitation in the history of mankind.

Mr. Jaquith gave a lucid description of the ideal picture in the minds of these children as to the character of the American people, and added that to understand and appreciate the gratitude in the hearts of these orphans one must personally be on the spot and to witness the reverence of these orphans for everything American. The speaker made the assertion that among the best solicitors for Near East Relief were a number of Jewish rabbis, proving that in the world's great charitable work there is no difference nor distinction of creed, race, or nationality. In closing his address Mr. Jaquith laid stress upon the great responsibility of the people of the United States for the continuation of their support until the present task is compleed. The speaker was warmly applauded at the conclusion of his address.

Rev. Mr. Abbott followed Mr. Jauith by giving an emphatic picture of the powerful appeal which the reconstruction of the lives of helpless children has upon good people, and then in appropriate words introduced as the next speaker Lady Anne Azgapetian.

Lady Anne spoke in beautiful English and began by paying a tribute to the chivalry of American men for giving the last word to the ladies. The speaker then gave a very interesting description of the services and sacrifices being made in the Near East by Christopher C. Thurber of Norwich, citing a statement made by Mr. Thurber that if he could not persuade the Americans to give money towards the Near East service, he would stand in the street conners and beg money so that he can relieve the terrible misery which he had witnessed.

Lady Anne also spoke in most glowing terms of the generosity of the American people as seen by the Armenians. She emphasized the statement that it was the belief of Armenia that it was not the great American natural resources nor the riches in the possession of the Americans that saved the Armenians from certain annihilation, but that it rather was the Christian kindness and faith in humanity of the American nation that listened to Armenia's cry of distress and rendered prompt succor.

The speaker added with great sincerity that this demonstration of kindliness made the people of the United States the most generous nation in all history. Lady Anne said that the American people can't possibly begin to have a conception of the great human service which they have rendered to Armenia, and that this noble generosity will be an example to all nations and will be more understood and appreciated as time goes on and with an ever increasing realization of the greatness of the help rendered.

Lady Anne told about the 200,000 Armenian volunteers who offered their services to Russia in the fight against the Turks, and of the 1915 massacre of Christians in which about 800,000 men, women and children were cruelly slaughtered by the Turks. The speaker told of her experience as a Red Cross nurse in the Russian army, and of the chaos which followed the beginning of the Russian revolution. Lady Anne told of the terrible scarcity of water while the Christian refugees were traveling through the desert on their way to Greece, contrasting it with the abundance of water flowing from millions of faucets throughout the United States.

In a very touching and eloquent climax Lady Anne thanked the American people for saving her life and that of her two children from sure death by starvation, and also offered thanks in behalf of the 132,552 orphans "whose mothers, perhaps from a better world, are praying for the happiness of the Generous American nation". With thrilling earnestness Lady Anne concluded her talk with the following words: "We Amenian women, because you have not forgotten to send us our daily crust of bread which saved our lives and that of our children, pray every day and we will pray every day of our lives that God shall bless the great American nation." The audience was greatly moved by Lady Anne's eloquence and earnestness and generously applauded her remarks.

James L. Case moved for a rising vote in recognition of the humane service rendered in the Near East by Christopher C. Thurber of Norwich. All present stood in tribute to Mr. Thurber's service. Mr. Jaquith expressed conviction that Mr. Thurber will be greatly inspired and edified by the recognition which he received from the people of his home town.

GEN. MALONE TO ARRIVE HERE TUESDAY AFTERNOON

Tuesday evening the Wauregan hotel will be the scene of one of the most attractive events of the season. The occasion will be the reception and dinner being given by the Norwich chamber of commerce and other cooperating civic and patriotic organizations, in honor of Gen. Paul B. Malone, of Chicago. A capacity crowd is assured by the large number of reservations. Many military officials will be in attendance and seated at the speakers' table, along with Mayor Lee Roy Robbins, who is chairman of the reception committee, will be Joseph C. Worth, president of the chamber of commerce; Arthur M. Brown, toastmaster, and F. Russell Smith, general chairman of the event.

General Malone left Chicago on the 20th Century Limited Sunday evening. He will arrive in Springfield at 9:32 Monday morning, where he is to be met by a military escort provided by Gov. John H. Trumbull, who will convey him to Hartford where he will address a joint luncheon meeting of the Hartford Rotary club and the Chamber of Commerce, to which many military officials have been invited. General Malone will speak to the Hartford organizations on the subject "The Sixth Objective of Rotary." After lunch he will travel by express to Worcester where he is to be guest speaker of the annual meeting and banquet of the Worcester chamber of commerce in the Hotel Bancroft.

The general will spend Monday night and Tuesday morning in Worcester. At noon he will be met and have lunch with a special delegation from Norwich composed of Maj. F. Russell Smith, President Joseph C. Worth and William G. Park, in charge of the transportation. This group will then motor to Norwich, arriving here at 4 o'clock, where they will be received at an informal reception at the home of Mayor Lee Roy Robbins. The mayor, who is chairman of the reception committee, has requested all the citizens of Norwich who wish to meet the general personally to be at the hotel at 6 o'clock when a public reception will be held in his honor, just prior to the opening of the banquet.

Unusually attractive decorations have been arranged by the committee of which Walter T. Camp is chairman. Thumm's orchestra will provide the music and a double quartette made up of members of the Norwich Rotary club will render one or two numbers.

Among those to be seated at the speakers' table will include: Maj. Gen. Morris B. Payne, of New London, commanding officer of the 43rd Division, National Guard; Capt. A. Adolphus Andrews and Comdr. E. F. Cutts, of the submarine base; Maj. N. Horowitz, F. A., U. S. A.; Lieut.-Comdr. John S. Baylis, of the U. S. Coast Guard; Frank E. Jaynes, Joseph C. Worth, F. Russell Smith, Arthur M. Brown, Rev. William A. Keefe and General Malone.

His Honor, Mayor Robbins, will officially welcome the guests and speaker at the opening of the ceremonies. Also as a part of the program, Frank E. Jaynes, of Chicago, who is addressing all the clubs throughout the city in connection with the chamber's expansion plans, will talk for a few minutes. Mr. Jaynes has made a very favorable impression before all the organizations in the city at which he has a reputation of being a very dynamic and forceful speaker. His talk will deal with the problems of the American city.

Maj. Gen. Morris B. Payne, of New London, will have the honor of introducing General Malone to the audience. Members of the local Boy Scouts will officiate as ushers during the seating of the banquet.

LENT ACCEPTABLE TIME, SAYS ST. PATRICK'S RECTOR

Two Corinthians, 6:1-10, was the epistle read in every holy sacrifice of the mass in every Catholic church throughout the world yesterday, the first Sunday in Lent. The gospel read everywhere was Matthew 4:1-11, Christ's fast of 40 days in the desert and His temptation by the devil. The rector of St. Patrick's parish, Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May, chose the text for his brief sermon at the 7:30 mass from the epistle, "Behold, now is the acceptable time; behold, now is the day of salvation." Monsignor May declared that while God is always ready to shower His graces on mankind, yet the period of Lent seems to be a time of special opportunity for the sinner's reconciliation with his Creator, through the means of prayer, fasting and alms-giving. For many this may be the last Lent—the final opportunity to respond to God's call. "Begone, Satan!" the Saviour's response to the temptations of the devil should be man's response in every moment of temptation. Each should improve every opportunity for acquiring grace, especially through the frequent reception of the sacrament of penance, vowing to spend this particular Lent in a manner pleasing to God.

Indicating that the great proportion of the parish has taken this resolution, Monsignor May and his assistant priest, Rev. John J. Reilly, administered holy communion to an unusual number of penitents. The offering was toward the Catholic Mission Aid society, which is making a new drive this Lent for the fund for home and foreign missions.

POETRY

A True Lent

Is it a fast, to keepe
The larder leane
And cleane
From fat of veales and sheepe?

Is it to quit the dishes
Of flesh, and still
To fill
The platter high with fishes?

Is it to fast an houre
Ragged to goe,
And show
A downcaste looke, and soure?

No; 'tis a fast to dole
Thy sheafe of wheate
And meate
Unto the hungry soule.

It is to fast from strife;
From old debate
And hate,
To circumcise thye life.

To show a hearte grief rente;
To starve thye sinne,
Not binne,
And that's to keepe thye Lente.

—Robert Herrick.

February

The robin on my lawn,
He was the first to tell
How, in the frozen dawn,
This miracle befell,
Waking the meadows white
With hoar, the iron road
Agleam with splintered light,
And ice where water flowed:
Till, when the low sun drank
Those milky mists that clock
Hanger and hollied bank,
The winter world awoke
To hear the feeble bleat
Of lambs on downland farms:
A blackbird whistled sweet;
Old beeches moved their arms
Into a mellow haze
Aerial, newly born:
And I, alone, agaze,
Stood waiting for the thorn
To break in blossom white
Or burst in a green flame * * *
So, in a single night,
Fair February came,
Bidding my lips to sing
Or whisper their surprise,
With all the joy of spring
And morning in her eyes.

—Francis Brett Young.

"He is what I call a good heckler," answered Senator Borghum. "I carry him along with me in my campaign."

"He is a friend?"

"More; a faithful servitor. I tell him exactly what to say when he heckles, and then we put our heads together to determine how I shall reply with a stroke of smashing repartee."—Washington Star.

DRY LAW WAS DISCUSSED BY SENATORS REED AND BORAH

Senator Reed Began a Two Hour Speech by Describing the Prohibition Law as a "Hideous Crime"—The Missourian Urged State Control as a Means of Ridding America of Its "Snoopers and Sneaks"—Senator Borah in Stentorian Tones Defended the Law and Pleaded For Observance of the Constitution.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18—(AP)—Two [illegible] oratory—Jim Reed of Missouri and William E. Borah of Idaho—took opposing sides in the senate today and for three and a half hours spoke to a listless listening chamber on the problems of prohibition.

Reed denounced the law in a continuation of the speech he began on Saturday. Borah made a thundering appeal for law enforcement. Neither was interrupted and the promise of thrust and counterthrust which had filled the galleries faded as the Missourian walked over to the seat of the senator from Idaho at the end of the discussion and warmly grasped his hand.

Reed began his speech today by again describing the law as a "hideous crime." After two hours he took his seat and Borah claimed the floor. Reed was on his feet again when the Idaho had concluded but Senator Heflin of Alabama was ahead of him. Whatever Reed had intended to say went unsaid.

The silver-haired Missourian retires from the senate on March 4 by his own dictate, and, as if to express an eulogy on behalf of the senate, Senator Borah at the outset of his remarks expressed regret at the passing of the man "whose industry, courage and genius have placed him among the foremost men in his day."

Sitting as usual beside Senator Sheppard of Texas, the father of the 18th amendment, Senator Reed, his face flushed, listened to his colleague on the republican side of the aisle and when he was unable to get in a reply he walked over to shake hands with Borah at the finish.

There was nothing personal in their discussion. Reed in his measured words pleaded for state control as the answer to law violation and as a means of ridding America of its "snoopers and spies, its sneaks and criminals, who have been employed with our money to haunt our doors."

Borah, in thundering tones, his hair disheveled as he shook his head and pounded home his points, pleaded for observance of the constitution.

Prohibition is not a problem of ten days or of ten years, he said, and "possibly we can not prevent the use of alcohol entirely, but shall we surrender or shall we fight?" He answered: "Fight."

He said state control would multiply the problems of national prohibition 48 times. Later in the day Senator Caraway, democrat, Arkansas, called attention to a statement given out by Reed at Houston at the time the Missourian was a candidate for the democratic presidential nomination.

"The same senator," Caraway declared, "who has for the last two days been denouncing hypocrites, gave out an interview at Houston in which he himself offered to lead the drys to victory."

The floor was crowded with house members who had deserted their side of the capitol.

At the outset, Reed informed the senate he was jesting on Saturday when he threatened to make public the names of men who "vote dry and drink wet." He assured his colleagues with a smile, that "I would not violate the confidence of my friends or the hospitality of my neighbors by ever telling anything about them when they were merely trying to get a bit of sunshine out of life."

And then the Missourian, with biting sarcasm, tore into the prohibition law; accused the Anti-Saloon league with substituting the doctrine of force for that of reason; declared that the "great races" had been addicted to use of stimulants; denounced corruption in government as an outgrowth of the liquor law and finally pleaded for state control.

Borah agreed with his colleague in denunciation of those who vote for the prohibition law and "live in violation of the law"; he denied, though, that this law was "the crime of crimes"; he insisted that the liquor interests were seeking to break down this law as they have "every other law aimed at controlling liquor," and he belittled the argument for state control, declaring it had been tested and failed.

The bill of Senator Jones, republican, Washington, to increase the penalties for violation of the dry law was the vehicle that served to bring the discussion before the senate and although debate was scheduled to be limited after 4 p. m., it went over until tomorrow.

Answering Reed's contention that the dry law was a crime against the people, Borah declared "It may have been a mistake; the people of the United States may have erred in their judgment—time and experience alone will demonstrate that fact, but it was not a crime.

"The people of the United States," he continued, "were in sincerity strug-

PAT CROWE, A REFORMED BAD MAN, COMMITTED SUICIDE

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb 18—(AP)—Pat Crowe, notorious bad man of a score of years ago, accused, but never tried on the charge of kidnaping Edward A. Cudahy, Jr., son of the millionaire Omaha meat packer, died by his own hand today. All his nerve and daring gone, a failure in the role of a reform seeker, and down to the level of the regulars in city court on charges of drunkenness, Crowe ended it all with a bullet from a small calibre revolver fired into his head.

Crowe had ripped all identification marks from his clothing and the body was taken to the morgue and recorded among "unidentified suicides." Capt. William Hildebrandt, who had arrested Crowe on trivial charges several years ago, was the first to recognize the suicide as Crowe. His identification was confirmed by two detectives. The police said they were unaware of Crowe's presence in the city. His last arrest here was four years ago.

Pat Crowe was one of the most picturesque bandits of his time. Prior to his kidnaping of the Cudahy boy in Omaha he had been a train robber and all-around bad man. He figured in big jobs and did time in western prisons during the early days of his career.

The kidnaping of the Cudahy boy was planned by Crowe and a man named Callahan. The latter later was arrested for the crime and served a prison sentence, but Crowe never stood trial. After the kidnaping, Pat disappeared and although frequently seen in various parts of the country, he managed to escape arrest.

CROWE ASKS CORRECTION OF REPORT OF SUICIDE

NEW YORK, Feb. 18—(AP)—Pat Crowe, alleged highwayman, kidnaper and bank robber, appeared at police headquarters shortly before midnight tonight and requested that a report that he had committed suicide in Buffalo, N. Y., today be corrected to prevent anxiety on the part of his son and daughter in Chicago.

Crowe's identy was verified in the bureau of criminal identification by a picture sent here from Chicago in 1898 when he was arrested there for robbery. He had a moustache at the time the picture was taken, and although he has none now, he was readily recognized in spite of the 30 years that have elapsed since the picture was taken.

Crowe told police that he had no idea of the identity of the man whose body, pierced by a pistol bullet, was found in the rear of the United States customs office in Buffalo today.

BATTLE BETWEEN POLITICAL LEADERS IN LOUISIANA

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 18—(AP)—Political Louisiana stood on the side lines today, watching the battle between its two leaders, Robert Ewing, democratic national committeeman, and Gov. Huey P. Long.

Until a few weeks ago these two had been fast political friends but they split, hurled volcanic charges and each called upon the other to resign his political position.

Each charged the other with being unfit for public office and in a front page editorial in his New Orleans States today, Ewing offered to retire as committeeman if Governor Long would quit the governorship.

GOV. ROOSEVELT DECLINES TO GRANT EXTRADITION

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 18—(AP)—Governor Roosevelt tonight refused the application of Massachusetts for the custody of Frederick Biedenkapp, charged with conspiracy in connection with his activities during the New Bedford textile strike last year.

The New York governor wrote Gov. Frank G. Allen, of Massachusetts, that he declined to grant the extradition request because of conflicting testimony offered at two hearings before him and also because there appeared to have been sufficient opportunity for Massachusetts authorities to have arrested Biedenkapp before he came to this state.

"There is a sharp conflict of testimony," Governor Roosevelt said, "as to whether or not the defendant was actually present in the city of New Bedford on June 27, 1928, the time it is specifically alleged he conspired as set forth in the indictment.

"It does concededly appear, however, that the defendant was often there during the months of July, August and September, 1928. Nevertheless, he was at no time arrested or tried under a municipal ordinance as were hundreds of other persons; nor was he arrested and held in bond for the November grand jury, the next grand jury meeting after June 27, 1928."

RULING IN ELK HILLS NAVAL OIL RESERVE CASE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18—(AP)—The supreme court today gave the government an unobstructed course for it to determine whether the Standard Oil company of California holds a valid title to valuable oil lands in Kern county, Calif., embraced within the Elks Hills Naval Oil reserve.

The final obstacle in the government's pathway was removed today by the court's refusal to reconsider its recent decision which held that the secretary of the interior could conduct an inquiry to determine whether the land in question was known to be mineral at the time it was surveyed.

ONLY THREE DAYS OF LEGISLATURE THIS WEEK

HARTFORD, Feb. 18—(AP)—Lack of committee session of the legislature last Friday and absence of major or controversial measures on the calendars for Tuesday are expected to combine to bring brief sessions in both houses tomorrow. Leaders plan only three session days this week, permitting the members to celebrate Washington's birthday at home. Six of the nine bills ready for house action, are changes in court charters, two others making changes in the tax laws and the ninth fixing the salary of the state auditors at $6,000 a year.

SUPREME COURT CHALLENGED BY COUNSEL FOR SINCLAIR

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18—(AP)—Arguing that Harry F. Sinclair was within his rights in refusing to answer certain questions asked by a senate committee relative to the Teapot Dome naval oil leases, Martin Littleton, the oil man's counsel today challenged the supreme court to find anything in these questions relating to other than the "most fantastic conceptions of legislation."

Hoover Train Due In Washington, 1.30 p.m.

HOOVER TRAIN ENROUTE TO WASHINGTON, Feb. 18—(AP)—The familiar click of wheels against rails sounded in the ears of President-elect Hoover once more today as his special train bore him from his vacation home at Miami Beach back to the national capital for his inauguration two weeks hence.

Having traveled more than 30,000 miles by train, boat and automobile since his nomination last June, Mr. Hoover probably was making his last journey for a few months. However, it is certain he will make many trips while he is chief executive, both over the United States and even into nearby countries, as he desires to visit the West Indies and Mexico.

Although it had been repeatedly announced before Mr. Hoover left Miami at 10:30 a. m., that his train would make none other than operating stops en route to Washington, crowds were gathered at many towns along the line up the eastern coast of Florida in the hope of at least catching a glimpse of the next chief executive.

Hundreds were disappointed for in order to maintain its almost record breaking schedule, the special went through most of the places at high speed with whistle screeching its warning. At other towns, the crowds assembled at the stations, were more fortunate.

A few who were at the West Palm Beach depot had a fine view of the president-elect as he stood on the rear platform of his private car in earnest but brief conference with James Francis Burke, general counsel of the republican national committee, who is spending the winter at Palm Beach.

An operating stop at Fort Pierce gave a crowd there an opportunity to see Mr. Hoover as he stood on the platform shaking hands with a delegation of Philadelphians who are spending the winter there.

Again at Melbourne, the train slowed down sufficiently for several hundred to get at least a glimpse of the next president who smiled broadly when the mayor struggled to hold up a huge stuffed tarpon, a species that Mr. Hoover failed to land on his excursions to the gulf stream and the Florida keys.

"Look what you missed by not coming here," the mayor said.

Again at New Symrna, an operating stop was made and a crowd was out as was the case at other towns along the routeu ntil darkness fell before the special reached Jacksonville in the early evening.

NO CLUE TO SLAYERS OF CHICAGO GANGSTERS

CHICAGO, Feb. 18—(AP)—Victims of the St. Valentine's day gang massacre were buried today and the authorities were left without a single definite clue to point to the slayers.

Police struggled through a maze of theories that sounded plausible but lacked evidence to support them, and unless new facts were produced, the authorities admitted tonight the killings bade fair to end with the same formula of a hundred other gang slayings—a coroner's verdict that the seven members of the Moran gang who were summarily executed "met death at the hands of persons unknown." The coroner's jury will reassemble next Friday.

Theories that the sextet of gangsters were killed by a rival Chicago gang, that they were killed by a Detroit gang of gunmen imported for the purpose, and that they were killed by policemen themselves all had their ardent followers—who were without concrete evidence to back up their reasonings.

Police nabbed a gunman or gangster wherever they found one—and turned them loose after they were able to prove an alibi.

NORTHAMPTON PLANNING RECEPTION FOR COOLIDGE

NORTHAMPTON, Mass. Feb. 18—(AP)—Tentative plans for the reception to President Coolidge on his return to his home town after relinquishing the presidency to Herbert Hoover were discussed tonight by a committee appointed by Mayor Jesse A. G. Andre and indicated that the affair would be of a quiet nature.

Definite plans for the homecoming reception could not be announced until a few days before the arrival of the Coolidges. Major Thomas J. Hammond, a close friend of the president and chairman of the committee, said at the conclusion of the meeting.

Uncertainty of the time of their arrival and the illness in a hospital here of Mrs. Coolidge's mother, Mrs. Lemira B. Goodhue, prevented the committee from taking definite steps.

REPORT ON THE WATER RESOURCES OF CONNECTICUT

HARTFORD, Feb. 18—(AP)—Control of the water resources of the state, for allocation among the towns for municipal water supplies, by the legislature or by an administrative body or commission, is recommended in the report on the water resources of Connecticut by Roscoe Henry Suttie, associate professor of civil engineering at Yale. The report, authorized by the 1925 legislature, is printed as bulletin number 44 of the state geological and natural history survey.

FRATERNITY INITIATION CAUSES LOSS OF MEMORY

OMAHA, Neb., 18—(AP)—Injuries sustained during initiation into a fraternity at the University of Nebraska are said to have cost Thorwald Hansen, Jr., his memory. The youth, son of a local investment broker, was found wandering about the streets here Thursday, after the initiation, bruised about the head.

At a hospital where he is confined it was said Hansen remembers nothing of events occurring since last September.

Death certificates of murder and suicide wrote an end yesterday to the police investigation of the killing of Edward L. Doheny, Jr., in Los Angeles, by his friend and secretary, T. Hugh Plunkett, who took his own life after slaying the oil operator late Saturday night.

Lindbergh's View Of Air Transportation

Believes It Will Hasten Commercial Development of Central and South America.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18—(AP)—The commercial development of Central and South America can be greatly influenced by the establishment of air transportation facilities in the opinion of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who has just returned from making the first air mail flight to the Panama Canal Zone from this country.

The colonel, who left here at 3:14 o'clock today for New York in his Curtis biplane, conferred with house leaders on pending legislation affecting aviation, and left a letter with Representative Kelly, republican, Pennsylvania, setting forth his views on the need of air transportation in Latin-America.

"Due to the slowness of the present means of travel and the expense and difficulties of railroad construction," Lindbergh said, "it appears that the airplane affords the most feasible way of bringing modern transportation to isolated communities.

"The Central American republics, which I passed through en route to the Canal Zone, displayed an intense interest in the possibility of rapid communication with the United States and with each other and were anxious to know when the facilities of the air lines would be placed at their disposal for mail and for passengers.

"I believe that provision should be made for the transportation of mail from these countries back to the United States and for their inclusion in this service at the earliest possible moment."

Representative Kelly, who has been a leader in congress in sponsoring air mail legislation, has ready for introduction in the house a bill which would permit the United States to enter into contracts with the governments of Central and South American nations for transportation of their mail to this country and to negotiate contracts with air mail companies which hold monopolies in various Latin-American republics.

Lindbergh parried all questions regarding his personal affairs with the request:

"Please ask me something else."

SUPREME COURT DECISION ADVERSE TO OKLAHOMA

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18—(AP)—The supreme court held today that the state of Oklahoma was without legal right to impair the franchises of private cotton ginning corporations and companies by authorizing co-operative associations having capital stock to establish gins upon the petition of 100 taxpayers without showing a public necessity for additional gins, such as private concerns would be required to show.

The case was brought by the Mitchell Gin company of Durant, Oklahoma. The decision of the court was concurred in by six justices while three dissented. The minority expressed the opinion that the decision constituted a blow at co-operative associations with capital stock.

SYSTEM OF SANCTUARIES FOR MIGRATORY BIRDS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18—(AP)—A national system of sanctuaries where miratory birds may feed, rest and breed, unmolested, in marshy and woodland areas, will come into being by the bill signed today by President Coolidge.

It is the contribution of the United States to an agreement with Canada to lessen the dangers threatening the rapid extinction of the continent's birds and results from the pleas of conservationists in all parts of the country for nearly a dozen years that congress enact the legislation.

In every state of the Union and in Alaska, one or more of the natural woodland sanctuaries will be created for game fowl and migratory birds under the program which is estimated to be completed within ten years.

NOMINATIONS CONFIRMED BY THE SENATE YESTERDAY

John Buckley Was Confirmed as United States Attorney For Connecticut—Representative Garrett Accepted as a Member of the Court of Appeals—Nomination of Lenroot Was Referred to a Sub Committee For Consideration.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18—(AP)—The nomination of John Buckley, as United States attorney for Connecticut, was confirmed by the senate today.

The senate also confirmed the nomination of Representative Garrett, of Tennessee, retiring democratic leader of the house, as a member of the court of customs appeals while its judiciary committee referred to a sub-committee for consideration the nomination of Irvine Lenroot, former republican senator from Wisconsin to be a member of the same court. The nomination of Henry Glassie, former democratic member of the tariff commission, as a member of the District of Columbia supreme court, also was referred to the sub-committee.

Senator Borah, republican Idaho, asked the senate judiciary committee for some information about Mr. Lenroot's connection with the power utility companies a year ago at the time the companies opposed the resolution of Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, for an inquiry into their affairs.

Chairman Norris, of the committee named the Idaho senator as chairman of the sub-committee.

He served as attorney for the power companies in the contest before the senate interstate commerce committee over the Walsh resolution. The senate later referred the resolution to the federal trade commission to conduct an inquiry.

Glassie was opposed several years ago by Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the democratic leader, because of his participation on the tariff commission in a decision on the sugar duty. Robinson contended that members of Glassie's family were interested in the sugar business. He was not reappointed to the commission.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR MELVILLE E. STONE

NEW YORK, Feb. 18—(AP)—In a gray stone church made bright with thousands of blossoms, funeral services were held today for Melville E. Stone, the grand old man of American journalism.

As the services began the 120,000 miles of telegraph wires of the Associated Press of which he was general manager for more than a quarter of a century, fell momentarily silent, and throughout the world the men and women who work in the news organization which grew under his leadership stood in silent tribute to his memory.

The funeral services were held in the Park Avenue Baptist church with Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, the pastor, officiating. They were simple and brief. But solemnly impressive. A quartet sang "Abide With Me" and "Lead Kindly Light". Dr. Fosdick read passages from the old and new testaments and read a prayer in which he spoke of Mr. Stone's notable career, and then the casket, covered with roses, was borne out of the church. The pall bearers were men who had been connected with the Associated Press under Mr. Stone's managership, the majority of them still being with the organization.

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 18—(AP)—The necessity of protecting her interests in the estates of her father, County Detective William E. Jackson, who was murdered the night of Jan. 29, and of her mother, Mrs. Gertrude P. Jackson, who committed suicide by shooting a week and a day later, drew Miss Juanita Jackson from seclusion today, and she was seen in her store, the Quality shop, on Main street, for the first time since she and her mother found the body of the detective in the kitchen of their home.

When met downtown, with Mrs. Ada Andrews, who has been looking after the Jackson home for a fortnight, Miss Jackson said she thought she would take up the duties of operating her store within a few days. But an hour later, when seen in the store, she declared she felt sufficiently recovered from the shock of losing both parents, and would begin at once in the handling of her business.

TWO MORE VICTIMS FOR BOSTON SUBWAY SLASHER

BOSTON, Feb. 18—(AP)—Two young women reported to the police that they had been attacked by the elusive "subway slasher," who thus brought the number of his victims to 13. All the attacks have occurred on subway or elevated trains within the past month.

Today's victims were Rose Martella, 24 years old, of East Boston, and Priscilla Nickerson, of Winchester. The attacks followed the arrest two days ago of two suspects. As in previous instances, the girls' garments were slit with a sharp instrument. Police believe a razor blade may have been used.

Miss Martella and Miss Nickerson gave somewhat different descriptions of their attackers, one placing his age at 25 and the other at 35, though both agreed her assailant was of stocky build and wore a cap.

TURNED ON AIRPORT LIGHTS WHILE STILL 2,000 FEET ALOFT

NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 18—(AP)—Pete Branson, air mail pilot, coming in for a landing after dark tonight, while still 2,000 feet aloft pushed a button in his plane that turned on the lights in the airport below him.

It was a demonstration of another spectacular stride in the progress of aviation, and the first practical application of a new principle that was announced only three months ago at Pittsburgh. Branson's button turned on a wind-siren in his plane long enough for the instrument to blow three blasts. Those sounds carried down to the field and impinged upon a sound sensitive apparatus, that automatically turned on the 24 million candle power floodlights of the Newark airport, eastern terminus of the air mail.

HOUSE COMMITTEE TO INVESTIGATE WINSLOW

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18—(AP)—The contemplated investigation of charges against Federal Judge Francis A. Winslow of the southern district today was taken out of the hands of the department of justice where it had rested unofficially for the past five days and was handed back to the house judiciary committee.

In an executive session today the committee voted to withdraw its request to the department to make a preliminary inquiry into the judge's administration and decided to ask the house for permission to establish a special sub-committee to make the probe.

ROSE PASTOR STOKES AGAIN IN LIMELIGHT

NEW YORK, Feb. 18—(AP)—Rose Pastor Stokes, who became known as "Rose of the Tenements" through years of fighting for socialism and radicalism, today was discharged in magistrate's court for disorderly conduct, but was ordered to appear Tuesday for parading in a picket line a nine-year-old boy who authorities said should have been in school.

Mrs. Stokes, who was divorced by James Graham Phelps Stokes, philanthropist, more than three years ago, was arrested in the garment center with Adolph Wolff, another well-known radical, and 225 other persons charged with disorderly conduct in mass picketing. A number of garment firms where employes recently struck have not yet effected settlements; although peace has been declared with some establishments.

In Jefferson market court, Mrs. Stokes said the boy, Jerry Romaine, was her son "by every right but birth," but the boy was taken in charge by the children's society. The boy, who was walking between Wolff and Mrs. Stokes in the picket line, is educated by home tutoring, Mrs. Stokes said.

ARRANGING PROCEDURE FOR REPARATIONS EXPERTS

PARIS, Feb. 18—(AP)—The question of the procedure to be followed in drawing up a final agreement on the reparations problem, is now before the committee of experts.

The committee found this morning when it proposed to grapple with the principal points of its mission that a little further preparation would be required before it took up the vital issue of the amount of annuities and reparations total.

The experts went over a few more points concerning Germany's economic situation and then decided to appoint a sub-committee to frame a report for continuation of the committee's work. This report will be made tomorrow to the full body.

By adoption of a method of procedure it is understood the committee will decide whether to go ahead on the strength of the presentation of Germany's economic situation and fix her capacity or whether to invite Germany to say how much she can pay, ask her creditors how much they would be satisfied and then proceed to compromise the divergent views.

WILL BE NO PARADE OF NIGHT CLUB HOSTESSES

NEW YORK, Feb. 18 (AP)—The possibility of a parade of night club hostesses and Broadway characters in and out of the witness chair during the trial of government suits against a syndicate accused of fraudulently selling stock throughout the country was definitely dispelled tonight by government counsel.

Assistant United States Attorney Lowell Wadmond said he had decided it would not be necessary to call Texas Guinan, night club hostess, and others to testify as to how Herbert C. and John T. Locke, two of the defendants, spent the money they are alleged to have made fraudulently as "it is not a question of how any defendants spent the money but whether or not the money was illegally obtained".

Previously information had been sought by the government from Peggy Hopkins Joyce, but a process server missed her when she sailed recently for France. She sent back word she was going to remain abroad several months. She is said to have been given a $40,000 foreign car by the Locke brothers.

DEPRESSED CENTENARIAN COMMITTED SUICIDE

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Feb. 18—(AP)—Depressed at the frailities of old age as he approached his 100th birthday, Dr. Edward Fye Turner Onslow Osbaldeston, after sending a sealed letter to an undertaker in which he gave instructions for his funeral was found a suicide today.

STUDENT EGG-THROWERS ARE FINED $1 FOR PRANK

(Special to The Bulletin

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 18—A half-dozen hard-boiled eggs with soft shells from Storrs figured in a projected egg-laying contest in the Capitol theatre here Sunday night which landed them in the lock-up overnight followed by their appearance in police court this morning charged with breach of the peace. The egg-throwers who figured in the uncouth episode at the playhouse pleaded guilty to the combined charge and were each fined one dollar and costs by Judge Frank H. Foss.

Sunday night's incident, which resulted in the ruining of clothing and the good nature of some of the spectators who were sprayed by the splattering eggs, had all the earmarks of a revenge for the eviction from the theatre last Friday night of a sextet of students who had thrown a dead rat at two actors performing in a vaudeville act. Sunday night the youths came armed with eggs and from seats in the balcony began to plaster the house and patrons in general. A quantity of eggs were found underneath some of the seats occupied by members of the group while still others had been allowed to roll down the aisle. The students, all of whom are freshmen at Connecticut Agricultural college were: Rudolph Greiser, 19, of Bridgeport, Edward Verillo, 19, of Hartford, Michael Zito, 20, of New Haven, William Hurwitz, 19, of Hartford, Roger McDermott, 17, of New Haven and Napoleon Bortolan, 18, also of New Haven.

Probation Officer William V. Palmer, Sr., acted as guardian ad litem for the youths who expressed repentence for their deed this morning. Manager George A. Bartlett of the theatre testified to having his attention called to the disturbance by an usher and of calling in Officer Ralph Burchnall, who made the arrest. Manager Bartlett said that he could not identify any of the students as members of the sextet who had thrown the rodent on the stage Friday night.

In imposing the fine Judge Foss reprimanded the boys saying: "You fellows ought to know better in the interests of yourselves, the community and the college you represent. It is not my aim to administer a big fine as I believe that the uncomplimentary publicity that will arise against you in this case will prove a far more powerful deterrent to a repetition of such acts than any other punishment." Prosecuting Attorney Harry S. Gaucher informed the court that many students of the college had expressed regret upon hearing of the incident and that there was no likelihood of another scene. Regret was also expressed at the unfortunate position in which the acts of the students placed the Capitol theatre management and it is expected that the students will take some definite action to insure the public that they can go to this popular playhouse in the future without danger of being victimized by crude pranks. At the conclusion of his admonition Judge Foss said, "The public places here are only too glad to have you come down from Storrs as long as you behave yourselves."

YOUTH BOUND OVER FOR THEFT OF RADIO BATTERIES

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 18—Frank Zakiukiewicz, a minor of R. F. D. No. 1 was bound over to the next criminal term of the Windham county superior court at the session of police court this morning when he was charged with breaking and entering and theft. Bonds of $500 were named. The young man was arrested early this morning by Officer Joseph Lariviere when he was detected carrying three radio batteries which he claimed to have found on Walnut street. Upon questioning at police headquarters the youth confessed to having broken into the Windham Battery company plant at 855 Main street. In addition to the batteries he had also stolen an Atwater-Kent radio receiving set which has been recovered by the police. M. Leslie Nichols, proprietor of the battery shop identified the articles.

Antique machinery can be found in almost every town in eastern Connecticut where many plants that were pioneers in a number of industries continue to stand according to a statement made here today by W. W. Taylor of Sudbury, Mass., eastern agent for Henry Ford in the collection of antiques for the Ford museum at Dearborn, Mich. Mr. Taylor, said that Mr. Ford had personally secured the services of Elmer Fancher and Michael Tabor, both of this city, to disassemble machinery purchased by the automobile magnate in this section. The two mechanics are now engaged in dismantling an old engine in the Peep Todd mill in North Killingly. The engine is represented as one of the oldest in Connecticut, having been in use for over 75 years. Mr. Taylor is negotiating with the borough of Danielson for the purchase of an old fire engine which is only used in cases of emergency. This engine is of the rotary steam type and is the only one of its kind in Connecticut, with the possible exception of one that has been seen in the vicinity of East Hartford.

Arthur Dennett of Killingly was charged with speeding in the Columbia town court Saturday afternoon. He pleaded guilty and was fined $10 and costs, the fine being remitted. Dennett, who was arrested by State Policeman Terrance A. Griffin following an accident on the Willimantic-Hartford highway, west of Katzman's corners paid costs of about $12. Dennett's car skidded in making a curve and overturned. The machine was badly damaged but the driver escaped injury.

CAPT. McLEAN REINSTATED TO WILLIMANTIC POLICE

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 18—Capt. of Police Frank McLean was reinstated at the adjourned common council meeting tonight following a five weeks' suspension. The reinstatement was made in the form of a motion by Alderman Eugene B. Lewis, at present the only active member of the police committee, who, with Corporation Counsel William A. King, had given McLean a hearing last Thursday night. Alderman Lewis stated that the only charge that the committee had considered was that of leaving the city without permission of a superior officer. He explained later that Captain McLean after being discharged of his duties on Christmas eve informed Lieut. Edward P. Leahy that he was going to South Manchester to take his brother-in-law there. The trouble which led to the captain's suspension and to his arrest by the Bolton authorities occurred upon the return trip from Manchester. McLean's version of the trouble was that he stopped at the Rainbow Inn accompanied by his wife to inquire of Charles Pinney, the proprietor, if he had been making serious remarks concerning Mrs. McLean. McLean alleges that Pinney at first affirmed that he had said that Mrs. McLean was a customer at his place, but upon being taken outside to the car and introduced to Mrs. McLean he stated that she was not the woman he was speaking of. Pinney then left on the pretext of going to secure a former proprietor of the inn, whom he thought would throw some light on the trouble. Instead he returned with Constable Woodward, who grabbed McLean and told him to come along. McLean states that he did not know that Woodward was an officer of the law at the time and that in self-defense he struck Woodward, blackening one of his eyes. The constable then displayed his badge, according to McLean, and McLean said that he would go along quietly. It appears that the matter was patched up and McLean with his wife came home, but early the next morning a state police officer came here and served a warrant on McLean, charging him with assault and breach of the peace. The case was finally aired before Justice of the Peace Connors at the Bolton town court. McLean was found guilty and heavily fined. He took an appeal to the superior court. He was suspended from the police department by Mayor Charles A. Gates five weeks ago. The death of Alderman William E. Jackson and the absence from the city of Alderman Arthur J. Dubreuil has left Alderman Lewis as the only member of the police committee. As near as could be learned tonight some settlement of the case is being arranged. Captain McLean will resume his duties tomorrow.

During the meeting several matters of minor importance were taken up, the meeting adjourning at 9:15 o'clock and being immediately followed by a special meeting. This special meeting, which was called for the purpose of naming a successor to Alderman Jackson in the position of first ward alderman, was adjourned for one week. It is understood that the adjournment was brought about by some dissension on the part of the aldermen present as to the choice for the alderman. Two names were prominently mentioned tonight, those of Wilfred A. Gagnon and Chauncey E. McFarlane. It is known that at least one republican member of the board was not favorable to the election of McFarlane to the position.

The operator's license of Robert Carocari of 105 South street has been restored and that of Keith A. Trombly of this city has been suspended, according to notices received by Police Chief Thomas F. Grady from the state department.

who said that SUGAR spoils the complexion?

Good food promotes good health

WHERE do all the food and dieting fads come from? As an eminent medical specialist says, "Of all the fads which have afflicted mankind, none seems more difficult to explain than the desire of American women for the barber pole figure."

There's another prejudice that to us seems equally wrong. It is that sugar in the diet ruins the complexion.

That isn't true. Overeating of any food might easily impair the health and the complexion. And so might undereating. Girls, women and men should not starve themselves in order to reduce weight. A study of the workers in 25 eastern department stores revealed that much of the illness was due to poor nutrition, especially to the neglect of a suitable noon lunch. You cannot starve yourself and keep well, or keep your good looks.

Eat a variety of foods, regularly, and remember that nothing takes the place of sugar for making other foods enjoyable. Sweetness is nature's perfect flavor. Eat cereals, grapefruit, and all kinds of raw, fresh and canned vegetables and fruits, sweetened for enjoyment. Complexion is a question of health and healthful eating. A bit of sweet makes the meal complete. The Sugar Institute.

REAL WINTER AIRS HEADED FOR THIS LOCALITY ACCORDING TO OFFICIAL FORECAST

Thermometer due for drop in this locality, experts warn

Those who complain that the old-fashioned seasons have changed will have a welcome bit of old-time weather soon, if the temperature man is to be believed. Real winter temperatures are due here shortly, according to official forecasts, and folks who are sensitive to cold had better prepare to bundle up. Warm clothes for the family and a ration of denatured alcohol for the old family bus is the order of the day.

During the last cold spell a good many car owners discovered that water freezing into ice has enough force of expansion to crack an expensive motor from end to end, and that means repair bills that aren't exactly a joke. Garage men were kept busy patching up broken radiators and cracked cylinders. Denatured alcohol is a mighty inexpensive form of protection against that sort of misfortune and more and more car owners, according to dealers, are taking advantage of it.

As an anti-freeze, denatured alcohol is approved by every car manufacturer and by the largest makers of automobile radiators. The reason for this universal approval is said to be the fact that in the past few years other anti-freeze preparations have appeared containing chemicals that are injurious to a motor, while experience has shown that denatured alcohol is not only reliable and inexpensive but also harmless to a motor.

Local dealers declare wrong anti-freeze costly

Expensive motors injured by corroding chemicals—Recommend denatured alcohol as safe and effective

Car owners who get ready for the coming colder weather by using patent chemical anti-freeze mixtures will not be as safe as the great majority who use denatured alcohol, according to local dealers. The wrong anti-freeze may be costly, say those who know.

Statistics show, however, that a vast majority of all our car owners use denatured alcohol and water as an anti-freeze mixture, so only a small minority take needless risks in this regard.

My new car cost $100. more because my old car froze

"$90 was the first cost, but not the last," writes Keith Babcock, of Fleetwood, New York.

"On a trip to Washington we stopped off in New York for dinner. We lingered some time over the meal and when we came out we found that the weather had suddenly turned cold. I had a pretty uneasy feeling then, and determined to stop at the first convenient place and get some Denatured Alcohol.

"The car started all right, but before we had gone a mile the motor suddenly became enveloped in a cloud of steam. When it subsided we found the cold had cracked the cylinder block and head.

"That was the end of our trip, of course. We were towed home. Three days later I got a bill for $90 in repairs.

"But that wasn't the end of the grief. When we turned our car in for a new one this spring $100 was deducted from the original allowance because the cylinder block had been welded.

"I certainly paid until it hurt for my carelessness. But believe me, while there's Denatured Alcohol to be bought, I'll never get caught that way again!"

THERE are five definite reasons why most experienced car owners prefer Denatured Alcohol to all other anti-freeze preparations.

1. Denatured Alcohol is more economical. An entire winter's supply costs considerably less than any other anti-freeze.

2. Denatured Alcohol is more convenient to buy. You don't have to shop for it. Any dealer can supply you.

3. Denatured Alcohol does not seep out as other preparations have a marked tendency to do.

4. Denatured Alcohol does not corrode or eat the metal and rubber of the cooling system as many chemical preparations do.

5. Denatured Alcohol is approved by every manufacturer of water-cooled cars, by dealers, and by the world's largest makers of automobile radiators. No other anti-freeze preparation receives such universal endorsement. In the case of many cars the radiator guarantee becomes void if anti-freeze preparations other than Denatured Alcohol are used.

Take five minutes today and have your dealer put Denatured Alcohol in your radiator. He knows the correct amount for your car.

TEXTILE EXHIBIT TO BE HELD AT DANIELSON

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 18—Again the eastern Connecticut Mills association has decided to hold its biennial textile exhibit in Danielson. This announcement is made following a meeting of representatives of the organization in Plainfield. The event is to take place at the state armory in June. The exhibit will be the third such that has been held in Danielson by the association, which represents mills all along the Quinebaug Valley and as far south as Westerly. The first of these exhibits was held here in 1925, and was an outstanding success, so much so as to be a very complete surprise even to many more or less familiar with what textile mills in the area mentioned were doing in a manufacturing way. The second show was in June of 1927, and like the first one attracted thousands of people and the praise of all who viewed the exhibits and took particular delight in the style show, an added feature in which beautiful young woman displayed materials manufactured in the mills they represented.

President E. B. Wilbur, Vice President W. H. G. Herkiots, Walter Anderson and A. P. Woodward of the local chamber of commerce attended the Plainfield meeting to successfully urge that Danielson be again preferred as the community in which the coming exhibit is to be held.

Sent to Reform School

Ralph Shippee, an Elmville youth, just cannot be good. As a consequence he finds himself as the week opens confined to the state reformatory at Cheshire, there to remain for an indefinite period, probably for several years. Some months ago Shippee with another Elmville youth who is still at liberty, broke into St. Joseph's church at Dayville and St. James' church at Danielson for the purpose of stealing money from poor boxes and votive offering stands. This Shippee later confessed. As an incident to his escapide they had "borrowed" a small automobile belonging to Shippee's father, and the machine later was reported to the police as stolen. It was later found abandoned near Olneyville square in Providence, whence the youths went after burglarizing the local churches. A votive offering stand that they took from St. James' church to later break open a little locked compartment containing a few coins was found where they had tossed it over a wall in the Horse hill district of this town. For his part in the affair Shippee was brought before the town court and sentenced to the reformatory at Cheshire, but the sentence was suspended and Shippee placed on probation pending the arrest of his companion, a William Culley, who has not since been found, have departed for parts unknown.

Shippee has recently been in action again, however. He has been caught stealing cord wood belonging to Frank Eldridge, where it was piled up in the eastern part of the town, and loading it into an automobile. For this violation of his parole he has been committed to Cheshire.

Taking time by the forelock, Killingly owners of dogs who do not wish to see them chained up through the quarantine period that begins next Monday morning, Feb. 25, are having them immunized against rabies. Dogs so treated, by a sort of anti-rabies vaccination, can be at liberty 21 days after being given the treatment and may go about as usual. The "vaccination" must be done by a registered veterinarian. Dogs that receive the anti-rabies treatment are provided with a special metal tag setting florth the fact, this tag to be attached to the animals collar. A certificate setting forth that the treatment has been given is provided the dog's owner, and the dog warden, domestic animal bureau and veterinary all have copies of a certificate showing that the treatment has been given. Some treatments already have been administered to dogs here and it is anticipated that many others will be during the week, that their owners may avoid the necessity of keeping them confined through the many weeks of the quarantine period.

Members of the newly organized Killingly High school band are continuing with their rehearsals and with the practice work that will bring them proficiency as members of such an organization. Progress already is being shown. The girls and boys who make up the membership are pioneers in building up a musical organization that it is hoped will endure through the years, and they appear to be appreciative of that fact.

One of the moves expected to follow the establishment of the dog quarantine in Killingly is the merciful killing of all dogs that are known to have been bitten by the two rabid animals that were at large in this town within the past fortnight. Such dogs as were bitten, at least known to be bitten, are already in quarantine. Just when these dogs will be put away had not been determined today, but the quarantine order contains a provision for the despatching of them.

Men who are more or less familiar with the used car business in this territory are asserting that it is possible today to buy a servicable car in operating condition for less than the price of a good suit of clothes. Of course, this applies to small, used cars in the low-priced field originally. An instance was the sale today of a little car in good running order for $22. It is going to cost around $15 to register it for a year. However, this car represents very considerable prospective enjoyment for the owner. It will get him where he wants to go and apparently has thousands of miles of service left in it. If it gets wrecked or goes particularly bad a year hence, he can consign it to the junk man without serious financial loss. He hasn't much of anything invested.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Haynes were invited to Providence Sunday to be entertained by their son, Charles A. Haynes, superintendent of the Grant mill in that city, on the occasion of the senior Mr. Haynes' birthday. Also at the birthday observance was Mrs. Laura Haynes Barnes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Haynes.

His many friends here were shocked this afternoon upon announcement of the death of Howard E. Elliott, special deputy commissioner of domestic animals, near West Hartford. Mr. Elliott died from injuries received in an automobile accident late Sunday night. He was in Danielson on business last Thursday afternoon. Mr. Elliott first came to Danielson as a member of the state police department years ago. He made a great many sincere friends in this part of the state.

In observance of Washington's birthday banks in Danielson will be closed on Friday.

Under the auspices of the Queen Esther circle, Miss Sadie Davis of Providence is to speak at the Methodist Episcopal church Tuesday evening, and members of the Wesleyan circle have been invited. At a supper preceding her talk Miss Davis is to be the guest of honor.

Major E. L. Darbie was in Putnam this evening for the inspection of the Headquarters company, 43d division.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel O'Leary and daughter, Ethel, visited with relatives in Boston on Sunday.

Spring cannot be so far away. Danielson boys have taken to playing marbles and spinning tops.

Rev. E. P. Wright, rector of St. Philip's church at Putnam will be the preacher at the Thursday evening Lenten service at St. Alban's church.

PUTNAM

FRIENDS OF H. E. ELLIOTT SADDENED BY HIS DEATH

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Feb. 18—Word was received here at noon today of the death of Chief Deputy Commissioner Howard E. Elliott of the department of domestic animals, who died following an automobile collision in West Hartford, at midnight Sunday evening. Commissioner Elliott was committed to St. Francis hospital in Hartford suffering from major skull injuries. Details regarding the accident in which the well known officer was involved were not given the Putnam police today.

Mr. Elliott was well known in Windham county because of his duties that have brought him to Putnam several times during his career as a state policeman and as a member of the staff of investigators of the department of domestic animals.

When a member of the state police force, Mr. Elliott was instrumental in the capture of the notorious Bradley-Shackett gangsters and burglars, who were apprehended in Putnam eight years ago and now serving long term sentences in the state prison.

Commissioner Elliott was in Putnam on Thursday of last week investigating the rampage of a rabid dog, killed in Dayville earlier in the week. Chauncey E. Genung, brother-in-law of Commissioner Elliott, who assisted him in the investigation was the guest of Captain William Jarvis of the Putnam police Sunday evening and when word of the accident to Mr. Elliott reached Putnam at three o'clock this morning, Mr. Genung left at once for Hartford.

Late this afternoon it was announced that Treasurer Daniel J. Byrne of the Putnam Savings bank, seriously ill of pneumonia at his home on Seward street, had improved this afternoon over his condition of this morning, which also denoted a gain over that of last night. Mr. Byrne's temperature which had remained at a high point since Friday was said to be gradually returning to normal.

Miss Isabelle Byrne, sister of the stricken bank executive and superintendent of the Sloan Memorial hospital in New York city has arrived in this city to aid in caring for her brother.

Stephen Troupa of the Gary district was before Judge M. H. Geissler in police court this morning, charged with intoxication, breach of peace and assault upon his wife, Mary Troupa. The defendent was arrested on a complaint by Capt. W. J. Jarvis Sunday afternoon after he had severely bruised his wife in a family argument. In police court this morning Troupa was defended by Attorney E. C. Morse who alleged that the offenses were committed by Troupa after persistent nagging by his wife. Two young children of the couple testified that their mother took the offensive leading to their father attacking her in a fit of rage, and did not feel that he was wholly to blame for the outcome. Mrs. Troupa related a story in her behalf charging her husband with cruelty and to substantiate her assertions exhibited a number of ugly bruises about her face and hands which she claimed were the work of her husband.

In deciding the case Judge Geissler found the defendant guilty to the offenses contained in the warrant, imposing a fine of $1.00 and a sixty day jail sentence, suspending the latter for one year. This was followed by a warning to Troupa of the seriousness of his actions and what would result in the event he should be arrested again for the same charge within one year.

Henry Milton Bradford, a life long resident of North Woodstock died at his home Friday evening following a short illness of pneumonia. Mr. Bradford's name is one that has been familiar in the annals of Woodstock for nearly two centuries and he is a direct descendant of William Bradford, colonial governor of Massachusetts. Mr. Bradford was born in Woodstock on Nov. 7, 1846, the son of Dr. Milton Bradford and Lydia Ann Morse. The majority of his years were spent in the village of his birth where he engaged in farming and market gardening. Mr. Bradford is survived by a brother Dr. Cary C. Bradford of Southbridge, Mass.

The Mezgers of Kansas City in their garden—one more of the many families all over the country who give much praise to Lifebuoy for their splendid health record.

"Sickness all around us .... but my family escaped"

"Lifebuoy's antiseptic lather was a real help,"— says Mrs. W. L. Mezger

WE HAVE been using Lifebuoy Soap for years, so many that I fail to remember the time our household was without it," says Mrs. W. L. Mezger, charming mother of a husky nine year old son, Billy, and aunt of little Martha.

"My husband used it before we were married and when we had a boy large enough to enjoy a close acquaintance with Mother Earth we found it most indispensable. Small cousins use it also, so it is a genuine family friend.

"It does more than cleanse. With its antiseptic qualities, Lifebuoy is a real help in guarding against germs. Our hands can't help coming in contact with germs every day, especially during months like these when lots of people are sick and there are more germs than ever about.

"But you do feel so much safer using Lifebuoy. Our household has always been singularly free from illness. In fact, many times there was sickness all around us, but my family escaped." Mrs. W. L. Mezger, 5131 Forest Ave., Kansas City, Mo.

Mrs. Mezger is typical of the millions of mothers who rely upon Lifebuoy to help them guard family health.

Is your family safeguarded?

BEAUTIFICATION, OR RURAL ROADS.

This week the citizens of Lafayette county, Missouri, are to meet for the purpose of discussing and deciding upon plans for the beautification of the main highways of that county.

It is an effort similar to what has been done in many other localities in recognition of the fact that the travel over main highways grows every year and it is a matter of good advertising to see that the roads are made as attractive as possible.

We are not exactly familiar with the main thoroughfares of Lafayette county, so it is difficult at this distance to reach any conclusion as to the need of beautification, but if there are main thoroughfares, and by that we presume they mean the improved roads, then there must be the unimproved roads which have to be used by a certain number of residents in order to reach the main thoroughfares.

Plans appear to be well laid in behalf of beautification, but the question arises as to whether the greater need is to make these main roads more attractive or to employ the money that would be required for such a purpose in the betterment of the country roads. In other words is the situation much different than it is right here in Connecticut? While we have main thoroughfares and improved roads which are part of the state highway system we also have many rural roads which are getting too little attention for the use which is or might be made of them. Those who must or would like to use these country roads would get far more benefit from the money devoted to highway purposes if that which is now used for beautification purposes were to be devoted to rural road construction.

There is no escaping the fact that excellent results can be obtained from the work of beautification. Everyone is pleased by it, but is it a square deal for those on the country roads who are contributing to the taxes for the construction and maintenance of highways to employ all such money on a fixed system of roads and then set about the beautification of such roads without devoting some attention to roads which are in a deplorable condition and ought to be improved? Let beautification come in time, but let the rural roadbeds get some improvement first. There's real need for the latter.

TROTZKY UNWANTED.

It has been said that "uneasy rests the head that wears a crown." Trotzky doesn't, never has and probably never will wear a crown but he is kept in a constant state of uncertainty. Not only is he uneasy but he knows he isn't wanted.

There were the days when he was under full sail with his communistic ideas. He had authority and he exercised it, but changes have taken place in Russia since that time. Trotzky and his gang are not in control and it is not the intention of Moscow that he shall ever return to a position of responsibility or become so situated that he can influence conditions in that country.

Trotzky is decidedly out of favor, so much so that he has been spending some time in exile in Turkestan, in the belief that under restrictions there he would be harmless. Trotzky is too radical for the powers that control today, but they know his cunning and his influence and they are unwilling to give him a chance to come back.

Under such circumstances it seems a bit unusual that he is even allowed to get away from his exile in Turkestan. For years ill health has been claimed to be one of his handicaps and it is even now maintained that he hasn't long to live. If that is true it may explain the willingness of Moscow to allow him to depart for Turkey, but with his retention in the soviet embassy at Constantinople it is apparent that Russia is going to make sure that he goes where it is willing and that he doesn't go where it would be objectionable to Russia and to other countries.

There is no eagerness on the part of other countries to accept Trotzky with open arms. He isn't looked upon as an abused political exile but as a man with decidedly dangerous ideas and most unwelcome. Even as a sick man he doesn't arouse international sympathy in view of his known policies and no country, except it be Turkey, hankers after the task of keeping an eye on him. That, of course, is not surprising in view of the manner in which Moscow treats him.

THE AIRPLANE CARRIERS.

The country has two large airplane carriers. They were built at large expense and they cost considerable money to operate. The fuel bill is no minor item. Because of the expense and the feeling that they are not needed it has been urged by Congressman French of Idaho that they be put out of commission when smaller carriers are built.

Opinions as to the value and the use, the wisdom of the expense and the upkeep of naval vessels will always vary. The airplane carriers are the result of the introduction of the flying machine into the navy. In order to get the most effective use of the aircraft some such vessel as the Saratoga and Lexington is needed. They serving as a landing place at sea and overcome the necessity of endurance flights in case of trouble.

There isn't any naval vessel but what costs plenty of money to construct and operate. Costs have risen concerning them quite the same as everything else, but it is the right attitude that is taken by Secretary Wilbur of the navy department when he declares that the two airplane carriers are essential, have proved themselves even more efficient than was expected, their operating cost is no greater than was anticipated and they are going to be kept in the service.

When a ship is put out of commission it doesn't mean that it is causing the government no expense. All that is necessary, if such an idea is held, is to look at the many merchant vessels which the government owns, which are out of service and which are entailing plenty of upkeep expense and fast losing what value they ever had.

The airplane carrier is the present day method of keeping the naval aircraft in close touch with the navy. To put the carriers out of commission would be to admit that they are a failure, that the experiment that was resorted to when they were constructed was not a success and such does not jibe with the opinion of the navy department. It might as well be said that because the battleships of the fleet are not needed for defense purposes they ought to be tied up in some cove and put out of commission to rust and deteriorate against the time when they might be employed. Such is not the policy followed and it will not be adopted in regard to the airplane carriers.

REMOVING THE SNOW.

The time when snow removal may be reasonably expected has not passed but it is certain that there cannot be much more of it. Another four weeks and it will be all done and there are those states which are already figuring up their bill for the winter.

Connecticut has had an exceptional winter. Its snows have been few and far between and what there have been have been light. Thus the expense of keeping the roads open has been in keeping therewith. This means a happy relief for the expense funds of cities as well as of the state.

From Michigan comes the report that snow removal the past year reached the total cost of $554,7777 or twice the amount in the previous year. This winter it is experiencing abnormal snows, the latest having entailed an expense of $50,000. Other states will put forward the same complaint but it has gotten so that snow removal is one of those expenses which go with the motor vehicle and modern roads.

There were the days when those who used the roads were expected to clear the way. It was hard for the one who broke the path and hard for those who followed until the snow was bedded down, but that no longer exists on the main roads. Every storm is a signal for the road cleaners to get out and busy themselves in keeping the roads clear before they become clogged, and the forces are so organized that they cover the state in a remarkably short time. It all means expense, quite the same as the present day roadbeds, but it is only what those who make use of the roads are paying for in one way or another. It is bound to fluctuate with the character of the winter and because Connecticut escapes with a small bill this winter doesn't give any assurance that it will do likewise another year.

DESIRABLE COOPERATION.

Even though it has not been possible to bring about an international agreement for the restriction of the production of narcotics to such amounts as are needed for medical and scientific purposes, this government has been able to arrange for what promises to be an effective means of obtaining information and checking the smuggling of dope. This has been accomplished through an agreement entered into with 13 countries whereby there will be an exchange of data in regard to drug traffic between those who are charged with enforcement work in the respective countries.

This should mean that the head of the narcotic enforcement officials in this country will cooperate with those engaged in the same work in European countries by the exchange of information bearing on suspects and the possible movements of quantities of habit forming drugs.

The idea has prevailed in this country of sending representatives to European countries for the purpose of obtaining this particular information as an aid to the narcotic squads here. With all countries working for the same object it is conceivable that those organized for such work in the respective countries are the best fitted to obtain the information which the others seek and by working together much more effective results will be accomplished.

Fighting the smuggler is not an easy task. Many advantages are on his side for there are all kinds of ways of covering up and secreting habit forming drugs. But with a relentless war being waged both in Europe and in this country a far better control than was ever before accomplished should result. It is at least a commendable move in the right direction.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—The Fenn census bill together with the reapportionment under the Constitution, is running against many snags now it has reached the senate. Vandenburg, the newly seated senator from Michiban took a hand in combining the two, and stated vigorously that he did not propose the census bill should pass unless the reapportionment bill went along with it. The trouble is that Vandenburg is very new to the senate and its procedure and even though he may be right, he is not yet in a position to carry influence when he runs up against the steering committee and senators, who from long service, hold rank of seniority. There is no question but what Mr. Vandenburg brought out added opposition, by trying to tell the senate where it would get off, if it did not come to his point of view. His motion to give reapportionment first place on the senate business, failed by a vote of 43 to 23.

Those in charge of the Fenn bill, and the reapportionment measure hope it will pass at this session, but at this moment the path is by no means clear. Another danger lies in the probability that if Senator Reed of Missouri brings up the Vare matter, as he wants to, it may result in long debate and a possible fillbuster by the friends of Vare, which would shut out practically all other legislation, and the Fenn bill would not be able to secure a foothold on the legislative slate.

That is as the matter stands today, but these are times when today's predictions are liable to be scrapheaped when tomorrow dawns.

Floor Leader Tilson expresses the opinion that the extra session to be called by Mr. Hoover will be either on the 8th or 15th of April, although a rumor was current yesterday that it might not materialize before April 28. That does not seem likely, however, unless the ways and means committee is unable to complete its tax revision bill in time to meet an earlier date. A number of Connecticut people have been here the past week testifying befor the committee on proposed revision of industrial products in which the state is particularly interested. Among them were Harry MacLachlan of Danbury, representing the National Hatters' association; G. F. Kimball of New Britain, of the American Hardware association; F. W. Rettenmeyer, jewelry, and others.

Senator Bingham has been very active in senate debate this past week. He opposed the increase in fines and penalties under the Jones amendment for violation of the prohibition law, on the ground that in the hands of unscrupulous persons great wrong might be done. Said Senator Bingham in part: "History shows severe penalties do not insure a reign of law; moreover it will make it possible for our judges to inflict a greater penalty for this offense which in itself has not been considered morally wrong, although at present it is legally wrong in the United States, than is imposed on those who are engaged in kidnapping, slavery, and the white-slave traffic."

Senator Bingham has secured the endorsement of his appeal for $150,000 for aid of tubercular children in the District of Columbia. This pressing need for their aid is one of the first things Mr. Bingham found in his responsible office of chairman of the sub-committee on appropriations, which deals with all nancial matters pertaining to the district. The senator's appeal for adaquate landing field for airplanes has also met with success.

Congressman and Mrs. Tilson will take active part in the entertainment of the Connecticut official party during its inauguration visit here. Col. Tilson will be the speaker at the dinner of the Home Market club to be held in Boston, March 9th. On invitation of the club Mrs. Tilson will accompany him.

When asked how he stands on the prohibition law, Col. Tilson says he "will do whatever the administration and the budget call for." When pressed for a personal opinion, the colonel smiled, and replied, "My personal opinion don't count. It is what the administration and budget call for, that as leader I shall try to carry out."

Senator Moses of New Hampshire is president pro tempore of the senate, and Mrs. Moses has just been elected president of the very exclusive Senate Ladies' Luncheon club; Mrs. Dale, wife of the senator from Vermont, has likewise just been elected to the presidency of the Congressional club, an organization of the women of congressional families, and the only club that gets "honorable mention" in the official pages of the Congressional Record.

The republican floor leader of the house is Representative John Q. Tilson of Connecticut, and Mrs. Tilson, although holding no office in woman's clubs is in great demand by hostesses as the "honor guest" of many occasions.

The list of committee assignments in both senate and house shows New England to be in the foreground, since the republican administration eight years ago displaced all democratic chairmen, prior to which it was North Carolina that held the top place in committee chairmanships, with other southern states close behind.

Nothing has roused more resentment in the senate for many a moon, than the vicious personal attack made late Saturday afternoon by Senator Heflin, on Senator Bingham, when the latter rose to protest against the continuance of Heflin's continual tirades on the Roman Catholic church.

Senator Bingham spoke with great moderation, perfect poise and in even tones, but was quickly interrupted by Heflin who fairly roared unpleasant reflections on the motives and fairness of Senator Bingham, asserting that "some one" had prompted the Connecticut senator to bring up the matter, and made a number of slighting and disagreeable allusions to Mr. Bingham, and his procedure on the floor of the senate.

Mr. Bingham refused, however, to be drawn into a personal controversy with Mr. Heflin, and maintained his dignity and showed remarkable patience under provocation. Mr. Bingham's speech, defending the use of the church pennant on the peak of battleships during divine service on board ship, was moderate, but firm. He based his objections to the Heflin tirades, which have interrupted the legitimate work of the senate for several weeks, as stirring up religious hatred in this country, and that the floor of the senate should not be used for such purposes.

At the close of his speech, Senator Bingham was warmly congratulated by many of his colleagues, who crowded around him. This was in marked contrast to the silence that greeted Heflin, not one person in the senate giving the slightest evidence of agreeing with his views, or approving his attitude.

After Senator Heflin had harped several hours on the same old false string, that "the church pennant of the navy is the flag of the Catholic church and the pope of Rome," Mr. Bingham rose and quietly remarked, "Mr. President—I have stood this as long as I can." He then alluded to the time wasted and to the absolute misstatements regarding the pennant, bears no resemblance either in color, shape or design, to the papal flag. The pennant is white with a blue Latin cross, and the papal flag is white and yellow and bears no cross whatsoever.

Senator Heflin assailed Mr. Bingham on his religion, his fraternal affiliation with the Masonic order, and other grounds, with slurring allusions as to what sort of work he (Mr. Bingram) was most capable. But Senator Bingham treated Heflin's slurs with dignified silence and indifference.

In his short speech Senator Bingham eulogized the Masonic order, he explained the use of the pennant, and that it is a navy, not a sectarian flag. In closing Mr. Bingham said:

"I wish to assure those not within the sound of my voice, but who read the pages of the Congressional Record, and who may have been influenced by the speeches of the senator from Alabama to know that the great majority of those on the floor of the senate believe that he should not use this floor for the purposes he has just used it. Such speeches stir up religious bigotry and I wish to protest against the use of this forum for the stirring up of religious hatred in this country."

Senator Bingham was at his best, in thus protesting against the attitude taken by Mr. Heflin, and when we say Senator Bingham is at "his best" we are saying that he was courteous, forceful, eloquent, and convincing.

HOME TOWN NEWS

Roddy Webster was in an expansive frame of mind. He owned LaSalle street. Mentally he was a millionaire. Even riding home on a crowded L couldn't puncture his mood. Somewhere unbelievably near the loop he slid into a seat on the coattails of its departing occupant and settled himself to approving contemplation of Roddy Webster—success in life.

Roddy had just sold more bonds than anyone else in his office. The boss had clapped him on the back fraternally.

"I shall live like a gentleman," Roddy told himself, "and ask Sally Slosson to marry me."

"Yessir," said Roddy almost out loud. "I will run up to Oshkosh this week end and get it all settled. Oshkosh—good old town. Spent two of the happiest years of his life there—right after college, working in a bank. Almost starved—but fun! After all, there is nothing like a little town where you know people." No one would ever know how darn lonely he'd been in Chicago.

Suddenly an elbow thrust itself into his ribs—and his dreams. The girl beside him was opening her paper to read the society pages. It brushed his startled nose. Roddy drew back and took a quick look at his assailant, a little slim creature in a close-fitting green hat, with goldish hair and a pert, interesting chin. His eye wandered to her paper—and stopped. She was reading the Oshkosh News!

Swish—went the paper. The girl had closed it suddenly with a queer little gulp mingled with a sob.

Forgetting that he was—first, last and always—a gentleman, Roddy shot out a quick arm and got the paper. "Hey—wait," he commanded. "Whom is Sally Slosson going to marry—I've got to know."

The girl turned on him, wide-eyed, astonished. Her eyes were very, big—very, blue—and full of tears. Her red, red mouth trembled.

"She's marrying my Don—that's who she's marrying—the—THING!"

"Your Don?" Roddy surveyed the girl with sudden interest.

The girl turned away toward the window. "Yes," she said in a wee, husky voice. "Don and I have gone together ever since we were in the eighth grade. I've always intended to marry Don—when I got through art school. Why, Don Stuart has never gone with any other girl but me until Sally just vamped him."

"Don Stuart—that egg?" Roddy was all scorn.

"He's not an egg," snapped the girl.

"I—beg your pardon," said Roddy, meekly. "But you see your Don is marrying my Sally."

Slowly tht girl turned and lifted her blue, blue eyes to his. Suddenly—softly, they both laughed.

"Maybe—" she hesitated, gathered conviction and went on, "maybe they won't either of them be happy and in after years they will think of us and—" her voice trailed away and for a moment neither spoke. Then Roddy:

"Oh, I wouldn't want them not to be happy—but Sally is the kind of girl who might nag—if things didn't go right."

"Really?" the girl visibly gathered hope. "Don is selfish. There will be lots of times when he will make her perfectly miserable."

"Do you think so?" Roddy brightened.

Slowly he opened the paper and read the notice to the end.

"Say," he leaned toward her eagerly. "It's tonight they are being married—at 8. Let's you and I get off this L and go send 'em a telegram. Wouldn't that bowl 'em over?"

They leaned, shoulder to shoulder, over their masterpiece. And giggled.

"Both signatures," directed Roddy. In the telegraph office they stood—uncertainly—a little embarrassed now that it was all done. The girl put out her hand.

"You'll never know how much you've helped me," she said. "When I first saw that notice I thought I just couldn't live any more—but now—"

Roddy was still holding the hand. "Why, if you hadn't been there and I had just seen that news in black and white—I think I would have gone and jumped in the lake."

Slowly the girl began to reclaim her hand. Definitely Roddy contested the claim.

"I've got another idea—better than the first one. Let's celebrate. Let's have dinner together. I'll bet we know lots of people in common—and even if we don't, we can find something to talk about."

They did.—Exchange.

YOUR HEALTH

Getting Cases in Incipiency

By Joe P. Bowdoin, M. D., Deputy Commissioner of Health, Atlanta, Ga.

All physicians, statisticians, welfare workers and others interested in the prolongation of human life, especially of young children, realize that the greatest handicap lies in the difficulty of getting the case in the incipiency of the disease. This is the paramount problem both in the extension and the saving of human life.

The delay on the part of the parents in calling a physician is largely due to lack of education. If we can get the truth to the father and mother that an ill baby needs immediate care, we shall have gone a long way towards the goal for which every good doctor is striving. Of still more importance is the prevention of illness by the regular examination of the apparently healthy baby and pre-school child.

The Georgia state board of health has in the past few months made physical examinations of 3,021 rural pre-school children. In this number 7,688 defects were found. Out of the total number of children examined only 61 were without defects. Individual conferences to the number of 2,022 were held with the parents of these children. If opportunity existed and rural clinics could be organized, most of the defects could be corrected. Waiting for school entrance is too late. Every school child should be physically fit when it enters school. It is an expensive proposition for the state to try to educate a physically handicapped child. It is not fair to the child. It is not just to the taxpayer. Nor is it to the best interest of the other pupils in the school. So many of the defects could be prevented by the proper care of the baby if the mother only knew.

One of the most important things is for the mother to have proper and thorough pre-natal care. The boby should be taken care of properly when it arrives. It should be given all the protective vaccines early. Smallpox at six months, toxin-antitoxin at nine months, typhoid vaccine later. Most state health departments publish pamphlets and baby books for the expectant mothers. The federal government has many good publications that may be had. The county medical societies are interested, and will be glad to respond to community requests for information and speakers on health topics.

The span of human life has been considerably lengthened in the past quarter of a century, but we are still confronted with the fact that infant mortality is far too high and the maternity death rate appalling. The remedy must be found and, to repeat, the thing of chief importance is education of the masses in matters of health.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18—Nothing could more sharply illustrate the aftermath of the Nicaraguan fuss than appointment by President Mongrada of Juan Bautista Sacasa as Nicaraguan minister to the United States.

He was the stormy petrel of the whole affair, if you except for the moment the original moving force, General Chamorro.

Sacasa is the liberal ex-vice president—ex-president by his own reckoning. He and his Washington spokesman, Dr. Vaca, were for months thorns in the side of President Coolidge, Secretary Kellogg, et al.

Sacasa bombarded administration policy in Nicaragua at long and short range. Most of what he had to say got into the Congressional Record through the kindness of Senator Borah or somebody else. All of it got into American papers, and it didn't make very pleasant reading at the state department.

Now Sacasa comes to Washington to deal in all friendliness with the very administration he denounced. He cheerfully accepts that honor from his own former military chieftain, Mongrada. And he will unquestionably be very welcome in his new role.

Unusual Situation

The curious part of it all is that so far as the Bystander could discover at the time, and he was "covering" the state department then for The Associated Press, the Washington government never had the slightest objection to Sacasa as president of Nicaragua, nor to anbody else but Chamorro.

The Bystander always has believed that if Sacasa had succeeded in remaining in Nicaragua after the Chamorro coup had forced Carlos Solorzano to resign as president the vice president would almost certainly have received Washington's support and recognition as president.

But he didn't! In a press interview which Senator Borah put in the Record Jan. 11, 1927, Sacasa makes this explanation:

"But Chamorro persecuted me, employing violence to the point of obliging me to leave the country."

In so doing, a constitutional cloud on his title to the presidency arose. And the Bystander always has believed that the subsequent events in Nicaragua grew out of that small fact.

Bay Me the End

Be all that as it may, Sacasa's diplomatic assignment seems to be a happy ending to a troublesome situation.

With the liberal faction firmly intrenched in Nicaragua and Washington through the election supervised by the very marines whose landing Sacasa so vigorously denounced two years ago, there does not seem much room left for the clamor that Uncle Sam is playing favorites among the political parties in Central America and operating on a pure dollar diplomacy basis.

"LENT AND MY WORK"
Memory Verse for Tuesday

"I must work the works of him that sent me, while it is day; the night cometh, when no man can work." (John 9:4). (Read: Matthew 6:25 to 33).

MEDITATION: These are solemn words. Let me take them to heart today. What have I accomplished to justify the life and the abilities with which God has endowed me? And what am I doing now? The sigh of Cecil Rhodes may have an echo in every mind—"So much to do, and so little time." Life is much too short to spare any time for futilities. I may not stop to resent or retaliate an injury. Nor can I afford to waste time on vain regrets. Let me remember not with anxious fear but as a cheerful incentive to diligence that the night cometh.

PRAYER: My God and Father who knoweth both my abilities and my limitations, I pray Thou wilt make me both eager and humble. Beyond my striving, giving me simple trust in Thee who are able to overrule my failures. Make me diligent without anxiety or discouragement. Amen.

YOUR INCOME TAX

In making out their income tax returns for the year 1928 taxpayers are advised by the bureau of internal revenue carefully to present their claims with regard to deductions for losses. To be allowed, such claims must conform closely to the wording of the statute. Losses are deductible if incurred in a taxpayer's trade or business, and any transaction entered into for profit, though not connected with the taxpayer's trade or business, or if arising from fires, storms, shipwreck or other casualty, or by theft, and if not compensated for by insurance of otherwise.

Business losses result, usually, from the purchase and sale of merchandise. Such losses are ascertained by means of inventories which are required whenever, in the opinion of the commissioner of internal revenue, their use is necessary to determine the income of any taxpayer.

The Mouse Family Is Broken Up

Change you'll find a law of life
Brought about by endless strife.
—Danny Meadow Mouse.

"Did you ever see anything like the way those children grow?" said Nanny Meadow Mouse to Danny.

"I never did," replied Danny. "Why, they're only a month old and are nearly as big as we are now. There is no doing anything with them. They know all there is to know. Only this evening I found one of them sitting on top of the snow out beyond the haystack. It is a wonder that Spooky the Screech Owl hadn't been along. But I couldn't tell him anything. No, sir; I couldn't tell him anything. He knew it all. He told me he was quite capable of taking care of himself."

"I know," said Nanny. "Most folks think babies are a great care, but I think half-grown children are a greater care. And I don't know but they are more trouble still when they are quite grown. It seems to me that they are very different from what they were when you and I were young, Danny."

Danny nodded his head in agreement. "They certainly are," said he. "They have lost all respect for their elders. They don't know what obedience is and you cannot tell them anything at all. Well, I suppose times are changing."

Nanny had just opened her mouth to reply when something happened. There was a great noise outside. The haystack began to rock above their heads. Danny and Nanny forgot about the children. They crept into their home and crowded close together while they listened. They knew what the sounds were. The sounds were the voices of those two-legged creatures called men. But what could be happening they couldn't imagine. No, sir, they couldn't imagine what could be happening. Somehow, it seemed as if their little world were coming to an end.

Suddenly they felt themselves being picked up. Their whole home was being picked up. They could do nothing but cling to each other. It was very upsetting, to say the least. And yet there was something familiar about the experience. Danny groped about in his mind trying to think what it was. Finally it came to him. By this time things had become quiet again, but they had the feeling that somehow the whole world was moving.

"Do you remember the time we built our home in the corn shock?" whispered Danny.

"Yes," replied Nanny. "What of it."

"Do you remember how Farmer Brown's Boy came down and got the corn and our home with it and carried us off up to the big barn?" continued Danny.

"Yes," replied Nanny.

"Well, don't you have something of the same feeling now?" demanded Danny.

Nanny gave a startled little squeak. "Oh, my goodness, it's as true as you live!" she exclaimed. "You don't suppose we are being carried off, do you?"

"I don't know," replied Danny. "Time will tell. Anyway, I guess we've seen the last of the children. I guess the family is broken up. It's probably a good thing for them and a better thing for us. It's the way of the world. I do wish I knew where we were, but somehow I don't dare to go out."

Now, Danny wasn't so very wrong in his guess. The haystack had disappeared. The hay was on a wagon on runners and Farmer Brown's Boy was taking it up to the barn. It was hay that was going to be used for bedding.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Improve The Rural Roads

Mr. Editor: I am glad to read the letters which have been printed in The Bulletin of late showing that a few people are interested in the improvement of the country roads. I have often wondered just what per cent of our roads are state improved roads. One man with whom I talked on the subject ventured a guess that in the towns nearby not over 10 per cent of the roads are improved. If that is true, what about the people living on the other roads? Are they not entitled to ride over roads which are passable 12 months a year, instead of having their automobiles almost shaken to pieces because of the mud and rough ruts over which they have to travel for 3 or 4 months a year?

The people living on these roads pay their share of the town and gasoline taxes, and are entitled to better treatment.

It has always seemed to me that more of the money raised from the gasoline tax should be spent on the country roads. I also think that money spent for beautifying state highways might better be applied on our rural roads.

Last fall the town of Lebanon appointed a road supervisor and purchased two trucks. Before the cold weather stopped the work, a large number of bad spots were covered with gravel to the gratification of all of us who use the roads thus improved. If more funds were available this sort of work could be done until eventually all the roads in the town were improved, and I think the state should give financial assistance to this town and others for a like purpose.

Let everyone interested in the improvement of country roads write to his representatives at Hartford and see if concerted action will produce beneficial results. Let us hope so.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE BY CRAWLING INTO FURNACE

CHICAGO, Feb. 18—(AP)—Miss Helen Fredericks, 22, who told of being "deeply impressed" by the self immolation of Miss Elfrieda Knaak, attempted to commit suicide today by crawling into the furnace at her home in Evanston. Although badly burned, it is thought she will recover. She was taken to a hospital.

Police investigating the case tonight were attempting to determine if Miss Fredericks was a disciple of the weird philosophy professed by Miss Knaak, who was burned totally in the furnace in the basement of the village hall and police station in Lake Bluff, just a few miles to the north of Evanston.

Before her death, Miss Knaak frequently moaned that she had sought purification by fire for her sins and that she had sought to prove her love for a man by fire.

At the time of Miss Knaak's death, it was learned. Miss Fredericks followed the case with interest and once remarked, "I could do the same thing."

After thrusting her head and shoulders through the furnace door, the pain was so intense that Miss Fredericks staggered to the upper floor of the house and sobbed she could not go through with it. Her hair, scalp and shoulders were seared.

Relatives and the family doctor said the girl had been suffering from an ear ailment since childhood and recently had been morose because she thought she was losing her hearing.

A radio dispatch received at Bremerton from Dutch Harbor, Alaska, reported that the steamer Bronmoy had reached the Japanese freighter Alloway in distress south of Dutch Harbor but was unable to hold her in the 90 mile gale sweeping the North Pacific. For the second time in a week the Alloway has asked for aid.
